The second made me well and strong as when a child,

My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious

"Incurable!"
Seven bottles of your bitters cured him and know of the

And many more are using them with great benefit.
"They almost
Do miracles?" - Mrs. E. D. Slack.

AS SIGNS OF GENERAL DEBILITY and mal-nutrition in children we have rickets, knock-knees, bow-legs, chicken-breast round-shoulders, pallid complexion, precociousness, peevish temper, which are expressions of feeble digestion and assimilation, with blood impoverishment. Here ordinary stimulants and tonic mixtures are mischievous, inducing in the feeble organism a morbid transient excitement which is mistaken for permanent invigoration. For successfull treatment the indications are to restore nutrition by the use of Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya, out door life and the gymnasium

Mr. Blake—Address, and copy of the instrument of the incorporation or association of a construction company, called the North American Constructing company, or by some similar name, with which a contract has been made for the construction of part of the Canadian Pacific railway.

MURRAY CANAL.

Extract from the annual report of the Minister of Railways and Canals :—

The construction of this canal, the importance of which to the carrying trade of the Dominion cannot be over-estimated, implies the extention westward through Lake Ontario of the Upper St. Lawrence River navigation by way of the land-locked waters of the Bay of Quinte to Presqu'Isle Harbor, a point on the north shore of the lake nearly equi-distant from Kingston and Toronto.

Presqu'Isle, the future Harbor of Refuge of Lake Ontario, is situated midway of the lake, and above the dangerous coast of the Prince Edward peninsula.

From Presqu'Isle to the entrance of the Welland Canal at Port Dalhousie, the actual distance will be less than 120 miles, thus reducing the extent of open lake navigation nearly one-half.

The canal when completed will have the effect of developing a considerable coasting trade along the northern shore of Lake Ontario.

The contract was entered into with Messrs. J. D. Silcox & Co., 24th August, 1882, to be completed 1st July, 1885.

The works which extend over a distance of about nine and a half miles, consist of a through cutting in ordinary excavation four and one-eighth miles in length across the Isthmus of Murray, and of stretches of submarine excavation in sand or clay, &c., at the Presqu'Isle and Bay of Quinte entrances and the new entrance to Presqu'Isle Harbor.

Work was commenced on the isthmus near the Presqu'Ile end on September 1st, and dredging operations, Presqu'Ile entrance, October 3rd 1882 ; and during the present season a commencement has also been made at the Bay of Quinte entrance.

The whole of the lands required for canal purposes have been expropriated; and the chopping and clearing throughout is now completed.

Excavation has been carried on over the entire length across the isthmus ; and in reference thereto it is stated by the contractors, 30th June, 1883, that 'the excavation, &c., is going on with good success, nothing appearing as yet, indicating any change in the character of the material different than was represented."

The contractors have made very satisfactory progress since the commencement of the work, and have displayed great skill and energy in its conduct, notwithstanding many difficulties incident to the present high stage of water in the lake.

Mr. Blake—Address for copies of all Orders in Council, despatches, correspondence and telegrams relating to the negotiations between Canada and British Columbia, not already brought down ; and for a Statement of the estimated net cost to Canada of the Dry Dock in British Columbia.

VISIT TO BELLEVILLE

The surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute, offices at Montreal and Toronto, will be at the Dafoe House, Belleville, Jan. 28, 29, 30 and 31, where physicians and sufferers can consult them and test the merits of the new and wonderful instrument, the Spirometer, invented by Dr. M. Souvielle, of Paris Ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army for the special treatment of Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Consumption in the first and second stages, and all diseases of the nose, throat, and lungs. Consultation free. For further particulars, address International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church St., Toronto.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk ; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

A PATRIOTIC APPEAL.

The clear-headed and far-seeing Commissioner of Crown Lands is sincerely desirous of advancing the interests of this Province, of all the Provinces, and, therefore, of the Dominion. For this reason Mr. Pardee sees, what we ourselves have believed from the first, that by far the most important issue that has arisen since Confederation is that involved in the unwise exercise of the veto power by the Dominion Government. It threatens the very existence of the Confederacy, robbing the Provinces as it would of the first elements of home rule. A policy similar to that pursued with reference to the Streams Act leaves us naught but the shadow of self-government. Recognizing then the grave crisis which the arbitrary exercise of this power would precipitate Mr. Pardee makes a patriotic appeal to the leader of the Opposition which, if left to his own sense of what was right, we believe he would respond to. The danger in disallowance, said the Commissioner, is a very grave one, and he there and then appealed to hon. gentlemen opposite who desired the good welfare, and prosperity of the Provinces that we should start on a right basis. It was not very late in the history of the Province—we have only been confederated fifteen or sixteen years—and he once more appealed to the Opposition to join the Government in starting out on a new basis. Will the Opposition be again ordered from Ottawa to oppose the Streams Bill? We understand it is the intention to again pass such an Act.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is said that Sir Charles Tupper will retire from Parliament in the spring. We don't believe it.

It is generally thought that Mr. Ross will not get time to complete his Quebec Cabinet before it goes to pieces.

The new C. P. R. agreement has set people a'thinking whether the Government will not yet have the road thrown back on their hands.

Mr. Gault's proposition that the Commons should adjourn for a few days to give members the opportunity to attend the Montreal Carnival is a bad one and the precedent should not be established.

The Opposition still show a disposition to attack the Agricultural College, but this course does not meet with the approval of even its own supporters. Mr. Willmot, of Frontenac, said he would support the Government in the matter.

Mr. Ross, of Lennox, addressed the House on Wednesday and said a good deal about bribery—the subject with which he is most familiar. He said he did not pretend his party was pure; in fact he added, "I know they are not." No one knows better.

For trashy "news" and revolting exaggerated sensations the daylight service of the American Associated Press is unrivalled. We should have a better Canadian service. The whole mass of stuff supplied the evening papers is comparatively worthless.

Mr. Lauder's defence of the Dominion Government against the charge of sending its agents into the constituencies during provincial elections was complete.—To-day's Mail.

Is Mr. Lauder elected to the Provincial Legislature to defend the Dominion Government?

The agitation for a riddance of the old discarded Pullman case, which are put on Canadian railroads, is a good one and will it is hoped result in Canadian roads having their own sleepers and drawing-room cars manned by their own servants. Let the Government set the example on the Intercolonial.

The number of French-speaking inhabitants in British North America is 1,298,929, of whom 1,073,820 are in the province of Quebec, 102,743 in Ontario, 56,635 in New Brunswick, 41,219 in Nova Scotia, 10,751 in Prince Edward's Island, 9,949 in Manitoba, 2,896 in the Territories, and 916 in British Columbia. The French population in the province of Quebec increases, while the English-speaking population is decreasing.

Another 100 men were thrown out of employment on Saturday in the Ontario Car Works, London. These follow a discharge of 200 about two months ago, and now only about 30 remain. Sir Leonard may explain privately to Mr. Carling how this comes. The Toronto Hope Street soup kitchen cost $423 in three weeks and fed 640 people on the 27th and 631 on the 28th. The other Western soup kitchens are relieving in some degree the great prevalent distress. But still the times are good and the tariff of taxation a success. Oh, yes, a monumental success.

Furred tongues and impure breath are two concomitants of billiousness remedied by Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. Heartburn, which harasses the dyspeptic after meals, and all the perplexing and changeful symptoms of established indigestion, are dispersed by this salutary corrective cure and celebrated blood purifier.

At this season of the year there should be a bottle of Pectoria in every house. It is unequaled for Coughs Colds and Hoarseness, is pleasant, equally safe for children. Price 25 cents at all Druggists.

For cramps, pain in the stomach, bowel complaint or chills use Perry Davis' pain killer. See advertisement in another column.

MR PARDEE'S SPEECH

The Opposition's Course on the Boundary Pointed out

THE SUPREME AUTHORITY OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Following are the most important extracts from Mr. Pardee's powerful speech delivered in the Legislature on Wednesday.

He referred to the adverse comments which had been made in respect to some remarks that had fallen from the mover of the Address. That gentleman has taken the ground that there had been a conspiracy formed at Ottawa for the purpose of carrying the local elections in February last, and objection had been taken to the word "conspiracy." He (Mr. Pardee) would not say whether that word was a correct one to use or not, but he did say that a determination was come to by the Dominion Government as early as 1882 to crush out, if they could, not only the Liberal Government, but the Liberal party in the Province of Ontario. And in order to lay the foundation of their scheme they passed the "Gerrymander Bill." (Here, here.) That measure was a foul and gross one, and the future historian would say that it was a foul blot upon the political reputation of the country.

The Government had been charged with using undue influence in the late general elections. He utterly denied on behalf of himself and the Government, that there was any truth or foundation in those accusations whatever. (Cheers.) The trials had shown that there was a considerable amount of bribery during the late election and they showed distinctly, moreover, by what party that bribery was practised—(hear, bear)—commencing at Muskoka and ending at West Middlesex.

THE BOUNDARY.

Proceeding the hon. gentleman arraigned the leader of the Opposition for the reckless charges he had brought against the Government in connection with Rat Portage and the disputed territory. What he asked, did the newspapers on the side of the hon. gentleman opposite mean by charging the government with having committed all sorts of crimes through retaining possession of that country?

Mr. Meredith—For forcibly taking possession.

Mr. Pardee—What does my hon. friend mean by "forcible possession?" This Province had been in possession of part of that territory for the last quarter of a century, and of the portion north and west of the height of land since 1879, administering the law by magistrates and officers appointed by the Government. It was not pretended that Manitoba had any right of possession until after the passage of the Manitoba Extension Act in 1881. The Government had been called "traitors," "trespassers," and "impostors," simply because they had been endeavoring to retain possession for so long a time. Mr. Norquay himself in 1881 had made a speech in which he said that Manitoba did not want to be drawn into the quarrel at all; but it was the policy of the Dominion Government to bring Manitoba into the dispute in order to shift part of the responsibility from their own shoulders. (Hear, hear.) The Government were bound to hold possession of that country. They had been so ordered by the House in the resolution which passed almost unanimously in the session of 1880, and even if they had not been so ordered, it was their bounden duty to retain possession. What would have happened if the Government had been driven or gone out of possession? The Opposition would have said, and the people would have believed them, that the Government had abandoned the field and territory. After the Dominion Government refused to ratify the Award this Government had expressed their willingness to go to the Privy Council, provided just arrangements were made in the meantime for administering law in the territory.

WHO ARE TO BLAME.

The Dominion Government, it was said, had offered to give this Province joint possession with Manitoba, but it was impossible for Ontario to accept such a proposition. The people of this Province would not be willing to allow Manitoba to come down to Prince Arthur's Landing and administer law there, and that was simply what the suggestion meant. (Hear, hear.) The terms upon which the reference to the Privy Council had been arranged were (1) that the validity of the Award should be decided upon: (2) that a decision should be arrived at as early as June or July next; and (3) that Ontario should have absolute possession of the territory south and east of the height of land, and joint control with Manitoba of the remainder. This was practically what the Government had always insisted upon (Applause.) He did not say that it was all the Government asked for, but if not, who were to blame? It was clearly the hon. gentlemen opposite. He contended that, in view of the Opposition's hostility to their own Province and their sympathy with Manitoba, it was to the credit of the latter Province that she had agreed to so reasonable an arrangement as had been arrived at. She might have said "Ontario is pretty evenly divided upon this question, the Opposition are all in sympathy with us and would rather see us in possession"—(Opposition cries of "No, no," and Ministerial applause)—and she might have felt like taking advantage of the situation. Four-fifths of the population lay south and east of the height of land, of which Ontario had obtained full control, as to Rat Portage the people there were mainly from Manitoba, and though he believed they preferred Ontario control, still it was not so wrong and inexpedient to have joint control there as it would have been to have it at P. A. Landing, where the people were nearly all from the Province of Ontario. Practically the question had been submitted upon the same terms for which the Government had offered to refer it years ago. (Hear, hear, and cheers.)

WHY THEY THEY OPPOSED THE AWARD.

It was difficult to understand the hostility displayed by hon. gentlemen opposite to their own Province, but he believed the true solution to be that they imagined the Government were making political capital out of the question of possession, and rather than see this they were ready to abandon Award, territory, and everything else. (Hear, hear.) If Ontario had given up or had had to go out of possession, she would not have got a settlement of the question until at any rate the territory had been denuded of its timber, one of its most valuable resources. In dismissing this subject he would only say that if by any chance or mischance Ontario should lose the territory or any part of it, the flame would rest upon the shoulders of the leader of the Opposition more than upon those of any other man in this house. (Cheers.)

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS.

Dealing with Provincial rights, the hon. gentleman stated that the longer he lived the more he was convinced that for the best development of the Provinces resources, the largest power and freedom must be conceded to the Legislatures that the Constitution will bear, and he was the more convinced that if ever they were to reach that desirable height it must be from the Liberal party, for they found no protest from the gentlemen opposite when the rights of the Province were infringed on. The battle had got to be fought, and fought by the Liberal party. Now the judgment of the Privy Council in the case of Hodge v. The Queen had been a rude shock to the Opposition as to the rights of the Province. Hon. gentlemen opposite had taken the ground that our rights are very limited—that we simply had delegated powers and those not large. The leader of the Opposition took the ground that the Dominion Government should have the right to veto, that it is a necessity of the Federal system and that the right should exist there; and it was there he took issue with him. The Dominion have no right, and should have no right, to veto laws that are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Province of Ontario. (Cheers.)

[The conclusion of this speech in which the licensing question and the railway question are dealt with, will be given tomorrow.]

THE BIGGEST STEAL.

What they Think of the New C. P. R. Agreement at Ottawa.

A PRETTY STATE OF AFFAIRS.

(Toronto World.)

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—The resolution regarding aid to the Canadian Pacific railroad was the all absorbing topic in the lobbies to-day. Notwithstanding all reports as to what the government would probably do, there is no use denying the fact that the announcement by the government was a surprise to a large majority of the house. They did not expect that the government would grant so much but it is stated on all hands that such consideration will be offered the different provinces in view of the members supporting the resolution as will be satisfactory. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia will be pacified with having Halifax made the winter terminus of the Canadian Pacific railway. Quebec will push for an increased subsidy and speedy relief from her present financial extremity. Some tangible consideration will be given Ontario and thus the great interests of the country will be sacrificed and the dominion subjected to what is spoken of here as the largest steal ever perpetrated in the country. The fact that the company gives only security which practically belongs to the government is severely commented on. The company assert that they have spent fourteen millions over and above the cash subsidy. The government sent Schriber to Montreal to search the books and assure himself as to the statement. Among certain followers, of the government, and indeed among a great many followers, there is a strong feeling of demoralization. The opposition say that the country must collapse, sooner or later, under such a regime. They say it is now a game of grab all round, and the country cannot keep up under it.

'I guess they were playing poker,' answered Detective Sweeny. 'I don't know how to play cards myself.

'Don't eh? How many men were playing.'

'Six,'

'Full game,' remarked his Honor.

'I thought five hands made a full game,' interposed Capt. Killilea.

'No; you should study 'Shenck on Poker.' What were the men playing with?'

'These red and white things,' said Detective Sweeny. 'I don't know what they call them.

'Well,' said his Honor, 'let's call them round composition disks, and then let's discharge the prisoners, for I can't say that a quiet game of poker is gambling, except technically.'

Humphrey and Gage, who were charged with playing poker at Fifteith street with Eight avenue car drivers, were therefore discharged with an admonition not to do it again.

LATEST CITY NEWS

Are you going to the ball this evening?

February is not going to tolerate the January thaw.

There were four prisoners and a tramp in the cells last night.

What time is this city being run on anyway? No two clocks are alike.

The vital statistics for the month of January were:—Births 17, marriages 15, deaths 10.

At the Police Court this morning William Vandroon charged with larceny was remanded until to-morrow.

"Old Rodger" at the Opera House last night said that if he had $3 000 he would not give it to Major Moore.

At the Police Court this morning William Crawford was remanded on a charge of vagrancy. He was suffering terribly from the effects of dissipation.

The Magistrate yesterday afternoon imposed a fine of $40 and costs on David Beatty for biting off a piece of Robert Rutledge's ear. The fine and costs amounted to $74.

The man Sweatman who was committed to gaol for examination has been declared a lunatic and will be sent to Toronto, where he has been twice before. He labors under an extraordinary "spiritual impression" as he terms it regarding his children. A peculiar habit he has is that of filling a goblet with snow, melting it with his hand, and drinking it.

Vennor writes: "After all, the January thaw is putting an appearance on the very dates mentioned by me. It will be of brief duration and will be succeeded by high winds and rains. If it lasts through the present week cold weather will set in again with February, but should it abruptly terminate short of three days, were almost sure to have a second break between the 3rd and 6th of February."

Only a Woman's Heart was played before a large and enthusiastic audience in the Opera House last night. The play was a good one and the frequent applause of the audience testified to their satisfaction. "Old Roger" and "Hattie Salisbury" were called before the curtain. These two characters were certainly well taken and there can be no doubt that Newton Beers and Lillian Pomeroy merit all the praise that has been lavished on them. The other characters with the exception of "Wiggins" merit no special mention.

A meeting of the John Street Presbyterian Church Literary Society held last night was largely attended, and the programme which was furnished gave abundant satisfaction. The chair was ably occupied by Mr. John Fario, and the meeting was opened by singing—"Work for the night is coming," after which the Chairman led in prayer. A duet by Mrs. Ritchie and Miss Hattie Holden was rendered, and Dr. Gibson read an interesting paper on tea. Miss Annie Robertson contributed a recitation and Miss Annie Harrold a song. The Glee Club furnished two vocal selections, while the paper by Miss Bella Forin entitled—"The work goes on though the workman is dead" formed not the least interesting part of the programme. Prof. Coleman was also one who contributed to the success of the entertainment by singing a popular song.

The concert given last evening in the Oddfellows' Hall, (Belleville Lodge) was as successful as its predecessors this season, which is saying a great deal. Bro. Roberts occupied the chair and performed his duties most efficiently. The musical selections furnished were highly appreciated, and those who appeared for the first time in public were well received. Mrs. C. Wallace and Miss Falkiner each sang a solo in clear rich voice and at the close the audience marked their appreciation of the singing by enthusiastic applause. Miss Doucet also sang and contributed largely to the success of the programme. The piano duet by Mrs. Col. Campbell and Mrs. J. Lyons Biggar was also received with great favor. The Misses McFee and Mrs. Auburn materially added to the success of the concert by their selections. Several gentlemen sang as well, and at the close of the entertainment they adjourned to the ball room where a few hours were pleasantly spent.

Yesterday afternoon the new hose purchased from the Gutta Percha and Rubber Manufacturing Company, Toronto, was tested by No. 2 steamer in the presence of the Fire Committee. Out of 450ft. used only two lengths stood the test. There were in all twenty-one leaks in the hose. But on investigation it was found that some scoundrel had maliciously tampered with the hose In several places it was clearly seen that a knife had been used to injure the hose and in other places holes as if made by an awl were found. It is presumed that this unfair advantage was taken of Mr. McIlroy on accout of the strong rivalry now existing between several rubber companies, and if so it is a crying shame that any person here should be a party to such a disgraceful and cowardly act as has been pointed out. Perhaps if a commission had been given on this hose, it would have remained uninjured. A reward of $300 is offered by the company for the conviction of the party who cut the hose.

A new lot of American coal oil just arrived at Carmichael's drug store. tf.

The reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfectly harmless, Second, It saves more than half the labor. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers.

A BANKER'S TESTIMONY—For a Cough Cold or any bronchial affection, 'Pectoria' in my opinion, is just the thing. I have used it in my family for Coughs and Colds for the past four years with the most unvaried success, and to-day my opinion of it is that I continue to think still more of that which I began to think well of. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE HASTINGS LOAN SOCIETY.

DEAR SIR,—In your last night's issue I notice a letter signed "Enquirer," in which from his want of knowledge as to the mode of keeping Loan Society Accounts, he apparently prejudices the financial position of the Hastings Loan and Investment Society, and as Manager of that Institution, I feel called upon to make the following statement, which I trust will convince the most skeptical as to the sound condition of its affairs.

My esteemed friend "Enquirer" endeavors to show that the profits for the past year were only $11,925, whilst the expenditure was $17,010, or in other words that the Society had lost some $5,000 during the years operations, which I need hardly say is preposterous.

The Mortgages of Loan Societies are usually divided into two classes, those made on what is called the Instalment system, and the ordinary straight loan plan. The former is divided into a given number of equal payments which includes both principal and interest added together, and as each payment becomes due and is paid it is credited to an account known as Repayments on Loans, therefore the profits on loans of this kind do not appear credited to Interest Account at all. The total sum credited to repayments on loans in our last statement is $30,261, which, being so trifling a sum, perhaps "Enquirer" lost sight of it altogether.

Now as to straight loans, which means interest payable yearly, or half yearly, as the case may be, and the principal money at the expiration of a given time, the interest on these loans is credited to an account called General Interest, as paid in from time to time and in cases where such interest is allowed to remain overdue, it is added to the principal sum of the mortgages at the expiration of each year when the financial position of the Society is ascertained, and which is arrived at not by the amount credit to profit account, as "Enquirer seems to think, but by finding the actual value of the whole loans of the Society which includes the interest accrued thereon.

It will thus be seen that the amount of money credited to interest accounts has little to do with the profits of a Loan Company, or in other words its financial position is governed by ascertaining the actual value of its securities, and such securities are composed chiefly of loans on Mortgages, and an interest accrued thereon whether it be due, overdue or accruing due.

If the explanations in this letter are not sufficiently clear to "Enquirer," I beg leave to remind him that the office of the Hastings Loan and Investment Society is open every week day during banking hours, and if he will call upon me, I shall be only too happy to afford him or any one else every information as regards the keeping of Loan Company accounts and our financial position, so far as it does not conflict with the individual rights of our customers. Such a course would, I think, save useless newspaper correspondence to which I am much averse.

Apologizing for taking up so much of your valuable space, I have the honor to be sir,

Your Obedient Servant,
J. P. C. PHILLIPS.

THE CIVIC COMMITTEES.

WHY HAS THE LARGE BODY OF VOTERS IN MURNEY WARD BEEN IGNORED?

To the Editor of the Ontario.

SIR,—In the several notices I have seen of the new City Council, no reference whatever has been made to the composition of the Committees. It is a notorious fact that for several years past, for no reason that can be satisfactorily explained, except that the majority of the members from that ward are Reformers, Murney Ward has been completely ignored, so far as the chairmanship of Committees is concerned. 'Tis true, as Ald. Hanley said at the inaugural meeting of the Council, that several years ago, when no other member was willing to take the position, the chairmanship of the Poor and Sanitary was given to Ald. Vandusen Since that year, so far as I am aware, no chairmanship has been allowed to any member of that ward. The committee manipulators do not pretend that the material sent to the Council from that ward is not equal to that sent from any other ward of the city. Ald. D. Holden was one of the ablest and most painstaking Councillors the city ever had, and Ald. Dunnet has just been sent to the Mayor's chair as a reward for his three years distinguished services as Alderman. But Ald. Dunnet never got a chairmanship and only a few days ago I heard it admitted by one of the Tory wire-pullers that it was only by a hard struggle of some personal friend of his, that he was even admitted last year as a private member to the Executive Committee, as a personal favor to the aforesaid wire-puller. It has been said as an excuse, that Ald. Pope was offered, this year, the Chairmanship of the Public Works Committee, and refused to accept it, and for that reason, the ward should not get anything. But as Murney Ward has two other representatives equally as capable and more willing to serve the ward they represent than is Ald. Pope, this excuse falls flat to the ground.

If we take a glance at the Voter's List, the outrage that has been perpetrated becomes still more apparent. Murney has a voting population of five hundred, and gets no chairman on the Civic Committees this, nor for several years past. Foster Ward has a voting population of one hundred and sixty, (I use round numbers,) and gets two Chairmanships, Baldwin Ward, (the "Premier's" constituency has three hundred and eighty names on the voters list, and has two Chairmen on the Committees. Thus two wards whose combined population exceeds that of Murney Ward alone by only forty votes has four Chairmen on the Civic Committees, while the latter has none. Ald. Hanley, recognizing, I presume, this fact, made an effort to have the name of Ald. Vandusen substituted for that of Ald. LaRoche as Chairman of the Harbor Committee, but his amendment was voted down—even Ald. Pope, who, I presume, was tied down by caucus regulations, voted against his own ward. Had space permitted I would like to go into some of the other crookedness which stood out so glaringly in the matter of forming the Committees this and in some of the years past, but in the meantime let us have an explanation from some of the chief manipulators of the gigantic fraud which I have here shown up.

THE MUIR SEALSKIN ROBBERY.

The Chief of Police returned from Toronto last night with Levi Raynart and Samuel Sinenberg, who are charged with stealing ten seal skins from Mr. Thos. Muir, of this city, in November last. A Toronto detective found five of the skins in the store of C. Koehler, 198 Yonge Street, where they had been left by Samuel Sinenberg, tailor, of 10 Queen Street west, to be made into a sacque for his wife. Sinenberg said he bought them from Levi Raynart, who lives at 170 Victoria Street, and carries on a business at 27 Front Street west as a tassel manufacturer. How Mr. Rynart came by the skins is not clear. At the Police Court this morning the prisoners pleaded not guilty. They were represented by Mr. R. C. Clute. As Chief McKinnon was not ready to go on with the case it was enlarged until Wednesday. Mr. Clute made application for bail but the Crown objected. The Magistrate thought that bail might be accepted, and he promised to give his decision as to that to-morrow."

O. Bostle, of Manchester, Ontario Co., N. Y., writes: I obtained immediate relief from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I had asthma for eleven years. Have been obliged to sit up all night for ten or twelve nights in succession. I can now sleep soundly all night on a feather bed which I had not been able to do previously to using the Oil.'

TIMELY AID

A little daughter of the Captain of the Steamer "Empress of India" was suddenly attacked with Croup, whilst at a friend's home in Toronto. No medical aid being handy, recourse was had to Hagyard's Yellow Oil; this popular household remedy afforded prompt relief and the little girl was as lively as ever in a few hours.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed to a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, such as Northrop and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. Gilford, Ont, Nov. 9th, 1883.

To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could sound your praise from shore to shore. Hoping God will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

Mrs. Thos. Kuecshaw,

P.M. Gilford, Ont.

I thought your price was great, but it is worth ten times $25. Would like to have a line from you.

Contrast in weight alone 8 to 12 pounds the jacket, ½ pound the apparatus. Chas. Cluthe's patented perfected trusses, best in use. Not only on paper, but in fact. Call or address Chas. HARD UP.

'Don't talk about it; you make me feel nervous. I almost wish I hadn't asked him to come; but it's too late to wish that now.'

'Hang it, man, don't get in the downs again; that whiskey's unnerved you. Fifty pounds is worth something after all, and to get it for the asking is the easiest way I know of. The only alternatives is to turn pickpocket, and risk getting empty purse and two years for repentance. You'll be all right again to-morrow. I'm sorry I can't stay but Wilking and Driver are coming to me at 6:30, and it must be getting on for that now. Good-bye, and don't forget about the whiskey and soda.'

And off went Banks to entertain his friends, who, I hoped for their sakes, were morensed to his hospitable ways than I was.

'I felt, as Banks had prophesied, all right on Wednesday, and got hold of him in the evening to come and choose the wine. He was particular, and, as I thought, even insulting, in his comments; but he was satisfied at last, and ordered half a dozen of claret and sherry at almost the highest price possible. For this he accounted by saying. 'It's the only way, Simmers, to get wine good; the cheap stuff is poison, rank poison.' The other preparations were also seen to; and my landlady, Mrs. White—good old soul! volunteered the services of her niece, a plump pretty girl of sixteen or seventeen for this occasion only. This was no small relief to me, as Agatha, the servant, was not exactly prepossessing in appearance. Mrs. White too, prided herself on her cooking and I could myself testify to her skill.

Things were going on swimmingly, and Banks came in for a trial dinner on Thursday to form an opinion of the cooking. To wholly please such a critical palate as his I never anticipated, but he expressed himself very well satisfied, and said there was nothing to fear on that score, a verdict that encouraged me greatly. A glimpse too, of Edith, the pretty niece, made him say, 'By George.' 'the fair Edith would put the fiercest of Bengal tigers in a good humor. You're indeed in luck to get her to wait on you. To tell you the truth the waiting might have ruined all; but instead of running the dinner it will save you even it everything else goes wrong. Can't you make it a party of three? I can sing a capital song, and if you're a bit nervous at starting, I'll take the lead till you're settled down.'

'No, no, Banks; you'd take to chaffing the old chap, or if not him you'd chaff me, and besides, you must remember it isn't meant to be a mere jollification—everyone knows you are unrivalled at that—it's business. If we get on well together. I'll introduce you on the first opportunity I get but this must be tete-a-tete.'

'All right,' he returned; 'but you don't think I want to come solely to see old Firefly? Bless your innocent heart, no! I'm thinking of Edith. Pretty name and pretty girl, Edith.'

'So that's it, you sly old fox! You can drink her health in your whiskey and add the toast, 'Long life to the dishes!' lest nervousness make her drop them.'

He stayed chatting till late, and, as we shook hands at the door said.

'I don't suppose we shall see each other to-morrow, so come round first thing on Saturday, and let me hear all about it, for I shall be almost as anxious as yourself and tell Edith she's added yet another to her list of admirers. Best of luck to you, old fellow! Good-bye!' And he was gone.

I went to bed soon afterwards, and dreamed all night long of one unending dinner, in which Edith and I took part, as did innumerable goblins and devils, who fought for the chair reserved for Mr. Richard Firefly, and continually upheaved the table; and at each upheaval I awoke in a cold prespiration, shortly to fall asleep and dream the same hideous pantomine over and over again.

Morning came at last, and in the bustle and hurry of the city streets I almost forgot my anxiety, and plunged into my books with zeal that surprised my fellow clerks and gained a nod of approval from the principal himself. He little knew the cause of this unwonted alacrity. Mr. Richard Firefly was even less to him than a cipher, in asmuch as the latter figured in the matchless neatness of his ledger, while former was a totally unknown quantity to be best represented (as we lear at school) by the mystic x.

That evening I got home by five, interviewed Mrs. White to my satisfaction, and instructed her to be on no account even five minutes late. Six o'clock was the hour for dinner, and at six dinner was to be ready. I felt then I had done my part to the best of my ability, and was content to leave the rest to the powers below. Were I a heathen I should certainly have invoked the god of cookery (there must be one); but, not being so benighted. I was obliged to believe religiously in Mrs. White and her niece.

So I sat by a cheerful fire, having drawn the curtains and made room look as snug as possible; and it is not outraging my modesty to say that I felt as proud of the result as a dormouse, if awake, is of his cosy winter nest. The time, as I say there passed very slowly, although I tried all sorts of ways to direct my attention from the clock. First I began to write a letter home, but desisted on finding I had begun 'My dear uncle Richard;' then reading, but even Shakspere semed wearisome, and Daisy Sunflower,' the last novel from Mudie's, appeared intolerably flippant and twaddling. Finally I gave up all attempts to occupy my thoughts, and walked across the room. At length the clock chimed three-quarters. It was a quarter to six I felt confident he would be here in five minutes, and momentarily expected to hear a resounding double knock, followed by a sharp ring—for so I had decided he would make known his presence.

Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epedemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power, should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, billiousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is pidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength irritating the nerves, or depressing the spirits. Such as the ready means of saving suffering when afflicted with colds, coughs, bronchitis, and other complaints by which so many are seriously and permanently afflicted in most countries.

THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained a world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a safe, sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint. ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883,

Mr. W. LUMBERS, SR, Toronto Ont. Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. "Malden, Mass., Feb. 1, 1880. Gentlemen I suffered with attacks of sick headache."

The second made me well and strong as when a child,

My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious

Seven bottles of your bitters cured him and I know of the

AS SIGNS OF GENERAL DEBILITY and mal-nutrition in children we have rickets, knock-knees, bowlegs, chicken-breast round-shoulders, pallid complexion, precociousness, peevish temper, which are expressions of feeble digestion and assimilation, with blood impoverishment. Here ordinary stimulants and tonic mixtures are mischievous, inducing in the feeble organism a morbid transient excitement which is mistaken for permanent invigoration. For successfull treatment the indications are to restore nutrition by the use of Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya, out door life and the gymnasium.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Winslow's Soothing Syrup For Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrub for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

A JUBILANT TEXT.

Come on—Fall into Line—Close up the Ranks.

SERMON BY REV. DR. TALMAGE.

The subject of Dr. Talmage's sermon was "The Glorious March," and his text is taken from Solomon's Song, vi., 10: "Fair as the Moon, Clear as the Sun, and terrible as an army with banners?"

My text is jubilant, said Dr. Talmage, To-day, with this roll of new names added, our membership has reached 4,040. My heart overflows with gratitude to God, and the faithful Christian workers. When, fourteen years ago, I came to Brooklyn, all that could be gathered together to make a call were nineteen members. What hath God wrought! The audience in the old chapel would nearly, if not quite have been ACCOMMODATED ON THIS PLATFORM.

Now we want more room than this great amphitheater can give. The financial income of this church was $3,000; now it is about $30,000, and meets all the expenses of carrying on this work. "Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto Thy name be all the glory" All of us put together, could not convert one soul, how much less three thousand! But those who have been gathered here are only a small part of the harvest, for many who were converted here may be found in the cities and towns and neighborhoods of this country and throughout Christendom. I thank God that we are only three regiments of a great army that is yet to capture the whole earth for God. Who is she that looketh forth "fair as the moon, clear as the sun, and terrible as army with banners?"

The fragrance of spikenard, the glance of jewels, the fruitfulness of orchards, the luxuriance of gardens, the beauty of Heshbon fish-pools, the dew of the night and the splendor of the morning, all contribute to the richness of Solomon's style when he comes to speak of the glory of the Church. In contrast with his eulogium of the Church, look at the denunciatory things that are said in our day in regard to it. If one stockholder become a cheat, does that destroy the whole company? If one soldier be a coward, does that

CONDEMN THE WHOLE ARMY?

And yet there are many in this day so unphilosophic, so illogical, so dishonest and so unfair as to denounce the entire Church of God because there are here and there bad men belonging to it. There are those who say that the Church of God is not up to the spirit of the day in which we live; but I have to tell you that, notwithstanding all the swift wheels and the flying shuttles and the lightening communications, the world has never yet been able to keep up with the Church. As high as God—higher than all human institutions. From her lamp the best discoveries of the world have been lighted, and while infidelity and atheism have gone blindfold among the most startling discoveries, the earth and the air and the sea have made quick and magnificent responses to the Christian philosopher. The world will not be up to the Church of Christ until in the day when all merchandise, has become honest merchandise and all governments have become free governments, and all nations evangelized nations and the last deaf ear of spiritual death shall be opened by the million voiced shout nations born in a day. The Church has gone on wading the floods and enduring the fire, until the deepest barbarism and the fiercest cruelties and the blackest supertitions have been compelled to look to the east, crying: "Who is she that looketh forth in the morning, fair as the moon, clear as the sun and terrible as an army with banners?" Yet there are people who are ashamed to belong to the Church of Christ, and if you ask them whether they are in such associations, they say: "Yes, I sometime attend the church, instead of realizing the fact that compared with the honor of being a member of the Church of God. I took back with joy to the most honored moment of my life, when in the old country meeting-house the minister of Christ announced my name as a follower of the Lord.

THERE IS NO HONOR

You are floating about in the world, seeking for better associations, why do you not join yourselves to some of the churches? An old sea captain was riding in the cars towards Philadelphia and a young man sat down beside him. He said: "Young man, where are you going?" "I am going to Philadelphia to live," replied the young man. "Have you letters of introduction?" asked the old captain 'Yes,' said the young man, and he pulled out some of them. "Well," said the old captain, "haven't you a church certificate?" "Oh, yes," repled the young man, "I didn't suppose you would want to look at that." "Yes," said the captain; "I want to see that. As soon as get to Philadelphia present that to some Christian church. I am an old sailor and have been up and down the world, and its my rule as soon as I get into port to fasten my ship fore and aft to the wharf; although it may cost a little wharfage rather than have my ship out in the stream, floating hither and thither with the tide." O men and women by the tides of swept this way and swept that way, seeking for associations and satisfactions for the immortal soul, come into the church of Jesus Christ. Lash fast to her. She is the pillar and the ground of the truth.

I purpose to speak of the glory of the Church. God, who has determined that everything shall be beautiful in its season, has not left the night without a charm. The moon rules the night. The stars are only set as gems in her tiara. Sometimes before the sun has gone down the moon mounts her throne, but it is after nightfall that she sways her undisputed scepter over island and continent, river and sea. Under her shining the plainest maple leaves become shivering silver; the lakes from shore to shore look like shattered mirrors, and the ocean under her glance with great tides come panting upon the beach, mingling, as it were, foam and fire. Under the witchery of the moon the awful steeps lose their ruggedness, and chasms their terror. The poor man blesses God for throwing so cheap a light through the broken window-pane of his cabin, and to the sick it seems like a light from the other shore that bounds this great deep of human pain and woe. If the sun be like a song, full and loud, and poured forth from brazen instruments that fill heaven and earth with harmony, the moon is plaintive and sad, standing beneath throne of God, sending up her soft sweet voice of praise, while the stars and the sea listen. No mother ever more lovingly than this pale watcher of the sky bends over the weary, heart sick, slumbering earth, singing the silvery music while it is rocked in the cradle of the spheres. Now, says my text, "Who is she, fair as the moon?"

Our answer is, the Church. Like the moon, she is a borrowed light. She gathers up the glory of a Savior's sufferings, a Savior's ascension, and pours that light on palace and dungeon, on squalid heathenism and elaborate skepticism, on widow's tears and martyrs robe of flame, on weeping penitence and loud-mouthed scorn. She is the only institution to-day that gives any light to our world. Into her portal the poor come and get the sympathy of a once pillowless Christ; the bereaved come and see the bottle in which God saves all our tears, and the captive come and on the sharp corners of her altars dash off their chains, and the thirsty come and put their cup under the "Rock of Ages,' which pours fourth from it smitten side living water, sparkling water, crystaline water, from under the throne of God and the Lamb. Blessed be the bell that call her worshipers to prayer. Blessed the water that drops from her baptismal font. Blessed the wine that glows in her sacramental cups. Blessed the songs on which her devotions travel up and the angels of God travel down. As the moon goes through mid the roaring storm cloud, and comes out calm and beautiful on the other side, so the Church of God has gone through all the storms of this world's persecution and come out uninjured.

I take a step further in my subject. After season of storm or fog how you are thrilled when the sun pours out of noon day! The same sun which in the morning kindled conflagrations among the castles of cloud stoop down to paint the lily white and the buttercup yellow and the forget me not blue. What can resist the sun? Light for voyagers on the deep: light for shepherds gaurding the flocks afield; light for the poor who have no lamps to burn; light for the downcast and burning brain; light for the smooth brow of childhood and the dim vision of the octogenarian; light of queen's coroner and sewing girl's needle. "Let there be light." Now says my text; "Who is she that looketh forth clear as the sun?"

Our answer is the Church. You have been going along a road before daybreak, and on one side you thought you saw a lion, and on the other side you thought you saw a goblin of the darkness, but when the sun came out you found these and it is the great mission of the Church of Jesus Christ to come forth "clear as the sun" to illuminate all earthly darkness, to explain as far as possible all mystery, and to make the world radiant its brightness; and that which you thought was an aroused lion is found out to be a slumbering lamb, and the sepulchral gates of your dead turn out to be the opening gates of heaven; and that which you supposed was a flaming sword to keep you out of Paradise is an angel of light to beckon you in. The lamps on her altars will cast their glow on your darkest pathway, and cheer you until, far beyond the need of lantern or light house, you are safely anchored within the vale. Oh, sun of the Church, shine on until there is no sorrow to sooth, no tears to wipe away, no shackles to break, no more souls to be redeemed. Ten thousand hands have attempted to extinguish the lamps on her altars, but they are quenchless, and to silence her pulpits, but the thunder would leap and the lightening would flame. The Church of God will yet come to full meridian, and in that day all the mountains of the world will be sacred mountains, touched with the glory of Calvary, and all streams will flow by the Mount of God like Siloam, and all lakes be redolent with gospel memories like Gennesaret, and all islands of the sea be crowned with apocalyptic vision like Patmos, and all cities be sacred as Jerusalem, and all gardens as luxuriant as Paradise. Then the chorals of grace will drown out.

ALL THE ANTHEMS OF EARTH.

Then the throne of Christ will overtop all earthly authority. Then the crown of Jesus will outflame all other coronets. Sin destroyed. Death dead. Hell defeated. The Church triumphant. All the darkness of trouble, all the darkness of earthly mystery gone forever. Clear as the sun! clear as the sun!

I take one more step in this subject, and say that if you were placed for the defense of a feeble town and a great army were seen coming over the hills with flying ensigns, then you would be able get some idea of the terror that will strike the hearts of the enemies of God when the Church at last marches on like "an enemy with banners." You know there is nothing that excites a soldier's enthusiasm so much as an old flag. Many a man almost dead, catching a glimpse of the national ensign, has sprung to his feet and started again into the battle.

Now, my friends, I don't want you to think of the church of Jesus Christ as a defeated institution, as the victim of Infidel sarcasm—something to be kicked and cuffed, and trampled on through all stages of the world. It is "an army with banners". It has an inscription and colors such as never stirred the hearts of

ANY EARTHLY SOLDIERY

We have our banner of recruit, and on it is inscribed: "Who is on the Lord's side?" Our banner of defiance, and on it is inscribed: "The gates of hell shall not prevail against us." Our banner of triumph, and on it is inscribed: "Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!" And we mean to plant that banner on every hill-top, and wave it at the gate of Heaven. With Christ to lead us we need not fear. I will not underrate the enemy. They are a tremendous host. They come on with acutest strategy. We contend not with flesh and blood, but with principalities and powers and spiritual wickedness in high places. But if God be for us who can be against us. Come on ye troops of the Lord! Fall into line! Close up the ranks! On through burning sands and over frozen mountain-tops until the whole earth surrenders unto God! He made it; He redeemed it; He shall have it! They shall not be trampled with hoofs: they shall not be cut with sabres; they shall not be crushed with wheels; they shall not be cloven with battle-axes; but the marching, and the onset, and the victory will be for that. With Christ to lead us, and Heaven to look down upon us, and angels to guard us, and martyr spirits to bend from their thrones, and the voice of God to bid us forward into the combat, our enemies shall fly like chaff in the whirlwind, and all the towers of heaven ring because the day is ours!

Oh, what a shout of triumph when all the armies of earth and all the armies of Heaven shall celebrate the victory of our King—all at once and all together. "Hallelujah, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth! Hallelujah, for the kingdoms of this world have become the kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ." Then will be spread the banquet of eternal victory, and the unfallen ones of Heaven will sit at it, and all the ransomed of earth will come in and celebrate the jubilee. Unfading garlands on their brow, telling of earthly conquests. All the walls of that celestial mansion will be aglow with shields won in glorious battle, and adorned with the banners of God that were carried in front of the host. Harp shall tell to harp the heroism in which the conquerors won their palm, and the Church that day will sit queen at the banquet. "This is he that looketh forth as the morning, fair as the moon, clear as the sun, and terrible as an army with banners."

THE INCREASED TAXATION.

Our esteemed local contemporary has the boldness to say that its pet Minister Bowell either does not know the only fair method of considering the rate of taxation per head of the population or else is trying to deceive. At least this is said of the ONTARIO, and the figures we gave were based on Mr. Bowell's own returns. We will reproduce the argument which could by no possible means be more absurd:—

> "The ONTARIO states that taxation was lower under the Mackenzie Administration than it is now; but, under Grit rule, the expenditure exceeded the revenue. Therefore, the deficit must be added to the expenditure account in order to show the true rate of taxation. Under the rule of the present Government there have been surpluses, which ought to be subtracted from the ordinary expenditure, as ought also the interest on Sir Richard Cartwright's deficits."

In the first place Sir Richard Cartwright did not always have a deficit. It was when he announced a surplus that Mr. Tupper thundered out, "I say the Government has no right to have a surplus". And if the Cartwright deficits were added to the expenditure for those years why must they also be subtracted from Sir Leonard Tilley's expenditure? Admitting that the interest on these deficits should be taken into account now by what amount does it lessen the very high present rate of taxation? Something like eight cents, perhaps still leaving the Tilley rate $5.18 as against the Cartwright rate of $3.50. Suppose that we should accomodate our contemporary and add on to the Cartwright expenditure say an average of a million a year for deficits all round would that make the contrast favorable to the present Government? Let us see. That would add about 21 cents to the $3.50 for the year nearest the new regime or $3.71 as against $5.26—an enormous increase in the rate of taxation, put it as they will.

But lo! we have another wonderful method given to us by which the annual rate of taxation per head of the population may be calculated. "The surpluses ought to be subtracted from the ordinary expenditure." No one ever added the one to the other; but if the inference is that the surpluses lessen the annual rate of taxation the contention is too absurd for rebuttal. Are the people not taxed for a surplus? The amount of taxation collected by the Government is over $22,000,000 greater than it was in the first year of Confederation and nearly $11,000,000 more than in 1878. Can the Government take $11,000,000 from the people and not tax them for it?

Even a ward politician could easily see that without the surpluses the rate of taxation would not have increased to $5.26 per head.

How is the taxation raised? By Customs duties. Now we will give our contemporary another little table just as reliable as the first, for both are from Mr. Bowell's report laid on the table of Parliament a few days ago:

This table shows that since 1873 the Customs duties have increased in Ontario $1.33 per head, in Quebec $1.87, in Nova Scotia, $0.95, in New Brunswick, $0.35, in Manitoba, $4.97, in Columbia, $12.34, while in P.E. Island since 1874 there has been a reduction of $0.89 per head.

In the face of the figures we gave, our contemporary will not presume on the ignorance of its readers to affirm, as it did some weeks ago, that the present rate of taxation is not greater per head than it ever was before in the history of Confederation. We promise to reproduce any such statement; but our contemporary will not trouble us.

A STARTLING THREAT.

The amazing spectacle of one of the minority threatening the Ontario Government with Sir John Macdonald's power was presented in the House on Thursday. Mr. Metcalfe referred to the Streams Act to tell the Government that if they again passed it "Sir John will veto it. This surpassing impudence indicates the spirit of reliance upon Ottawa with which the unpatriotic Opposition at Toronto is animated. No wonder Mr. Mackenzie termed it a miserable rump of an Opposition.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A QUEBEC PAPER, La Tribune, asks: "Why shouldn't the members from the Province of Quebec profit by the new demand of the Canada Pacific to exact a compensation in favor of the Province of Quebec in some shape or other?" Is the Federal Treasury filled by surplus millions, taken from a toiling people, to be the object of sectional plunder? Is the example of "grab" set by the Canadian Syndicate to be imitated by the Provinces because the Government is weak and criminal enough to give in? The electors must begin to see why all these millions are drawn from them by Sir Leonard Tilley's leech.

FRENCH DOCTORS almost invariably prescribe red wine rather than white, and Leibig bears them out, as the following passage found among his writings, proves:—"The white wines are hurtful to the nervous system, causing trembling, confusion, trembling of language, and convulsions. The stronger wines, such as champagne, rise quickly to the head, but their effects are only of short duration. Sherry and strong cider are more quickly intoxicating than the generalty of wines, and they have a peculiar influence on the gastric juices of the stomach. The intoxication of beer is dull but it does not hinder the drinker from gaining flesh. The drinkers of whiskey and brandy are going to certain death. Red wine is the least hurtful, and, in some cases, really beneficial.

Furred tongues and impure breath are two concomitants of billiousness remedied by Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. Heartburn, which harasses the dyspeptic after meals, and all the perplexing and changeful symptoms of established indigestion, are dispersed by this salutary cor rective onis and celebrated blood purifier,

MR PARDEE'S SPEECH

An Inconsistent Conrse Pursued by Mr. Meredith.

ONTARIO CONTROL OF HER OWN RAILWAYS.

Below is the conclusion of Mr. Pardee's speech in the House:

He wished to take the position of his hon. friend with reference to the License Act into consideration. He had taken the ground, he said, that his Government or Parliament had the right to legislate as far as police regulations were concerned. That he had taken that ground there could be no doubt, or that the Province had had entire control of the licensing question since Confederation. There was no question raised about this until just prior to the general election of 1882, and then Sir John Macdonald said we had no right to legislate in order to regulate the liquor tariff; that the Crooks Act was not worth the paper it was written on; and that any person was as free to sell intoxicating drinks as any other kind of merchandise. Did the hon. gentleman protest against these claims on the part of Sir John Macdonald? These opinions were put fourth in the Mail, but no protest came from the hon. member for London. It was sent forth as a sound constitutional doctrine uttered by the greatest "constitutional lawyer," and never a word of protest came from hon. gentlemen opposite. Well, the matter went on, and Sir John Macdonald seized the right to regulate the liquor traffic, and still there was no protest from the Conservative newspapers or from his hon. friend. (Hear, hear.) He claimed that if the Opposition had opposed the Dominion Government they would not have passed a bill taking the liquor traffic out of the hands of the Province.

THE PRESENT QUESTION.

The question now arose would the Opposition stand by and see them despoiled of their right to legislate on the subject? (Cheers.) They would have an opportunity of sinking partisanship and takein a patriotic course by again concurring in the opinion of the Government that this Province was competent to legislate on this subject, and protesting against this assumption of power by the Dominion Government. What course will they take? Judging from the course adopted by the newspapers of the Conservative party, he was afraid that they would not take the patriotic course. What had been the course of the leader of the Opposition on the matter? He said he had given his opinion as to where the right existed. Now, if we had the right, it was clear the Dominion Government had not. (Cheer.) They found that the hon. gentleman opposite was unfavorable to the right being vested in this Government, and put forth the very extraordinary doctrine that if a measure has not been properly administered then the Dominion Government was entitled to interfere.

Mr. Meredith—I never said such a thing.

Mr. Pardee read from a Mail report of the hon. gentleman's speech which showed that he did say just such a thing. Continuing he said:—He would just illustrate. Because an Act is badly administered that is justification for the Dominion Government assuming legislation, and taking it away from a Province.

Mr. Meredith—No, no.

Mr. Pardee—I don't wonder at the hon. Dominion Parliament had taken under their control every single railway in the Province of Ontario. Many of these had received both Provincial and municipal aid, and many of them were entirely within the Province and working under Provincial charters. There was no excuse for making them Dominion roads. The B. N. A. Act provided that all railroads except such as connected one Province with another, or extended beyond the limits of a Province, or such as were before or after their construction declared to be for the general gentleman "no, noing." According to that argument whenever they had a Province badly administering an Act the Dominion Government would be forced to—would be bound to—use their right to interfere, for if they were forced to do any thing they must have the right. He asked hon. gentleman if that was not a thousand times worse than the veto power? (Cheers.) Suppose an Act were badly administered by a County Council would that be justification for its being taken altogether out of their hands, but, the leader of the Conservative party makes that his excuse for taking the right to legislate upon the licensing questions out of the hands of the Province. The same argument would apply to educational affairs.

The leader of the Opposition said at the Conservative Convention, if the Conservative party came into power:—

> It was not the intention of the Opposition to carry out the Ministeral policy of seizing even the patronage of the schools, and appointining the school teachers, but it was their determination to restore to the people the control of their own affairs.

He did not actually charge the Government with appointing teachers, but he insinuated as much, and he (Mr. Pardee) charged the leader of the Opposition with not dealing with this great question in a fair manner. If politics had been introduced into the system why did he not bring it to the notice of the Minister of Education, instead of making the great educational system of Province to be used for political purposes. (Cheers.)

THE RAILWAY QUESTION.

There was one other important matter mentioned in the Address upon which he wished to touch, viz., the seizure by the Dominion of the Railway system of the Province. This was a great blow to Provincial rights. By one measure the Dominion advantage of Canada, or of two or more of the Provinces, should be under local Provincial control. The Province had aided railways having a length of over 2,000 miles to the extent of $4,000,000, and the aid granted municipalities was about $8,000,000, and he believed the municipalities would not have granted such aid had not they been under the impression that they were aiding Provincial roads which would always remain under the control of the Provincial Legislature. He quoted the resolution passed by the House in 1882, in which the Opposition concurred, offering only a very slight amendment, as follows:

> That the Provincial Legislature ought not to be deprived of this rightful authority, save where it is absolutely necessary for the general advantage of the Dominion or of more than one of the Provinces. That many railway companies have been incorporated by the Legislature of the Province for the construction and operation of railways of a local and Provincial character, and the Province and local municipalities have by money bonuses largely aided in the building and completion of these railways. That it is unlikely that this aid would have been contributed if it had been contemplated that the right to control and supervise the operations of these companies and their railways would be taken away from the Provincial Legislatures. That the best interests of the people of Ontario require and demand that the Provincial Legislataure should not be deprived of its authority and control over these railway companies. (Hear, hear.)

The Opposition would have another opportunity on this question of putting their patriotism to the test by voting on a resolution in regard to this matter. Sir. Charles Tupper, Minister of Railways, had in defence of the course taken by the Dominion Government that there was no railway in the country but what was contributing something to the general benefit and therefore it was to the general advantage of Canada that all should be under control. He (Mr. Pardee) dissented from this view. It seemed to him that it was not enough to declare that a road was for the general advantage of Canada. Such a declaration must be true in fact, and it was not enough for the Dominion Parliament to say that such was the case. When the resolution came to be submitted to the House on this question he hoped the Opposition would not the same unpatriotic course they had pursued on other similar question. (Hear, hear.) The hon. gentleman concluded by saying that the Government did not pretend they had mad no mistakes, but these were of a minor character, and the Government were strong enough not to be afraid to correct them. It was only weak man and weak governments that feared to correct their mistakes (Prolonged cheering.)

THE DEAN ON HIS DIGNITY.

(From the Evangelical Churchman.)

From the paragraph relative to Dr. Wilson which appears in another column it seems that the only obstacle to the Doctor's return to Kingston is the pertinacity with which the Dean insists upon upholding "the dignity of the Church." It is this dignity of deadness and dullness which wherever it prevails, is destroying the usefulness of our church, and which has created the necessity for such work as that of "the Salvation Army," which the Dean so heartily despises. The Dean in his dignity is much to be commiserated. He is shutting himself out from a splendid opportunity for usefulness and the co-operation of a most devoted fellow-worker; and is thereby incurring a responsiblity which he fails to realize. The loss is his own. He cannot hinder the work which will and must go on. He cannot do any injury to Dr. Wilson beyond the grief he has inflicted in separating him from this work to which he was nobly devoted—a trial in in which be has the warm sympathy and earnest prayers of all Christian people.

SALVATION ARMY ROW.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 2.—An auditor in the Salvation Army Barracks objected to the Captain giving "Amen" at the close of a prayer claiming that privilege for the audience. A row ensued between the Army and the rough element ending in the latter being ejected from the hall. There was a general destruction of property.

THE ASSESSORSHIP.

The rumor on the streets to-day that a "job" was being put up whereby a certain Alderman would be appointed Assessor is an alarming one.

To-morrow will be the 4th Sunday after Epiphany. The chief days in this month are St. Valentine on the 14th; St. Mathias on the 24th, and Ash Wednesday on the 27th.

This year will probably see the erection of a commodious edifice by the congregation of the Kingston Queen Street C. M. Church. Rev. Mr. Bland has already secured some $7,000 in subscriptions.

The Times of India asserts that the disestablishment of the Church there will be carried out immediately, although all the members of the Executive Council except Mr. Ilbert are against the proposed change, while of the additional members only Mr. Huntor supports it.

And still the work goes on at the Union Meeting in the lecture room of the Bridge Street Church. Souls are being saved and saints quickened and they are expecting a still grander time next week. The Sunday night meeting is to be in St. Andrew's Church at 8:30 o'clock.

God has been pouring out his spirit during the past week at the Women's Union Meetings held every afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock, in one of the class rooms of the Bridge Street Church, and as a result believers are being stired up and some anxious ones saved. They expect to be forced into a larger room next week.

Cardinal McCabe writes to the Dublin branch of the Peace Society that he has no hope of the success of its aims. "The Christian world once recognized such a tribunal and was prepared to force its decisions; but although the abiter still exists, his authority is ignored, and hence the sword must settle the disputes of Christian States, to the disgrace of the Christian name and the misery of Christian nations.

Father John F. The new Church of the Oratory, at South Kensington, London, which promises to be one of the most splendid of the kind in England, fast approaches completion. The confessional has arrived from Belgium. "No; she lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years, the doctors doing her no good; and at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about. Indeed! indeed! how thankful we should be for that medicine.'

SHANNONVILLE NOTES.

(From our own Correspondent.)

SHANNONVILLE, Feb. 2.—The young ladies of the Episcopalian Church here, availing themselves of the advantages of Leap Year, made arrangements for a Leap Year Promenade and Concert, which came off in the Masonic Hall last evening and proved eminently successful. It if not known yet how many unfortunate swains were caught, but the "fish pond" was in full swing.

Mrs. Barnhart, cor. THE LIMESTONE BOY.

The House had a treat yesterday when the member for Kingston got up on his pins. At a distance his clean shaven face has a boyish appearance; at closer quarters you are struck by the hard lines. Good nature ran through all his address. He glorified the conservative party, deified Sir John, magnified his own political purity. He has greatly improved in his style; still, he makes more mistakes in languages and grammar than ought to be made by one who claims to have been schoolmaster for fourteen years. His address bristled with sporting phrases, and gave the idea that the Limestone Boy stood well with the boys. He spoke frequently of 'punching in the ribs,' 'knocking on the head,' 'standing up squarely, 'fighting game,' etc. Mr. Metcalf has enough wit to always get the ear of the house; more than this he has in him the material to make a "rattling" speaker for the house and campaign purposes, but he has yet to learn many things (and there is such a thing as being a student of parliamentary style and practice), before he can claim to be a power in the house, But it is quite compatible to be both a sport and a parliamentarian, and Mr. Metcalf has it in himself to prove it.—World.

AS SIGNS OF GENERAL DEBILITY and mal-nutrition in children we have rickets, knock-knees, bow-legs, chicken-breast round-shoulders, pallid complexion, precociousness, peevish temper, which are expressions of feeble digestion and assimilation, with blood impoverishment Here ordinary stimulants and tonic mixtures are mischievous, inducing in the feeble organism a morbid transient excitement which is mistaken for permanent invigoration For successfull treatment the indications are to restore nutrition by the use of Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya, out-door life and the gymnasium.

HINTS TO THE GIRLS.

BY MRS. E. D. GYGE.

The following verses written as they are by a lady are not open to the objection of prejudice. The verse last but one is especially unselfish :

Did you never see a lady
 Look into a stranger's face,
In an omnibus or rail car,
 As if saying, "Sir, your place."

Did you never see a lady.
 Walk up to a church pew door,
Lace and ribbons all demanding,
 "Yield your pew," and nothing more.

Did you never see a lassie
 Flirt into an old man's chair,
And unheeding age or honor,
 Let him stand—no matter where ?

Never see the stage coach emptied—
 For some fidget in her pride ;
And the weary men of business,
 Tumbled out to ride outside ?

Never go to hear a lecture.
 When some fashionable dear
Would come in and make a bustle
 When you most desired to hear.

Routing half the congregation,
 And disturbing all the rest,
As if she was all creation,
 Being fashionably dressed ?

Now, dear girls, if you're thankless,
 So exacting and so free,
Time will come when gents will answer,
 "Ma'am, this seat belongs to me."

Never ask a man abruptly
 To resign his chosen place—
If 'tis offered, thank him kindly,
 With a smile upon your face.

If the way be long and weary,
 And he cannot find another,
Bid him share the comfort with you,
 As you'd share it with a brother.

Thus may you receive forever,
 Given with a spirit free,
Sure respect and love and kindness,
 Better far than gallantry.

HOW VICTORIA TRAVELS.

EXTRAORDINARY PRECAUTIONS TO PROTECT A PRECIOUS LIFE.

Few people suspect what elaborate arrangements have to be made when Queen Victoria goes on a journey. To keep her secure from harm within her own residences requires no little alertness, but when the Queen travels from London to Balmoral—a distance of about 500 miles, which it takes 19 hours to perform—hundreds of men, railway employees, policemen and other officials have to be told off for special duty, and scores of trains carrying passengers are delayed in their progress. The lines of rail on which the Czar journeys bristles with soldiers, and during the King of Spain's late journey to Estermadara, one heard of whole regiments being mobilized to form cordons along the passage of the royal train ; even M. Grevy, when he goes from Paris to his seat at Mont-sous-Vaudrey, is reminded of its greatness and its dangers by detachments of mounted gendarmes and by sentinels with fixed bayonets in every station. In England there is nothing of all this ; the Queen has no military guard or escort, and yet all the measures for her protection are admirably complete. A pilot engine precedes the royal train by twelve miles, and for half an hour before it passes all traffic on both tracks along its route is suspended. There is no resumption of the traffic at the different stations until a quarter of an hour after the Queen's own train has gone by them and during this time danger signals are exhibited at all these stations. Moreover, every grade crossing has its gates locked and guarded ; the switches have all been locked and men are posted along the line to see that by no chance any human being or animal strays on them. In the royal train itself there are two "lookout" men besides the ordinary guard. One of them stands on the engine and faces the rear of the train to watch for signals from any of the windows ; the other is stationed in the guards van and keeps his eye on the track behind the train An electric apparatus connects all the carriages with the engine and guard's van ; and three telegraph operators travel in one of the compartments with appliances for repairing the wiers on the road if in the event of an accident these wires should be found damaged. Finally a director of the Northwestern company goes with the train, and is supposed to have charge of it, a necessary precaution, for if anything went wrong it would be desirable that an official should be on the spot with powers to issue orders to all railway servants in the name of the company. No capricious or unsociable feeling on the Queen's part dictates the arrangements made to secure full privacy during her travels. When she is in good health it is necessary that she should travel in such a way that no inroads be made on the time which she devotes to business. There is not a lady in her dominions so constantly occupied as she; and she can only transact public and private affairs to her satisfaction by never allowing yesterday's business to overlap to-days. Every morning while Parliament sits, and twice a week at other times, she receives a report on the general state of affairs from the prime minister, who writes in the third person—Mr. Gladstone presents his duty to your majesty, etc., and these reports are always answered. Dispatch boxes are brought into the Queen's train at all the stopping stations while she travels, and she dictates letters to her ladies as the train hurries her along—these missives being afterward handed for registry and copying to the private secretary.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk ; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co s. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

THE MEMBER FOR EAST HASTINGS.

Mr. Hudson, member for Hastings East has been making a speech in the Legislature and, of course, made a spectacle of himself as well. A Toronto paper thus describes his first appearance: "W. P. Hudson, of Hastings East, an agricultural district, is a new member and a carriage maker. He made at once the best and worst speech of the evening. The best because it was the shortest and also nearly inaudible; the worst, because what one did hear of it was profoundly uninteresting and unimportant." This impartial criticism is pretty rough on the hon. gentleman. In the course of his remarks he said some very foolish things. Having been elected, he said, by a farming community, (he forgot to refer to the votes bought for $5), he thought he would charge the Government with having done nothing for the farmers. Now Mr. Wilmot, the Conservative member for Frontenac, gives Mr. Hudson the lie, and declares that come what will he will support the Government in the matter of the Agricultural College and Experimental Farm. This is one instance of the futility of Mr. Hudson's contention and many others could be supplied. That gentleman will best espouse the cause of his constituents by aiding the Government in improving past legislation in favor of the farmer and in passing the additional legislation in the same direction foreshadowed in the Speech from the Throne. Mr. Hudson must learn that he does not represent the yeomen of any part of Ontario when he charges the Mowat Government with neglecting them.

THE ASSESSORSHIP.

Our news columns on Saturday contained a rumor which we have reason to believe authentic. It is to the effect that a member of the City Council is maneuvring to secure his own appointment as Assessor under the proposed By-law. And moreover report says that this little game is being played with the consent of Ald. Diamond, the Chairman of Finance.

One has only to think a moment to see what a scandalous "job" this would be. In obedience to the wishes of the property owners of the city the Council wisely resolved on Monday last to adopt the principle of having one permanent Assessor instead of three, to call for applications and then decide upon the best man. Now, if report speaks truly, we have a member of the Council pulling the wires, and with promise from the leaders of co operation, in order to settle the whole business days before the date fixed for the final application. And that member an incompetent too!

Surely Ald. Diamond has too much respect for his new honors to ternish them in this way. We believe he has, and have confidence that he will re-consider any promise of the kind referred to and allow the competition to result in the survival of the fittest. Any other course in this highly important matter will be looked upon by the citizens with distrust.

UNMANLY ORGANS.

On Tuesday, the 29th ult., our local contemporary reproduced in its editoral column a rumor from the Toronto World to the effect that in a speech replying to an address from a Toronto insurance company of which he is President, Hon. A. Mackenzie said he had received more generous treatment from political opponents than from political friends. The World, of course, gave due prominence to a letter from the Secretary of the Company in which it was stated that Mr. Mackenzie made no such statement and said nothing that could be construed into such a sentiment. Of course the Intelligencer reproduced the contradiction? Not at all. It has been content to give the false rumor additional circulation out of a hypocritical sympathy for the ex-Premier but had no space to give the explicit denial. The Peterboro' Review also republished the false report but with characteristic Tory fairness suppressed the correction. Mr. Mackenzie is assisting Mr. Blake at Ottawa to expose the true character of our present rulers and scorns the pretended sympathy of those who have for years abused him.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Sir Leonard Tilley, that blessed Financier, sunk $200,000 in the Exchange Bank.

The St. Thomas Times contains an article on "the Right of Society to Protect Itself." Just so; society has a right to protect itself against a high and unjust tariff which produces soup kitchens as rapidly as any other known method.

Le Monde, Mr. Senecal's organ in Quebec, publishes an article condemning in severe terms the proposal to give further grants to the Canadian Pacific Company. It points out that the Government propose to grant that company $29,310,000 in cash to enable them to complete that portion of the railway which, according to Mr. Geo. Stephen's own showing, will cost only $27,000,000.

Prof. Goldwin Smith writes in the Week that "Toronto is full of distress, the amount of which is likely to increase; night after night the police stations are beset by unfortunates seeking for a night's shelter; what is still worse, and disgraceful to any Christian community, persons guilty of no real offence are being sent in greater numbers than ever to the city jail, where they must herd with criminals, merely to give them shelter and save them from dying of hunger." Goldwin Smith is a member of the United Charities Board.

Speaking of a remark to the effect that a suggestion made in this journal to our member in the House of Commons for street letter boxes had been acted on our esteemed local contemporary says:—

"We ask our all-powerful contemporary to use its great influence to secure from its friends a few public benefits, such as it declares itself to have been able to extort from the fears of its opponents."

Are such small public conveniences as half a dozen pillar boxes—supplied for years to towns like Brockville—only "extorted" from "the fears" of the Government? Bosh!

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

DIRECT TAXATION.

Even the Conservative press acknowledges that the position of the Province is most perilous. Direct taxation is necessary. That is what the Liberals have always said when denouncing to the people the waste of public money by the Conservative Government.—L'Electeur.

IT WAS QUITE TRUE.

Our friend Dr. S. N. Jackson has been, according to report, making some strictures upon the public Press, at which several of our contemporaries are correspondingly angry. The Belleville Ontario has, e. g. this among other sentences:

"It might surprise Rev. Dr. Jackson, of Kingston, who has attacked the morality of the Press, to know that the Rev. Canon Dumoulin, Rector of St. James' Cathedral Toronto, expressed the opinion when with a delegation interviewing the License Commissioners, that the influence for good of the Press was greater than that of the pulpit."

We have not seen any full account of our brother pastor's utterances. We were present when Canon Dumoulin expressed the opinion as to the influence for good of the press.—Rev. John Burton, B. D., in the Canadian Independent for February.

FIRE IN NAPANEE.

Napanee, Feb. 3.—About 3.30 this morning the frame store on the south side of Dundas street, occupied by Samuel Bloom as a dry goods store, was discovered on fire. The fire had gained such headway that nothing could be saved. Contents insured for $3,000. The corner frame store, occupied by Samuel McLaughlin as a grocery and provision store, and K. J. Strong, as harness shop, was also destroyed. McLaughlin saved about half of his stock. The buildings were owned by Mrs. Dr. Leonard, and, it is understood, were insured. Loss to Mrs. Leonard, after deducting insurance, probably $1,000. McLaughlin carried $1,300 insurance, which will about cover his loss. K. J. Strong saved very nearly everything. No insurance. THE VALUE OF THE EVENING PAPER

'Evening papers,' the Philadelphia Evening News remarks, 'are naturally bound to increase still more rapidly in circulation and influence. The American people are too busy to read the morning papers carefully. They run over them quickly, and then throw them aside and go on with their day's work. The evening paper is taken home, and after dinner or tea is brought out and read over carefully, not only for its news, but for its advertising. No housekeeper ever takes time to do this in the morning. Household and other cares and duties, or shopping, from lists made out the evening before, require all her time during the day. After the day's duties are done, the evening paper can be read carefully, with pleasure and profit. Judicious advertisers are beginning to realize the truth of this."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE WARDENSHIP.

We have received a letter from Mr. Samuel T. Wilmot in which he sees in our article of last week an unfair interpretation put upon the vote for the Wardenship, inasmuch, Mr. Wilmot says, as all my supporters have severally made oath that they did not vote for Dr. Faulkner in the second motion for Warden, but that they voted for myself only. This clearly disproves that portion of the article referred to which says "that some member who had previously voted for Mr. Wilmot evidently as desirous of seeing the Doctor in the chair as he was of myself rose (though the was taken by a show of hands) and voted for Dr. Faulkner, thus giving the latter 15 votes, a clear majority." Now I feel in justice to my supporters who voted understandingly and meant what they did that the mistake should be known and matters set forth in a true light. The facts of the case I believe to be these; some irregularity in the vote or error in the count erroneously giving him 15 votes led to the declaration by the Clerk of Dr, Faulkner as Warden, when in reality the vote was a tie. Mr. Wilmot sums up as follows:—"Now Mr. Editor I think the reading public will see that instead of the vote as represented in the article referred to standing 16 for Faulkner and 13 for Wilmot it would have stood had matters been correctly determined 15 for myself and 14 for Dr. Faulkner. Thus the claim that the present occupant of the chair represents a substantial majority of the Council is without foundation and we have the anomaly for the present at least of the minority ruling the majority.

HIGH SCHOOL LITERARY SOCIETY.

The high School Literary Society furnished an excellent programme to a large audience of students and visitors Friday night. Miss Yeomans and Miss McKinnon opened the proceedings with a first-class instrumental duet skillfully executed. ond it is only fair to say that the music throughout the evening was excellent. Miss Phippen and Miss Price attracted notice by their choice selections and spirightly execution. Miss Clarke and Miss Northrup are the enviable possessors of grace, ease and familiarity in reading music and in its interpretation upon the instrument at an age when most young ladies are still in the hands of their first instructors. The singing of Miss Clarkson Miss Metcalfe and Miss Lillie McRae was excellent and acceptable. The climax, however, was an instrumental duett by Mr. Robinson, (violin), and Miss Clarke. (piano), which was raptuously and deservedly encored. The literary part of the programme was good and well received. Good recitations were offered by Messrs. Johnston, Pope, Simpson, Walker and Watson, and Misses Fry and Flemming. At the close of the exercises, the Rev. A. Campbell in response to the President's invitation said that he felt pleased with the entertainment, and in a few well-chosen words, urged upon the pupils the excellence of their advantages and the importance of effort. Capt. Mikel, on behalf of the Literary Society of Commercial College said that he appreciated the programme just rendered. but as a man of business rather than words, he would content himself with undertaking to the notice of his Society the progress of the High School Society. Mr. Butler, of the Commercial College also expressed his pleasure in being present and invited the High School Society to a meeting of the Commercial College Society, to be held on Tuesday evening, promising, in addition to the other attractions, a lecture by Principal Johnson on "Five Years on the Lakes." Inspector Johnston said he was present to show his approval of the Society and of similar undertakings. He knew the importance of training, not only in public speaking but in public singing and playing. He would have been better pleased if more of the parents had been present. As inspector he was interested in the school as a part of the educational system of the county, and as a source from which to expect a supply of teachers. The Board of Education, he knew to be determined to make Belleville High School as good as any in the Province. They had engaged a fourth teacher and intended to spare no pains to have teachers and accommodations second to none. The pupils were under an obligation to second the efforts of the Board by their application and conduct for they alone make or mar the school. He spoke of the enthusiasm displayed by Trenton people for their excellent High School and its Literary Society, and he hoped to meet the young people of Belleville High School again in their Literary Society. Mr. Jno. A. Forin said that while he represented a flourishing Literary Society he would have been pleased had he been called up as an old High School pupil. He spoke of his connection with other Societies since his pupilage and referred to the valuable assistance formerly given to the Literary Society of Albert College by the present Head Master of the School and extended a cordial invita... ...bers to visit the Legal ... MAJOR CROZIER.

A Mounted Police Veteran Goes East on Leave of Absence.

(Winnipeg Free Press, Jan. 28.)

Amongst the arrivals from the Far West on Saturday evening was Major Crozier, in charge of the Northwest Mounted Police at Fort MacLeod. He is a veteran of the force, having been in it since its organization, ten years ago. He has obtained a couple of months leave of absence to make his contemplated visit. He is a man of fine physique and looks every inch a soldier. His primary object in going east is to see his father, who is dangerously ill at Belleville, Ont., which is the former home of Major Crozier, and which he has not visited for five years. He was at one time Major in the 15th Battalion of Hastings, and with his regiment took part with other volunteers in repelling the Fenian raid off Canadian territory. Capt. Cotton, of Regina, takes the place of the Major at Fort MacLeod during his absence east. When Major Crozier first came to the Northwest he was stationed six months with a detachment of men at Lower Fort Garry. At the expiration of that period he proceeded to Fort MacLeod. He subsequently was detailed for duty at Fort Walsh and Wood Mountain, and it was while at the latter post that he made final arrangements for the surrender of Sitting Bull to the American Government. After the transfer of the headquarters of the force from Fort MacLeod to Regina. Major Crozier was placed in charge of the former post, where there are now stationed one hundred men, He reports everything satisfactory in the West, and the Indians peaceable and contented. A new fort and barracks are being erected at MacLeod, and will be ready shortly for occupation. Major Crozier witnessed the erection and completion of the old fort, and is likely soon to have the honor of entering into occupation of the new. The Major expresses himself surprised at the marvellous changes wrought by the advancing strides of civilization. The iron horse has been the means of turning what was but two years ago bleak spots on the prairie into flourishing towns and villages along the C. P. R. He says that two years ago he encamped with a posse of men at the junction of Thunder and Moosejaw Creeks, where there was not even an Indian tepee, and to his surprise he now found there a thriving town. He visited Winnipeg in 1875, which was then but a scattered village, and to day felt lost in contemplating a metropolis with gas and electric light, street railways and other appurtenances only to be found in the leading cities of the continent. Major Crozier left for the East yesterday morning, and will visit Ottawa before returning.

Major Crozier will remain in Belleville till Saturday next. His father has almost fully recovered.

ALBERT COLLEGE NOTES.

The Council should meet on Tuesday.

Rev. E. N. Baker, M. A., will deliver the sermon on Charter Day.

"Our short comings has not improved," remarks one of the editors. Is this a pun or a grammatical error, or has the author been coming thro' the rye?

The current issue of Astrum Alberti says: "An improvement has not been made towards lighting the College halls with moonlight on Sunday nights by having the windows cleaned. Will some one throw a little light on this subject?"

Probably the anniversary of the granting of University Powers to Albert College will be celebrated for the last time on the 15th inst. Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrop and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

CURE OF RUPTURE.

St. Catharines, April 26, 1879.

To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could send your praise from shore to shore. Hoping [illegible] will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

HARD UP.

'That's uncle Richard,' said I putting down the glass I was raising to my lips and spilling some of the contents on the tablecloth so greatly did my hand tremble.

'Nonsense!' said Banks; 'its twenty past seven.'

We heard voices in the hall, though unable to distinguish any words; and then Edith opened the door with a curious expression on her face, and half shutting it, said.

'It's Mr. Firefly, sir.'

The words had scarcely escaped her lips when Banks jumped up from his chair, and caught her playfully round the waist, exclaiming.

'Oh, you little baggage, to play such a trick! I must have a kiss for a forfeit;' and he suited the action to the word most audibly.

As Edith struggled, with burning cheek to free herself from her tormentor, she opened the door wide, and I saw a tall form standing on the threshold. The girl escaped just at this moment, retaining sufficent presence of mind to once more announce 'Mr. Firefly,' and then fled down stairs to hide her confusion.

'The devil it is!' exclaimed Banks, for once fairly taken back.

'No, sir—Mr. Richard Firefly, sir,' said my uncle, drawing himself up stiffly.

Banks speedily recovered himself, and hastened to apologize, explaining that he thought the girl was making fun of them.

'And I think you returned the compliment, sir,' said Mr. Firefly composedly—a remark that made Banks bit his lip and be silent.

By this time I had recovered myself, advancing shook my uncle by the hand.

'How do you do, uncle Richard? Delighted (how the word struck in my throat) 'to see you! Let me introduce you to my friend—Mr. Banks. Banks, this is my uncle, Mr. Firefly.'

They shook hands—Banks warmly (for my sake, I thought), and uncle Richard frigidly. As they did so I surveyed my uncle with the coolness that some persons only feel when they are really and truly in despair. He was, I reckoned, nearly six feet, as upright as a cart and had iron-gray hair and long moustaches, with quick, searching, blue eyes and a determined look about the mouth and chin. In fact, he looked a soldier all over.

After shaking hands with Banks he strode up to me, and, clapping me on the shoulder said.

'Well, Dick what's the matter. You don't seem quite so pleased to see me as I expected from your invitation.'

'Oh, yes, uncle, I am. What a long time it is since you went away!'

This was a very weak attempt to put off the evil moment when explanation about dinner would become necessary. Come it must, though I endeavoured to delay it as long as I could.

'Yes,' he returned,' 'its a long time. You were quite a little chap then, Dick, and now you're quite a man; like your father my boy.'

Then ensued silence. Banks either would not or could not help me, and with agravating coolness had resumed his seat, nursing one leg with an air of indifference to my troubles.

'Now, Dick,' said my uncle, as he took off his overcoat, 'I can promise to do justice to your hospitality; this frosty air quite gives me an appetite.'

The moment had come when I could no longer beat about the bush, but must come to the point, so I began with a preceptlibe tremor in my voice. 'The fact is, uncle Richard, that the dinner's gone.'

In my nervousness I said the first words that came to my lips, carefully avoiding Bank's eyes.

'Gone!' exclaimed my uncle. 'How gone?'

'I'm extremely sorry,' I went on, glad that a beginning at any rate had been made; 'but it was spoilt in cooking.'

'Ah, that's a pity. How did they manage to do that?'

'Well, uncle Dick, we waited as long as we could.

My uncle looked puzzled and turned to Banks.

'I'm afraid I am rather stupid to-night, for I don't understand why you should have waited. Can you explain it, Mr. Banks?'

I felt immensely relieved at this, and was grateful to my uncle for granting me a respite; and now that the burden was shifted from my shoulders I even took a malicious pleasure in wondering how Banks would get on.

He did look rather staggered at the unexpected appeal, but said. 'Well, Mr. Firefly I believe your nephew thought you would be here earlier.'

'Earlier! Why, it's only just half past seven now!'

'Only just half past seven now!' repeated Banks mechanically, taking out his watch to assure himself he was not dreaming, and then replacing it in his pocket with a look of mingled amazement and resignation.

Seeing this, Mr. Firefly turned again to me, and I said with more confidence than I had yet shown.

'Yes, it's half past seven, but the dinner was to be——'

'At 7:30,' interrupted uncle Richard.

'At 7:30!' cried Banks in unfeigned surprise.

'At 7:30! echoed I, putting my hand to my head. 'Surely I can't have made a mistake?'

'Oh dear me, no,' said my uncle, reddening at the idea; 'I've got your card in my pocket.'

And he went to where his overcoat was hanging, and felt in its pockets, while Banks and I started at each other, and Banks significantly touched his forehead and shrugged his shoulders.

His Outspoken Opinion.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England In [illegible] way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefits which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies, Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines brepared by W. Lumbers, When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenberg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883,

Mr W. LUMBERS, SR, Toronto Ont, Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

Mr. W. LUMBERS, 288 Carlton Street, Toronto. Dear Sir,—I feel great pleasure in informing you that I have used your Catarrh Remedy and Liver Pill, and am happy to say I am completely cured of these complaints and can with the greatest confidence recommend them to any one suffering from those complaints. Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monckton, County Perth, Ont., Suly 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state wity very good effect. REID, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

ALBERT UNIVERSITY.

The following article by Prof. Badgley appears in the Astrum:

While Albert University is undergoing a process of evolution, we do not wonder that there is some uneasiness felt by the graduates. The breaking up of old associations and matured plans, and starting out on a new line of action, will necessarily be accompanied with no small degree of anxiety. It may be an easy matter to reconcile conflicting interests where rival Methodists Churches occupy the same ground, but to pull up by the very roots a College and University, and plant them elsewhere, and under entirely new relations and surroundings, means a much more serious undertaking. The whole Methodistic atmosphere, at the present moment, is not the most pleasant and invigorating. New difficulties and complications present themselves as the date draws near for the final consummation of union. We have no fears as to the outcome of the whole matter, nevertheless none of us can hardly hope to escape sharing in the general anxiety. The complications growing out of the University question have nothing in them to allay a feeling of uneasiness, and it certainly is within the limits of possibilities that these complications may put an end to Union. Such, however, we believe will not be the case, and so, as graduates of Albert University, we may prepare for the inevitable.

How will consolidation affect us in our University standing? The answer to this question, we think, is entirely with our selves. Whatever estimate we put upon our own degrees will largely determine the estimate put upon them by others. Our degrees mean as faithful instruction, as hard labor, and as close examinations as those conferred by any other University in the Province. We spend annually in the lecture room two or three months more than any other College in Ontario, and this in a four year's course, means at least an extra year's labor. The discipline received ought to be equal to that obtained elsewhere, and without instituting invidious comparisons, we think the rank and file of Albert graduates do not suffer in comparison with those of sister Universities. We have a history and a heritage not to be despised, and the best way to keep others from putting dishonor upon us is for us not to do it for them.

For these reasons I could not favor either plan proposed in the last number of the Astrum, viz: (1) That the new University issue to each graduate a new diploma; or (2) that a testimonium be appended to those we already have. It appears to me that any course other than to hold the parchments we already have, and loyally stand up in their defence, would be to dishonor ourselves, and make us in a sense unworthy of the relation we will hold to the new University. For myself, I neither want nor would accept any other document.

We can and should loyally stand by the new University, and do our utmost to make its influence felt, and secure its future success, but we believe this can be fully and more honorably accomplished without any artificial props other than an Act of Parliament, to transfer us to the consolidated University.

From another point of view consolidation will be an advantage to the graduates of both Albert and Victoria. The stronger the university the more influence it gives to its graduates. With a constituency enlarged by the union of the four Methodist bodies and representing the largest Protestant denomination in the Dominion our University ought to command respect Will not the almuni show in this increased influence and will not the cessation of rivalry and antagonism between "the people called Methodists" be a boon to every Methodist and Methodist graduate throughout the land? From no standpoint can we conceive any disadvantage to threaten us in the event of consolidation unless we foolishly and unjustifiably put a discount upon ourselves.

UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS.

STEPS TAKEN FOR A PROPER COMMEMORATION OF THE EVENT.

At a meeting held in Adolphustown, for the purpose of arranging matters with reference to holding a centenary celebration, to commemorate the landing of the United Empire Loyalists in Adolphustown, Parker Allen was elected chairman and Joseph B. Allison secretary.

Moved by H. H. Allison, seconded by P. D. Davis, that no political or sectarian questions shall be in order, or allowed to be discussed directly or indirectly in connection with this celebration movement.

Moved by P. D. Davis, seconded by J.J. Watson, that a committee be appointed to make the necessary preparations for holding a centenary celebration of the landing of our forefathers on the 19th of June, A. D., 1784.

Moved by Rev. M. L. Pearson, seconded by Dr. Clark, that the committee appointed on the centennial celebration be instructed to take into consideration the erection of a suitable monument in honor of the U. E. Loyalists.

If you want fast colors and brilliant shades use the popular package Star Dyes.

VISIT TO BELLEVILLE.

The surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute, offices at Montreal and Toronto, will be at the Dafoe House, Belleville, Jan. 28, 29, 30 and 31, where physicians and sufferers can consult them and test the merits of the new and wonderful instrument, the Spirometer, invented by Dr. M. Souville, of Paris Ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army for the special treatment of Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Consumption in the first and second stages, and all diseases of the nose, throat, and lungs. Consultation free. For further particulars, address International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church St., Toronto.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

OUR TRADE WITH THE UNITED STATES.

The Hamilton Spectator must believe in a tariff with incidental protection such as we had before Sir Leonard Tilley undertook to put a spoke here and there in the wheels of commerce. In an article on the "National Police"—a jocular reference doubtless to the Customs officials—it furnishes some trade returns and draws four little conclusions which the reader is expected to believe are favorable to the tariff of high taxation. Our contemporary finds that in 1876-7-8-9 the imports from Great Britain amounted to $148,730,809; while under the Tilley tariff there was imported in 1880-1-2-3 a total of $180,694,838. This means that we have imported under a tariff that was to decrease our imports over $31,000,000 in excess of the imports under the Cartwright tariff!

But if on the other hand our contemporary thinks an increased volume of imports from Great Britain a good thing it should go back to the tariff of 1873 when our imports from Great Britain amounted to $68,532,776.

"Imports from the United States have materially decreased," says our contemporary exultantly, referring to these four years and "averaging" after the fashion of the Finance Minister. The fact is that our imports from the United States were last year the largest ever known. They reached the enormous figure of $56,032,333. And more than that, last year we imported four millions more from the United States than from Great Britain. Does this famous policy decrease imports as was claimed to be its chief virtue? The figures do not say so.

Take Canada's total trade with the two countries and what is the result? In 1882 our trade with the neighboring republic was $96,229,763; while our trade with Great Britain was $95,871,802. Last year the figures were: United States $97,701,058; Great Britain $99,197,682—very little difference. Out of a total trade with the world of $230,339,826 in 1883 our transactions with the Americans amounted to over $97,000,000, or for every $19 we traded with the whole world we traded $8 with the United States.

Our trade with the United States was never so high as at present, while our trade with Great Britain was in 1874 $9,000,000 greater than it is with that country now. The Spectator's efforts, therefore, to prove that the Tilley tariff has not injured our trade with the Old Country is in vain. Notwithstanding this we do not see how it would discredit the Tilley tariff if some of our trade had been transferred from Great Britain to the United States. We think these things are not controlled by tariffs and the large increase in our trade with the United States proves this, although it disproves the assertions of Sir Leonard Tilley and exposes the humbug of so-called "National Policy" claims.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A PITTSBURG FARMER owning 100 acres of land has applied for a vacant position on the Kingston Police Force. His lucky star must have deserted Sir John when such things occur in his regime.

TORY JOURNALS talk of "Grit" hostility to the settlement of the Northwest either in ignorance or forgetfulness of the fact that up to 1882 not a settler entered that country except over the piece of road built by Mr. Mackenzie.

THE Toronto House of Industry asks the Dominion Government to refund $225 of the amount paid by the institution for coal taxes. Why not refund the iniquitous tax to all the charitable institutions and then to the half-paid work people!

MR. CHRISTOPHER WASHINGTON Bunting, ex-M. P. for Welland, is lobbying daily in the halls of the Legislature at Toronto and is credited with seeking for a few Reform members to buy over to vote against their Province. Altho' the best available man after Mr. Boultbee for such a job we don't think he will succeed.

OUR TOTAL CUSTOMS REVENUE for the past year was $23,009,582. Of this the liquor duties constituted about 8 per cent. Our Excise duties for the year were $9,260,116, and the excise duties on liquors and malt were more than two-thirds of that amount. Or taking the total customs and excise duties for the year which added make $29,269,699, it will be seen that the federal revenue from liquors forms now more than one-fifth part of the whole.

IN THE HOUSE a day or two ago Mr. Cameron, of Huron, exposed a nice little job by which a couple of Tory Lieutenant-Governors were virtually made a present of several thousand acres of the finest land in the North-west. A few days previous Mr. Cameron extracted from Sir John Macdonald the confession that the Government had sold at private sale for three dollars an acre the government supply farm near Calgary to Lieut.-Governor Robitaille, of Quebec, which was worth from improvements not less than $15 an acre. Lieutenant-Governor Dewdney is charged with making use of his official position to obtain the farm for himself and Mr. Robitaille from Sir John.

MR. BLAKE is conscious that the large statements of supporters of the Government and of the members of the Government are, in respect of the actual increase of the permanent population of the Northwest, false and misleading. Speaking of a return which the House ordered last session, but which Mr. Pope did not have prepared, Mr. Blake in moving this session for a similar return, said:—"I once again insist on the importance of our having the opportunity as a House of Parliament of investigating the material on which the Government is acting—the data and statements and papers from which they draw these general results." The Government ought not to be so afraid of facts and figures. The country has had enough of mere boasts.

THE FACT that in order to make money the Grip Printing Company bought the Ontario Government printing contract from Mr. Wilson, of Truth, has been twisted by the Mail as a scandal and gross political job which would never, no never have happened if Mr. J. D Edgar, a director of the Globe, had not been a large stockholder in Grip. Alas for the Mail's reputation for veracity. Mr Edgar says he doesn't own a cent's worth of the new stock and only $150 of the original stock. He says he is not interested in the Government contract to the extent of one cent, and adds:—"I must say that I would be glad if I held more stock; and I rather envy the prominent members of the Conservative party, whose names I can supply, who are the fortunate holders of upwards of $17,000 of this same original stock." Notwithstanding all this the Mail may be relied upon to persist in its misrepresentations.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

HARD ON "SARAH".

The Examiner says:—"The Review has no more back bone than a 'fish-worm'."

ANOTHER ADMIRER.

"I know they are not very pure in my party, and they don't pretend to be." This is the utterance of Mr. Roe, the Tory member of the Local House for Lennox. We admire Mr. Roe's frankness much more than we do his morality.

PROTECTION NO HELP.

Hamilton's population increased in a much greater ratio under a low tariff than under Sir Leonard Tilley's policy of high taxation. This is a fact that the Tories don't like to hear. They told so many lies about the state of the city during the ten years between 1870 and 1880 that they are ashamed to say it proves that Hamilton grew more rapidly in those years than it is now doing.—Hamilton Times.

SIR JOHN'S STATEMENT.

The inaccuracy of Sir John Macdonald's statements are well illustrated by the instance he gives in reference to the price of coal in Winnipeg. He declares that coal that formerly sold in Winnipeg for $23 a ton now can be obtained for $7. The Manitoba Free Press declares that coal has never sold for less than $13 a ton, and at the present time it is selling at $14 25. The Free Press declares that coal, if it ever brought $23 a ton, must have done so for a very short time and under very exceptional circumstances. The Free Press charges the Prime Minister with being guilty of "willful falsehood or of gross and incomprehensible ignorance."

THE WEATHER THIS MONTH.

WHAT THE ASTRO-METEOROLOGICAL INDICATIONS POINT TO.

The well known Montreal astronomer, Mr. Walter H. Smith, has this to say of the probabilities for February:—The principal astonomical aspect during this month is the opposition of Mars. This planet, says the meterologist Goad, sits uneasy in icy chains, and will take opportunity to strike fire out of the steel of winter. Hard and dry though the nature of Mars be, yet infinite intelligence moves the spheres in harmony, and the harsher notes are oftimes interrupted by pauses and respites. At the time of opposition the sun is in Aquarius and Mars in Leo; this looks like unusual warmth for the season, for, says our last-named authority, Mars will bring heat be it dry or wit. Thus it would not surprise the writer if a thunderstorm should occur in February, or, at any rate, some dashing rain or sleet and violent winds.

Take the astro-meteorological possibilities of the earlier part of February, 1884, and they are certainly unfavorable for both the coal-dealers and the ice harvesters, and the latter had better "make their hay" beforehand if possible. To localise the probabilities, 1st to 4th, remiss of cold; 4th and 5th, colder, probably fog; 6th cloudy, snow; 7th and 8th, cloudy, probably snow; 9th, fair; 10th, variable; 13th to 15th, downfall, windy; 16th, warmar interval; 22nd, snow; 25th, wind and probably snow; 26th. downfall; 29th wind ane snow.

THE GRAND JUNCTION BONUS.

The Deputation Obtain Audience with the Attorney-General.

CLAIMS OF THE CITY PRESENTED.

Yesterday afternoon the Attorney-General and Provincial Treasurer were waited upon by a deputation from Belleville, regarding a claim that city is making upon the Government, growing out of the amalgamation of the Grand Junction railway with the Midland railway system. The deputation was composed of his Worship Mayor Dunnet, Alderman Diamond, Messrs. R. C. Clute and T. S. Carman; W. P. Hudson, M. P.P., and A. F. Wood, M.P.P.

Mr. L. H. Henderson, City Solicitor of Belleville, first addressed the Premier, and stated the facts of the case.

Mr. R. C. Clute pressed the claims of the city of Belleville upon the Government on grounds of equity and right, the legislation which took away their rights having been passed by the Legislature. The grounds upon which the bonuses were given were swept away by the Amalgamation bill.

Mr. Mowat asked how that was answered in the Railway Committee when the bill was being considered.

Mr. Henderson said the answer was that it was for the general good of the province.

Mr. Mowat asked whether these roads having been taken possession of by the Dominion Government it was not to them they should look for redress?

Mr. Clute replied that as the province claimed these roads he did not know whether it would submit to that. (Laughter.

His Worship, Mayor Dunnett, Ald. Diamond, Mr. T. S. Carman, and the local members, Messrs. Wood and Hudson, followed with a few remarks emphasizing the representations of the previous speakers.

The Attorney-General, in reply, asked them to submit the papers, and he could only promise his consideration of their case.

Mr. Henderson then addressed a few words to the Premier with regard to the ferry between Belleville and Ameliasburg, after which the deputation withdrew.—Mail.

Afterwards Messrs. Dunnet, Clute and Carman had an interview with Mr. Mowat and Mr. Pardee, during which the claims of the city were urgently pressed. The hon. gentlemen expressed their willingness to meet the wishes of the citizens of Belleville if they could see their way to do it. The matter would receive their best consideration.

Messrs. Clute and Carman were the only members of the deputation who returned to the city to-day.

ONLY A WOMAN'S HEART.

Won from Her Husband by the Wiles of a Patent Medicine man.

A DOMESTIC DRAMA FROM SIDNEY.

(From our own Correspondent.)

BAYSIDE, Feb. 5.—A romance real in life is now the principal topic of conversation along the front of Sidney. The one who is resposible for the domestic infelicity is a vendor of patent medicines and a Yankee. He came to this county about seven months ago, and as he had friends living in Sidney he of course preferred stopping with them rather than cast his lot among strangers. He wasn't handsome—far from it—but Tom was a jovial fellow and could sing a comic song, qualities which constituted all the elements requisite for a good husband in the eyes of

A FOOLISH NYMPH.

He travelled about the county considerable selling his cough drops, and while thus engaged in such a laudable vocation, he was afforded golden opportunities time and again of seeing many pretty Canadians. He called one day at a respectable farmers house, and during the latter's temporary absence, with that cunning so characteristic of the average Yankee medicine man, he at once set about winning the affections of the wife. She was young and handsome, and in her innocense failed to discern in the visitor that which should have at once stamped him as a scoundrel. His mock modestry did not prevent him making the second and third call, and to the shame of the bashful wife, let it be said, she did not object to

RECIPROCATING HIS LOVE.

The attention paid her by the quack doctor was very pleasant. Things ran along in this way for some little time until the husband had his suspicion aroused at a church social a few weeks ago where his wife and her new-found lover were tosing a duet. Once his suspicions aroused circumstances rapidly opened the honest yeoman's eyes, and although at first blind to his wife's unfaithfulness he soon learned the true state of affairs. A scene followed between husband and wife, and she boldly avowed her preference by choosing the new comer. Thus what was once a happy home, has been turned into a dark and cheerless fireside by the work of this villainnous Yankee patent medicine vendor. At last reports the woman's father is in search of the quack armed with a shot-gun.

HIGH SPIRITS.

After the usual business, the Society was furnished with an essay on "Idealization" by S. J. Young, B. A. Then followed a debate on the "Justifiability of the execution of Charles I," in which the affirmative was supported by J. E. Halliwell, B. A., F. E. O Flynn, B. A., and Mr. Wright, and the negative by J. A. Forin and W. H. Campbell. The decision resulted in favor of the affirmative by a majority of one. The next regular meeting will be held on Tuesday evening the 12th inst. From the interest taken in this Society by the Barristers of the city, it may safely be expected that the Society will flourish. THE NEW CAPTAIN.

"Lieut." Hassen, of the Salvation Army, who has been dubbed Captain and ordered to take command of the Belleville station, bid a tearful farewell to her friends in Kingston, and gave and extra squeeze of the hand to a representative of the Whig who learned where Miss Hassen was born but not when. She came to America from Glasgow, her native town, in 1882, and nine months ago was converted at Patterson, N. J., which seems to have been the most converting station in America. She was made a "Lieut." last May.

Miss Hassen comes to Belleville with very high recommendations from the Kingston press which no doubt voices the sentiments of the friends of the Army in that city.

PERSONAL.

"Mark Twain" is 48 and "Bret Harte" 45.

General Booth, of the Salvation Army is expected in America early in March.

Messrs. J. C. Jameson and W. Bullen are also attending the Montreal Carnival.

Mr. P. Hughes, the head of the well-known firm of Hughes Bros. Toronto, is in the city.

Messrs. W. N. Ponton and N. B. Northrup, graduates of Toronto University, will represent this county at the grand banquet to be given in the Pavilion at the Horticultural Gardens, Toronto, on the 15th inst. by the students of the University. It is expected that there will be at least a thousand guests present.

Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause.

ROYAL TIPS.

Says Labouchere in Truth: So far as expense goes, it saves a Royal visitor little or nothing to be a guest at "the Palace." The tips which are given are enormous. When the Emperor Nicholas passed Ascot week at Windsor Castle in 1844, he left £3,000 for the servants, and twelve gold and diamond snuff boxes to the lords and gentlemen of the household. In 1855 the Emperor Napoleon gave £1,500 to the Windsor servants, and last year the King of the Netherlands expended nearly £1,000 in the same way. In fact, I believe the Lord Steward keeps a regular tariff of what is expected, the amount varying according to the rank of the guest, and this is formally presented to the principal personage in attendance on him.

Mr. B. A. Harrison, Chemist and Druggist, Dunnville, Ont., writes; I can with confidence recommend Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure for Dyspepsia, Impure Blood, Pimples on the Face, Billiousness and Constipation—such cases having come under my observation.

HELP REQUIRED.

Dyspepsia does not get well without assistance. It requires careful diet and thorough treatment. Burdock Blood Bitters have effected the most remarkable cures on record of chronic Dyspepsia.

For cramps, pain in the stomach, bowel complaint or chills use Perry Davis' pain killer See advertisement in another column; [illegible]

STAGE NOTES.

Prepared For the Ontario.

LOCAL.

The Opera House is now insured for $10,000 which costs just $400 a year.

The boxes can now be rented by the year by any person requiring them.

The rent of the building has been fixed at $60 a night. Too much in many cases.

The seats in the gods gallery are to be raised, and shutters will be put on the dressing room windows.

The Company will not lease the house to Skiff & Gaylord, as the terms offered were considered too low.

It was decided at a meeting of the Directors to discontinue giving free tickets for shows to those having bill boards.

A letter received from John. T. Raymond states that he is now sick in Toronto and will be unable to visit Belleville as he had proposed. John cannot be "In Paradise."

Mr. W. J. Mitchell is besieged by ladies to get a glance at Mr. Henry Irving's autograph, as an old avant courier looked at the signature of the great actor to-day, he was led to ask: "Is that writing?"

Mr. T. H. Brand was in the city to-day making arrangements for the appearance of the Royal Hand Bell Ringers, of Eng., on Monday 25th inst. They are unrivalled in this class of entertainment.

The names of the Directors of the Opera House and the amounts which they subscribed have been posted up in the Secretary's office, and a copy sent to the Government in accordance with the charter.

Mr. Henry Irving has written Mr. W. J. Mitchell regretting his inability to visit this city during the present season. His route has been entirely taken up by Mr. Abbey, but he hopes to have the pleasure of stopping here next year when he purposes making a more extended tour through America.

GENERAL.

Modjeska has a $60,000 California ranch. She is about to appear at the stage theatre in New York in a new play.

Mr. Loche Richardson, a Canadian, has been giving Shakespearian recitals in Boston and was highly spoken of.

Ida Cavendish has resumed the part in the "New Magdalen" of Wilkie Collins, which she created ten years ago, and is doing well.

Fred Warde has purchased a tragedy written by Henry Guy Carleton, the editor of Life, called Memnon and will produce it this season.

Report says that Patti will leave Mapleson at Cincinnatti so that Abbey's dream of uniting in one performance Patti and Nilsson may yet be realized.

Irving created a perfect furore at Chicago in "Louis XI." He was called before the curtain again and again by an audience that completely packed the house.

Dion Boucicault's tour in Australia will last only eight weeks. He will produce Arrah Na Pogue and a new play of his called Robert Emmet, in which he plays the title role.

F. A. McDowell, well known to the theatre goers in Belleville is at present with Miss Davenport, in the Fedora Company, while Fanny Reeves, his wife, is at Madison Square New York.

"Princess Ida" is a great success at the Savoy, the music especially being excellent and creating great hopes of Sir Arthur Sullivan's grand opera, which is now in hand. The composer himself is better.

Mrs. Langtry has cleared $30,000 thus far this season. Her new play "Peril," made a decided success in New York. She will purchase the house she lives in on 13th street, New York, and make it her permanent home.

The dramatic week in London has been vivacious. The Princess Theatre, which opened successfully with "The Palace of Truth," is the prettiest and safest in London. Lotta's tide has completely turned toward success, and Minnie Palmer, though abused by the critics, is run after by the public.

Mary Anderson has now been on the stage eight years. Her Clarice George Augustus Sala pronounces her a brilliant triumph. The critic of the Times:—"Heavy-footed impassiveness weighs upon all her efforts to be sprightly." Edmund Yates:—"She has not been endowed with the sacred fire given only to the few. She lacks subtlety, grace, repose."

PROPOSED YACHTING ASSOCIATION.

The Toronto Yacht Club at its last annual meeting pronounced in favor of an attempt to form a yachting association for the inland lakes and the following circular has been issued:

At the annual general meeting of the Toronto Yacht Club the undersigned were appointed a committee to communicate with yacht clubs as to the propriety of attempting to form a lake yacht racing association, and request suggestions concerning it. Besides the general advantages to yachting to be derived from the action of such a body, which may be inferred from the success attending the efforts of associations of like character in other waters, the following have only to be suggested to be immediately appreciated.

1. The confusion at present arising from the many different systems of yacht measurement and the time allowance now existing would entirely be obviated by the adoption of a uniform system.

2. The dates of the regattas of the different clubs could be fixed by the executive body of the association in such an order that a yacht would be enabled to attend all the events in succession in the course of an ordinary summer cruise.

3. The establishment of a uniform code of signals might also be agreed upon.

You will confer a favor by bringing the matter before your club as early as possible, and forwarding the official result to the Secretary of the Toronto Yacht Club.

It is desirable that the answer should be available by the middle of February.

Mr. W. B. Lazier bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes: 'I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stables. I have used it for bruises, scratches wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gives the best satisfaction. We used it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., It is a perfect panacea. It will remove warts by paring them down and applying it occasionally.'

Health is a duty, Disease a crime. Use Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters and be cured of all biliousness or liver trouble. 25 cents will buy a large bottle.

TIMELY AID

A little daughter of the Captain of the Steamer "Empress of India" was suddenly attacked with Croup while at a friend's house in Toronto. No medical aid being handy, recourse was had to Hagyard's Yellow Oil; this popular household remedy afforded prompt relief and the little girl was as lively as ever in a few hours.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN MADOC.

Stores, Hotel, Residence and Oddfellow's Hall Destroyed.

HALF THE VALUE OF THE VILLAGE GONE.

(From our own Correspondent).

MADOC, Feb. 6.—The business portion of the village was almost destroyed by fire last night, and the streets this morning present a sad appearance with goods and furniture of every description piled up several feet high, while on either side stands the brick walls blackened with smoke. The fire made a clean sweep from MacLean's dry goods store to Dr. Loomis drug store, consuming

THIRTEEN BRICK STORES

—the best in the village: It is a heavy blow to the growth of Madoc, and will, no doubt, seriously injure business here for several months. The insurances in most cases was light, while all the merchants had heavy stocks. Those who were turned into the street without scarcely a moments warning and with barely sufficient clothing to shelter them from the severe cold, have the sympathy of all. They have been provided with temporary lodgings at private houses in the meantime, and none will go uncared for. A subscription it is thought will be taken up to aid temporarily those who are in need of assistance, through the fire. The was first heard about ten o'clock, and in a time the whole village was alarmed. Mrs. William O'Flynn, who lives over McLean's store, was the first one that noticed the fire coming up through the floor from the store below. The other inmates of the house were alive to their immediate danger in a very short time, and they had scarcely time to reach the street in safety before the flames took possession of the premises. The firemen turned out promptly, but a delay was occasioned by some means before water was thrown.

THE VICTIMS.

The places burned were: Murdock McLean's dry goods store; W. O'Flynn's dwelling, C. J. Wilson's dry goods store; Great North Western Telegraph Company's office; D. C Clarke's dry goods store; Cross & Mouncey's drug store; Moon's Hotel; and those that were damaged were: Gray & McGregor's grocery and liquor store; D. C. Wright, same; Mrs. Jane Wright, same; Great Western dry goods store; and Dr. Loomis' drug store. This is the second time that Madoc has been almost totally destryed by fire.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

MADOC, Feb. 5.—The great destroyer visited our village last night. About 10:15 an alarm was sounded, fire having been discovered in M. McLean's store in Wilson's Block. The fire soon spread to Cross & Mouncey's on the south and from that to Moon's Hotel, and to D. C. Clarke's on the north. Through the heroic efforts of the Alert Fire Company Wilson's old stand was saved, also the Victoria Block on the south side of the hotel. In the Wilson Block were destroyed the following, besides the above mentioned stores: the Oddfellows' Hall and contents; W. H. O'Flynn's residence. The street presented a state of confusion as all were busily engaged looking after their effects. All the shops on both sides of the fire were emptied of their contents, and as usual in a case of this kind a great deal of property was destroyed. After four hours the flames were subdued and the citizens are returning their goods to the shops again.

It is a deplorable fact that during the progress of the fire whiskey was used too freely and another thing noticeable was how unwilling a great many men are to help their neighbors when in distress.

AT THE SALVATION ARMY.

Philadelphia Press.

"Young man, are you a Christian?" The reporter said he hoped he was.

The lieutenant then eyed his victim and said: "Young man, you are false to the belief which you claim to profess," and so saying, he bobbed up from the seat, and, kneeling down on the floor, stopped the exercises that were going on on the platform by beginning to pray for the reporter as follows:—

"We have a reporter here—a miserable reporter—a sinful servant of the unholy newspapers—a good young man gone wrong. Satan has made him obstinate, and he will not yield to persuasion and be saved. Oh, help the wicked reporter. Help this reporter. The devil holds the fort in the reporter's brain. He's going to h—l. Oh, may he join the Salvation Army oh! Give him repentance. He is a type of all reporters, and they are a wicked lot." The lieutenant stopped to give the reporter a chance to kneel down. The men and women soldiers shouted: "Save the reporter!" "Help the poor reporter!" "Down with the devil!" "I was wicked once, but now I am pure!"

The lieutenant then began: "Oh, kill this reporter; kill him. Take him away, that he may do evil no more. He is too obstinate to yield. He knows he ought to, but he is too proud—all reporters are. Oh, strike this reporter down! he is a devil in disguise."

Another Salvationist took up the prayer. A woman was the last to endeavor to induce the wicked reporter to repent and then the entire regiment of the army began to sing for the reporter, during which he left.

The reason why, "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfecly harmless. Second, It saves more than half the labor. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers.

A BANKERS TESTIMONY.—For a Cough Cold or any Bronchial affection, 'Pectoria' in my opinion, is just the thing. I have used it in my family for Coughs and Colds for the past four years with the most unvaried success, and to-day my opinion of it is that I continue to think still more of that which I began to think well of. Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15th, 1880.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS MARY STEWART.

'It is the unexpected that always happens,' remarked a long neglected wife as her husband kissed her when he came home one evening.

"They who cry loudest are not always the most hurt. Kidney-Wort does its work like the Good Samaritan, quietly unostentatiously, but with great thoroughness. A New Hampshire lady, writes: Mother has been afflicted for years with kidney diseases. Last Spring she was very ill and had an alarming pain and numbness in one side. Kidney-Wort proved to be a great blessing and has completely cured her.

SURE SIGNS

Distress before or after eating, loss of appetite, belching of wind, heart burn, irregular action of the bowels, and nervous irritability are sure signs of Dyspepsia. The sure cure is Burdock Blood Bitter. Procure and read the testimonials.

We believe it was a Boston girl who remarked that the remains were 'beautifully upholstered.'

"Twenty-four years experience," says an eminent Physician, convinces me that the only cure for "Nervous Exhaustion" and weakness of the Generative organs is to repair the waste by giving Brain and Nerve Foods, and of all the remedies I have used Mack's Magnetic Medicine is the best. This remedy is now sold by all Druggists at 50 cents per box, 6 for $2.50, and on receipt of order for 12 boxes, accompanied with $5.00, addressed to Jas. Clarke & Co. Belleville they will forward the goods free by mail, and send their written guarantee" to refund the money, if the treatment does not effect a cure. See adv't in another column.

NARROW CHANCE OF ESCAPE.

A person exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate has little chance of escaping from colds, sore throat, rheumatism, frost bites and other troubles incident to change of temperature, to say nothing of accidents and emergencies. The best external and internal ready remedy is Hagyard's Yellow Oil.

G. M. Everest, of Forest, says that in one year one family purchased over fifty bottles of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for their own use and that of various friends. He has sold this invaluable throat and lung remedy over sixteen years, its sales are steadily increasing.

Chas. Cluthe's Patented Trusses

FOR

CURE OF RUPTURE.

St. Catharines, April 26, 1879.

My son was ruptured soon after birth. Got trusses from New York, Buffalo, etc.; did not hold rupture. Your truss not only held rupture, but cured him in nine months. Never wore a truss since. Your warmest friend

Tobias Wismer.

A I tful Case of Hernia Held, of 15 Pound.

On your trip to St. Thomas I got a truss for my wife, which, as you expressed, was a frightful case. The fact that your truss held rupture (beyond my expectations) rem the gloom from our whole family. My wife often referred to you as a public benefactor.

Tyrconnell, Ont., June 3, 1881.

Toronto, March 8, 1879.

Have been ruptured for thirty-seven years; tried almost every truss in existence; never had one to hold. The truss you adjusted held it and completely. I am working hard every day.

DOUBLE SPINAL CURVATURE.

Gilford, Ont, Nov. 9th, 1883.

To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could send your praise from shore to shore. Hoping it will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

Mrs. Thos. Kneeshaw,

P.M. Gilford, Ont.

I thought your price was great, but it is worth ten times $25. Would like to have a line from you.

In case of spine disease never consent to have the main portion of your body encased in plaster jackets; it never carried the weight above diseased part, which is the only hope and relief disease, closes the pores of a large h is and been the ruin of thousands induced to wear them. Contrast in to 12 pounds the jacket, 1 pound the Chas. Cluthe's patented perforated trusses, best in use. Not only on paper, but in fact. Call or address Chas. Cluthe, 118 King street west, Toronto.

HARD UP.

'Ah, here it is,' said my uncle, producing the card which he read aloud: 'I shall be very pleased if you will come to dine with me on Friday next, the 18th instant, at 7:30 o'clock.'

'7:30!' I said incredulously; 'then it must have been my mistake after all.'

'Judge for yourself,' said he, 'you unbeliever,' and he put the card in my hand.

There it was plain and unmistakable 7;30.

I felt myself growing crimson, then turning white as a sheet, for I saw it now; I had written 7,30 for 6.

Banks kindly came to my relief, and explained to Mr. Firefly that dinner had been ordered for six o'clock, and in consequence had been spoiled by being kept waiting, that owing to his (Mr. Firefly's) non-appearance he (Banks) had been asked in, and that at the moment of his arrival they were discussing some oysters; concluded by apologizing for having possibly caused the mistake by talking when the card was being written. I, too, chimed in, apologized in a most crestfallen manner.

'Never mind,' said my uncle, 'but I'm really sorry I spoilt your dinner, Dick. Let's have some wine and a smoke; why, bless you, I've too often gone without a dinner in my young days for it to make much difference now. Cut me a piece of that Stilton. Dick, and give me some bread and pray don't let me play the wet blanket any longer.'

The unfortunate card had fallen on the floor, and Banks now picked it up and glanced at it carelessly, then put it on the table.

Presently I saw him again take it up and examine it closely, till I wondered what he was doing. My uncle noticed it, and said laughingly.

'It's a true bill against our friend Dick, isn't it? It's 7;30 plain enough.'

'A little too plainly,' replied Banks, 'for it says something else too.'

'What do you mean?' said I and my uncle together.

'Why, some one's been playing a trick. You see, your nephew invited you for six. Well, as I was looking at the card, the light fell full on the figures 7:30, and I saw something had been erased. That made me look closer, and it's as plain as a pikestaff. Some one altered the 6 into 7;30, and Simmers is innocent after all.'

'You don't say so!' said I eagerly, taking the card from him, and putting it before uncle Richard, who looked at it fixedly through his eyeglass, and then said.

'Mr. Banks is quite right; its some fool's trick. Why, Dick, you look quite happy again. I'm afraid I made you the scapegoat when you were as innocent as I myself. The fellow has had his fun, though he doesn't know it. I'd like to have the rogue here to punish him by making him eat the dinner he ruined—eh, Dick?'

'And I owe him a grudge,' said Banks. 'When you, Mr. Firefly, came in, I felt like the jackal who ate the lion's dinner, and was fully prepared to find you most revengefully inclined.'

'All's well that ends well,' said my uncle, as he drew his chair up to the fire, and accepted Banks's timely offer of a cigar, insisting on Banks smoking one of his in return, and forcing one on me also.

How we did talk to be sure! Uncle Richard put us quite at our ease, and Banks exerted himself and made us all laugh, while I got back to my old spirits, and attacked one of Banks's pet theories in the most daring manner. My uncle sat opposite me—siding first with one and then the other—enjoying our battle keenly, and occasionally hinting mysteriously at the passage of arms between Banks and some fair unknown, which he had partly witnessed and partly heard.

Uncle Richard—no longer the terrible Richard Firefly—insisted on our coming to dinner the very next day; and, as he would take no denial, we were obliged to consent.

When my uncle had gone, we looked at one another and had a good laugh at our own expense.

'Who could have done it?' said Banks. 'It's all very well to say some one in the post office; but I don't believe people play practical jokes of this kind without a purpose, and that would be mere love of mischief.'

'Could Block have got hold of the card and altered it?' said I eagerly, as the remembrance of Banks's whiskey and its effects came across my mind. 'You know we saw him the night I sent it.'

'No,' returned Banks decisively. 'That's impossible. Had you and Block been alone together, I dare say he could have got it; but I took good care to see he didn't, for I saw he wanted to know more about your debt. You shouldn't have spoken about it.'

'But are you sure—could you swear—that no one but myself had the card, and that you saw me post it!'

'I didn't know I was to be cross-examined like this,' said Banks.

'By Jove!' I said, 'I almost believe you had a hand in it.'

Banks looked hurt, and then laughed immediately; and it was some little time before he could say.

'Yes; I swear I saw you post it; and to the best of my belief, it never was in any one's possession but your own.'

'That only makes it more a mystery than ever,' I said.

'Hang the mystery!' said Banks. 'I'm off to bed.'

We went to uncle Richard's dinner, were most hospitably treated, and our reception made so great an impression on the usually stoical Banks that he could only describe my uncle as a 'stunner.'

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

SCIENCE.

To increase the weight of the body invigorate the system, revitalize the exhausted and depressed, is the true object sought by medical science. The digestive organs must be in a healthy condition if we wish to secure this desired result, and no remedy yet discovered has ever proved so effectual in accomplishing this as FLAX-SEED EMULSION COMP. It contains Phosphorus to build up the nervous system and all the fat producing properties of FLAX-seed to enrich the blood and supply the animal economy with the elements for reconstruction.

Use the imperial kidney and Liver Cure—price 50c.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines brepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. Those marked with an asterisk attended very irregularly, or were absent from written examinations. Preparation of tasks and home work are important factors in determining the standing of pupils. Parents will please see that their children prepare their lessons at home. Those who are taking book-keeping should be at school every day, as their absence hinders the progress of others.

ABOUT A RAZOR.

'Every barber has his pet razor,' said a Detroit barber. 'Whenever a beard comes in that can't be touched by any of the regular working razors the barber takes out his box and picks out his favorite razor. The barber believes that that particular razor will cut any beard, and its previous performances makes this belief reasonable. Gradually he begins to respect that razor and to devote especial care to it. When it goes back on him he is lost. He almost believes that the razor is a thing of life. Why, I have seen barbers accuse another of 'hoodooing' their pet razor.'

'What is the matter with the barber's razor? I see he is soaking it in hot water,' said the reporter.

'Cold weather and undue exposure. The edge of a razor is a very delicate thing. Heat and cold affect it. Under a strong magnifying glass, the edge of a razor which has been exposed to the cold would seem like a saw. Hot water throws the little particles back into place and makes the edge smooth. A sudden change in the weather always effects the razors in a barber shop and the tempers of the barbers.'

A CHILD'S SACRIFICE.

A young man who had been on a three days' debauch wandered into the reading room of an hotel where he was well known sat down, and looked timidly into the street. Presently a little girl about ten years old came in and looked timidly about the room, and she went to each one begging. One gentleman gave her a five cent piece, and she went to the gentleman spoken of and asked him for a penny adding:—

'I havn't had anything to eat for a whole day.'

The gentleman was out of humour, and he said crossly:—'Don't bother me; I haven't had anything to eat for three days.'

The child opened her eyes in shy wonder, and stared at him for a moment and walked slowly towards the door. She turned the knob and then after hesitating a few seconds, walked up to him and gently laying the five cents on his knee, said with tone of true girlish pity in her voice:—

'If you haven't had anything to eat for three days you take this and go and buy some bread. Perhaps I can get more somewhere.'

The young man blushed to the roots of his hair, and lifting the child in his arms kissed her two or three times in delight.

Then he took her to the other persons in the room, and those in the corridor and office, and told the story and asked contributions, giving himself all the money he had with him. He succeeded in raising over forty dollars, and sent the little girl on her way rejoicing.—Philadelphia Call.

VISIT TO BELLEVILLE.

The surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute, offices at Montreal and Toronto, will be at the Dafoe House, Belleville, Jan. 28, 29, 30 and 31, where physicians and sufferers can consult them and test the merits of the new and wonderful instrument, the Spirometer, invented by Dr. M. Souvielle, of Paris Ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army for the special treatment of Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Consumption in the first and second stages, and all diseases of the nose, throat, and lungs. Consultation free. For further particulars, address International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church St., Toronto.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be re of getting the best made.

It is a HOME COMPANY, so that every dollar it receives from its patrons is securely invested in our own country.

It is a PROGRESSIVE COMPANY, for while the assets in December, 1870 were only $6,216.00, at the close of 1882 they reached the handsome sum of $427,429.00.

A CUSTOMS UNION.

In another column a correspondent complains of a lack of effort on the part of Canadian public men to secure reciprocal trade with the United States. Our correspondent seems to forget that the principle of reciprocity in trade has been affirmed and that when Sir Leonard Tilley promulgated his tariff he declared it was only to last till such time as we could trade on an equality, as he put it, with the neighboring Republic.

Mr. Townshend of Illinois has introduced in the House of Representatives a joint resolution which, the New York Sun thinks, is inspired by a higher purpose than most of the measures that are proposed in legislative bodies, the preamble to which reads:

> "Joint resolution requesting the President to invite the co-operation of the Government of American Nations in securing the establishment of free commercial intercourse among those Nations and an American Customs Union.
> The establishment of free commercial intercourse among the nations now existing upon the continent of America will promote the friendly political relations, internal commerce and industry, and secure a more extensive market for the surplus products of each of said nations."

What is desired is the arrangement of a common basis of import duties from other countries than those which may compose said league, and that the commercial intercourse among the people of all the American States may be freed from the payment of any customs or other dues whatever, and that a common system of weights and measures may be also established for the purpose of facilitating such intercourse.

Our high tariff having failed to lessen our trade with the United States which is now larger than ever before why should we not take steps to remove unnatural barriers to commerce and promote the trade which, however much you seek to kill it, continues to grow and flourish!

Right as our correspondent is in his desire for larger liberty in commercial transactions he is all wrong in asserting that Confederation and the C.P.R. were a mistake. Neither the one or the other is a mistake. The duty of the older Provinces was to see that the new North-west was opened up and served with a railroad as soon as possible. We think that the country has been put to an enormous and unnecessary cost for the railway which is being built in a way that is oppressive to the people, but the necessity for the road was admitted by all parties.

HIS NORTH-WEST TRIP.

Mr. John White, ignorant of the domicile of Nicholas Flood Davin, attacked the home of that journalistic free lance during a visit to the North-West. Mr. White abused Regina but acknowledged that he had never been there. He had, however, been to Moose Jaw, and the jealous Moose Jawites kindly gave Mr. White a certificate of Regina's character. The Regina Leader commences its respects to Mr. White as follows:—

> "Mr. John White, M. P., is a good sort of a fellow. The best thing that can be said for him is that he is Grand Master of the Loyal Orange Body of Ontario."
> "Some humorist thought it would be a rare quip to send John White, M. P., east stuffed to the neck. Having been so stuffed we have no desire though sorely tempted to roast him. If he were done brown it would be no more than he deserves. But the pity of it! We honor him as the leader of a remarkable body of men —and there he goes and makes himself a butt for every witling who may think it rare sport to break a sarcasm on his historic brow. We hope for his own sake he will hold his tongue about the North-West."

This is intimidation, and the Grand Lodge ought forthwith to summon Mr. Davin to the bar.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A BRANCH of the Society for the Prevention of Vice should be established in Regina, N. W. T., judging from the following remark in the Regina Leader:— "We protest against P. O. officials taking the best part of our papers."

TRAMPS can take courage from the luck in which one of the roadside fraternity fell the other day in Virginia. Nellie Haslitt, a belle of Moundeville, and heiress to considerable property, eloped with and married a tramp named James Howard. Old Virginia may now look for an influx of tramps.

THE MAN MEREDITH, a Philadelphia lawyer, who for years was incarcerated in an American lunatic asylum, and obtained a hearing before a judge and jury has obtained a verdict and freedom. His plea to the jury was full of logical reasoning and his pathetic eloquence is said to have moved both judge and jury to tears. The trial lasted eight days and Meredith acted as his own counsel.

WHEN the Dominion Government is so ready to seize even Paine's political writings lest they be tainted with immorality, why do they permit the infamous publication entitled "Sara Barnum" to be brought into Canada by hundreds! This highly immoral work is being passed through by Mr. Bowell who would raise his hands in holy horror at the "Age of Reason" about which there is no immorality whatever. The "law" which was so often appealed to at Montreal and Toronto is now being plainly violated.

WE WERE SURE we were right in attributing to the writer in the Hamilton Spectator an ambition to qualify for Mr. Griffin's shoes. Listen to this:—

> "These wretched men and their partners in guilt will shortly stand at the bar of justice to answer for their offences against the laws of the country."

Truly Griffinism is on the increase. These are the same "Bull Pups" and "Sluggers" whom the people of this Province have recently elected to govern the country for the next four years, and who retain the confidence of the vast majority of the people.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

A Division taken and the Government Sustained by Twelve.

In the Legislature yesterday the Debate on the Address was concluded, Mr. Meredith speaking again and Mr. Hardy replying. Mr. Meredith moved in amendment to the 6th clause of the Address:—'We are of opinion that while we should firmly maintain the right of the Provincial Legislatures to regulate the traffic in intoxicating liquors, as they have heretofore exercised it, steps should at once be taken with a view to the immediate reference of the question of the constitutionality of the Dominion License Act, and its effect (if any) upon the laws of the Province regulating the traffic in intoxicating liquors, for determination by the proper legal tribunal having authority finally to determine the matter in controversy.

Mr. Hardy in amendment to this moved that there be added to the sixth paragraph of the resolution the words following: 'And we hasten to assure your Honour that we believe it to be the duty of the Government to take all necessary steps to firmly maintain the constitutional and legislative rights of the Province to regulate and control the liquor traffic.'

A vote was taken on the amendment to the amendment a 1:45 with the following result:—

YEAS.—Awrey, Badgerow, Balfour, Ballantyne, Baxter, Blezard, Caldwell, Cascaden, Chisholm, Dowling, Drury, Dryden, Ferris, Fraser, Freeman, Gibson, (Huron), Gillies, Gould, Graham, Hagar, Harcourt, Hardy, Hart, Laidlaw, Lyon, McCraney, McIntyre, McKenzie, McLaughlin, McMahon, Master, Morin, Mowat, Murray, O'Connor, Pardee, Phelps, Rayside, Ross, (Huron), Ross (Middlesex), Sills, Snider, Waters, Widdifield, Young.—45.

NAYS.—Baskerville, Blythe, Brereton, Broder, Carnegie, Clancy, Clarke (Toronto) Creighton, Denison, Ermaninger, French, Grey, Hammell, Hudson, Kerr, Lauder, Lees, McGhee, McKay, Meredith, Merrick, Metcalf, Monk, Morgan, Morris, Mulholland, Preston, Robillard, Roe, Ross, (Cornwall), Waite, Wilmot, Wood.—33.

Mr. Gibson, of Hamilton, paired with Mr. Kerns, McKim, with Mr. Hess, and Mr. Bishop (South Huron) with Mr. Fell. Mr. Nelson was absent.

Mr. Morris moved in amendment to the 8th paragraph of the Address, that the following be substituted for the paragraph, "That we observe with satisfaction that Your Honor's advisers have abandoned their determination to take and retain possession by force of the disputed territory. We regret that Your Honor has been advised to consent to terms for the partial settlement of the Boundary question less favorable to the Province than were formerly offered by the Federal authorities, and rejected by Ontario. And we are of opinion that no arrangement will be satisfactory to the people of this Province which does not provide for a settlement of the northerly as well as the westerly boundary, and a final and binding decision as to the validity of the claim of the Dominion of the ownership of the territory.

Mr. Harcourt moved in amendment to the amendment that all the words after "that" be struck out and the following be added:—"Meanwhile believing the territory in dispute originally belongs to and forms part of Ontario, we confidently await the decision of the Privy Council in favor of this Province."

The amendment to the amendment was carried upon the same division as Mr Hardy's amendment.

All the remaining clauses in the reply were then carried and the address was carried "on division."

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

JOHN WHITE EXPLAINS.

John White, M.P., indignantly repudiates the idea that the Orange Bill was committed to the management of Mr. H. Cameron with his knowledge and consent. He knew nothing about the change of plans until he returned from the North West, and then he says "he was surprised and disgusted." We hope Mr. White will be true to his pledges to the Orangemen of this city, that he will see that the Orange Bill is introduced and disposed of by Parliament or know the reason why.—Kingston Whig.

A PROTEST AGAINST MURDER.

It is not for the sake of Alexander III of Russia and Fracis Joseph of Austria—though we know of no reason why even these men shoul be stabbed in the back—but in the name of outraged freedom and arrested progress, that honest men everywhere unite in execrating the scoundrels who under the wretched pretence of promoting liberty, have of late years been plying with baleful energy their trade of secret murder in almost ever Continental State and even in the United Kingdom.—N. Y. Sun.

THE C. P. R. APPLICATION.

The Monetary Times does not look with much favor on the latest application made by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for assistance from the Dominion Government. On commercial grounds, it considers that the company is bound to complete the contract without new aid, and that any application for further assistance can only be supported on political grounds. As it cannot complete the road without more funds, the company is asked to bond the road as other companies have done, and, as it has not been done, the Times thinks that some weighty reason for the application to the Government will have to be given. It thinks that any advance should only be of a temporary character, and should be made on more than nominal security, and if possible, there should be a stipulation that at some future time the road will revert to the Government, as otherwise there is danger that any Government aid will be converted into a gift to private persons at the expense of the public.

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated, removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective.

UP THE PACIFIC.

A Fishing Excursion and What was Done and Seen.

EN ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO.

ON BOARD SHIP OFF PANAMA,
Dec. 15, 1884.

Our party is composed of Dr. Edmunson, who as I mentioned, is from Orillia, and who has been on a number of voyages on the British ships as Surgeon. He is a good friend, and being a "Canuck," we naturally came together; a Mr. Jas. Tremble, a whole-souled man whom we shall in future call our banker; a lady from Jamaica, Long Island, near New York, whom we shall call eagle eye. She is going to Yokohoma, Japan. Now for

A FISHING EXCURSION.

I go to the Spaniard, he asks $6 for three hours for himself and boat. I offer $3. He accepts. He then asks the banker $5 who is rich and pays him. We go over to the Dead Man's Island where we see a lot of fishermen hauling a net. Now for fun. You can't land a boat on the sea coast unless getting out on a native man's back or take off your boots and up with your pants above the knees. I do this and assist Mrs. L. in the way indicated. The doctor and banker jump and get their feet wet. Most of the fisherman have no clothes on, but we are, however, getting quite used to the customs of this country. But behold what fine fish. Some eight kinds are seen. The carebeno something like our white fish but much larger. We eat it and it is very fine, then the "skip Jack," of which I caught one, is white. It is both small and large weighing from two to thirty pounds. Mulletts are like our white fish in looks and size. Then they had our mud cat here but he of all the native fishes has certainly put on the prettiest coat. It is of a pure white silver skin and if his eyes and horns were not natural I would not have known him. We find a gardener on this island and we call on him. First I gather papanes, bananas, cocoa nuts, plantines and other fruits all around his house and eat them in his hut, where we find all sorts of curiosities. But for a poor man I never saw anyone with such a number of dogs. There were five large ones and seventeen puppies and all could wag their tails. No wonder that this is a poor man's paradise. We look at the canes as we go on and the cactus and flowers and wish we could enjoy a sail with the canvass top over us to keep off the hot sun. I am bare-footed in the sand picking up shells and find it very warm. Bathing to-day on this island is grand. But if a shark comes along and you get far out he can just take off a leg or take you whole and one swimmer they say is a good breakfast for him. Our banker caught some fish and we returned back to the ship, having had a good time and having seen sights which I fail to picture to you. Just as we were nearing the ship I saw a yard and garden full of what they call turkey buzzards. They are good scavengers as they eat up all the filth in the front yard (they have no back yards in this country,) and what seems odd to me is that their size and looks are like our small turkey-hen.

CAUGHT A SHARK.

To-day is very warm—84° in the shade. In the afternoon I go down and see "Bob", a big Jamaica nigger. He is fishing. I find this is no place for the laboring man. One dollar seventy-five cents per day, and everything very high, is against him. I hold the line for Bob, when I see a move and in we haul a "skip-jack weighing nineteen pounds. There is no use talking, this beats Ox Point fishing. Now we put on the line a fish about the size of a sun fish for bait, and settle down again, but I find the big line a-going again and spring up. So does Bob, but no go. A few minutes before we saw a shark's fin some 100 yards from us, and when Bob got his hand cut with the line running through it and it was snapped of he said the d——d shark had got his hook. So bye-bye fishing.

Dec. 14.—Our trim little ship is steaming away toward 'Frisco at the rate of thirteen knots and we are pleased with her steady sailing and her engines are running very smooth. She is new, having only made four trips. We have our own bath-rooms, and it is a luxury to have a bath every morning in this sea water which is at a temperature of 78°. Our ice, alas, is very scarce, but with lots of fruit we hope our eighteen days sail will come out all O. K. The coast as we pass along is very hilly. Soon we see the many mountains. This is New Granada and is the Cherokee Coast, all under the Columbian Government.

Saturday, 15th.—A nice morning. We passed the "San Jose" our sister ship from 'Frisco. You pronounce Jose as "Hosea", as "J" in "H" in English. The temperature is 82° to-day. We passed Cape Blance and ran 267 miles to-day. The last port is where our passengers leave for the city of Guatamala. It is about 60 miles up the country, 3,000 above the level of the sea, has 60,000 of a population and is the capital of the Republic.

The negotiations with Portugal as regards trade on the Congo river have resulted in a convention. The treaty of commerce with Corea is important to British trade. Diplomatic relations with Mexico have been renewed. The policy of Great Britain in regard to Egypt has not been changed. The direct authority of the Imperial Governmen over Basutoland has been resumed. The progress of peace and prosperity in Ireland is satisfactory. The enlargement of the franchise will produce beneficial effects. The speech did not make any reference to the redistribution of parliamentary seats. PARLIAMENTARY NOTES.

In the Commons on Monday the following dialogue occurred:—

Sir John Macdonald moved the adjournment.

Mr. Blake—Will the hon. gentleman say what business he will take up to-morrow?

Sir John Macdonald—The Canadian Pacific Railway resolution.

Mr. Blake—There is much information upon the subject not yet brought bown, and that which has been presented has not been distributed. It will be unreasonable to press the resolutions under the circumstances.

Sir John Macdonald—It is certainly the intention of the Minister of Railways to press the resolutions.

Accordingly the resolutions were moved yesterday, by Sir Charles Tupper.

He reviewed the statements submitted by the Company regarding their position, and contended that it was in the interest of the country to grant the increased subsidies. He spoke until recess, and resuming at 8 o'clock, he announced that the Government had resolved to discontinue the monopoly provisions in the North-West as soon as the road around Lake Superior was completed. This was the most important part of his speech. He was followed by Mr. Blake who spoke for three hours and a half to a closely attentive House.

DR. WILSON'S CASE.

A reporter of the N. Y., Sun, interviewed Rev. Dr. Wilson who said. Here is a letter from Bishop Lewis, of Ottawa, on the subject. He says to me:

'I do not see how you can with self-respect or regard to honor accede to the conditions imposed by the Dean. that you give up all connection with the Salvation Army. I am not willing to arrange with the Dean to give you Christ Church, Cataraqui, which your own energy has built up, as a separate charge, or to license you to preach as an evangelist in Kingston on the ground that it is beyond my power to do so.

'I am informed,' Dr. Wilson continued, 'that my congregation will give me a public reception on my return to Kingston on Feb. 11, to settle up my affairs. I feel confident that if I remained there to preach a majority of the worshippers at the Cathedral would join my church.'

Henry Clement Almonte. writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it. I began to use it both externally and inernally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equal.

The Kingston Whig has an occasional correspondent in Belleville, who writes the most extraordinary stuff to that excellent journal. Mrs, Ludgate states there is not a word of truth in the statement. There is no necessity for a Bellevillian making his fellow-citizens appear ridiculous, as the Toronto papers thought fit to accept the statement and pay for it.

A meeting of the Kirk Session was held in the John Street Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon to settle the present trouble existing among members of the Shannonville Church in regard to the introduction of an organ into that Church. He still protests against the use of the organ, and insists that he should be allowed to remove it from the church. It was found impossible to arrive at a mutual settlement in the matter, and the Presbytery will be asked to take the case in hand.

AN INPIOUS UPSTART.

At the opening of the new barracks in St. Thomas on Saturday, the following occurs in the report by the Times:—

Happy Bill expressed a desire to have a window put in his soul in order that everyone might see how he felt inside. He already had a sign there, "No admittance except on business," and the Devil had no business there under the new management. Previously Old Nick used to make him do devilish things, and would then go into a corner and grin at him. Since he had become a soldier he had been considered a bit of a crank, but as a matter of fact he was a real first-class, double-jointed, hallelujah dare-devil for the Lord Jesus, with whom he was in constant telephonic communication.

Mrs. A. Nelson, Brantford writes: 'I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years, Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankfull to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

RECIPROCAL TRADE.

SIR,—It is strange that while so many newspapers in Ontario depend chiefly on the support of farmers and laborers, and that of the merchant and mechanic whose interests are identified with those of the agricultural community not one is found to come squarely out in the interests of these, certainly not unimportant classes.

The natural market for by far the greater part of the produce of Ontario is in the Eastern and Central American States; that this is the case is proved by the fact that the trade between the two countries is continually increasing in the face of duties put on with the avowed purpose of reducing it.

The Ontario farmer has to pay 20 to 25 per cent. for the privilege of selling on the U. S. market, and is also forced to pay an artificially increased price of from 25 to 40 per cent. on the greater part of what he buys. Interested parties may and do talk to him about the duty being paid by the producer or the consumer, as it happens to suit their views, but he is at last beginning to see that the U. S. market is too large to be appreciably affected by the free admittance of Ontario's produce, and he also understands that the lack of a sufficiently large market prevents the Canadian manufacturer from producing his goods to the best advantage.

The Tory press subsidized as it is by the classes who benefit by the present system cannot be expected to do anything; but the Liberal papers seem to be almost as bad, as they only propose a very slight reduction of the duties on this side, and do not make the slightest move towards that reciprocal trade with the rest of the continant which is so urgently needed in the interest of nine-tenths of the people of Ontario Nor is this all. When the infamous bargain with the C. P. R. was consumated a couple of years ago, the Reform press was unanimous in condemning the grossly unfair bargain made with the Syndicate, and prophesized the result of the arrangement then made with a precision that has not been equalled since the time of Daniel, and the rest of the Old Testament prognosticators. Now that the bubble has burst, the general sentiment of the Reform press appears to be that if the yeomanry of Ontario are to have their farms mortgaged to the extent of from twenty-five to fifty millions more, measures must be taken to protect the interests of Manitoba and British Columbia.

Neither the press nor the leaders of the Liberal party has the manliness to come out fairly and tell the people of Ontario that this C. P. R. business is none of their funeral, and that even if the road were built it would need a still further drain on their purses to keep it running. Let us have the courage and manliness to own candidly that the whole business of confederation and the C. P. R. is a mistake and a failure, and try to make the best of a bad bargain. For every man that would be lost to the Liberal party by this course, at least two would be gained from the Tories, and when once the issue was fairly placed before the people the result would not be long in doubt.

JOTTINGS FROM STIRLING.

PERSONALS — BUSINESS CHANGES — SOCIAL EVENTS—DEATH OF A RESPECTED RESIDENT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

STIRLING, Feb. 6.—The roads leading into our village were in a very bad condition last week, at present they are considerable better.

There was an unusually large amount of wood came in to the village yesterday.

Miss Ida Wilson expects to leave here on Thursday to attend the Ladies College at Whitby.

Mr. Wylis, who was injured by the Grand Junction railway accident, is at the Stirling House yet, and is doing very well under the circumstances.

Mr. H. S. Ferguson, proprietor of the livery has been confined to his bed with erysipelas, during the past week. His many friends here will be glad to hear of his speedy recovery.

The tea-meeting at the C M. Church, Springbrook, Monday evening, proved to be a grand success, both socially and financially. They realized about $100—and on Tuesday evening they had a social, at which they realized $15.

The Agricultural Society of Rawdon had an Oyster Supper one evening last week at Harold, which, I understadd, did not prove a great success owing to the bad condition of the roads.

On Wednesday evening the 6th inst. there will be a Tea Meeting in the C. M. Church here. Several prominent speakers are expected to be present and the ladies has put forth an effort to make it a grand success.

Mr. Wm. Montgomery, who came from Winnipeg recently, and is a former resident of this place, has purchased the carriage shops nearly opposite the Stirling House, from Mr C. F. Stickles, who intend to run an extensive business in the spring. Mr. John Joyce, a former lessee of the business, will retain his position in the blacksmith shop. May the new manager meet with success in his undertaking.

Mr. James French, section foreman on the G. J. R. died yesterday morning at his residence, of inflammation of the lungs. He was ill only a few days and was apparently a healthy man. He was a gentleman highly respected by every person who had the privilege of his acquaintance. He was an officer and active member of Stirling Lodge A. F. & A. M. and a general favorite among the brethren. The Lodge deeply mourns the loss of an honorable and worthy member; I believe he was also a member of the Orange Order. Great sympathy is felt for his widow in her bereavement. The funeral will take place on Thursday at 10 a. m.

Mr. W. R. Lazier bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes: 'I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stables. I have used it for bruises, scratches wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gives the best satisfaction, We used it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., it is a perfect panacea. It will remove warts by paring them down and applying it occasionally.'

Health is a duty, Disease a crime. Use Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters and be cured of all biliousness or liver trouble. 25 cents will buy a large bottle.

CURE FOR CHILBLAINS.

Bathe the feet for ten or fifteen minutes in water as hot as can be borne; then apply Hagyard's Yellow Oil and a cure is certain. Yellow Oil cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Deafness Lameness, and pain generally and internally cures Colds, Sore Throat, Croup, Asthma, and many painfull affections.

FOXBORO' NEWS.

SUDDEN ILLNESS OF A CLERGYMAN—SOME PERSONAL POINTS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

FOXBORO', Feb. 6.—While the Rev. E. L. Betts, M. E. Minister of Napanee, who is visiting his relatives in this vicinity, was administering the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, in the C. M. Church, Foxboro', he was suddenly prostrated by a fit. Dr. D. W. Faulkner was summoned, and after a lapse of some time, the rev. gentleman was taken to the house of Mr. John Crawford, where every kindness was shown him.

Mr. Betts is looked upon as the founder of the M. E. Church in this place, and on Sabbath evening next, he will, if far enough restored, occupy the pulpit. He has been a travelling minister for about 28 years, is a logical reasoner, presents a fine appearance on the platform, and his clear cut arguments always strike home.

Mr. Sanford Griffin, brother of Mr. Milton Griffin, is here on a visit among his many friends. He has been living for the last eighteen years in Missouri. He is as hale, hearty and jolly as ever. We are glad to see his face once more. Foxboro' has greatly improved, he says, since his removal.

Mrs. Bigelow, from the same place, is visiting her brother, Mr. Wm. Smith, who has been so very very ill.

I am glad to report Mr. Smith's condition greatly changed for the better.

QUARTERLY MEETING—NON-ATTENDANCE AT SCHOOL—HOTEL SOLD—BAD ACCIDENT—PERSONALS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ROSSMORE, Feb. 6.—The annual quarterly meeting of the Dempsey appointment was held in the church on Monday evening. The deputation consisted of Rev. Messrs. Howard, Fish, and Cragg.

The annual meeting of the T. & B. Q. Nav. Co. (limited) will likely be held at Rednerville on Thursday, 28th.

Mrs. Brewer has sold her hotel, the "Russell House," at Rednerville, to Mr. McMullen, of Hasting, for $1,150. Mr. McMullen is a marble dealer.

A good deal of complaint seems to be made throughout the Township just now on account of many children old enough to attend school that do not. The trustees or Inspector should take the matter in hand.

A great many people in this place heartily approve of a permanent assessor for many reasons. It is a fact beyond dispute that assessors without experience are better prepared to assess the second year than the first. I hope the Council of this place will consider this another year.

Yesterday while James and Adelbert Roblin were threshing corn at the barn of H. Wellbanks, in this place, the latter caught his hand in the cylinder while feeding and cut off the ends of three fingers and thumb. The wounded hand was carefully dressed by Mrs. Welbanks. In his misfortune "Dell" has the sympathy of everyone, and it is to be hoped that he will be able to use his hand in a short time.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Samuel Rebdick is suffering with three cancers.

Mrs Allen, of Toronto, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Roblin.

Mr. S. S. Morden, now in Adrian, Mich., writes his health is improving.

SALVATION ARMY.

To the Editor of the Daily News.

SIR.—The letter of "Fidelis," which appeared in your issue of the 1st instant, is no doubt correct as to the sympathy at one time extended to the Salvation Army by the authorities and members of the Church in England, where the movement had been regarded as a pioneers work only, and that "General Booth" would subsequently hand over his adherents to the churches. But more recent accounts shew that the tide has turned and the "General" is more anxious to find another "ism" with theological formulas no longer "colourless," but of a distinct hue decidedly in contrast with those of the church, and which with the delirious actions of many of its members, the discrediting means resorted to in order to advertise itself and obtain money, has turned the feeling of sympathy of disgust, and the consideration once accorded to it in the outset, now finds a revulsion, as expressed in Convocation in England, where it was said: "That not only was the 'army' doing no spiritual good, but that its course was likely to lead to a reaction which would be most dangerous to religion, and therefore there would be sufficient grounds to justify the church in declining to work with it." Though we may not have seen in this country all that is complained of with respect to the army in England, yet it may be but a matter of time to develope itself here, when we will find that the same principles which emanate from the autocrat mind and government of Booth, will be imported into Canada, the tendency of which is to reject and oppose all church organization and ordinances even when explicitly ordered by by God Himself. We mustnot be surprised then that churchmen like the Bishops in Convocation, Lord Shaftsbury, and even Spurgeon, would form an opinion of profound distrust regarding the Army, and that the direct good attributed to it would on account of the evil with which it is mixed, finally end in disappointment, and in the meantime feel alarmed at any clergyman so stultifying his former teaching as to identify himself with an organization whereby the integrity of the Church which he represented would be compromised, and the Apostolical doctrines on which it is founded, be brought into contempt to the confusion of the weak and the detriment of true religion.

THE WINTER CARNIVAL.

The Govenor-General Passes under an Arch of Living Snowshoers.

IMMENSE CROWDS AND ENTHUSIASM.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—The second Montreal carnival, which overshadows in interest here every other event or consideration has opened under the most auspicious circumstances possible. Montreal is in holiday attire. The wholesale houses were closed, and long before the arrival of the Canada Atlantic special bearing the Vice-Regal party a fittingly termed "living arch" bearing hundreds of snowshoers, male and female, in varied blanket costume, according to the colours of clubs, was surrounded above and below for nearly a quarter of a mile each way with spectators. This large open air assemblage was entertained for about an hour with popular choruses by snowshoers. On the top of each tower of the centre arch were arranged pyramidal platforms for snowshoers, who stood in tiers to the number of half a dozen, and the steps were concealed by evergreens, so that the effect from the bottom to the top was most artistic. At the corner of each was arranged a star of snowshoes, and overhead a scroll worked of toboggans bearing the motto of Fitzmaurice's, "Virtute non Vebis," and underneath on either side in letters, also contrived in snowshoes, the device, "Welcome". The distinguished visitors slowly wended their way through the dense cheering crowds, from whence come bouquets and other equally beautiful salutations. At the Windsor the Mayor and aldemen presented the city's address to which His Excellency made a characteristically neat, witty, and appropriate reply.

Montreal was favored with pleasant weather yesterday for its great ice carnival and the numerous outdoor sports were the centre of attraction for the visitors. His Excellency and Lady Lansdowne visited McGill University, where they were presented with addresses of welcome from the college authorities and the Art Association Lord Lansdowne afterwards visited the curling rinks, and in the evening the vice-regal party attended the Hun, Club Ball. There was rain in the afternoon.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STEWART.

Kidney-Wort proved to be a great blessing and has completely cured her.

NARROW CHANCE OF ESCAPE.

A person exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate has little chance of escaping from colds, sore throat, rheumatism, frost bites and other troubles incident to change of temperature, to say nothing of accidents and emergencies The best external and internal ready remedy is Hagyard's Yellow Oil.

Gilford, Ont, Nov. 9th, 1883.
To Mr. Cluthe:—
Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could sound your praise from shore to shore. Hoping [illegible] will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

HARD UP.

In this definition I could not but concur when on the following Tuesday, while Banks was drinking tea with me, Edith brought me a letter from uncle Richard. It was as follows:—

'Dear Dick: I forgot when your birthday is but hope you will accept the enclosed as a small birthday present.—Yours,
'R. FIREFLY.'

The small present was a check for fifty pounds. I'm afraid Banks was more intent on Edith's face than mine; but at that precise moment my look of delighted surprise must have made me look quite handsome, for I found her eyes fixed on me, and not on him, as she left the room.

The rest can be imagined; but I may mention that, when I paid Hurdler his fifty pounds, I made two resolutions, which I have kept faithfully ever since. The first is never to bet; and the second never to use post-cards.

Ten days or so had elapsed since the famous dinner-night, and I had quite given up all ideas of ever finding out who altered my card, when Banks appeared and said briskly. 'I've found the culprit. What's the reward?'

'There's some wine; have some, and be quick and tell me. I'm dying to know.'

'Oh, that's all very fine, but a secret improves by being kept, you know.'

'Now be a good fellow, and out with it.'

'Have three guesses first. Who did it?'

'You?' said I quickly.

'No.'

'Edith?'

'No.'

'Firefly himself?' cried I, anxious to have my guesses over, and to hear the truth.

'No,' said Banks triumphantly; it was Block.

'But you said he never had the card, didn't you?'

'Now listen to me, and I'll explain everything. Like you, I'd given the thing up as hopeless. Well, last night who should come to see me but our friend Block. Of course I'd suspected him, as you did, first of all, but had concluded he couldn't have done it for want of an opportunity. But the very first words he said made me prick up my ears, for he asked how your dinner to your uncle went off. After that I felt certain he did it, so I assumed his guilt and asked him what the deuce he meant by playing you such a scurvy trick. I never did anything better in my life. He flushed up instantly, and blurted out, 'How did you come to find it out?' However, I made him confess and talked him into writing you an apology, for I told him you'd horsewhip him, if he didn't. He was quite scared, I assure you.'

'Well, I am surprised, Banks. I can't see now how he did it.'

'Nor could I tell he told me. You remember you posted the card in a pillarbox, and we said good night to one another there. It was about two o'clock. Block was smarting under the insults you'd heaped on him, so he said to me yesterday, and was ready to do anything in revenge. What do you think he did? He loitered about till three a.m., when the postman came to clear the pillar-box, and then he went up to him and said he had posted a card with a wrong address on it. Of course the postman was, suspicious, and refused point-blank to let him look at the contents of the box. But Block was one too many for him. He gave the name 'Richard Firefly' (you remember he heard you mention it), and added, 'Calcutta Gardens', when we saw the postman had found the card. A shilling changed hands, and the deed was done. Block took the card home carefully erased the 6 and replaced it by 7:30, and that's the whole story. I never should have thought Block had such a brain for plotting. It was in revenge for having to carry, or fall under, you down stairs.'

'Fancy Block doing that!' said I. 'I'd like to have come up just as he was bribing the postman. I'd have given him in charge for tampering with a Government official. Let's read his letter of apology.' It was as follows:—

'Dear Simmers: I hope you won't be hard on me for playing a practical joke on you. I'm heartily ashamed of what I have done, and wish to make you all the reparation in my power by a full and ample apology. Yours, SIDNEY BLOCK.

He'd hardly write that of his own accord would he?'

'Not he,' said Banks; 'I dictated that to him at the point of a red-hot poker; and when he was disposed to demur to my words. I had only to flourish the poker and threaten to call you in, and he was as quiet a lamb.'

'Well, Banks, I'm awfully obliged to you for all the pains you've taken to get me fifty pounds; and as for Block, I don't feel any animosity towards him, as with all his newly-acquired cunning he showed himself so little a man of the world as to give a shilling for a card out of which he made nothing, while I, with the same card, made fifty pounds.'—London Society.

[THE END.]

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligtnt eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In [illegible] way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefits which are derived from the use of the treatment. LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines brepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint. ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883.

Mr W. LUMBERS, SR, Toronto Ont, Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending o all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monckton, County Perth, Ont., July 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better, I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. IT IS NOT WHAT YOU EAT, BUT what you digest, that maintains the nutrition of the body. There may be Dyspepsia without apparent stomach troubles, as those pallid, anæmic cases with general debility and want of nerve power for positive evidence of systematic impoverishment from failure of the DIGESTIVE APPARATUS to convert food enough into blood to supply the daily want of the body. THE RIBBON BLUE.

He took her hand a moment, for
He'd come to say good-bye.
The color faded from her cheek,
The sparkle left her eye;
She stitched a ribbon on his breast,
How fast her fingers flew,
'Promise, darling, not to drink.
And wear this strip of blue.

Wear it always on your breast,
A sweet remind of me;
Have it always full in sight,
Where every one may see;
Remember, always bear in mind,
Whatever you may do,
'Twas I who stitched upon your breast
This little badge of blue.

'Tis better far to take the pledge
From me who love you so,
And surely you will keep it, dear,
Wherever you may go;
And every night I'll kneel and pray
That you may keep it true;
And never bring disgrace upon
My little badge of blue.'

He kissed her trembling lips, and then
He tore himself away,
And keeps the token sweet she gave.
And wears it every day,
And all the world is open wide
For him to dare and do,
And just because he never failed
His little badge of blue.

A SONG OF LOVE.

From the February Century.

Hey, rose, just born
Twin to a thorn:
Wasn't so with you, oh Love and Scorn?

Sweet eyes that smiled,
Not wet and wild;
O Eye and Tear,—mother and child.

Well: Love and Pain
Be kinsfolk twain;
Yet would, oh, would I could love again!

VERY GOOD SUGGESTIONS.

Remember the golden rule.

Never dispute with a woman.

Foster cheerfulness without too much levity.

Never jest or be witty at the expense of others.

Respect age and do not dispute with an old person.

Before condemning search for condoning circumstances.

Say as little as possible of yourself and those near to you.

Never indulge in levity when people are engaged in worship.

Remember that to dispute with an enthusiast is labor wasted.

Never ridicule sacred things or what others may esteem as much, however absurd they may appear to you.

Calmness and beliberation at a time of extreme irritation will do away with a great deal of after self-condemnation.

ONLY ONE ARM.

'I've got some good news,' said a handsome Philadelphia girl to her companion, who was visiting her from out of town.

'What is it?' she asked breathlessly.

'Why, George and his friend, Mr. Smith from New York—that delightful gentleman we met last evening, you know—have invited us to take a sleigh-ride to-night.'

'Am I to ride with Mr. Smith?'

'Yes.'

'But he has only one arm,'

'That doesn't make any difference. George says he is accustomed to horses and can drive with one arm just as well as he can with two.'

'It makes a great deal of difference,' said the young lady from out of town. 'One cannot find any pleasure sleigh-riding with a one-armed gentleman unless'—and here her face lighted up hopefully—'she drives herself.'

BRONCO SAM.

From Puck.

Speaking about cowboys, Sam Stewart, known from Montana to Old Mexico as Bronco Sam, was the chief. His special delight was to break the warlike heart of the vicious wild pony of the plains, and make him the servant of man.

There may be joy in a wild gallop across the boundless plains, in the crisp morning, on the back of a fleet bronco; but when you return with your ribs sticking through your vest, and find that your nimble steed has returned to town about two hours ahead of you, there is a tinge of sadness about it all.

Bronco Sam, however, made a specialty of doing all the riding himself. He wouldn't enter into any compromise and allow the horse to ride him,

In a reckless moment he offered to bet ten dollars that he could mount and ride a wild Texan steer. The money was put up. That settled it. Sam never took water. This was true in a double sense. Well, he climed the cross bar of the carrol gate, and asked the other boys to turn out their best steer, Marquis of Queensberry rules.

As the steer passed out, Sam slid down and wrapped those paranthetical legs of his around that high-headed, broad-horned brute, and he rode him till the fleet footed animal fell down on the buffalo grass, ran his hot red tongue out across the blue horizon, shook his tail convulsively, swelled up sadly and died.

It took Sam four days to walk back.

A ten dollar bill looks as large to me as the Star Spangled Banner, sometimes; but that is an avenue of wealth that had not occurred to me.

I'd rather ride a buzz saw at two dollars a day and found. BILL NYE.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mason—Dr. M. Souville & Co. Gentelmen.—Yours of last week to hand and in reply to your inquiry I am much pleased in stating that from the first time of using the spirometer and medicine I have improved very much. The bronchitis has entirely left me. I sleep well and have a good appetite. I must also add, that coming to you as I did as a last resort, the cure effected has been wonderful.

Greatefully yours. MRS. E. MASON.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

THE HIGH COMMISSIONERSHIP.

The curious spectacle is to be observed in the House of Commons of the High Commissioner to London for Canada sitting in that Chamber as a member of the House and as Minister of Railways. The leader of the Opposition pointed out the other day that Sir A. T. G It was under one of the Departmental heads and reported to the Minister of Agriculture or Finance as the case might be It does not speak much for the management of departments and it is unfortunate that Ministers should pay so little regard to these reports that they really did not know whether they had been made or not. One of the Ministers was not in position, although two day's notice was given of the motion for the production of the Lord High Commissioner's reports, to tell whether there are any reports or not. Mr. Blake cleverly pointed out the anomaly of the arrangement. He said:—"What is to become of the High Commissionership? We are told it is a very important office, and one of growing importance; that it is an office with requires the ablest men and their utmost energies to discharge the duties. But the High Commissioner deserts his office in the month of December, comes out to Canada and will remain here some time, four or five months, no doubt, elapsing from the time of his leaving his office until his return. There is nearly half the year, therefore, during which we have no Commissioner. We have not an acting Commissioner, and there is only a clerk to discharge all the important duties. What! Are all the eggs addled? What about all the commercial treaties we have heard about during recent years? Is nothing going to happen. When I ventured to make a suggestion in regard to the office I was told that there was not a moment on which a treaty was not on the carpet; that it was necessary to have a man ready to take advantage of the first opportune moment, and that an important concession by France had been lost by only twenty-four hours delay. Yet the High Commissioner is here and can only act in London by cable."

Sir John Macdonald, confronted by these arguments of the Liberal leader's was forced to reluctantly admit that, "it would perhaps, be improper to unite these two offices for a series of years, but," he added, "for a temporary purpose their is no inconsistency." In another place the Premier said the arrangement was not yet of a permanent nature. And this is the way the highest office under the Government is tossed about for the convenience and ends of Sir Charles Topper and the Government.

WHY THE COMPANY NEED NOT RECEIVE ADDITIONAL AID.

We submit that in his speech on the C.P.R., Sir Charles Topper made an admission which is highly important. He said if the Company were given till 1891, the date for the expiration of the contract, it could without any assistance whatever complete the road. Then why not adhere to the date of the original contract and withhold the $30,000,000 asked if it is merely to enable them to complete the road by 1885? We have had the Mail pointing out that without this additional aid the Company would be ruined and the country would lose the railway and so on. Yet Sir Charles Tupper now says, as reported by the Mail:

"But, sir, the question that is submitted for the consideration of the House, and was submitted for the consideration of the Government when the guarantee was asked for upon deposited money and securities representing every dollar of it, was whether the step should be taken, not to enable the company to fulfil their obligations, but for the purpose of anticipating the time provided for the completion of the work by over five years."

This proposal to aid the Company to the extent of $30,000,000 is "not to enable the company to fulfil their obligations." What then becomes of all the cry in the Tory press? The failure of the Company would be a national calamity, said the Mail a few days ago, and it was a national duty to give them any aid they asked. Now it is not necessary to rush the road ahead through the mountains and over the bleak, uninhabited north shore of Superior if the cost is to be so enormous and the Company can do it within the time specified in the contract without additional aid. What the Northwest wants is additional railway accommodation within and about the area of settlement. The present policy of the Government in this matter will only make bad worse, commit Parliament to the principle of aiding the company come what will, and foster a spirit of reliance upon the Government in the company which should not exist in a Syndicate which was lauded as the most powerful the world could produce.

The Government is involving itself and the country in an amazing perplexity.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE PARLIAMENT of Ontario has answered the impudent taunt, "Mowat Must Go."

THE BERLIN News excels in metaphor. It contains an allegorical figure of six "trembling rats" who are trying to keep the present Provincial "ship of state" above water.

THE GOVERNMENT allows the C. P. R. Syndicate to withdraw the million dollar deposit and accepts in lieu thereof $1,600,000 of Credit Valley bonds—a road that has spent five dollars for every one it earned.

THE FOLLOWING vindication by the Imperial Privy Council of the sovereignity of the Provincial Legislatures should be borne in mind by those unpatriotic editors who are trying to aggrandise Federal power at the expense of Provincial autonomy. Their Lordships declared that the Local Legislatures were in no sense delegates of the Imperial Parliament. They were representative bodies that within the limits prescribed by the British North America Act were as supreme as the Imperial Parliament or the Parliament of the Dominion.

THE LIBERAL press is charged with "gloating" over the existing destitution. Did the Tories do no "gloating" in 1878, or by what name was it called then? Simply drawing attention to "Grit misrule" we suppose.

This is how the Hamilton Spectator "gloated" in 1878:—

"Our condition as a people is sickening and heartrending in the extreme."

And again:—

"Under the rule of Mr. Mackenzie and his incapables, wide-spread ruin, insolvency, and lack of employment have prevailed."

ANYONE who thinks that high art is not progressing rapidly in this country makes a mistake. In Montreal this evening a concert is announced by the Caughnawaga Glee club. The first number on the programme is entitled "Ste-usionsenekenteron," in which Mr. Peter Te-ka-hra-ne-ken will take the solo. An Iroquois brave named Louis Hanenaronton-kit will sing "Hatakwe Rakini." Alex. Awenarston will carol "Kanekeunekenoronkwa," and a solo entitled "Taiataskono onkwakwe" will be warbled by Louis Kah-teraks. The Governor General should not miss hearing these vocal gems.

PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Manhattan, published in New York, is improving each month. The number for February is very entertaining. The paper on Caricature by Frank Beard is cleverely illustrated and of interest to all. Among the other contributions are The Queen's Revenge, a narrative poem; "Shakespear's Sonnets in a New Light"; A Poet's Wife; Across the Caucasus. The fiction and poetry departments are well sustained.

St. Nicholas though losing by contrast with one or two late magnificent numbers is nevertheless up to the average high standard. It is a bright, crisp and cheerful midwinter number.

The Midwinter Century contains some admirable articles, among which How Edwin Drood was illustrated and portrait and sketch of General Phil. Sheridan are not the least entertaining. Artistic help in Divine service by Rev. Dr. Robinson is to be continued in the coming number.

Harper's Magazine for February has variety enough to please all readers and the articles are of a quality of excellence sufficient to satisfy the most critical taste.

Electra for February (a belles-lettres monthly for young people; Courier-Journal building Louisville, Ky) has for a frontispiece a good steel engraving of the fall of Hungary and an article on the same country, which is described as having a fine head and base, nobles and peasants; but barely any trunk, no middle classes.

The Art Union for January (the official Journal of the American Art Union, New York, is a new publication, designed as a monthly exponent of the genius of members of the Union, both in the form of papers and illustrations. The notes of the pictures reproduced will be descriptive, not critical.

THE BRITISH DISASTER.

The Bravery of Col. Baker and Cowardice of the Egyptians.

ALTHOUGH OUTNUMBERED THE REBELS WIN.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Later despatches reiterate the reports that Baker Pasha met with a serious defeat. Baker had 3,500 men and was advancing when he was attacked. His losses in killed and wounded number 2,000 men. Baker, with the remnant of his force, succeeded in reaching Trinkitat, where the gunboat Ranger is lying. Baker intends to proceed immediately to Suakim in the Ranger.

COWARDLY EGYPTIANS.

The following particulars of the engagement have been received:—Baker was attacked on Monday afternoon by a skirmishing party of Arabs, few in numbers, but before whom his Egyptian cavalry ignominiously fled. Baker then hastily attempted to organise his infantry into a large square flanked by two smaller squares of negroes. The enemy meanwhile had completely surrounded Baker's position. At the first fierce attack of the enemy, the Egyptians became wild with fright, and casting away their arms, ran shooting upon the smaller squares, throwing the whole command into confusion. The European officers, enraged at the conduct of the Egyptian soldiers, dashed into the midst of the disorderly crowd and fired their pistols right and left, endeavoring to drive the cowardly fellows back into a position of defence again, but all their efforts to stay the fleeing mass was unavailing. Baker Pasha himself was the most prominent figure on the field, and exerted almost superhuman efforts to retrieve his disaster. He was often surrounded by the enemy, but in spite of his utter disregard for his own safety he escaped unhurt. Col. Harrington and Major Giles also acted most heroically, and it is largely due to their efficient co-operation that Baker was able to bring the remnant of his force through to Trinkitat in good order. It is believed that Tokar and Siukit will be able to hold out until relieved.

BRAVERY OF COL. BAKER.

Marines have been landed at Suakim to prevent a panic. Baker Pasha lost all his camels and baggage in the fight. Most of the Egyptian officers and men bolted. Col Sartorius tried hard to rally them without success. The Europeans behaved splendidly. Col. Sartorius narrowly escaped with his life. The enemy pursued almost to Trinkitat. The Europeans, police and Turkish infantry were cut to pieces. Fourteen European and three native officers are missing. The fight was begun by a few Arab horsemen attacking Baker Pasha's cavalry which fled. Baker then formed a square which the enemy surrounded. The rest of the Egyptians fled in confusion, and the gunners deserted the guns. Baker Pasha was several times surrounded by the enemy, but with his staff managed to cut his way through.

The enemy's force was inferior in number to Baker Pasha's. Only three sides of a square were formed owing to the fact that two companies of the Egyptian troops stood still, being overcome with fright. The enemy poured into this gap, when the Egyptians threw away their rifles and flung themselves upon the ground screaming for mercy. The troops on one side of the square killed many of their own men by wild firing. The enemy betrayed profound contempt for their opponents. Col. Burnaby is safe. Among the killed are Maurice Bey, an Englishman, who acted as Baker Pasha's paymaster; and Dr. Leslie, who served in the Russo-Turkish War.

LORD WOLSELEY'S OPINION.

In an interview with Lord Wolseley relative to the defeat of Baker Pasha in Egypt His Lordship expressed the opinion that no serious results were likely to follow from the disaster beyond the loss of life which had been sustained.

The publication of the Egyptian correspondence shows that the Government did not intend sending British or Indian troops to the Soudan, but does not object to Turkish troops being employed if their expenses are paid by Turkey.

THE GOVERNMENT UNDISTURBED

In the Imperial House of Commons yesterday Mr. Gladstone stated that the Government would not adopt any fresh measures in Egypt because of Baker's defeat. Lord Churchill (Conservative) gave notice of an amendment to the address asking for the removal of the Ministry, which was ruled out of order.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Nothing of importance was done in the Legislature yesterday. A debate on the dismissal of the Sheriff of Elgin arose on a motion, which carried, for papers and correspondence. Mr. Ross said that possibly the estimates would be laid on the table next week.

THE C. P. R. RESOLUTIONS.

As Introduced in the House by the Minister of Railways.

BUT DICTATED BY THE SYNDICATE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—Sir Charles Tupper's resolutions respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway are eleven in number. The first provides that the Company may return to the Government the securities of the Credit Valley R. R. to be held by the Government in place of the million dollars cash deposit orginally put up as security for the faithful completion of the contract—the reason being that as the company has expended thirty-three million dollars of its own money on the main line and ten millions on lines from Callendar to Brockville and Montreal, it cannot be contended that the securities are necessary, and their retention impairs the company's means and remains a standing imputation by the Government upon the value of the railway as a commercial enterprise.

The second resolution provides that the money subsidy hereafter payable to the company may be paid as the work proceeds, and not when a certain number of miles are finished. The reason for this is that the work now remaining to be done is very unequally distributed, some portions of it presenting no special difficulty for many miles, while other portions will require a very large expenditure within short distances. Payment by mileage is obviously inequitable, and payments by progress estimates are more just.

The third resolution provides that the time of payment of the $2,853,912 to be paid now in connection with the guarantee fund shall be extended to November, 1888. The reason for this is that it will not be needed to pay the dividend till that date.

The fourth resolution provides that the Government may make a loan to the company of $22,500,000, to be repaid to the Government on or before the 1st day of May, 1891, with interest at 5 per cent., payable half yearly, and that as part of the said loan the Government may pay to the company forthwith, $7,500,000, to extinguish the present floating debt, and that the remainder of the loan of $22,500,000 shall be paid to the company as the work of construction proceeds.

The fifth resolution provides that for security of the said loan and an additional security of the amount of $7,880,000 balance due on guarantee, the Government shall have a first lien upon the entire property of the company, real and personal, now owned or hereafter to be acquired by them, including their main line, the extensions thereof, their branch lines, the whole of their equipment, rolling stock and plant, including all steamers and vessels, and also upon the land grant of the company, earned and to be hereafter earned. These assets may set forth as follows:—

10,000,000 acres of land now actually earned and unsold; valued at $24,605,440. Less $19,128,500 amount of land grant bonds existing, leaving a surplus from earned lands after paying off the entire land bond issue of $7,481,940. Unearned lands, 11,245,000 acres, equal to $26,437,200. The company have expended on the main line $50,901,120; on branches $3,827,093—equal to $44,728,512. They have received a cash subsidy of $12,889,211, and on land grant bonds $9,029,011 or a total receipt of $28,318,222; deducting which sum from the 54 millions leaves $32,410,290 expended on the main line from Callendar to Kamloops. In other ways it has expended in equipment, extension from Callendar to Brockville and Montreal, advances towards acquiring a line to the seaboard $35,284,800—making in all an expenditure of $58,700,000 in round members. Against this the sum of $21,318,222 received out of the cash subsidy and land subsidy, leaving a balance of over 37 millions to represent the amount which has been paid by the company itself. Besides these assets the Government hold 35 million dollars of unissued stock of the company.

The sixth resolution provides that a deed of argument shall be executed by the company and on behalf of the Government, providing for such remedies, terms and conditions for securing the application of the loan of $22,500,000 for the specific purposes for which the loan is authorized. It also provides that upon default for twelve months in the payment of any half yearly instalment of interest, the right of the company to demand or receive any further cash or land subsidies shall cease, and the entire railway, with branches, equipment, etc., and all land and property of the company shall, without any notice or proceeding whatever, vest in her Majesty for Canada and shall be taken possession of by the Minister of Railways.

The seventh resolution provides that the agreement shall only be executed upon authority being given to the directors by shareholders representing two-thirds in value of the whole issued stock.

The eight resolution provides that until payment in full of the indebtedness of company, all monies earned as postal subsidy and for transport service shall be retained by the Government and applied on account of interest to become due upon the loan, and [illegible] the payment of the principal sum.

The ninth resolution provides that the $35,000,000 stock shall be held by the Minister of Finance, and may be sold by the company with the consent of the Government, on condition that the proceeds shall be applied under the direction of the Government either to the improvement or extension of the railway or its equipment, or to the repayment of the indebtedness of the company to the Government.

The tenth resolution provides that so long as the money loaned or an part thereof remains unpaid, no mortage, lien or charge shall be created upon the railway property or assests of the company, nor shall any stock be issued by the company pending such repayment, beyond the amount of one hundred million dollars.

The eleventh resolution provides that legislative provision be made for giving effect to the above resolutions.

JOHN BALKWILL SHOT.

Receives from a Detroit Citizen the Contents of a Shotgun.

THE MURDERER DISCHARGED FROM CUSTODY.

DETROIT, Feb. 5.—Yesterday a man named John Balkwill, was found in an outhouse in Springwells, with charges of shot in both legs, from which he had bled profusely. The body was searched and nothing found save a few papers and the following recommendation:—

"INLAND REVENUE, CANADA,
"Office of Inspector of Distilleries,
"Windsor, Ont., Jan. 31, 1884.

"To all whom it may concern: The bearer John Balkwill, I have known for a number of years, and more particularly while he was engaged at the Queen's hotel, Toronto, where he was well thought of, and as far as I have any personal knowledge he is a deserving young man.

J. DAVIS."

The remains were examined by physicians, who found both legs filled with shot, and they gave this as the cause of death. It is thought that if the man had had proper care immediately after being wounded his life would have been saved,

ARREST OF THE MURDERER.

Victor Bushey has been arrested, who states that he suffered much from the depredations of chicken thieves. Sunday night, hearing a noise in his yard, he took a gun and went out. He found a man in the shed who came toward him, and he fired. The man started to go, but becoming saucy Bushey told him he would give him another charge in the leg, and fired again. He then went back into the house, not knowing whether he struck him or not.

Mr. J. Davis, of the Canadian Internal Revenue office, says he first knew J. Balkwill ten years ago. Balkwill at that time was bartender at the Queen's hotel, Toronto and was a stylish young fellow, well liked. Mr. Davis had not run across him for a long time up to last Thursday, when Balkwill called on him for assistance. He represented that he could obtain employment in Detroit if he had a letter from someone, and Mr. Davis gave him the recommendation found upon the body. The dead man was about 33 years of age, unmarried and had a relative of some kind employed at the Dafoe house, Belleville, Ont.

THE STATE TO BURY.

A Detroit Despatch last night says P. Blake & Son, undertakers, telegraphed to London, Ont., to the relatives of Balkwill, who was killed at Springwells, to know what disposition should be made of the remains. The following reply was received:—"Brother is in England; can give no directions.—J. A. BALKWILL." The signer of the despatch is supposed to be a nephew of the deceased. The probabilities are that the remains will be buried at the expense of the State. The prosecuting attorney yesterday made an examination into the killing of John Balkwill by Victor Buskey, in Springwells, and ordered Buskey's discharge from custody. A number of prominent citizens offered to go his bail in any amount. No further action will be taken until the inquest is concluded.

[The news of this tragedy was received in Bellevile with great regret. The unfortunate man was brother to Mr. S. Balkwill, of the Dafoe House.]

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated, removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective,

THE SEALSKIN ROBBERY.

The two Torontonians Committed for Trial at the Police Court.

At the Police Court this morning Police Magistrate Holden committed Levi Rapnart and Samuel Sinenberg for trial at Toronto at the spring assizes on a charge of receiving Mr. Thomas Muir's sealskins knowing them to have been stolen, The case was on all day yesterday. Mr. Muir deposed that ten sealskins were stolen from his place on Thanksgiving Day last November or on the morning following. On the 22nd December he heard that the skins had been found in Toronto and he went up and saw Detective Reburn, who got five of the skins at Carl Koehler's, hatter and furrier. The latter said he got the skins from Sinenberg to make a sacque for his wife. Sinenberg, it was stated, told the detective that his sister-in-law brought the skins out from the old country. Mrs. Sinenberg afterwards said she bought the skins and had an invoice of them. She said she would get the invoice, but subsequently refused to fulfil her promise. They were told that the skins were stolen when Mrs. Sinenberg acknowledged that they got them from Raynart for $175. Raynart was seen by the detective and he said he bought the skins at Wall's, an auction room. Witnesses were examined yesterday to prove that no such skins could have been purchased there, as the place was in charge of the Sheriff, and on looking over the stock books it was found that no such articles were in the rooms.

MAYNOOTH AND BANCROFT.

FORTY-ONE BELOW ZERO—THE IRONDALE, BANCROFT AND OTTAWA RAILWAY—EXTENSION OF THE CENTRAL ONTARIO—RUMORS.

From our own Correspondent.

BANCROFT, Feb. 5.—This district has had its record of cold weather as well as other places during the month of January. On the 6th the thermometer at the Meteorological Station at Bancroft registered 36 6, on the 15th 33 5, on the 20th 32, and on the 25th it fell to the unusual depression of 41 2. The snowfall, however, seems to have been less here than at some places more highly favored south, as on the 9th it did not fall to a greater depth than 18½ inches in twenty-four hours.

The talk is, that Mr. C. J. Pusey, who figured prominently in the deputation from New York to Ottawa last week, anent reciprocity in iron ore and coal, will succeed eventually in pushing through the Irondale Bancroft and Ottawa Railway, as it is now in good hands.

It is also rumored that the Central Ontario Railway on the completion of the line to the Coehill mine, will be at once continued to Bancroft, as Mr. Coe has claims at that place,

There is said to be little doubts in the minds of knowing ones that the Government will subsidise the North Hastings Railway project to the same place to be continued, perhaps to Maynooth, as near as may be, so that, it is said, if tariffs do not interpose, a large output of raw material may enliven the prospects of this back country, and be in no wise detrimental to the interests of your beautiful city.

Force skip, 10; Canadians—T. Duncan, E. Donald, J. Starling, S. S. Lazier skip, 19. The Old Country scored a victory of nine points, but with previous matches the Canadians were defeated only by five.

At the Montreal races on Tuesday E. Horan's b.g., N. Fuller, took second money in the 2:30 class. The papers report Horan as performing some queer driving Turning in on the last half, he performed some wild driving, finally bringing up against a snow bank and being thrown from his sulky. He sustained no bodily injuries, though his coat was considerably torn. He soon remounted his sulky and drove around to the finish. In the three minute class Bay George owned by Horn, was distanced in the second trial.

Mrs. A. Nice, Brantford writes: "I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years. Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankful to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

HELP REQUIRED.

Dyspepsia does not get well without assistance. It requires careful diet and thorough treatment. Burdock Blood Bitters have effected the most remarkable cures on record of chronic Dyspepsia.

THE WINTER CARNIVAL.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—The great winter carnival continues to be a success. The civic holiday was enjoyed by the citizens, who turned out en masse. The Governor-General and Lady Landsdowne held a reception from 12 to 2 p. m. at the Windsor which was largely attended. The grand parade was only completed when His Excellency had been landed at the summit of the Lansdowne toboggan slide, where an immense concourse had assembled to witness the fancy dress masquerade exercises. This visit of His Excellency was informal. A lacrosse match on skates this afternoon attracted many to McGill College outdoor rink. The crowning event was the attack and defence of the ice palace by snowshoers to the estimated number of some $3,000.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could sound your praise from shore to shore. Hoping God will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

TRIED YET TRUE:

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY.

CHAPTER I.

Amongst the many things which spring revives, must surely be reckoned the London season.

Regent Street is alive with carriages.

Elegantly-attired ladies lounge into the shops.

Faultlessly-dressed men move to and fro; but dress must not always be taken as an infallible proof of social standing.

Noticeable amongst the throng is an elderly man, who is wending his way westward—noticeable, for, despite his worn shoes and threadbare coat, there is that about him which can never be acquired, the unmistakable stamp of a gentleman.

A handsome face, somewhat sad in expression, a face which is the mirror of a life sans peur et sans reproche.

A slight smile played over his features as he glanced at the busy scene, a smile containing perhaps the last soupçon of superciliousness.

'Society is buying things,' he soliloquised 'because it is the fashionable hour of society to shop. There is a coronet on the carriage and rather a good pair, though the near side is a trifle weddy, perhaps. Bah! what business have I to criticise carriages and horses?—I, who live in a back street in Camden Town, and can't afford to pay an omnibus to take me there.

'Ah, Ethel how you would grace one of those equipages—though why should you not, when it is your pretty place?

Yes, Ethel; your place, little as you think it, is high up amidst this gay throng. Would to Heaven I could see my way to restore you to it.

'But it shall be, as sure as my name is Henry Aubrey. Henry Aubrey!' And he smiled scornfully as he repeated the words. 'No, my child; I must find a better oath than that, or your chances will be small.'

So earnestly was he wrapped in thought, that but a short time seemed to elapse before he found himself at the door of his lodging.

He passed in with a light step, for, although the home was very humble, it was home, in the fullest sense of that thrice blessed word.

Poor, certainly; but poverty could not drive out love and happiness, though Henry Aubrey and his daughter had lately been no strangers to poverty's shade.

The room was scantily furnished, the only emblem of luxury being a piano (for the father was a teacher of music) and a few flowers in a glass on the table.

But such taste presided over the apartment that it possessed an air of comfort, which is frequently wanting in much more pretentious establishments, and there was in the room that which would have lightened a dungeon—Ethel Aubrey.

Perfect in figure as in face, her graceful contour is well set off by her tightly fitting dress, as she bends over the water colour drawing on which she is engaged.

The thoughtful expression well becomes her handsome face.

Long lashes overshadow her eyes, and contrast with the pearly whiteness of her cheek.

Her rich, sunny-brown hair waves down her back, save where one errant tress tries to hide a shell-like little ear.

If it is of her drawing that she thinks, that drawing must be a very pleasant subject, for there is a happy look in her dreamy eyes.

It changes to a pleasant smile as she hears her father's step on the stairs, and she opens the door to receive him.

'Well, poor papa, are you very tired?' she asks, in a voice as charming as you would expect to issue from such a little rosebud mouth. 'A little, my darling, just a little,' said the old man, as he bent down, and, taking the sweet face between his hands, kissed either cheek; 'teaching is tiresome work. And you—what have you been doing?'

'Oh, papa, I have made such a great deal of money. Look, twelve and sixpence. I took the two pictures of the river at Avranches to the picture dealer, and he gave me all that money.'

'All that money for a week's work, and such good work, too! Let me look at you dear,' and he gazed very tenderly into the little face which looked smilingly into his. 'You mustn't wear out those bright eyes, remember, or I shall forbid you painting at all. I well said 'bright eyes,' for they are very bright. What has made them so, my Ethel?'

'I don't know, papa dear. Perhaps it is because I am pleased at helping you a little.'

A tell-tale blush mantled her cheek, as she added after a pause—

'I saw someone in the street to-day, papa.'

'A friend?'

'Yes—no—at least, I hardly know what to say. I mean the young gentleman who saved my life at Avranches. He was in a carriage with some ladies—young ladies, but not his sisters.'

'Young ladies, but not his sisters. How do you know that, when you cannot even tell whether he has any sisters, when you don't even know his name?'

And the old man's brow was, for a moment saddened.

'Oh, I thought they were not his sisters: I can't say why, I am sure. Perhaps that is why my eyes are a little bright,' she continued, with the unconscious deceitfulness of dawning love, 'for it brought so vividly to my mind all that dreadful scene at Avranches last summer.

'I can't think how it was that I had stopped so long on the Headland rock, for I knew the danger, or how it was that I did not hear the splashing of the waters as they surrounded me. But when I arose from my walking dream, I was cut off from the land by the wide expanse of sea.

'No living soul was near—at least, so I thought, and if I screamed for help, it was with little hope that my despairing voice would fall on human ear.

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In ... way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation eved when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we knew them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883,

Mr. W. LUMBERS, SR, Toronto Ont, Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

COMPLETELY CURED OF LIVER DISEASE AND CATARRH.

Mr. W. LUMBERS, 288 Carlton Street, Toronto. Dear Sir,—I feel great pleasure in informing you that I have used your Catarrh Remedy and Liver Pill, and am happy to say I am completely cured of these complaints and can with the greatest confidence recommend them to any one suffering from those complaints. Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monckton, County Perth, Ont., July 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. REID, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

IT IS NOT WHAT YOU EAT, BUT what you digest, that maintains the nutrition of the body. There may be Dyspepsia without apparent stomach troubles, as those pallid, anaemic cases with general debility and want of nerve power for positive evidence of systematic impoverishment from failure of the DIGESTIVE APPARATUS to convert food enough into blood to supply the daily want of the body. Here WHEELER'S Phosphates and Calisaya is indicated to restore the DIGESTIVE TRIPOD—the STOMACH, LIVER and PANCREAS to their natural working power.

A FIRM PARENT.

'Come here to me,' said a firm mother to her son. 'Didn't I tell you that I'd whip you if you went down town?'

'Yessum,' standing on one foot.

'What made you go?' 'Say!'

'Cause,' standing on the other foot.

'Didn't you know I'd whip you?'

'Yessum,' showing by his manner that he didn't.

'I'm a great mind to wear you out. If you go outside the yard again to-day I'll whip you.'

'About ten minutes afterwards she sees the boy playing on the street, and calls him. He came reluctantly.

'Didn't I tell you I'd whip you if you went outside the yard?'

'Yessum.'

'Why did you do it?'

'Cause.'

'You good for nothing little rascal, I'm a great mind to wear you out. If you go outside this yard to-day I'll whip you, if it's the last act of my life. Do you hear me?'

'Yessum.'

After a while she sees him playing in the street again. Calls him and says:

'Never mind 'll tell your pa when he comes.'—Arkansaw Traveler.

Mrs. A. Nixey, Brantford writes: 'I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years, Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankful to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and larguid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mason—Dr. M. Souville & Co. Gentlemen.—Yours of last week to hand and in reply to your inquiry I am much pleased in stating that from the first time of using the spirometer and medicine I have improved very much. The bronchitis has entirely left me, I sleep well and have a good appetite. I must also add, that coming to you as I did as a last resort, the cure effected has been wonderful.

Greatefully yours, MRS. E. MASON.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

THE ORANGE INCORPORATION BILL

Our esteemed though mendacious contemporary says the Orange Incorporation Bill was taken from Mr. John White and given to Mr. Hector Cameron, Q.C. with the knowlege and approval of Mr. White. Now the following statement by the Globe's Ottawa correspondent was made several days ago and has not been contradicted by Mr. White upon whose authority it is made:—

"Your correspondent has the authority of Mr. White himself for stating that the Bill was given to Mr. Cameron without his knowledge. He knew nothing about the matter until his return from the Northwest, when he was informed, much to his surprise and disgust, that he had been thrown overboard."

Now this is undoubtedly the case. The Bill will no longer bother the Government. In Mr. Cameron's hands it is "safe" for that. Mr. ex-Grand Sovereign Bowell with no longer have to listen to the denunciations of the Order from the Bleus without raising his voice in protest. John White was too honest in his efforts to carry out the wishes of the Orangemen and keep Sir John Macdonald to his pledged word. Mr. Hector Cameron is a professional counsel whose chief business in Parliament is to steer private bills through committees and accept rich retainers. He it was who engineered the Telegraph Bill through the House. He has now been retained to choke off the Orange Incorporation Bill and see to it that it does not again place Mr. Bowell in such a mean and embarrassing position.

A VERY POOR PROPHET.

Our unfortunate local contemporary endorses a letter in its columns signed "More Anon" with reference to the Debate on the Address. This letter speaks of Mr. Lauder's address as "masterly". The perception of the critic is thus early revealed. The heavy delivery of the prosy pedagogue is placed in the same category as the incisive logic and brilliant forensic of the Commissioner of Crown Lands. The poet who wrote,

"So sweetly mawkish, and so smoothly dull" described the member for East Grey to a nicety. We are told by our contemporary that Messrs. Lees, Neelon and Hart will vote with the Opposition. This appeared on Wednesday, after Mr. Hart had voted squarely for the Government. Mr. Neelon shirked the vote apparently, and no one expected that a Tory like Lees would vote for a Liberal Government. Our contemporary forgot to class Mr. Gillies, of North Bruce, with those who would support the Opposition. We all remember how nine months ago the Mail declared he would vote for Meredith. But he didn't; he voted with the Government. And Mr. Neelon would probably have voted with the Government. When Mr. Crooks' place is filled the Government will have a majority of 14 at least, not counting Muskoka, yet vacant.

If our contemporary prognosticates further it will shortly have as good a reputation as Vennor.

TWO VIEWS OF THE C. P. R. AGREEMENT.

Mail of January 31st.	Sir Charles Tupper, as reported by the Mail:—
"This agreement is not a resort which the Government has either expected or courted; but since the necessity for some some such action, as an alternative to stopping the work, has arisen, it will be generally conceded that the Government has been wise in adopting the most courageous and prompt means within its power, for strengthening the company."	"But, sir, the question that is submitted for the consideration of the House, is whether the step should be taken, not to enable the company to fulfil their obligations, but for the purpose of anticipating the time provided for the completion of the work by over five years."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE APPLICATION of the Toronto House of Industry to have the tax they had to pay on the coals they distributed to the poor remitted by the Government has been refused by the hard-hearted Minister of Customs.

SPEAKING of the opportunity now afforded of amending the contract with the C. P. R. Company, the Toronto World says, "If in any particular the country's interests have not been sufficiently secured, let the thing be done now." Are we to infer from this "if" that the World thinks the contract any better now than it did a year ago. It was wont to denounce it in unmeasured terms.

SPEAKING AT A Carnival banquet in Montreal the editor of the well-known trade journal, Iron Age, of New York, compared the Ice Palace to the barriers now existing between the trades of the two countries, and predicted that even as that structure would gradually fade away, despite the utmost efforts of those whose skill had raised it, so would the barriers that had been reared between the two countries pass away.

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscles and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated, removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective.

'I had been for eight months unable to work and felt as though I would as lief die as live through Dyspepsia and Indigestion, I weighed at the time of of getting a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure 130lbs.; used three bottles, and now weigh 165 lbs, and never was better in my life. It was McGregor's Speedy Cure that brought me around.' So says Wm. Fell, Hamilton, Go to A. L. Geen's wholesale and retail Drug Store and get a free trial bottle or the regular size for fifty cents and one dollar.

To cure consumption, ulceration in the lungs must be stopped, the matter must be thrown off, the membranes and tissues, healed and the system invigorated. Downs' Elixir will do all this. Try it. Every bottle warranted.

EXPOSED BY MR. BLAKE.

The Illegal and Unwise Dealings of the Dominion Parliament.

WITH REFERENCE TO THE CANADA PACIFIC.

For three hours Hon. Edward Blake criticised the C. P. R. statement of Sir Charles Tupper and the proposal to further aid the Company to the extent of $30,000,000 with the credit of Canada. He did more. He pointed out the effect of the policy of the Company and of the Government and prophesied that if the bad precedent was now established of opening up the contract and aiding the company it would only be the first of such applications, and if the Company at length found itself unable to meet its obligations the Government, judging by the past, would not foreclose their mortgage.

THE ELEMENT OF FINALITY.

Mr. Blake said:—Now this proposal is one of extreme gravity. To those of us who recollect the discussion which took place when this contract was entered into, who remember the observations which have from time to time been made by hon. members who sustained that contract, it comes as a very unpleasing surprise. Why, sir, were we not told that the country felt uneasy as to the unknown quantity of possible demands in reference to the C. P. R? Why were we not told that the country was decided, and that Parliament, expressing the views of the country, was determined that once for all it should be definitely settled? What was the limit of our obligations? Why were we not told that it was better for us to know how much it was, even though it was a large sum, and make up our minds to it and have an end of the matter? Why, it was only a session or two ago that an hon. member, I think the hon. member for West Toronto (Mr. Beaty), recurring to the subject, then perhaps somewhat stale, said that the people were satisfied because they felt such ease at knowing the limit of their obligations. There it was, and we buckled ourselves to the work, and braced our shoulders to the enterprise, knowing the price of the Government sections, and the amount of cash subsidy, and knowing perfectly well that we should not be called upon for any more. Well, two or three years have elapsed since the contract was made, and we are called upon to advance twenty-two millions and a half, a sum very nearly equal to the original cash subsidy, and to pledge our credit for nearly seven millions and a half more, so that the element of finality which was so praised as one of the things which was to cause the contract to be favorably received by the House and the country has pretty well vanished from the scene to-night,

A PECULIAR RELATION.

The Government is to occupy a very peculiar relation to the Company, a sort of double and inconsistent relation. It is to guarantee dividends to the stockholders, and it is to be the mortgagee of the road as well. It is to guarantee the profits to the stockholders for ten years, and to be the mortgagee of those very profits out of which the dividends can alone be paid. (Hear, hear.) What is the result of that position? A cry for lower tolls after this will be very little listened to, because the answer of the Company would be:—'Ah, gentlemen! very good. You are of course aware that you have guaranteed interest on our stock to the extent of three per cent. You are aware that you have lent us $22,500,000, for which we agreed to pay interest, and the only funds out of which we can pay that interest is the profit of the enterprise. If you choose to cut down the tolls you understand that you cannot get paid.'

THE MONEY IN THE MIDDLE.

I have said the resources which were due to the ends of the work are gone, and it is necessary to say that a full enquiry as to how the resources have disappeared is the prime duty of this House before even approaching the consideration of the question whether it will give more. But to-day, when it is indicated that to carry on the plans into which the Company and the Government have entered it is necessary that this enormous advance should be made, it becomes obviously an imperative duty on our part to ascertain really how the account for the past stands, how it happens that so large a sum has been expended in the work which has been done. Now, roughly calculating what the hon. gentleman's figures gave, I apprehend that independent of equipment, and I presume without ballasting the road in the North-West, the main line must have cost something close upon $18,000 a mile, and I have never been able to see how such a figure could be justified as the fair cost of constructing the line through that country.

THE LAW NOT OBEYED.

I have called for information upon the subject of how the road has been built; the law called for it. The Consolidated Railway Act made it the duty of this Company to return to the Minister of Railways in each year on the 30th of June the contracts which had been made for the construction of the railway. That law was violated by this Company. Parliament was informed of that violation. I asked repeatedly for the contracts. Eventually I moved for one contract and the instrument of association of the North American Contracting Co., but Parliament declined to have the law enforced and would not order the production of these papers. Parliament preferred to be kept in ignorance as to those things which the law had said should be disclosed. But it would seem that Parliament has recanted that view within the last few days, having unanimously passed an address calling for the production of these contracts, and representing that it was of high public consequence that this law should be obeyed and these contracts should be produced. Still the law is not obeyed; still the contracts are not produced, and is only in the speech of the Minister, when he invites the House to go into Committee of the Whole to consider the propositions; that we are let to a small extent into the secret of the character of the arrangement for the construction of the line. And the hon. gentlemen now informs us that the work has been done by a contracting or construction company in which were many members of the Syndicate, so that the corporation has been contracting with its own members for construction.

[A summary of the remainder of this speech will appear in another issue.]

A MODERN RESURRECTION.

A MIRACLE THAT TOOK PLACE IN OUR MIDST UNKNOWN TO THE PUBLIC—THE DETAILS IN FULL.

(Detroit Free Press.)

One of the most remarkable occurrences ever given to the public, which took place here in our midst, has come to our knowledge and will undoubtedly awaken as much surprise and attract as great attention as it has already done in newspaper circles. The facts are, briefly, as follows: Mr. William A. Crombie, a young man formerly residing at Birmingham, a suburb of Detroit, and now living at 287 Michigan Avenue in this city, can truthfully say that he has looked into the future world and yet returned to this. A representative of this paper has interviewed him upon this important subject and his experience is given to the public for the first time. He said:

"I had been having most peculiar sensations for a long while. My head felt dull and heavy; my eyesight did not seem so clear as formerly; my appetite was uncertain and I was unaccountably tired. It was an effort to arise in the morning and yet I could not sleep at night. My mouth tasted badly, I had a faint all-gone sensation in the pit of my stomach that food did not satisfy, while my hands and feet felt cold and clammy. I was nervous and irritable and lost all enthusiasm. At times my head would seem to whirl and my heart palpitated terribly. I had no energy, no ambition, and I seemed indifferent of the present and thoughtless for the future. I tried to shake the feeling off and persuade myself it was simply a cold or a little malaria. But it would not go. I was determined not to give up, and so time passed along and all the while I was getting worse. It was about this time that I noticed I had begun to bloat fearfully. My limbs were swollen so that by pressing my fingers upon them deep depressions would be made. My face also began to enlarge, and continued so until I could scarcely see out of my eyes. One of my friends, describing my appearance at that time, said: 'It is an animated something, but I should like to know what.' In this condition I passed several weeks of the greatest agony."

"Finally, one Saturday night, the misery culminated. Nature could endure no more. I became irrational and apparently insensible. Cold sweat gathered on my forehead, my eyes became glazed and my throat rattled. I seemed to be in another sphere and with other surroundings. I knew nothing of what occurred around me, although I have since learned it was considered as death by those who stood by. It was to me a quiet state, and yet one of great agony. I was, helpless, hopeless and pain was my only companion. I remember trying to see what was beyond me, but the mist before my eyes was too great. I tried to reason, but I had lost all power. I felt that it was death, and realized how terrible it was. At last the strain upon my mind gave way and all was a blank. How long this continued I do not know, but at last I realized the presence of friends and recognized my mother. I then thought it was earth, but was not certain. I gradually regained consciousness, however, and the pain lessened. I found that my friends had, during my unconsciousness, been giving me a preparation I had never taken before, and the next day, under the influence of this treatment, the bloating began to disappear and from that time on I steadily improved, until to-day I am as well as ever before in my life, have no traces of the terrible acute Bright's disease, which so nearly killed me, and all through the wonderful instrumentality of Warner's Safe Cure, the remedy that brought me to life after I was virtually in another world"

"You have had an unusual experience, Mr. Crombie," said the writer who had been breathlessly listening to the recital.

"Yes, I think I have," was the reply, "and it has been a valuable lesson to me. I am certain, though, there are thousands of men and women at this very moment who have the same ailment which came so near killing me, and they do not know it. I believe kidney disease is the most deceptive trouble in the world. I comes like a thief at night. It has no certain symptoms but seems to attack each one differently. It is quiet, treacherous, and all the more dangerous. It is killing more people to-day than any other complaint. If I had the power I would warn the entire world against it and urge them to remove it from the system before it is too late."

One of the members of the firm of Whitehead & Mitchell, proprietors of the Birmingham Eccentric, paid a fraternal visit to this office yesterday, and in the course of conversation, Mr. Crombie's name was mentioned.

"I knew about his sickness," said the editor, "and his remarkable recovery. I had his obituary all in type and announced in the Eccentric that he could not live until its next issue. It was certainly a most wonderful case."

Rev A. T. Bartlett, formerly pastor of the M. E. Church, at Burmingham and now of Schoolcraft, Mich., in response to a telegram, replied:

'Mr. W. A. Crombie, was a member of my congregation at the time of his sickness. The prayers of the church were requested for him on two different occasions I was with him the day he was reported by the physicians as dying, and consider his recovery almost a miracle.'

Not one person in a million ever comes so near death as did M. Crombie and then recover but the men and women who are drifting toward the same end, are legion. To note the slightest symptoms, to realize their significance and to meet them in time by the remedy which has been shown to be most efficient, is a duty from which there can be no escape. They are fortunate who do this; they are on the sure road to death who neglect it.

Mr. W. B. Lazier bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes: 'I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stables. I have used it for bruises, scratches wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gives the best satisfaction, We used it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., it is a perfect panacea. It will remove warts by parting them down and applying it occasionally.'

MEREDITH'S MARE'S NEST.

THE REAL SIGNIFICANCE OF THE STOLEN TELEGRAMS.

So Mr. Meredith has launched the long-threatened thunderbolt, and nobody has been specially hurt, except perhaps the personage who for the time being has affected to wield the lightning. The world now knows the worst, and a pitiful worst it is.

In order to tap the telegraph wires, and supply the Opposition with material for charges against the Mowat Government, a young man was detailed and put into the postoffice at Rat Portage, ostensibly as assistant to the postmaster there. The results of his efforts are seen in the production fo the telegrams which Mr. Meredith lately read with so much gusto and with such affected horror. Well, let us look at them. The first is from Mr. Geo. Burden, and is to the following effect:—

"RAT PORTAGE, Aug. 16, 1883.

"Hon. T. B. Pardee, Acting Attorney-General, Toronto:

"Absolutely necessary that we should be placed in some shape to meet pressing emergency. We can secure the local newspaper's support for five hundred dollars, half down and half after the election. Most important that this should be done at once, as the enemy is trying to secure it. Negotiations will be conducted by outside party." GEO. BURDEN.

What is so very awful and corrupt in this? One very necessary element for holding the territory in dispute lay in having the support of the inhabitants of the district, and a very powerful and very legitimate means for securing and retaining such support was evidently by having control of the columns of the local newspaper. Ontario's cause in this way could have been maintained, the arguments in favor of the Boundary Award set forth, and local public opinion so legitimately and extensively influenced as might have fully justified the Government in making the outlay of a much larger sum than the one mentioned, and that altogether apart from the question of any pending election, but looking at the matter simply from an Ontario and Governmental point of view. It was as legitimate to secure a newspaper for the advocacy of Ontario's rights as to hire the services of a constable or to rent a room for holding a public meeting.

Taking it, on the other hand, from a mere party point of view, the proposal would have been quite as defensible, even though the much-condemned telegram had been acted on. But it was not. On the contrary, it was not so much as even answered, and the paper was accordingly sold to the Opposition just as a room might have been rented to "another party" after the declinature of the one who had had the first offer.

And what was the second telegram thus surreptitiously obtained by a Government servant playing sneak thief and breaking his solemn oath of office? Here it as:—

"RAT PORTAGE. Sept, 8, 1883.

"Hon. T. B. Pardee, Toronto:

"Outlook so far splendid. Hugh at Rainy River. Stipendary gone to Fort Frances. He and friends say we must have fifteen hundred for legitimate expenses. Can you send it and to whom?
AUBREY WHITE."

Well, wherein is the mighty iniquity of this document? The sum mentioned is avowedly for 'legitimate' expenses, and what such may be in Algoma is not to be judged of by what would be so regarded in York or Middlesex, for in order to move about at all in those regions steamboats and other almost equally expensive conveyances have often to be hired, and retained for days. This at the very worst and with the blackest possible construction put upon the words. But what are the other facts of the case? In order to 'hit Pardee' it would be necessary to produce his replies to these telegrams, and to show their corrupt and compromising character. Has this been done? No thanks to the wretched fellow who stole the now so greatly paraded document if it has not. But for the best of all reasons the creature could not carry his pilfering further, inasmuch as there were no replies sent by telegraph at all. In the case of the former message, there was never any answer sent of one kind or another. In case of the latter, there was, by post. And what was its purport? Listen. O scandal hunters, with all your 'biggest' ears. It was to the effect that the Commissioners regarded the sum mentioned as greatly too large for 'legitimate expenses.' But at the same time, he added, that in any case there were no funds available. And as a matter of fact, not one single dime was ever sent in response to the application. Is this sufficiently plain and explicit? It is the simple fact, all the same, as Mr. Meredith will more and more fully discover the further he proceeds in his present wild goose chase after the veriest mare's nest by which any poor man was ever bewildered and befooled.—Globe.

Miss Parker, of Stirling, played the accompaniments in very fine style, and with those in Marmora who took part in the programme, the concert was pronounced the best ever held in the village. THE HOSE QUESTION.

Discussed Last Night by the Fire Committee.

A meeting of the Fire Committee was held last night. Present, Ald. Macoun (chairman) Clarke, Graham, Cooper, Alford, the Mayor and W. H. Campbell, Chief Engineer.

An account of $17.29 from Mr. W. R. Carmichael for supplies furnished the Department was not certified to and was laid over.

THE HOSE QUESTION.

A letter was read from Mr. McIlroy, Toronto, asking the Chief Engineer to return to him the cotton hose recently tested here and found deficient, and stated that he would furnish the Committee with prices for the Maltese Cross Brand of hose. Several members of the Committee thought it strange that Mr. McIlroy had not offered to fulfil his first contract for the Cotton or Baker hose.

The original tenders received from the several firms for hose was referred to, and they were found to be as follows:

Jacket with Couplings		$1.17	per foot
Eclipse	" "	1.08	"
Eureka without	"	1.17	"
Paragon	" "	1.07	"
Maltese	" "	1.15	"
Baker	" "	97	"

It was decided to leave the matter stand in abeyance until the Chairman receives Mr. McIlroy's tender.

The Committee authorized the Chairman to purchase a hydraulic pump from G. & J. Brown for testing the hose at a cost of $25.

TEARING DOWN BUILDINGS.

Chief Engineer Campbell asked the Mayor for an order giving him power to demolish any building or fence which he shall deem necessary to be taken down in order to arrest the progress of any fire. The Fire By-law renders this step necessary in such cases otherwise the firemen would be powerless to interfere. The Mayor was not certain whether this order could be a standing one, or whether it should be given during the progress of the fire, and he promised to obtain the Solicitor's opinion.

A NEW FIRE STAND.

The members discussed for a short time the question of a new fire station for Moira Hose Company. Ald. Macoun stated that he had never been in favor of purchasing the stand at the corner of the lower bridge, and the old meat market, in his opinion, would be impracticable for such a purpose. He suggested that the Aldermen should examine the site offered by Mr. Francis Clarke for $1,000, opposite the Commercial hotel. The Chief Engineer would be opposed to utilizing the meat market.

The Chairman stated a gas stove was to be attached to the boiler of No. 2 steamer for the purpose of keeping the water hot at all times.

The Committee then adjourned until 7:30 Monday evening.

A new lot of American coal oil just arrived at Carmichael's drug store. tf.

A CANADIAN OPERA.

WILLIAM MCDONNELL'S NEW OPERATIC ROMANCE, "MARINA."

(From our own Correspondent.)

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—An operatic romance in three acts, entitled "Marina, the Fisherman's Daughter," was produced at the Grand Opera House last night for the first time. Both words and music were written by Wm McDonnell, of Lindsay, Ont., an author of widespread reputation. The libretto is very good and the music is pronounced to be admirably adapted to the sparkling and vivacious character of the piece. The World criticises it adversely.

MADOC'S MISFORTUNE.

Complete List of Losses and Insurances at the Recent Fire.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MADOC, Feb. 8.—Madoc, along with her neighbors, is doomed to her share of misfortune. In days gone by she has known what it is to be one day flourishing amid brightest prospects and the next laid waste in ashes. Of late years a wave of prosperity swept over our enterprising village, and nothing befel to mar the peaceful prospect and rapid progress. Monday night last, however, brought a change, and now desolation reigns where but a day or two ago beauty and prosperity were supreme. The fire is presumed to have originated from an unknown defect in the coal stove used in Mr. M. McLean's dry goods and millinery store.

Following is a list of the losses:—Mr McLean, dry goods, total loss; insurance nearly $8,000. Something like $750 were in the safe which came out all right. Mr. D. C. Clarke, on the north, saved most of the goods taken out, but some of them in a fearfully damaged condition; insurance $650. Cross & Moucey, on the south, very little saved—some insurance. The whole block was owned by Mr. C. G. Wilson and is insured for about $5,300 altogether. The Oddfellows' Hall was above the stores, and its effects were totally destroyed; contents insured for $500. Mr. W. S. O'Flynn lived above and barely escaped with their lives; insurance of $1,000 on furniture. The following have damaged their goods more or less by removal: Gray & McGregor's grocery and liquorstore; D. C. Wright, same; Mrs. Jane Wright, same; heavy loss; Dr. Loomis, druggist; C. G. Wilson, same; E. Langman, butcher and grocer; S. A. Davis, grocer and confectioner; M. S. Simmons; Howe, ready-made-clothing; Review office; J. Caverly. The Alert Fire Company did immense service which is appreciated by the town. In fact if it had not been for the fire company and engine it is hard to say where the fire would have stopped. The whole of west Durham Street would have been laid low is evident, and possibly the east side would have shared the same fate. As it was the east side was pretty well scorched and nearly all the windows in the Weiss Block were broken. This block stood the brunt of the fire which was directly opposite. The plate glass in E. L. Weiss' jewellry store was broken and the [illegible] work in the whole block scorched.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrop and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never [illegible] if properly and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STEWART.

CURE OF RUPTURE.

St. Catharines, April 26, 1879.

My son was ruptured soon after birth. Got trusses from New York, Buffalo, etc.; did not hold rupture. Your truss not only held rupture, but cured him in nine months. Never wore a truss since. Your warmest friend Tobias Wismer.

A Frightful Case of Hernia Held, of 15 Pound.

On your last trip to St. Thomas I got a truss for my wife, who, as you expressed, was a frightful case. The fact that your truss held rupture (beyond my expectations) removed a gloom from our whole family. My wife often referred to you as a public benefactor.

Gilford, Ont, Nov. 9th, 1883.

To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could sound your praise from shore to shore. Hoping the Lord will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

Mrs. Thos. Kneeshaw,
P.M. Gilford, On

I thought your price was great, but it is worth ten times $25. Would like to have a line from you.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY.

'Suddenly that young gentleman appeared on the shore. He saw my danger, and, clad as he was, plunged into the sea, and bravely bore me to the land. It seemed as if he were sent by Heaven to save me, for he had only come over to the town for the afternoon.'

'And was gone when I called at the hotel to thank him. I shall come across him yet, I trust.'

Little guessed he then who his child's preserver was, or what would happen in the days to come.

Was Ethel's heart touched?

Who can tell when first the little germ arises from which springs so much happiness, sometimes, alas! so much misery?

A pure heart was hers, and a spirit as true as a gracious Providence sometimes creates to perfect its work.

Her mother had died when she was a child, but her father had lavished upon her all the care and tenderness which even a maternal heart could bestow, and had devoted himself to her education in the little seaside village in the South of France, where they had resided, until within a few months of the time at which my story commences.

Mr. Aubrey had then determined upon coming to London, and was endeavoring to augment an income which had been growing more and more scanty year by year, by giving lessons in music.

The income had, in fact, been growing so small, as to be almost infinitesimal, and it was a great joy to the affectionate girl, when she found that her talent for drawing would add to the impoverished resource of their little household.

Very serious was the face of Aubrey, now, as he sat at the table supporting his head upon his hand.

A soft arm crept round his neck, and his daughter knelt at his side.

'Why are you looking so sad, papa dear?' she asked, caressingly.

'Was I looking sad? Oh! I am a little tired to-day.'

'I am sure you would be happier if you told me that secret which preys so heavily upon your mind. Let me share your sorrow, and so lighten it.'

'No, my Ethel, not now. Heaven will show me how to act some day for your happiness; you know that it is only for your happiness that I am anxious. I have a difficult part to play, and a heavy burden to bear, but Heaven will direct me.'

'Can you not tell me, dear?' begged the tender-hearted girl. 'Should you not be easier in your mind?'

'Soon I trust the time may come when concealment will be no longer necessary, but we are in the hands of fate. I am grieviously perplexed, and search in vain through the mist for a gleam of light; but it will come. It must come.'

'Sometimes you talk of being wealthy, but it is not wealth I want, but only to see you happy, papa, dear. Can I do nothing to assist your plans?'

'Only wait patiently, my darling, trustfully and patiently—but there. no more of this. See, it is tea-time, and Kelley—I beg his pardon, De Langtonville—is coming. I wonder whether it aids his histrionic efforts to hide the linsey-wolsey Kelley under the silk-velvet De Langtonville?'

'I am glad that he is coming, for he always amuses you,' said the girl, as she busied herself with preparations for the meal.

Very lovingly the father's eyes followed his daughter's movements.

Had the act of generous chivalry in the years gone by been misplaced?

Had it not wronged the child—then unborn?'

And how was he to restore to her what was hers by right?

Only a strong, enduring faith was his; and thought he could not see the way by which Heaven would lead him, he had all belief in that beneficent guidance.

Was that faith ever misplaced?

Ethel's task was not finished very much too soon.

She had seated herself at the piano, when a step was heard ascending the stairs, and immediately a knock at the door of the room.

On being bidden to enter, Claude De Langtonville—otherwise Tom Kelley—presented himself.

CHAPTER II.

The new comer was a man of some forty years of age, whose closely-shaven face and general appearance savoured strongly of the footlights.

De Langtonville, as he had elected to call himself, was manager of a theatre.

The company under his command was in the habit of visiting different towns in the south of England, and remaining in each so long as the varied programme which they presented attracted the inhabitants.

De Langtonville was manager, and played the 'lead,' that is to say, the principal character, but, despite the fact that Othello's fury, and King Lear's madness, ofttimes found a representative in him, there was withal a merry twinkle in his eyes when in private life.

Till he was twenty years of age, he had resided in his father's house, but the sudden death of his parent had left him unprovided for.

The confinement of an office life was insufferable to him, and he had followed a youthful desire and essayed his fortunes on the stage, achieving sufficient success to justify him in adopting the profession.

It was at Avranches that he had met with Henry Aubrey and his daughter.

After some fifteen years of toil, it had occurred to him that it was nearly time to take a holiday; so he had crossed the channel, and staying a week in Paris to go the round of the theatres, had proceeded to Avranches, and signalized his arrival by falling over a cliff, and breaking his leg.

Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of any prevailing epidemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power, should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, billiousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is epidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength, irritating the nerves, or depressing the [illegible]. HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical profession stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers, When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co s. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

COME OUT OF THE COLD.

And Stand by the Warm Fireplace of Love.

SERMON BY REV. DR. TALMAGE.

In the Brooklyn Tabernacle on Sunday Dr. Talmage explained passages of Scripture relating to the weather. The subject of the sermon was 'That Cold.' The hymn was:

'From Greenlan's icy mountains,
From India's coral strand.'

The text was from Psalm cxlvii., 17: 'Who can stand before his cold?'

For weeks, said Dr. Talmage, our whole country has suffered under depression of temperature. Thermometer in Dakota one week 40 degrees below zero! Plate glass in Chicago cracked under the cold! Flocks of sheep and herds of cattle perishing under the winter blast! The fiercest weather for many years! The text echoes all this severity when it exclaims, 'Who can stand before His cold?' Although the Psalmist lived in a latitude comparatively genial, he must have somewhere experienced rough weather. In this chapter he sketches the 'snow like wool,' 'the frost like ashes,' and the 'hail like morsals,' and the congealment of lowest temperature We have all studied the power of heat, but few of us the power of frost. 'Who can stand before His cold?' The CHALLENGE OF THE TEXT.

has again and again been accepted. On the 19th October, 1812, Napoleon's great army began a retreat from Moscow—one hundred and fifty thousand men, fifty thousand horses, six hundred piece of cannon, forty thousand stragglers. They started in bright weather, but soon something wrathier, than the Cossacks swept upon their flanks. An army of arctic blasts, with icles for bayonets and hailstones for shot and commanded by voice of tempest, marched after them. The flying artillery of heaven was in pursuit. At night the troops gather in circles huddled together to keep each other warm and rose not with the breaking day for they were dead. The ravens came for the morning meal of corpses. The way was strewn with rich stuffs of the East. the booty that had been brought from the Russian capital. An invisible power took a hundred thousand men and hurled them lifeless into the snowdrifts and on the hard surface of congealed rivers and into the maws of the dogs that had followed them from Moscow. The shivering horror of that scene shows how vainly any earthly power accepts the challenge of the text: 'Who can STAND BEFORE HIS COLD?"

At Valley Forge, in the middle of December, 1777, lay eleven thousand troops with feet and ears and hands frosted. Hungry as well as cold. Many of them without shoes and without blankets and without shelter lying on the white pillow of the snowbank. Many of the people at home made a senseless demand for a winter campaign, until Washington lost his equilibrium and wrote impatiently: 'I can assure these gentlemen that it is much easier and less distressing to draw remonstrances in a comfortable room by a good fireside than to occupy a cold, bleak hill. and sleep under frost and snow without any blankets.' 'Oh, the frigid horrors that crowded around the army of the American Revolution in the winter of 1777! Benumbed, senseless, dead! 'Who can stand before His cold?'

'Not one?' responded the frozen lips of Sir John Franklin and his crew. 'Not one!' answered Schwatka and his men falling back from the fortress of iceberg which they tried in vain to capture. 'Not one!' say the abandoned hulks of the Intrepid, the Resolute, the Assistance and the Jennette. 'Not one!' say the procession of artic martyrs now moving homeward for American sepulchre, De Long and his friends. The mightiest pillars of earth are pillars of ice—Mount Blanc, the Jungfrua, the Matterhorn. The largest galleries of earth are galleries of ice. Many of the great rivers and lakes of the earth are bound in CAPTIVITY OF ICE.

The greatest sculptors of the age are glaciers working with foot and arm and chisel and hammer of ice. The cold regions on a throne of ice, with footstool of ice and scepter of ice.

No one will ever fully tell the sufferings of the winter of 1433, when the birds of Germany nearly all perished, or of 1658 in England, when a line of stages ran upon the River Thames and shops were built on the ice for merchandise, or of 1851 in America, when New York Harbor was so frozen that teams passed across the ice to Staten Island. Yes millions of people on both side of the sea this winter, wrapping themselves in furs and gathering around fires and threshing their arms to revive circulation, and all the chilled inhabitants of temperate and arctic zones respond 'None of us can stand before His cold.'

One half the industries of the world are employed in the alleviations of depressed temperature. The furs of the North, the cottons of the South, the flocks of our own fields and the wool of our own flocks, yea, the coal of the mines and the wood of the forests are employed in the battle against this inclemency. Yet the blue lips and chattering teeth of every January confess with the hyperborean blasts. 'Who can stand before His cold?'

DEFEAT IN THE CONTEST

Now, this being such a cold world, God sends forth influence to warm it. The God of the frost, I rejoice to know, is the God of the warmth. Against the work of January he sets the work of June. What can we do to warm up this old world? Is a question of immediate and all-encompassing practicability. In this weather there are many fireless hearths, many broken window panes, many defective roofs, that sift trough the snow. Coal and wood, flannels and thick coats are better for the warming of such places than tracts and Bibles and creeds. Start up the fire where it has gone out! Wrap up the limbs that shiver! Shoe the bare feet! Hat the bare head! Sleeve the bare arm! Coat the bare back! Nearly all the pictures of Martha Washington represent her with courtly dress, bowed to by foreign ambassadors. But Mrs. Kirkland gives the most impressive picture of her when she describes her in winter camp, issuing from her husband's hut—a building sixteen feet long by fourteen wide—to nurse the sick soldiers, and sew the patched garments, and console those dying of cold. It would take hundreds of new stoves, hundreds of tons of fuel, hundreds of warm articles of dress, hundreds of glaziers at defective window-sashes, hundreds of great-hearted men and women to in January.

MAKE THESE CITIES WARM

What are we doing to make this season tolerable to many not fortunate as we? There are thousands of persons in these great cities who could not stand before this cold. Before you accomplish much for the spiritual temperament of the world you will have to help its physical condition. No use to preach to people with cold feet and empty stomachs and thirsty lips and gaunt visages. Before Christ began to preach to five thousand famished people in the wilderness he gave them a good dinner.

But in more senses than one this is a cold world, and I want this morning to consult with you as to the best way of warming it up. There is one great heater that I want to introduce to all your houses and churches and into all parts of the world. It is a divine patent. It has many pipes to conduct the heat. It has many doors to throw in the fuel. Get it fully introduced, and it will turn the arctic into the temperate zone, and the temperate into the tropics. It is a powerful furnace—the great heater of Christian sympathy. Instead of having the question prominent 'How much can I absorb?' let us have the question prominent: 'How much heat can I throw out?' Many men float around the world, great icebergs. They freeze you by their forbidding look. The hand with which they shake yours is of a polar bear. There are icicles hanging to their eyelashes. As they float into social circles the thermometer drops from eighty above zero to ten below. Going into a prayer meeting they chill everything by fault-finding. There are churches all frozen over by the dominance of such people. Cold prayers, cold sermons, cold songs, Christianity kept on ice. Other men and women go through the world like the breath of a spring morning. Warm hearts warm greetings, warm prayers, warm sermons. One such person in a social circle or religious meeting will melt all sorrows and lift all depression and commingle all sympathies. In the English army, while in the field and on the march, a general fell sick, and his baggage being far away, he lay down without any blanket. An officer said: 'I will get you a blanket,' and after a few moments' absence returned and covered the general with a warm covering.

'Whose blanket is this?' said the General. The officer said: 'It belongs to Ralph McDonnell, a private soldier.' 'He has no blanket?' said the general. 'No,' said the officer; 'I have taken his for you.' Then the general and said: 'Take that blanket back to the private soldier; he needs it as much as I do.' How many such men would it take to warm the world if they all had hearts like that general. If you ask men, 'Who can stand before His cold?' I put another question, 'Who can stand before His warmth?' It was this fellow-feeling that was shown in the rocky defile between Jerusalem and Jericho in Scriptural time. There lay a man who had been set on by bandits, and in struggling to keep his property he had been pounded and stabbed and left for dead. A priest came by and looked on him, and said within himself, 'Why, there's a man flat on his back; guess he must have got hurt. I wonder what is the matter with him. But I must hurry up to the temple to look after the sacrifices. Go along, you beast, and carry me up to my temple duties.' A Levite came up to the unfortunate man and looked at him and said, 'There is a gash on his forehead; what a pity! There is a stab under his arm; what a pity! Dear me, his clothes are all torn off him; what a pity! But I must be going, for I lead the choir in the temple service. Go along, you beast, and carry me to my duties'

A Samaritan, who, by reason of an OLD NATIONAL GRUDGE,

might have been expected to reject this robbed Jew, come up. He says: 'How terribly this man is hurt! I see by his features he is a Jew, but what of that, he is a man.' 'Whoa!' he shouts to the beast on which he rides. He gets off, goes down on one knee and listens to the heart of the wounded man to find whether he has any life left in him, and concludes he may be resuscitated. The kind Samaritan takes out of his sack a bottle of oil and a bottle of wine. With the wine he clarifies and washes out the wounds and probably pours into his mouth some of the stimulent, and then, with the wine, soothes the wounds. Probably tearing a piece of his own garment he bandaged up the wounds. Now the man sets up, pale and weak, but thankful. The Samaritan says: 'You get on this saddle and I will walk.' With much gentleness and great care the Samaritan helps him on the beast and walks beside him. As they slowly move on toward the tavern, ever and anon the wounded man, holding on and balancing himself with all his might, says to his benefactor, 'You are very while you walk.' Arrived at the tavern the Samaritan, with the aid of the landlord gets the wounded man dismounted and puts him to bed. The Samaritan stays all night, and the next morning, having gone in to see how the poor wounded fellow is getting on, goes up to the landlord and says: 'Here is money to pay that man's board, and if his convalescence is slower than I anticipate charge all the expense to me. Good morning, all.' 'Go along, you beast!' says the Samaritan, but a little slowly for that band of robbers sweeping through the country may have left some other man wounded and half dead. Sympathy! Christian sympathy! How many men like that would it take to warm up this cold world?

KIND TO LET ME RIDE

Famine in Zarephath! Everything is dried up. A widow with one child, and no food in the house but a handful of meal! She is gathering sticks to make a fire to cook that handful, and then, wrapping her child in her arms, die of starvation. Here comes up Elijah. His two black servants, the ravens, have stopped waiting on him, and he is starving, and asks this woman far food. The handful was to be divided among two, for herself and her son. Now she resolves to divide it among three. Come in, Elijah, to the solemn table, and take your third of

THIS LAST MORSEL.

How many women like that would it take to warm up the cold world?

On a rail train at that South-west recently an engineer on a locomotive saw a train coming with which he must collide. Resolved to stand at his post and try to slow up the train, he cried out to the fireman: "Jump! One man is enough on this engine!" The fireman jumped. The crash came. The engineer met death at his post. How many men like that engineer would it take to warm up this cold world?

It was this power of sympathy that Mrs. Fry carried into the insufferable horrors of Newgate prison, until imprecation and error and filth gave place to cleanliness and repentance and prayer and a reformed life.

It was this that led the Sisters of Charity in 1863 on Northern and Southern battle-fields with medicines and cordials and bandages for boys in blue and the boys in grey who were bleeding to death. The black bonnet with the edges pinned back and the white band on the forehead may not have met the demand of artistic elegance, but could not persuade the dying soldier a thousand miles from home that it was that looked him in the face.

Aye, it was this practical sympathy that set Christ to warming the cold world. The land from which he came He came hath a serene sky and genial atmosphere and tropical luxuriance. No icy blasts in Heaven or chilled fountains or frosted gardens. But He came on a cold December night into our world's frigidity. The thermometer never drops below zero in Palestine, but December is a cheerless month, and it is hard to find any pasturage there at that time. In that cold month Christ stepped into our cold world. The barn was cold. The mountains were cold. The surf of stormy Gennesaret was cold. The world's reception of Him cold. Joseph's sepulchre was cold. But He came as a warmer to a cold world, and all Christendom to-day feels the glow. He warms every hospital, warms every asylum, warms every church, warms every Christian home. He will keep on warming the world until the tropics crowd our arctics and antarctics. He gives intimation of what he meant to do when he broke up the funeral at the gate of Naim and turned it into a reunion festival. With the breath of His lips He

MELTED A GALILÆAN HURRICANE

He warmed up the seven thousand chilled with hunger in the wilderness by giving them plenty to eat, and warmed up the tomb of Lazarus till the shackles of death were broken. Under His genial presence a child falling into fire and water was healed of the catalepsy, and the withered arm took healthy, muscular action, and the deaf ear that could not have heard an avalanche became sensitive enough to catch a leaf's rustle, and the tongue that could not articulate trilled a quatrain, and the blind eye was relumed, and while they thought Christ was asleep in the tomb for three days He occupied that time, while the world's curtain of observation was dropped, in walking through all the underground passages of the earth and sea wherever there might in after time be a christian grave, and kindled there a warmth of resurrection heat that shall keep its glow until the last cerement and mausoleum shall be opened.

The glorious sun is breaking in on the polar night of the nations, and if Christ is the warmth the church is the hot-house of the hemispheres, with its plants and flowers and trees of righteousness. It is the only institution

THAT PROPOSES WARMTH.

Universities and observatories and philosophies of the world gives light but no heat. Geology informs us, but is as cold as the rock it hammers. The telescope shows where other worlds are, but the astronomer freezes while looking through it. Worldly philosophy has a great splendor, yet it is the philosophy of an iceberg. But the church gives warmth to the affections, and warmth to the hopes, and warmth to the sympathies. Blessed be God for her great altar-fire! Come in! Come in! Come in and have your wounds salved! Come in and have your sorrows solaced! Come in and have your souls pardoned! Sit down at the grand old gospel fireplace!

Notwithstanding all the modern apparatus for heating buildings, nothing will ever have the sociality or cheer of the old-time country fire-place. The neighbors were to come in for a wintry evening of sociality. Middle of the afternoon a big log was carried in with heavy strain and put on the hearth. Lighter wood was added, armful after armful. A shovel of living coals from another room was put amid the dry pit. The kindling and crackling began, and rose toward the chimney in a great roar of flames that by nightfall filled all the room with pleasantness, and was reflected from the family pictures hanging all round the wall. Then the neighbors came in one by one and sat down with their faces to the fire which was again and again stirred with tongs, and put aright on the andirons. And there were such times of rustic repartee and as no blind stove or black register ever knew about. Meanwhile the table was being spread, and so fair was the cloth and so clean the cutlery they gleam and glisten in our memories, and all the luxuries of orchard and barnyard properly roasted and prepared, were gathered on that table for the appetites sharpened by the cold ride.

Well, my friends the Church of God is the warm fireplace for the great neighborhood of Christian discipline. The wood is from the forests of Lebanon. The fires are fires of love, and we stir them with the silver tongs of the altar, and the light is reflected from the old family pictures on the wall of those who once sat here, but are gone now. Come up by the fire! Let it transfigure your faces weakened with care! Put those feet cold with journey, up by the heavenly conflagration. Chilled through with the neglects, and misjudgments, and troubles of life, come so near you can get warmed through. Exchange experiences. Talk over the harvests. Talk all the Gospel news. Meanwhile the table is being spread. Bread of life. Grapes of Eschol. New wine of the kingdom. A thousand luxuries celestial And now a scarred hand raps on the table, and a tender voice breaks in upon the colloquy saying: 'Come, for all things are now ready! Eat, O friends! Drink! yea, drink, O beloved.'

My friends, this is the way the cold world is to be warmed. All nations are to sit around the grand old Gospel fireplace. Yea, they are to sit down at the neighborhood banquet. 'While I was musing the fire burned." Come in out of the cold! Come in out of the cold!

Mrs. A. Nixon, Brantford writes: 'I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years. Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankfull to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

A LONG TIME.

Fifteen years of suffering from the tortures of Dyspepsia is indeed a long time. A. Burns blacksmith of Cobourgh, was thus afflicted but it only required one bottle of Burrock Blood Bitters to completely cure him.

THE ASSESSMENT QUESTION.

On Monday evening the City Council will choose the name of some gentleman for the position of Assessor. We sincerely hope that the members of the Board will not stultify themselves by rejecting every name on the ground of disqualification. No one applicant will possess all the desirable qualifications at the outset. Let us have the best available man and, equipped with experience, he will, in the course of a year or two, give ample return for his salary.

We trust that Ald. Diamond will not find it necessary to make a motion rescinding one for which but two weeks ago he himself voted. If the principle of one Assessor is right adhere to it and good will come of it.

There is another matter which we think of some importance. It has been the practice heretofore to give to the Assessors of each year the "field notes" or data of those who preceded them thus adopting the easiest way of perpetuating errors. It's all very well to say, give him such notes as have been found correct. Many are assumed to be correct; others are admittedly inaccurate; some are partly right and partly wrong. Would it not be better to have the new Assessor commence de novo. In larger cities where there is one Assessor for each ward they are transferred from time to to time to guard against their falling into a settled groove of valuation. It is highly desirable to prevent this and just now the surest way is to have the new man thrown on his own resources and responsibility. When three unskilled and, oftentimes, stupid men were appointed the necessity for the old practice was much greater as they always sought out the groove and worked as near to it as circumstances would permit. We think, unless there is some stronger reason for it than we have yet heard, that if the method and valuation for this year is entirely new better results will be obtained.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

$438,000 was spent by the Dominion Government for immigration last year.

Sir Charles Tupper admits that at the behest of a railway company the Government of Canada transcended its powers.

The Provincial Board of Health is preparing a text book on hygiene for the Normal and Model Schools at the request of the Minister of Education.

It is a good sign for this young county that the Young Irishmen's Society, of Kingston, has resolved to cease parading in public on St. Patrick's Day.

A week ago we predicted that our local contemporary would not venture to repeat its assertion that the rate of taxation to-day was not larger than ever before, and we were right.

Mr. Carnegie, of Peterboro', who was heralded with a flourish of trumpets, as one of the ablest additions made to the Opposition side of the House, has had his speech described as exceedingly tiresome.

Some $700,000 of the people's money given to the C.P.R. Company was expended in sustaining the stock of the Northwest Land Company. This surely was an improper application of the funds of that wonderful company.

Mr. Wanzer, sewing machine manufacturer, of Hamilton, used to employ 300 hands in one of his establishments. Last week he was employing 70 in both. Sir Leonard Tilley will not inspect the factories during the coming summer.

After reading to the House the utterance in 1881 of Sir John Macdonald about the unprecedented strength of the C. P. R. Syndicate, which was held out as an inducement to Parliament to give them such a favorable contract, being as how they would build it "slick", Mr. Blake took notice of the Premier's "Hear, hear" to say—'Yes, Mr. Speaker, the company is strong because it appears they have a sleeping partner, the Dominion of Canada."

The recent disastrous fire in Madoc by which some eighty or ninety thousand dollars went up in smoke, warns the property holders of that thriving village of the danger they are in from lack of adequate fire protection. Aspiring as it does to be a county town it should have invested in a steam fire engine and not depend upon the primitive appliances which, though they may have done good service on Monday night are not to be depended on to protect a town from an ever-present contingency such as the late conflagration.

Much virtue in If, said Touchstone. Thus the Hamilton Spectator moralises: "If there are sufficient guarantees that the money borrowed from the country will be expended on the railway, and if public sentiment is educated to such a point that the guarantees must be enforced, both as to the refunding of the money and the proper expenditure of every dollar of it, there cannot be any danger in the loan." The same journal very properly says:—"The people of Canada will not tolerate any paltering with the truth concerning the business, and they will not permit trickery or double dealing on the part of the men who are soliciting public bounty."

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated, removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective.

To cure consumption, ulceration in the lungs must be stopped, the matter must be thrown off, the membranes and tissues, healed and the system invigorated. Downs' Elixir will do all this. Try it. Every bottle warranted.

Meeting of Yachting and Bicycle Clubs.

TURF, CURLING AND GENERAL NOTES

The Ottawa races begin on Wednesday.

"Little Walter" has been entered in the five mile race at Ottawa.

"Lookout," owned here by Mr. Fred. Gauthier, is taking in the western trotting meetings.

The Belleville curlers propose to meet Perth club at Kingston to play for the Caledonian medal, and afterwards to play a friendly match with the Kingston club.

At the Montreal races on Thursday, Marie Olive, owned by W. J. Eyers, of Brighton, showed some good speed and won first money in the 2.45 trot. Bay George, of Picton, (Horan's horse) was fifth into the first four heats, when be consent of the judges he was drawn. Six heats were trotted. The race for the three year old colts was captured by a Montreal horse. The races will be concluded to-day.

MEETING OF YACHTSMEN.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club met last evening and favorably considered the proposal to form a Yachting Association. A committee, consisting of Messrs. James Clarke, Commodore W. Pike, Treasurer; B. S. Bell, Secretary and G. N. Leavens, Teasurer, was appointed to arrange the details upon which the club wil favor the formation of such an association.

THE BICYCLE CLUB.

At the meeting of the Bicycle Club last evening in their new hall, Front Street, considerable business was transacted which showed the club is active. The report with reference to the renting of the riding hall was presented and on motion a one-year lease was confirmed. A Committee was appointed to draft by-laws and rules for the regulation of the Club, and also consider a distinctive name for the organization. It was decided to have a literary, musical and social public entertainment at an early date, and a Committee was named to make arrangements. The Captain announced that Mr. Corby, President of the Club, had intimated his intention of donating a valuable cup for competition among the members. This generous offer was received with cheers and a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Corby was passed.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

MR. MOWAT'S LEGISLATION.

The work on the Board of Health in the Province of Ontario deserves the grateful approval and hearty co-operation of every one anxious to promote the physical and moral well-being of our people.—Evangelical Churchman.

HOW GOLDWIN SMITH WOULD VOTE.

To stay the construction of the unremunerative sections of the road and leave the twenty-two millions and a half in the pockets of the people, would, of course, now be the policy for which the "Bystander" would vote.—The Week.

A STRONG GOVERNMENT.

There never was a stronger, all-round Government in Canada than that which Mr. Meredith has just failed to dislodge from control of the affairs of Ontario. There is not a weak member in it. They are anything but the imbeciles that the Mail has toiled to paint them. They are as strong as a whole Government; each man is strong in his department, and in defending it; they are old hand at parliamentry tactics; and in all that is implied by the terms "managing the country" and "managing the House" they are at home. Man for man, who can the Conservatives put up against them? Mr. Meredith against Mr. Mowat? Mr. Lander against Mr. Pardee? Mr. Creighton against Mr. Hardy? What three of remainder are equal to Mr. Fraser? They don't compare—they only contrast.—World.

THE ORANGE BILL.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—It was generally expected when the Orange Incorporation Bill was reported by the Standing Orders Committee to-day that the bill would be introduced forthwith. Mr. Hector Cameron was in his place and Mr. John White was watching him critically, but the order passed without any attempt being made to secure a first reading of the bill. Messrs. Henry Merrick, E. F. Clarke, and W. J. Parkhill, appeared in the gallery this after noon. It is not known whether the object of their mission is to secure the withdrawal of the bill. Supporters of the Government are authority for the statement that Mr. John White is seeking the seat in the Senate vacated by the late Senator Hamilton, of Kingston.—Globe.

'I had been for eight months unable to work and felt as though I would as lief die as live through Dyspepsia and Indigestion, I weighed at the time of of getting a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure 130lbs.; used three bottles, and now weigh 165 lbs, and never was better in my life. It was McGregor's Speedy Cure that brought me around' So says Wm. Fell, Hamilton, Go to A. L. BUYING AND SELLING.

What does the working man have to sell?

His Labour,

What does he get for his labour?

The going rates

Does the Government ensure him living wages?

No; labour is unprotected; it must shift for itself.

What does the working man have to buy?

Shelter, clothing, food, medicine, and tools.

Does the Government provide that these necessaries of life shall be cheaply furnished?

No; these have also to be bought in the open market, and the Government has so arranged its tax list that (without benefit to itself) the price of shelter, clothes, food, medicine and tools is heavily increased. This is protection. But the labourer gets none of it; he merely pays it for the benefit of "the protected interests." Protection is a great thing when you come to understand it.—Philadelphia Record.

THE QUIET SPECTATOR.

The other evening in a George St. residence, I listened to an agrument between a lady and a gentleman, the subject of which was the rights of woman. The lady was fairly well informed and her adversary had read of the matter considerable. That prolific topic, Leap Year, was responsible for the whole conversation. While the talk is on the matrimonial aspect of the peculiar season, let me refer to something based on the authority of a fifteenth century manuscript, according to which it is unlucky to marry on any of thirty-two days in the year. These days are, January 1, 2, 4, 5, 7, 10, 15; February 6, 7, 18; March 1, 6, 7; April 6, 11; May 5, 6, 7; June 7, 15; July 5, 19; August 15, 19; September 6, 7; October 6; November 15, 16, and December 15, 16, 17. Consequently January is the worst month and October the best month in the year for marriage.

Why ought not women, asks the lady boldly attacking the enemy's position, to have as many civil and political rights as men? Had they not just as much at stake? Was woman's happiness not just as much bound up in the peace and well-being of her country as men's? Why then should they not have a voice in public policy upon which much of that happiness depended? But, answered the gentleman, are women not represented by their husbands or fathers who ought to have as much regard for the happiness of their wives and daughters as for their own? I reflected here on the distinction between what men ought to do and what they do. And unless they were similarly situated and subject to the influence of the same conditions as women are, how could they know the opinions of the latter on any particular subject. It is claimed that the enfranchisement of women means much more than the mere right of voting, and includes individual, mental, moral and physical freedom.

No one continued the lady, can represent another at the polls in this free country and she thought they had a right to be heard on the platform and through the ballot. Coming to the old but best known argument, her opponent contended that Providence had given women a certain place in society and in the natural order of things she should fill that place designed for her in the home. Why should she desire to go out and bespatter herself with the mud of politics and mingle with blatant orators? What would her pleadings avail against the stern logic of man's reasoning? Women could not as a rule compete with men in dealing with the stern problems of the day. Her's it should rather be to soothe the excited political orator and tired canvasser. Matters such as Temperance in which women have a peculiar interest? Granted, but when the country is educated up to prohibition, a Parliament of men will grant it. In the meantime woman can in her own sphere exert her great influence in educating society to this point He would sooner the women of Canada should take the position of which Susan Coolidge sings:—

I do not ask for ballot—
Though very life at stake;
I would beg for the nobler justice
That, men for manhood's sake
Should give ungrudgingly, nor withold, till
I must fight and take.

There was more of the coversation but much of it was in reiteration of the sentiments already quoted. The lady might have made her case stronger, She might have pointed to the noble assistance given the late Wendell Philips and Wm. Lloyd Garrison in the movement for the abolition of slavery. She might have called in evidence of the capacity of women to govern states, the fact that a colonial dependency of Holland in the Island of Java is ruled by women. The sovereign is indeed a man but he is advised by a council of three women and all the rest of the government is in the hands of the fair sex. The men are agriculturists and merchants. The body guard of the king consists of the female elite.

On the other hand I am perfectly convinced of the impropriety of women throwing themselves into political and social agitations. Some exceptional women may do this with credit to themselves and advantage to the community, but exceptions only prove a rule. Now the youthful conduct of the veteran reformer, Mrs. Cady Stanton, was not seemly. At school she talked the boy's slang, tried to drive fast horses as they did, and was thoroughly disgusted when she found that she could not enter Union College where the boys went. Her later life, however, has been a model one and she enjoys the distinction of being the only woman who ever ran for Congress. I will not stop to enquire into the truth of Dr. Hammond's assertion that woman's brain weighs less than man's but conclude by quoting Mrs E. Little's answer to the query "what are woman's rights"?

The right to labor and to pray;
The right to watch while others sleep;
The right o'er others woes to weep;
The right to succor in reverse;
The right to bless while others curse;
The right to love whom others scorn;
The right to comfort all that mourn;
The right to shed new joy on earth;
The right to feel the souls high worth;
The right to lead the world to God,
Along the path her Saviour trod;—
The path of meekness and of love,
The path of faith that leads above,
The path of patience under wrong,
The path in which the weak grow strong,
Such Women's Rights—and God will bless
And crown their champions with success.

The City Solicitor states that the Mayor could not give a standing order to the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, empowering him to demolish buildings and fences to arrest the progress of fire. Such an order might be issued by His Worship or by two Aldermen at a fire, and then great precaution should be taken.

The expenses of the recent deputation to Toronto amounted to $53.75, and the Solicitor's bill to the Assessment Convention was $12 50. Both sums passed the Executive Committee last night. It is a new order of things to pass such bills through the Council. It is quite evident that the day of champagne deputations is over.

Two young men named Boyle and Whalen raised a disturbance in the show last night and constable Hayes was summoned to eject them. They resisted for a time, but the officer knew his duty and the boys soon learned that resistence was impossible. They spent the night in the cells singing songs, such as "I'm drunk I am, I know I am."

The Committee of the School Board on Sites Buildings and Repairs met last evening and decided to make such alterations in the large assembly room in the Central School as will accommodate all the pupils attending that school, and give the three rooms up stairs formerly used by them to the High School Department. The repairs will cost about $500.

A motion was made yesterday before the Common Pleas Divisional Court, Toronto, by Mr. Dickson, Q C., to set aside the nonsuit in the case of McFarlane vs. Gilmour & Co., and enter a verdict for the plaintiff for $1,000, at which sum the jury assessed the damages at the the trial in Belleville last fall. Mr. Bell, Q. C., opposed the motion, and judgment was reserved.

The docket at the Police Court this morning was as follows: Richard Whalen and James Boyle, were fined $10 and costs each for raising a disturbance in the City Hall last night. John Muskey, drunk, discharged John Cahill and George Sills each paid $8 for the privilege of fighting on Front street. Walter Fanning contributed $2 and $1 costs for using abusive language towards Mrs. Langley, and John Broderick for insulting Thomas Ransy was taxed $2 and $5.20 costs.

Mr. Wm. Rafoe, Yeomans' Hill, had his chesnut horse and cutter stolen from his barn during last night, and he was of course at a loss to know where to make a search for the missing property. Fortunately, however, the rig turned up all right in Mr. Wm. Kelley's yard, front of Sidney, early this morning. The horse he states came in his yard from the west and appeared to have been driven hard. It is probable that some person ha taken this means of having a cheap drive to Trenton, and when once there, the horse has been sent back alone. The police have the case in charge and may yet make it warm for the perpetrator.

CIVIC COMMITTEES.

The Applicants for the Position of Assessor.

The Market Committee met last night, and endorsed an account from C. F. Smith & Co. for $166.83 for a furnace and other heating apparatus.

COURT OF REVISION.

The Court of Revision considered and granted the prayer of the petition from Mrs. H. Thompson, praying for the remission of her taxes for 1883 amounting to about $20.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The Committee recommended the passage of the accounts from the other Committees. The resolution from the Ministerial Association asking that the Assessors be instructed to make a note of the number of children in the city who do not belong to any religious denomination was taken up, but as the duties of these officials are regulated by the Municipal Act, the committee had no power to take any action in compliance with the request of the petition. Mrs. Hunt's petition asking damages from the city for injuries which her child received on Thanksgiving Day on Yeomans Hill, was laid over for further consideration. Miss M. A. Sinnetts claim for damages for $300 was referred to the Solicitor for his report. The following sealed applications for the appointment of an assessor were opened:—John H. Gordon, Francis McKay, Andrew Black, M. B. Roblin, Thos. Rutherford, J. A. Campion, John Jellett, J. F. Siericks, Albert Morton, W. H. Campbell. Virtually the third, Mr. A. Black, is not an applicant, as he merely wrote to know if the Council would appoint an outside man.

The Chairman suggested that the Committee should refer the names to the Council as a whole and not make any choice, leaving the matter with the Council for their consideration. In the meantime each Alderman could have an opportunity of considering the applications, and by Monday night they would have their minds made up who they intended to support.

Ald. J. W. Johnson thought there were three names at least in the list who were capable of performing the duties of an Assessor.

Ald. Diamond was of the opinion that a good choice could be made from the applicants. His suggestion was accepted and the names of the aspirants for the office were referred as received to the Council.

The Committee decided that during the year no account would be passed by them unless accompanied by proper vouchers.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Wood, M.P.P., arrived from Toronto last night.

Mr. N. Murphy, Barrister, Toronto, is in the city.

Mr. Geo. I. Thomas leaves for New Orleans next week.

Miss Dalmage, of this city, will sing at a concert in Napanee on Tuesday evening.

STEPHEN ROBLIN.

Stephen Roblin, aged 87, also of an U. E. Loyalist family, and nephew of Mr. D. W. Allison M. P. died at Adalphustown on the 1st. inst He took part in the war of 1812, and was a pensioner. "No; she lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years, the doctors doing her no good; and at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about. Indeed! indeed! how thankfull we should be for that medicine."

PARLIAMENTARY NOTES.

In the House of Commons Mr. Allen introduced a bill to extend the jurisdiction of the Maritime Court of Ontario, and several private bills introduced. The debate on the Pacific Railway resolutions was then resumed by Mr. Ives, who was followed by Sir Richard Cartwright and Messrs. White, (Caldwell), Casgrain, and Woodworth. At one o'clock the debate was, on motion of Mr. Davies, adjourned.

Sir Richard Cartwright's speech was trenchant and powerful, and gave great satisfaction to his friends. His exposition of the fact that, while the loan was being urged to complete the Pacific Railway within two years, no obligation was imposed upon the Company to complete it in that time obliged Sir Charles Tupper to rise latter on and state that the Government intended to make such provision in their agreement.

Henry Clement Almonte, writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it. I began to use it both externally and internally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equal.

At the last meeting of the Ministerial Association, Rev. A. We understand that the Rev. E. J. Stobo has had several invitations to settle in Ontario. A call from Hamburgh, N. Y., also a call to the pastorate of the Baptist Church, Quebec City, and it is more than likely that he will accept the latter in the interests of the Denomination and also for health's sake, as his health has been farm from satisfactory of late.

Bishop Jamot has been in Peterboro', now sixteen months, and appears to be very popular. Besides the recent presentation of a fur suit, a crozier was, a short time ago, at the instance of the Sisters of Notre Dame Convent, presented to him. It was a costly one, its value being $150.

Rev. Dr. Charles S. Robinson's "Open Letter" in the February Century on "Artistic Help in Divine Worship" will be followed by others from the same writer on the general subject of church music. "Organs and Orchestras in Church" will appear in the March number, and "Worshiping by Proxy" later.

Rev. Thomas Harrison, the revivalist, is filling an engagement in a St. Louis Church, the term being thirteen weeks, and the pay a hundred dollars a week and expenses. His conversions are very numerous, and some Christians desired him to extend his influence in another part of the city to the extent of making a ten-minute address at the opening of a revival series of meetings; but he refused unless recompensed in cash, and there is a great deal of hot criticism of him in consequence.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could sound your praise from shore to shore. Hoping the Lord will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

Unfortunately no one had seen the accident, and he had remained all night exposed to the action of the weather in intense pain, and when discovered the next morning, the poor fellow was in a pitiful strait.

A kind nurse was the one thing, of all others, most needful in his subsequent illness, and in Ethel Aubrey he found one most tender and pitiful.

All that the father could do, too, he had done, and the patient felt for these merciful Samaritans the most passionate gratitude.

Shortly after Mr. Aubrey's arrival in London he had chanced to meet De Langtonville, who happened to be in town, and who was overjoyed to see his old friend.

And perhaps Mr. Aubrey was glad to come across a familiar face, in what was to him a crowded desert, for none recognized him, nor indeed were very likely to recognise one who had been absent from England so many years, and this visit was the result of the rencontre.

'Good morning, fair my lord, and you, my lady sweet, a bright good morrow,' was the actor's theatrical greeting, which changed into a hearty, 'I am so glad to see you, sir. I needn't ask you how you are Miss Ethel, for your face tells me. I am so rejoiced to shake hands with you, my—my—my little nurse. I must say it, seems almost too familiar, now that you have grown from a little girl into a young young lady. You won't be angry with me?'

The smile in her sweet eyes was sufficient answer.

Always a girl, thank God, in the freshness of her heart,' said the father, caressing her silken hair.

'You remember Avranches, Miss Ethel, and all the trouble I gave you there. By Jove! what a long way it did seem down that cliff. There was no moon that night as I lay on the beach, but, by Jove! there was a sunbeam about the next day, which compensated ten thousand times for the darkness of the night.'

'My little girl did her duty, as I hope she always will do,' her father replied proudly, while Ethel blushed at the compliment.

'Duty, sir? But there, I'll say no more. It isn't generally considered a lucky occurrence to break your leg, and have a wretched fever, but somehow, I've always felt rather glad it happened.'

There is a magic power in the gentle presence of a pure-hearted girl, irresistibly leading to good, and who can tell what thoughts Ethel's sisterly care had inspired in that man, long tried by years of contact with the world?

'But come, sit down and have some tea, and tell us how you have succeeded in your mission. You came to see about additions to your company, I think you said?' asked Mr. Aubrey.

'I have not succeeded very well.'

'Are the actors you want difficult to find?' asked Mr. Aubrey.

'No, sir, it isn't the difficulty of finding them, but of arranging with them when they are found. It's the same with the orchestra. A violin has conscience enough for a violoncello in the matter of asking for salary. When I say has conscience of course, I mean has not. Then again, I wanted already to play the lead. I received a letter from one who said she had had experience, and from her testimonials, I thought she would suit admiribly, and so I made my mind easy on that point. I called this morning and found—well, sir, there is a prejudice against Juliets who weigh more than fourteen stone.

'How do you like London?' he inquired, after a pause.

'Pretty well. Mr. De Langtonville, only pretty well. We work hard, Ethel and I, and have not much time to think about enjoyment.'

'Work?' said the manager, with surprise in his tone.

He knew nothing of Mr. Aubrey's circumstances, and had no reason to suppose him well off; but there was about him something which seemed to raise him above ordinary necessities.

A proof of this was, that the actor had fallen into the habit of invariably calling his friend—

Sir.'

Not in the way which equals in social standing use the word in addressing each other, but as one who recognises a superior.

That his 'little nurse' should work seemed, too, so strange to him, and for a moment a shade crossed his brow.

An innate, gentlemanly feeling forbade his asking questions, but he was more than ever puzzled by the father and his daughter.

'Yes,' Mr. Aubrey answered, to the question, which had shown itself in the actor's eyes, 'we work, Mr. De Langtonville. I give lessons on the piano, and Ethel paints. These are her drawings.

And he handed a portfolio,

There is one which I think you will remember,' placing before him a sea scape.

'Remember!' Why, it's Avranches. There's the hotel, and there's your house, and there are these horrid cliffs.'

I shall be very glad it you will let me give it to you, if you care to keep it,' Ethel said.

'You could not have given me anything I should treasure so much. Thank you a thousand times. I don't require anything to remind me of dear old Avranches, but this picture seems like an old friend, I—I hope there's a good market for such beautiful pictures?' said the generous hearted actor, vaguly forming impossible plans for buying the portfolio full without acknowledging himself as the purchaser.

'Not very' replied Mr. Aubrey.

His hearer would have given all he possessed in the world to be able to assist his friend, but no way suggested itself to him. Yes there was a way, if he could only manage it with tact,

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemn I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it Besides, I took some swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained a world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefits which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure Mfg Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines brepared by W. Lumbers, When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a safe sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883,

Mr W LUMBERS, SR., Toronto Ont Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monckton, County Perth, Ont., Suly 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state wity very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better, I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending ti to all who suffer as I did. THOS. REID, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

LIFE'S MISERY.

We sow the glebe, we reap the corn,
We build a house where we may rest;
And then at moments suddenly
We look up to the great wide sky,
Inquiring wherefore we were born—
For earnest or for jest?

God keeps his holy mysteries
Just on the outside of man's dream!
In diapason slow, we think
To hear their pinions rise and sink,
While they float pure beneath His eyes,
Like swans adown a stream.

And sometimes horror chills our blood!
To be so near such mystic things;
And we wrap round us, for defence,
Our purple manners, moods of sense—
As angles from the face of God
Stand hidden in their wings.

And sometimes through life's heavy swound
We grope for them—with strangled breath
We stretch our hands abroad and try
To reach them in our agony
And widen so the broad life-wound,
Which soon is large enough for death.

HER EYES.

O eyes, whose color baffles me!
O eyes, that I so long to see—
Or grey, or blue, or brown, or all the three!
Or sometimes purple whatso'er you be,
O eyes, so soft, so tender, mournful, winsome, sad;
O eyes, whose merry laughter makes my heart feel glad;
O loving, gently eyes, so thoughtful, kind,
Words to describe you shall I ever find?
May your soft lustre ne'er be dimmed by grief;
May ev'ry sorrow that you share be brief;
May sunshine in you ever brightly beam,
Dear eyes I love, of whom so oft I dream.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

Call on the "Ontario Office"

overnment or any member of it is scarcely more important than the other fact revealed by the production of these documents, viz., that the secrecy of the telegraph office was violated by a young man who was there is now no reason to doubt brib d by Mr. Meredith's friends with Mr. Meredith's sanction. To induce a man perhaps otherwise honest to stoop to such a dishonorable act was unworthy of Mr. Meredith and attaches a taint to his character such as we would rather see even a political opponent without. The indecent facts of this telegraph steal are given by Capt. Burden in an official communication to the Provincial Secretary as follow :—

That some months before the election a young man named Stanton came to Rat Portage and was housed and fed at Section B headquarters. It was given out that he was to be employed as bookkeeper to the firm, but instead of that he was sworn in by McCarthy as assistant postmaster, and from that time acted as such and also as a telegraph operator.

The attention of the undersigned was drawn to the circumstances by the fact of seeing him in the office, and hearing it stated that he had openly boasted of tapping the wires in Muskoka for the Conservative party during the last local election there. This gave color to the idea that he had been brought to Rat Portage by Shields for a similar purpose during the pendency of the Algoma election.

The undersigned placed himself in communication with the P. O. Inspector at Winnipeg, and both verbally and by letter represented the circumstances, also stating that Shields had free access to the office at all times; and had been seen in it during the sorting and delivering of letters ; but the Inspector, though admitting that the matter looked suspicious, took no action in the way of removing the office, stating that McCarthy would shortly vacate the appointment, when the locality of the office would be changed as a matter of course. (McCarthy held the office until just one month after the election, as was expected by the writer of the accompanying letter to the Rat Portage Argus.) Stanton remained, and for some time acted as deputy-postmaster.

"On the 15th August the undersigned received from the Superintendent of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company at Winnipeg a notification that the C. P. R. would 'take possession of their own wires for commercial business at Rat Portage on September 1st, from which date connection with the Northwestern would cease.' The undersigned personally interviewed the C. P. R. authorities at Winnipeg and Rat Portage, and received an assurance that on the date named (Sept 1) the connection with the office in the Section B building (the postoffice) would be cut and all business transacted at the depot. The wires were cut, and for a day or two no messages were received or transmitted by either Foster or Stanton, but in less than a week communication was restored, and things remained so until after the election, when communication was cut off, and so it remains to this hour.

"Stanton has since left Rat Portage and gone to Ottawa, where he is understood to have received some appointment.

"From references in the Winnipeg Times newspaper it is morally certain that the cypher and other telegrams passing between the undersigned and the Government were violated in the Rat Portage office, and that Stanton was brought there for that purpose."

The tactics of the Shields Muskoka brigade with the sanction of Mr. Meredith are disreputable to all concerned and harmless to the Government.

OUR LOCAL CONTEMPORARY on Saturday copied a number of figures from the Hamilton Spectator, the fallacy of which we exposed in Tuesday's issue. It says our imports from the United States have materially decreased. Last year our imports from the United States were larger than in any year since Confederation. In 1879 we imported from the neighboring Republic $43,739,219 while in 1883 the importations had risen to the enormous sum of $56,032,333, or four millions more than we imported from Great Britain. Our contemporary will not deny the correctness of these figures any more than it did with reference to the per capita figures we gave.

AN APPEAL FOR A PRUDENT COURSE.

We contended against wide powers with reference to the extension of branches. I quite agree with the hon. gentleman that more railways than one in the North-West Territory are necessary. I told him so when he was proposing the C. P. R. measure. I agree with him, though I was a little surprised to hear him say it, that some of the branch lines this Company has built are of more importance than many sections of the main trunk line. How he reconciles that with his general notion as to the trunk line, I do not know.

A SERIOUS OBSTRUCTION.

We objected to a monopoly, and I think events have vindicated that it has been a very serious obstruction to the settlement of the North-West. We objected very strongly to what we believed was a wholly unconstitutional extension in the practice of the monopoly which the hon. gentleman inaugurated—I use the phrase advisedly—when he advised the disallowance of certain railway charters upon the principles upon which he did it. He says "No." He is very fond of sheltering himself under the ægis of those whose past, as a general rule, he busies himself in reviling and despising ; but upon this occasion he is entirely wrong in saying that the policy of the preceding Government furnishes authority for his policy.

THE ARBITRARY PROHIBITION.

What hon. gentlemen did was as far as they could in the contract to render it impossible that competition should be obtained and what they could not do in the contract they did by violating the spirit and executing a letter of law in disallowing all other railway charters in Manitoba. The contract itself says that in the North-West Territory, in those parts in which the Dominion has jurisdiction, no railway running in any such direction within such limits shall be chartered for the next 20 years, and it says that in any new Province hereafter erected this prohibition shall be continued, obviously meaning that in the existing Province no such prohibition could be made or was intended. To prevent that the contract contained the extraordinary provision that a new Province as yet unborn, should be further hampered and restricted by a provision prohibiting it from exercising its constitutional rights, and that is the face of the statement made by the Hon. First Minister in the debate often adverted to that. "We cannot check Ontario and Manitoba" he has been checking Manitoba ever since.—(Cheers.)

GILDING THE PILL.

The Hon. Minister of Railways says he is glad to be able to inform us to-night—I suppose he hopes to gild the pill for the North-West, by saying that as soon as the railway is actually built they will be able to review the question, and they really think they will be able to stop oppressing Manitoba and violating the constitution at some period two or three years hence. Why? He is kind enough to tell us why. Because the company think they will be able to do it safely. They think by that time, with their power and their privilege, and their exemption from taxation and laws, they will have stretched over the whole of that country, they will have it so entirely in their grip that it is really of no consequence what power you give the poor people. The hon. gentleman proposes that the horse shall die and then he will put a feed of hay before him. (Cheers.) Argument has been addressed to us to show that on the C. P. R. were extremely moderate, that they were very reasonable, that in a new country like this it costs a great deal, as no doubt it does, to run a railway ; but these arguments are all lacking in this, that those who use them forget that it was an element of this contract that the road would be run at unremunerative rates for a long time after it was opened, and that in consideration of that circumstance large moneys and land were added to the public aid that was to be given to the owners of it. Well, having paid them in advance for unremunerative running, it is now argued that the rates should be such as to remunerate them, and therefore they are to be paid double.

THE TRAFFIC RATES

TRANSCENDED THEIR POWERS.

The hon. gentleman stated that this transaction was almost warranted by the law. We have a new idea respecting the sanctity of contracts with Parliament and the power of the Executive in these later days. (Hear, hear.) It was only the other day that a solemn Act of Parliament passed by hon. gentlemen opposite, and providing certain things imperatively, was dispensed with by those hon. gentlemen, and when I asked the authority of the law I was told it was done under the law of necessity. We know that necessity knows no law, and as the hon. gentleman represented necessity, I do him no injustice in saying that he knew no law on that occasion. In that view I am almost surprised to learn that the hon. Minister of Railways admits that they have a little transcended the powers of the Government in making this arrangement. I say it was an act to be done only under a sense of the gravest responsibility, only in some emergency which would be of itself a justification for the breach of the law. It is an act which is calculated, if slurred over as this is slurred over, to throw doubt upon all the securities of the Canadian Government. But, sir, they were not satisfied that it was a pressing emergency, nor did it meet the emergency after all, for the hon. gentlemen tells us that his great coup was not merely a failure but a positive disaster to the company, because it did not improve the price of their stock by a dollar, and they came down to Parliament and tell us in the Speech from the Throne of this arrangement. They do not tell us that they transcended the law under the pressure of necessity, and are find the Company knocking at your doors again for further aid. I say that if you set them the example of these lavish subsidies, dealing as they have with outside enterprises, going on in the magnificent method in which they are going on, committed as you are, not merely by taking this mortgage but by giving these guarantees, you are powerless to close your hands against their further demands ; and I say that although you may put in all these terrible clauses about the Company ceasing to own the road if they make a default, which are enough to astound the stoutest heart, if he did not know the ways of a Canadian Government, yet the Company may make default and not lose the road. We have had other companies who did not lose their road under similar circumstances. We have had the Grand Trunk, to which we made advances on first lien—very first lien, a splendid first lien—and where is that lien now? It is I believe away down among the dead men. I believe it is seen in the public accounts and in our balances but it is visible nowhere else. (Hear hear)

IN CASE OF DEFAULT.

It is impossible not to recognize the lesson and the story of the past when looking at the present and to the forecast of the future, and what position would the Government and Parliament be in if at the end of these two years default should be made? Are you going to sacrifice the interests of those shareholders, those poor people who have spent money on the road, who have done so much good to the country, who have built a road faster than ever a road was built before and spent more money upon it than ever was spent before? Your charity and confidence and sympathy are immense; are you going to foreclose, hard-hearted usurers that you are ; you who thought yourselves, that said to yourselves that the security is two or three times the price advanced, are you going to shut down and turn these people out of house and home, strip them of their palaces, take away their lordly benefactions? Surely you will not behave so badly. (Cheers.) That will be the appeal which will be made ; that will be the appeal which will be listened to : the past tells us what the future will be.

WHAT WE ARE PAYING

Now, then, the hon. gentleman has stated that the prosperity of the North-West is due to the rapid construction of the C. P. R., and he gave us a number of most interesting figures with reference to the development of that country in the last three years. We all rejoice in this development and are all familiar with the figures. We have had them before us many times. We know that the North West has grown, but now is not without another side to it. For example the hon. gentleman told us that he had received from the lands from the 1st. of July, 1883, to the 31st Dec., 1883, $3,572,000. We know that that included early payments on colonization schemes, and, therefore, does not represent anything like permanent income, but we know also that in the same period we expended on the Indians, $3,096,000 ; on the Mounted Police, $1,135,000 and on Dominion Lands, $1,340,000 ; a total of $5,571,000. If, therefore, we are getting we are also paying.

INVESTIGATING THE ACCOUNTS.

The hon. gentleman felt it his duty to ascertain how things stood, and so he employed his Engineer and Commissioner of Inland Revenue to go to Montreal and make an investigation into the accounts of the Company, such as would be suitable in case somebody else was going to advance them a large sum of money upon their property or to become a partner in their business. That order was issued on the 28th of January, and the report was made—if I understand the hon. gentleman—all right on the 2nd of February. What were they sent down for? To inform the hon. gentleman's mind? To let him understand what they were doing? To give him that information which was necessary for him and his colleagues to arrive at a decision? Oh, no! because they had already reached a decision. They reached decision before the report came. An announcement was made. We had that policy declared to us, and therefore it was not for that purpose. But I suspect that it was because it was thought that we would accept the statement of the hon. gentleman's officer and the officer of the Inland Revenue. The Ministers under whom they acted concluded that they would enter into the partnership, that they would make the advance, and that Parliament should have such information as would enable it to agree with the Ministers. The officers make the enquiry in two, or three, or four days into those transactions involving so many millions of money. They make it in reference to a decision already arrived at. It is not the most surprising thing in the world that these two subordinates of the hon. gentlemen did not find that the accounts were all wrong, and that the transaction was one that he would not accept? I am amazed. It was so probable that they should have found differently from what the hon. gentleman had decided, it was so probable they should have differed from the Cabinet with reference to the proposition they were about to submit to Parliament. (Hear, hear.)

THE WINTER PORT.

The hon. gentleman said it was important that we should have the Canadian Pacific Railway run to a winter port in Canada ; he said also that the Company were of the same opinion. In point of fact, I do not know but that they have been expressing their opinion on that point to some of the members of this House not very long ago. (Hear, hear.) In order to do this it was necessary that they should secure the Montreal, Portland & Boston Railway. It was probably with the same admirable intentions they engaged a little while ago in that city of Portland, negotiating with the municipal authorities of that city for the purpose of acquiring the Portland & Ogdensburg Railway. I say that it would be trifling with the intelligence of the House to suppose this was other than a serious question with reference to the part of the policy of the Government and the Parliament that the resources which the Company possess by virtue of its contract are to be applied, while yet we are engaged in pouring out of the public treasury thirty millions, in creating an Atlantic terminus in the United States for the Canada Pacific Railway. (Cheers.)

THE COMPANY HAS FAILED.

This night proves how utterly and completely the Company has failed to realize the expectations of those who favoured it because I do not believe the country will agree for a moment that it is simply in order to finish the road in two years that we are asked to engage Canada's credit for $30,000,000. When it is found work has been handled, as it has been, unfortunately ; when it is found that the Company, by its have excited hostilities which have been very unfortunate for them ; that the road has been proceeded with, with reference to speed, in an unfortunate manner ; when, in consequence of the creation of its capital stock, which was unfortunate, the Company has deprived itself of the confidence of the world of capitalists, it must be evident that their object is not speed to complete the road, but to get money from us. The hon. gentleman has made out a case which is audacious, but let us be prudent in our action. Let us decide that no case has been made out for this transaction, that it is better to go on in terms of the contract as it is, without engaging the capital and credit of Canada to this enormous amount, to secure the realization of those expectations of the Company which they gave out to the world, which the Government adopted, which they are both very much disappointed cannot now be fulfilled, but which the Company did not expect ; which was not stipulated at all, and in respect to which any advantage which will ensue in alteration of our position and the entanglements in which we will be involved by this proposal is contained in the alternative now before us. I affirm, first, that the House has not been treated with due respect in reference to obtaining of information which ought to have been laid before us, in order that we might be able to judge; and secondly, upon such facts as have been laid before us; it is plain that those things to which I have adverted with reference to the Construction Company, the amount of stock the acquisition of other roads, etc., ought to be searchingly enquired into. It is better in the interests of the Company that they should be fully brought to light, and that all should understand exactly how the case stands; and that the system of mystery, of concealment, of half truths, which has gone on should not continue further. It would have been better for the Company if we had known the exact facts as to the guarantee when the guarantee was given ; as to the stock when stock was issued ; and as to acquisitions of other lines when acquisitions were made. Because what we did know imperfectly was magnified, and worse construction put upon things than they might have borne if the truth was known. The Directors of the Company are also contractors for the execution of their works, and we have no returns showing the particulars of those contracts or the estimates of the cost of the construction of the different sections. Even those friendly to the proposal must see that it is inadvisable to accept it. We are face to face with a condition of things, financially, which will be the subject of discussion in a few days, and it behoves us to be prudent, to pause before imposing additional engagements at this time on the country. Face to face with this state of things, we are asked to enter into those large engagements for which no reason has been given, and for which I contend no countervailing advantages are offered. I, therefore cannot give my assent to this proposal.

IMPRUDENT MANAGEMENT.

FURTHER ENQUIRY IS NECESSARY ;

Mr. W. B. Lazier bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes: 'I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stables. I have used it for bruises, scratches wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gives the best satisfaction. We used it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., It is a perfect panacea. It will remove warts by paring them down and applying it occasionally.'

TERRIBLE CRUELTY TO A CHILD.

HAMILTON, Feb. 8.—A Mrs. Ferrie, residing near Dundas, was charged by County Constable Fitzgerald with doing wilful grievous bodily harm to Nora Ellis, a 7-year-old adopted child brought out by Miss Rye. A domestic servant in the employ of Mrs. Ferrie was sworn before the Police Magistrate and gave evidence that on several dates Mrs. Ferris had stripped the little girl of her clothing and beaten her with a rod made of plaited switches. The beating continued for five minutes. On another occasion she had put a rope around the child's neck and drawn the ends till she turned black in the face and her tongue hung out. On another occasion, because the little girl did not see a chicken drowning in a pail of swill, the woman caught the girl in her arms and forced her head into the swill. The evidence did not sustain the charge of doing grievous bodily harm, but another charge will be framed against the woman Ferril.

FAMINE AND LOSS OF LIFE.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio—Two hundred houses were inundated here—a dozen industrial establishments and rolling mills are abandoned. Hundreds of workingmen are out of employment. No trains arrived from the east in two days.

$1,000,000 BRIDGE CARRIED OFF.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The Pennsylvania RR. bridge at Manyunk, which was carried away, had just been completed at a cost of over $1,000,000.

HOMELESS AND HUNGRY.

WHEELING, W. Va.—The water is going down rapidly, but distress and suffering caused by the flood are hourly growing worse. With all the volunteers who can be employed the Relief Committee is not able to feed the homeless and destitute as fast as supplies are needed. Five immense slides, covering nearly a mile of the Baltimore & Ohio Road, occurred between here and Moundsville. It will be a week after the falling of the water before trains can reach the city. Three large tanneries washed away here. Loss $50,000. Other tanneries lose nearly as much by inundation. Thieves have been detected chopping holes in the roofs of submerged houses and stealing contents.

A GRAVE SITUATION.

The Baltimore & Ohio engine shops have been carried away, and Main Street bridge has caved in. A boy sank with it but was saved. Two unknown men were upset at Head Island from a skiff and clung to the willows two hours, the crowd watching but powerless to save them. Wheeling is in danger of a famine. Nearly all the bakeries and many groceries are beneath the water. The milk supply and meat, except salt meat, are almost impossible to procure. The stock of provisions is rapidly becoming exhausted, and no prospect of replenishing. The situation is hourly growing more grave.

FLOOD NOTES.

The town of Catletsburg is completely submerged.

Congress is to be asked for relief of one million dollars.

At South Toledo the water was seven feet higher than ever known before.

At Glasshouse two children died yesterday from exposure and insufficient and unfit food.

The people of Wellsburg, West Va., twenty miles up the river from Wheeling are actually suffering from famine.

At Steubenville, Ohio, the damage by the flood to private property is $150,000, and to the railways incalculable,

Many cases of premature confinement are reported. Some sufferers are reduced to the extremity of cutting meat from cows found dead.

A large fire is raging at Bridgeport, Ohio. The scene there is indescribable. As the waters subside the amount of destruction to be seen is appalling.

Wm. Buchert, bugler of the United States troops at Newport, Ky., was drowned trying to enter the second storey of the barracks. Mrs. Waddle, a widow with several children, has become a maniac on account of the flood.

1,000 hams, 2,000 pounds of corned beef cooked and 5,000 or 6,000 loaves of bread have been distributed at Cincinnati, besides free meals given at at the market house to all who applied. Two thousand people are sleeping in schoolhouses.

O'DONNELL DEFENCE FUND.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The audit of the Martyrs' and O'Donnell Defence funds has been completed. It shows the total collected to be $65,000. Disbursed, $8,000 to the families of martyrs ; $19,000 for legal defences, and $5,000 miscellaneous, leaving a balance of $32,000. Five thousand dollars has been placed in the hands of a committee, to be distributed among the relatives of O'Donnell. Part of the remainder will be devoted to the erection of a monument to O'Donnell in the churchyard of his native village in Donegal.

'I had been for eight months unable to work and felt as though I would as lief die as live, through Dyspepsia and Indigestion, I weighed at the time of of getting a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure 130lbs. ; used three bottles, and now weigh 165 lbs, and never was better in my life. THE RUNAWAY BRIDEGROOM.

The running away of bridegroom Wilson from Montreal, on the eve of his marriage, is still the talk in that city. The only explanation Wilson left behind was a letter to his brother saying that he was unable at present to carry out his contract, and if his betrayed bride's father called on him in New York he would explain matters.

THE LAST PROCESSION.

The funeral of the late John Diamond, father of Ald. W. Jeffers Diamond, took place yesterday afternoon, and was attended by a large concourse of people, many of the sympathizing friends being old residents of the county. The remains of Samuel G. Geen, brother of Mr. A. L. Geen, were also taken to their last resting place. The deceased was a member of the Orange Order and has carried on a successful drug business in Cookstown, for about three years, but after only a short illness, he had to succumb to a fatal lung disease. The body was brought to Belleville on the midnight train, Saturday, in charge of Mr. Stewart, a delegate of the Cookstown lodge, and Mr. A. L. Geen. The funeral yesterday afternoon was under the auspices of the Order. Rev. E. Ford Bogart officiated at St. John's Church, and Messrs. Wm. Johnson and Servass at the grave. It is stated the deceased left an insurance of $2,000 to his widow and two children. CHURCH SERVICES.

Rev. T. W. McVety, pastor of the M. E. Tabernacle, was unable to preach yesterday in consequence of the severe accident which he met with a few days ago by breaking his collar bone. His pulpit, however, was ably filled in the morning by Rev. I. G. Hudgins, Alma College Agent. He took his text from Judges xvi, 20, "And he wist not that the Lord had departed from him." After speaking of Samson's mistake of marrying outside of his religion, he stated that God's power would always overcome, and referred to the lives of Paul, Moses, Gideon and David. This power could also be lost, as instance Samson in Delila's loss, and a small share and a small share of the pulpits and pews in our modern churches, and finally the terrible results were the outcome of the loss of this power. The offertory, "Wha is thy refuge", was rendered by Mr. Caverly in grand style. In the evening Rev. T O'Donoghue, from Albert University, preached an able sermon from the text "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

SEPTUAGESIMA SUNDAY.

Yesterday was Septuagesima Sunday, or the seventieth day before Easter. This day is a reminder of the approaching season of Lent. In St. Michael's Church at Mass the Gloria was omitted, and the officiating clergyman were robbed in violet penitential colours. The altars were divested of all ornaments, and everything denoted a time of prayer and humiliation.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if propely and judiciously adminstered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

'Don't marry until you can support a wife,' is the advice of a college President to his pupils. The Boston Globe reports that wives have kept thousands of men out of the poor-house.

Almost every pill contains calomel and other mineral compounds. Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters is purely vegetable and takes the place of all other purgatives. In large bottles at 50 cents.

FOR

CURE OF RUPTURE.

St. Catharines, April 26, 1879.

My son was ruptured soon after birth. Got trusses from New York, Buffalo, etc.; did not hold rupture. Your truss not only held rupture, but cured him to nine months. Never wore a truss since. Your warmest friend

A Frightful Case of Hernia Held, at 15 Pound.

On your trip to St. Thomas I got a truss for my wife, which you expressed, was a frightful case. The fact that your truss held rupture (beyond my expectations) removed gloom from our whole family. My wife often referred to you as a public benefactor.

Have been ruptured for thirty-seven years; tried almost every truss in existence; never had one to hold. The truss you adjusted held it and cured it completely. I am working hard every day.

DOUBLE SPINAL CURVATURE.

Gilford, Ont, Nov. 9th, 1883.

To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could sound your praise from shore to shore. Hoping God will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

Mrs. Thos. Kneeshaw,

P.M. Gilford, Ont.

I thought your price was great, but it is worth ten times $25. Would like to have a line from you.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

'I ought to return to the south to-morrow, and if I do, my visit will have been in vain, for I have not succeeded in any of my intentions.

'What do you require?' asked Mr. Aubrey.

'Well, my principal want is a young lady, who has a notion of acting, but who has not been spoilt by the provincial stage instead of painting; they are sister arts you know.'

The girl was listening with open eyes to the actor.

While with her father in Paris, on several occasions she had visited theatres, and evenings so spent were among the most pleasant she had ever passed.

De Langtonville knew this, and he knew also that her father was quite ignorant of the real trials and privations which so frequently beset a beginner in the histrionic profession.

He regarded acting only as a great art, akin to the arts of music and painting, which he loved and reverenced.

As for privations in the case, there was no fear of them, for De Langtonville would be there to guide and protect.

Very cautiously he had introduced the subject, and in such a manner that he could either turn it off or follow it, should there seem the slightest chance of gaining Mr. Aubrey's consent to the object he had in view.

He might have an opportunity of substantially proving his gratitude, and he eagerly watched to see how Mr. Aubrey received his words.

'Ah! Mr. De Langtonville,' lightly laughed Ethel, 'I can paint a little, but I can't act. I am afraid the people wouldn't applaud me very much, and I should be very stupid and nervous.'

'Stupid! No. Miss Ethel; I'm sure you would not be that; and nervousness would soon wear off. I am sure I could teach you, and I know you would learn very quickly. Don't you think, sir, she would make a splendid Juliet—a second Mrs. Siddons?' he asked, anxiously looking at her father's face.

'That is too high a destiny for my little girl, I fear,' replied the father. 'I hold strong opinions on the subject of birth and rank, Mr. De Langtonville, but there is a higher aristocracy, the aristocracy of talent, of heaven-born genius.'

'Yes, sir, and what can be a higher art than 'to hold as 'twere the mirror up to nature; to show virtue her own features, scorn her own image, and the very age and body of the time his form and pressure,' as Hamlet says? You know the tragedy, Miss Ethel? How should you like to play Ophelia?'

'Oh, Mr. De Langtonville, I have always loved the play, but I never dreamed of acting myself,' Ethel replied.

But why not dream of it? Why should she not try, sir? Here am I, searching all over London for a young lady, and here is a young lady with a love for acting, who has no opportunity to display her talents, I can see her ability in her face, sir.'

'I have never thought of such a thing for Ethel. No! I don't think we should like it,' replied the father.

But then blame the remembrance of the impoverished purse, and the thought, if any accident were to happen to him, of what would become of his darling.

'But, why not think of it, sir?' urged the manager. 'Miss Ethel would like to venture, I am sure; why not try? I shall be constantly with you; and, indeed, it will be a great advantage to me, for I am certain we shall make a hit. As for money, it isn't much a lady gets at a country theatre, but with my company, I am thankful to say, it is certain.'

The father pondered.

'You advise me well?' he asked.

'I protest, in the sincerity of love and kindness,' quoted the actor. 'Say I may consider it settled, and, then I can return to the country, and make arrangements for opening. I shall only want my violin then to be perfect, and I needn't let him sit too heavily on my mind.'

'I myself might be able to assist you in that matter,' said Mr. Aubrey.

'You, sir?' asked De Langtonville.

'Yes,' Mr. Aubrey replied; I am tolerably proficient on that instrument.'

'Tolerably proficient, with you, means perfect, I expect,' said the delighted manager.

'I do not think I should disgrace an orchestra, at any rate,' was the reply. 'Of course I should accompany Ethel, but it would be much more satisfactory to have occupation myself.'

'Then I may look upon it as settled?'

'If papa thinks it well, I shall be delighted to go,' said Ethel.

A mind more free from mercenary feelings than Ethel's there could not be, and yet, her liking for the theatre notwithstanding, it would have taken a very great inducement to persuade her to plunge into the unknown world, had it not been a means of helping her father.

'I will call in the morning, and we can settle about your departure. We are at Lewes now, but next week we are advertised to open at Hurstleigh, and——

'Where?' exclaimed Mr. Aubrey, starting forward in his chair.

'Hurstleight, in Sussex. Do you know the place?' asked the actor.

'Mr. Aubrey repressed himself, and answered calmly—

'Slightly; I have been there.'

'Yes, it is rather a snug little town, and the inhabitants use us as the abstract and brief chronicle of the times. We had—are you not well, sir?' he broke off, abruptly, for there was a strange expression on the old man's face, and the hands that grasped the elbows of his chair trembled violently.

'What is it, papa dear?' asked Ethel.

'Nothing, nothing, my darling. I interrupt you, Mr. De Langtonville,' said he, anxious to withdraw attention from himself.

Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epidemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power, should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, biliousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is epidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength irritating the nerves, or depressing the [illegible]. HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical profession stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained a world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefits which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M. Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

It contains Phosphorus to build up the nervous system and all the fat producing properties of Flax-seed to enrich the blood and supply the animal economy with the elements for reconstruction.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIE

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada, states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies, Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. [illegible] No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers, When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was one that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we knew them.

OWING TO THE MANUFACTURERS of certificates of marvelous cures being very busy on the Bamboozelum and Jingoe preparation, none of their productions will appear in these paragraphs. If invalids can be induced to give up their 'bitters' and other rubish, that Parish the Stomach, induce Fatty Degeneration and lead to Chronic Inebriety, and use medicals of known value as in Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya, they will have a reasonable chance of substantial improvement without risk of mischievious results.

THE RECENT CARNIVAL.

IMPRESSIONS OF A BELLEVILLE VISITOR AT MONTREAL.

MY DEAR SIR,—Very much has been ably written about the Carnival at Montreal, each writer from his own stand point.

Having greatly enjoyed myself at the Carnival a few observations anent the same may not prove uninteresting to your readers.

I had the pleasure of seeing the Governor General and staff. The Governor is a fine looking man of medium stature, fresh color, dark hair, mutton chop whiskers, very pronounced nose, a very pleasant and winning expression and may I venture to add, bears the reputation of being a jolly good fellow.

He received a most enthusiastic welcome from the curlers at the grand bonspiel passing under the curlers arch formed of brooms. He made a happy little speech remarking that although not a successful curler he would however be able to provide an efficient substitute in the person of Lord Melgund, who was a keen curler and often successful in 'pitting the stane on tee.' Lady Lonsdale cannot be styled beautiful, but is said to be amiable and likely to be immensely popular. Lady Anson is pretty and will quite captivate the impressible young gentleman who may be fortunate enough to make her acquaintance.

The arch of evergreens erected by the snow shoe clubs of the city was large and spacious when manned by snow-shoers in their many colored blanket costumes forming pyramids and figures of graceful design, it presented a beautiful spectacle, Lord Lansdowne opened the Lansdowne Toboggan slide by 'going down' and when at the foot throwing off his overcoat appearing in the full blanket costume of the club. The slide was illuminated by rows of lamps, and a very fine display of fireworks was given.

The Contractors' Drive was a great success, only about seventy vehicles, but the beauty of the horses, elegance of the sleighs, harness and robes was most attractive.

The drive wound up with a grand ball, at which were no ladies, a gentleman's partner being distinguished by a white handkerchief on the arm. As to dances the stately Quadrille seemed to have the preference—the Ripple and Boston were not attempted. There was plenty of fun and jollity.

THE GREAT DRIVE

of the Carnival in honor of the Governor General was most brilliant. Every vehicle in the city seemed to be in the procession. Sleighs of every kind, shape and color. Four-in-hands, tandems, thoroughbreds, ponies, mules, goats and dogs, two or three six-in-hands. The Allans' sleigh was much admired—six very large and well-bred horses. Three of the Allans clad in knee breeches, striped shirts, and velvet hunting caps rode a postillion, while two of the Allans, accompanied by ladies, comfortably reclined in the beautiful and costly sleigh. Sleigh loads of maskers representing all characters from an angel to a monkey accompaned by the various trades with representative banners formed a feature of procession. Elegantly attired marshals won the hearts of the ladies by their superior horsemanship as they ordered the procession. The Windsor and Dominion Squares were filled with an excited but very orderly crowd.

The great spectacle of the week overshadowing all others in magnificence and splendor was the attack and defence of the Ice Palace and the snow shoers march which followed immediately.

Immense stones had been erected and every coign of vantage taken possession of by the most enormous mass of people I ever beheld.

The electric lights shone with increased brilliancy, and the Palace, as it stood, outlined against the dark background, with turrets, towers and walls resisting this intense, almost unearthly light, the ice sparkling like the rarest gems and demands presented a most fairy-like and charming picture. One could scarcely fancy it a reality and half expected to see it vanish from the gaze at the touch of some enchanter's word.

THE SNOW SHOERS,

each with a torch and a bountiful supply of fireworks, make the attack, and at the firing of a cannon, the air is filled with rockets, candles, and squibs directed towards the ice palace—the roar of the rockets, the shouts of the besiegers, the hurrahs of the crowd as each successive discharge presented to their gaze numberless stars of hues and colors, almost veiling the palace, created intense excitement—and now began the defense. Suddenly the east wing of the palace flashed a beautiful crimson the centre a vivid green, the west a charming blue from the ramparts, the columns the centre tower poured forth stars, rockets, candles. Again the color of the palace changes to be succeeded by others equally beautiful, and now amid a chorus of cheers the palace surrenders and the snowshoers with their torches are ascending Mount Royal. The mountain rears its majestic form in such a position as to be seen from all parts of the city. The ascent is accomplished by zigzag circuitous roads running along the face of the summit. Upon these roads the long line of snowshoers debouched. The figures were not long discernable but the long line of fire extending a mile and a half along the face of the mountain occasionally doubling and exhibiting strange contortions as it followed the windings of the road presented the appearance of some fiery monster creeping along the cliff and gradually approaching the summit. At the highest point immense quantities of fireworks were stored, and soon sixteen hundred men armed with candles and rockets gave one of the most brilliant and effective pyrotechnic displays I have witnessed. The effect of the colored lights and torches through the trees, the lines of moving fire along the mountain with supernatural splendor, the contrasts of light and shade filled the mind of the spectator with delight and wonder. The Americans were wild with delight and tossed their silk hats in the air in the most reckless manner. Always ready to experience a new sensater, I visited the celebrated Montreal Toboggan Slide, the fastest slide in Canada, with the single exception of Montmorency. Of course, I went down, and when landed at the foot, found I had experienced a new sensation, but so rapid and startling had been the descent I had not had time to think about it.

The Montreal is a natural slide, down a section of the Mountain the snow is scrupulously removed and you slide for probably three thousand yards upon glare ice.

To go down is very easy, comfortably seat yourself and grasp either a rope or a charming maiden who has the seat of honor in front. I need not say the French prefer the maiden to the rope, of course for security sake. Your steerer jumps on the Toboggan, and you are "going down": for about five seconds you gather speed, and suddenly find yourself at the top of the descent which seems to your alarmed and excited nerves a precipice.

Your toboggan roars, and you have the sensation of being hurled by some tremendous and irresistable force with the rapidity of forked lightning down the slide. You know you are in for it and want to go home sadly for a second or two—if a lady, she neither screams nor frets, but holds on. If a man he feels at that moment the most ardent admiration of the fair maiden in front of him and makes up his mind to stick to her rather closer than a brother, for her sake and acts accordingly.

Arriving at the foot you feel yourself a hero, and the young lady having recovered her breath, you climb the hill and repeat the operation ad infinitum. Now Mr. Editor let us have a toboggan slide—a national amusement. All classes, ages and creeds will find it a most delightful pastime—quite as keen a pleasure to the old as to the young—with excellent facilities here I hope the matter will be at once taken up.

Truthfully yours,
JOHN J. B. FLINT

DID SHE DIE

"No; she lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years, the doctors doing her no good; and at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about. Indeed! indeed! how thankful we should be for that medicine.'

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

THE TARIFF IN MANITOBA.

The Winnipeg Sun sent out the following questions to Manitoba farmers, and out of two columns of replies a few samples are selected:

1—Are you in favor of the present duty on agricultural implements?

2—What changes in the tariff would recommend?

Nor is Fines, Balmoral—1 No. Give us free trade in agricultural implements and lumber. 2 Free trade with the world, or the best reciprocity treaty that can be got.

John Morrison, Regina Plains—1 We want no duty on such, nor on lumber. 2 Take the duty off all implements and rough or dressed lumber lumber.

N. F. Williams, Gleichen, Northwest Territory—1 Emphaticolly no. We have to pay too much for our implements. It draws the life-blood out of the farmer to enrich the eastern manufacturer.—2 Free trade.

No signature—1 No. A revenue tariff.

No signature—1 Should be removed at once. It is a piece of rascality.

W. T. Lonsdale, Headingly—1 The present rate of duty out to be reduced till such time as manufacturers are established in this Province. I consider we are paying too high a price for all kinds of agricultural implements. 2 The duties should be struck off lumber of all kinds.

R. Owens, Manitou—1 No; I think it should be reduced 15 per cent. 2 Reduced to 20 per cent.

C. Cowlard, Ossow—1 No. 1—Implements free.

W. A. Farmer, Headingly—1 No.—2 A return to the revenue tariff

No signature—1 It is too high. 2—The duty should be lowered to about the cost of freight from Ontario.

ALD. DIAMOND'S DEFEAT.

The majority of the City Council have shown by their action last evening in appointing one Assessor, that they feel in their representative capacity bound to carry out the wishes of the citizens. So much cannot be said for the minority headed by Ald. Diamond. That gentleman all along said he was not wedded to any particular system; but the conclusion is unavoidable, from his acts, that he was much wedded to the old, and admittedly bad, system. He made a motion to perpetuate the old system; he declared no man in the city competent for the office; this falsified he raised an objection of lack of time; and finally by voice and vote openly opposed the system already approved. Ald. Diamond, for some reason, sought to place his individual preference against the judgment of the majority of the taxpayers and, as we said some weeks ago, courted defeat.

For ourselves we do not claim especial credit for persistently urging the one Assessor system for in so doing we simply represented the ascertained weight of public opinion.

In the appointment made we have no reason to doubt that the choice of the Council has been a wise one. What is necessary now is to give the new system a fair and impartial trial, not expecting that everything of good of which it is capable can be had in a single year.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

NOTHING of consequence occurred in either house of Parliament yesterday.

SIR HECTOR LANGEVIN's chief organ in Quebec, Le Canadien, admits that the case made out by Mr. Blake against the Canadian Pacific claims is a formidable one.

THE Grey Division Grange composed of farmers of both shades of politics, has resolved to memoralize the Dominion Government to grant no further aid to Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

IMMIGRATION EXPENSES.

The total sum expended by the Dominion Government upon immigration in 1882-83 was $373,989, and included in the accounts for that expenditure are a number of suspicious looking charges. Twenty-seven thousand six hundred and fifty-five dollars was spent upon the London office, including $2,710 High Commissioner's contingencies, and $24,850 upon other European agents. Over $8,000 was spent in printing, advertising, and stationary for the London Agency. The contingencies of the Quebec agency amounted to $5,601. Captain Kirwin drew $150 as "travelling expenses," though he was never connected with the service. Probably the sum was paid on account of services in the Muskoka election. Mr. John Lowe's expenses in the investigation of the alleged exodus were $551; amount paid towards assisted passages, about $75,000; Rev. A. J. Bray, expenses in England, $800; Mr. Bray was said to be engaged by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, but his pay came out of the Federal Treasury; amount paid for transporting immigrants, $64,875; for printing and advertising, $61,498, of which sum the Mail Company received $4,479; the Quebec Chronicle, $1,140; Montreal Gazette, $3,240; the London Free Press, $5,447; and the St. John Sun, $482; spent upon quarantine service, $63 973.

THE MEMBER FOR WEST PETERBORO

A gallery pressman speaks of Mr. Carnegie, M. P. P. for West Peterboro' as follows:—"After twelve years' absence he returns to political life with ripened experience and a scrap book. This interesting volume is a sort of political 'Newgate Calender' It is replete with harrowing instances of the moral obliquity of the unspeakable Grits of Mr. Carnegie's district, and is a notable addition to the literature of contemporaneous politics. In his maiden speech on Wednesday morning, Mr. Carnegie fell short of expectations.

THE RISING WATERS.

The Floods Still Working Terrible Devastation.

A MOTHER AND FOUR DEAD BABIES.

The Ohio and Mississippi floods continue unabated. Following are the most important reports.

PREPARING FOR THE WORST.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 11.—At 9 a. m. the river was 66 feet, and rising an inch an hour. A drizzling rain is falling. Indications are that the flood will continue all the week, and that the water will reach a height of 70 feet. Business men are preparing for the worts. The water is but little more than 600 feet from the Burnett house, From there to the river bank the proper distance is between three and four squares. All that can be seen is the street inundated and boats gliding in all directions. Manufactories are stopping and the men are being thrown out of employment. In Newport it is estimated 5,000 to 6,000 people are homeless and their supplies were exhausted at noon. Many go without supper to-night because the supplies of the Relief Committee are exhausted. At 7 p.m. the was sixty-six feet eleven inches.

ENTIRELY CUT OFF.

SHAWNEETOWN, Feb. 11.—This town is entirely cut off from railroads by the river rising. Nearly a thousand men are working on the levees to keep the town from being submerged. The leeves will not stand three feet more water. All the Kentucky bottom farms are inundated; the farmers are begging for boats to save their stock and corn.

IN TERRIBLE WANT.

POMEROY, Feb. 11.—Five thousand people are camped on the hills, in terrible want of food and shelter. One hundred and fifty houses have floated away. The people are haggard and worn out for want of food, sleep and shelter. Nearly every business man is bankrupt. A house went by Middleport this morning with a woman sitting on the gable end. A man rowed out and appealed to her to get off, but she refused, saying she had four babies below. The glass was broken, and the children were seen floating about dead.

Ripley is submergee and New Richmond almost so.

WEARS A SLOUCH HAT.

Legislative Appearance of Mr. Sills, M. P.P., Described.

Toronto Telegram.

With head bent slightly forward and hands clasped across his knee, Mr. Ephraim George Sills, the member for West Hastings, drinks in the varied beauties of the Legislative chamber from the third row of Opposition benches. Green goggles generally protect his eyes, and he occasionally obscures his countenance under an all-enveloped slouch hat of the road-agent pattern, so much affected by the followers of the Provincial Secretary. But even a wide-brimmed sombrero cannot change the ministerial aspect of Mr. Sills' countenance. His eminently respectable appearance is proof even against the effects of the slouched head gear. His position on the left of the speaker isolates the member for West Hastings from his political kindred, but the fact does not prevent him exhibiting symptoms of approval when the Government speakers score a point. His time is fully occupied in supplying constituents with interesting agricultural pamphlets, but he does not pen communications with the remarkable assiduity of some members. Contact with the veterans of the Legislature has robbed Mr. Sills of nearly all his immaturity. As a speaker he will never shine, and it is also probable that he will never oppress the House with wearisome homilies. He had the good sense to condense his remarks in seconding the address into a ten minutes' oration. Mr. Sills lives in Frankford, where he carries on business as a carriage builder.

☞Feathers ribbons, velvet can all be colored to mach that new hat by using the Diamond Dies 10 cents for any color.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

NEWSPAPER PORTRAITS.

There should be laws against printing wood-cuts of respectable people in the daily press under thirty days' notice, which would give the victim time to protect himself. Several of the most eminent citizens in the land are at present sufferers from nervous prostration superinduced by the sudden and unannounced appearance of these hatchet-engraved portraits. This style of art is also being shamefully abused by the killing off of political aspirants.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

WAS MR. BLAKE NOT RIGHT.

Was Mr. Blake not right in 1880, and is he not right to-day, when he says that there is nothing definite and that it is not know when an end will come to the obligations the Government are imposing on the country. After stuffing the Syndicate with millions, the Government will have to pay out more millions to keep the road in running order.—L'Electeur.

'I had been for eight months unable to work and felt as though I would as lief die as live, through Dyspepsia and Indigestion, I weighed at the time of getting a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure 130lbs.; used three bottles, and now weigh 165 lbs, and never was better in my life. It was McGregor's Speedy Cure that brought me around.' So says Wm. Fell, Hamilton, Go to A. L. Geen's wholesale and retail Drug Stote and get a free trial bottle or the regular size for fifty cents and one dollar.

A LONG TIME.

Fifteen years of suffering from the tortures of Dyspepsia is indeed a long time. A. Burns blacksmith of Cobourgh, was thus afflicted but it only required one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters to completely cure him.

THOUSANDS SAY SO.

Mr. T. W. Atkins Girard, Kan., writes: 'I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers.' Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by B. Templeton.

A TERRIBLE END.

The Wretched Death of a Hamilton Woman.

HER HUSBAND ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

HAMILTON, Feb. 12.—For the past four years or so Edward Maloney, his wife and their children—five in number—have lived at 258½ Hughson street north in a wretched little house—tumble-down, patched-up, and in a general state of decay. Half the window panes have been broken, and the vacancies have been filled up with pieces of board. The shingles on the roof have rotted beneath the all-corroding foot of time. The house stands about thirty yards back from the street. The approach to it is by an alleyway. Stagnant pools of water partially frozen stand in front of the house, and general filth is all around. Even the cold weather of yesterday could not kill the foul smell that hung around the place. About half past nine o'clock Sunday morning Maloney's son ran into No. 2 police station, and told the policeman on duty there that his mother was dying and he was wanted at once. When he got to the house he found Police Constable Knox already there. The woman was dead.

The husband has been arrested because the suspicion stands against him that when he came home he kicked her in his anger. He denies having done this. He drank himself, though not as heavily as she did, and it is said that he was in liquor when he went home. He is a man of some forty years of age, and she was a bold-featured good-looking woman between 30 and 35 years old.

USEFUL PRECEPTS

First catch your lover.

Hold him when you have him.

Don't let go of him to catch every new one that comes along.

Try to get well acquainted with him before you take him for life.

Unless you intend to support him, find out whether he earns enough to support you.

Don't make up your mind he is an angel. Don't palm yourself off on him for one either.

Don't let him spend his money on you; that right should be reserved until after marriage.

If you have any consientious scruples against marrying a man with a mother, say so in time that he may get rid of her to oblige you or get rid of you to oblige her, as he thinks best.

If you object to secret societies and tobacco, it is better to come out with your objections now than reserve them for certain lectures hereafter.

If your adorer happens to fancy a certain shade of hair, don't color or bleach yours to oblige him. Remember your hair belongs to you and he doesn't.

Be very sure it is the man you are in love with, and not the clothes he wears. Fortune and fashion are both too fickle, it is foolish to take a stylish suit for better or worse.

If you intend to keep three servants after marriage, settle the matter beforehand. The man who is making love with you may expect you to do your own washing.

Don't try to hurry up a proposal by carrying on a flirtatition with some other fellow. Different men are made of different material and the one you may want might go off in a fit of jealousy and forget to come back.

If you have a love letter to write, do not copy it out of a "Letter Writer." If your young man ever happens to consult the same book he would know your sentiments were borrowed.

Dont marry a man to oblige any third person in existence. It is your right to suit yourself in this matter. But remember that at the same time that love is blind, and a little friendly advice from one whose advice is worth having may insure you a lifetime of happiness or prevent one of misery.

In love affairs always keep your eyes wide open, so that when the right man comes along you may see him.

When you see him you will recognize him, and the recognition will be mutual.

If you have no fault to find with him personally, financially, conscientiously, socially morally, politically, religiously, or in any other way, he is probably perfect enough to suit you, and you can afford to—

Believe him;
Hope in him;
Love him;
Marry him.

If you want fast colors and brilliant shad use the popular package Star Dyes

CURE FOR CHILBLAINS.

Bathe the feet for ten or fifteen minutes in water as hot as can be borne; then apply Hagyard's Yellow Oil and a cure is certain. Yellow Oil cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Deafness Lameness, and pain generally and internally cures Colds, Soar Throat, Croup, Asthma, and many painfull affections.

A BANKERS TESTIMONY.—For a Cough Cold or any Bronchial affection, 'Pectoria' in my opinion, is just the thing. I have used it in my family for Coughs and Colds for the past four years with the most unvaried success, and to-day my opinion of it is that I continue to think still more of that which I began to think well of. SONS OF ENGLAND.

OPENING IN MIZPAH HALL OF THE GRAND LODGE OF ONTARIO.

The Grand Lodge of the Sons of England Benevolent Society of Ontario began the session for 1884 in the Oddfellows' Mizpah Hall this afternoon, the most worthy Grand President, Bro. J. W. Higginbotham, of Oshawa, in the chair. A few delegates reached here last night from the west and more came in this morning on the train from the eastern section of the Province. The major portion of the delegates, however, arrived at noon, and were met at the depot by the following committee of local brethern:—Messrs. R. C. Hulme, J. W. London, H. CITY COUNCIL.

The Assessment Question Finally Settled.

DELEGATES TO TORONTO REPORT.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last evening, all the members present, His Worship the Mayor in the chair.

LETTERS AND PETITIONS.

A letter was read from Patrick Callery asking the Council to grant him an addition of twenty cents per day over the 80 cents which he received last year, as he thought his wages were not what they should have been.

Mr. W. H. Campbell, Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, hoped that his position would not interfere with his application as assessor, for if he was appointed to the latter office, he would, if necessary, resign his present position.

Mr. John Lazier made application for the appointment of assessor.

Mrs. Hunt again pressed her claim for damages for injuries to her child.

Mr. W. J. Hunter claimed $76 for damages to one of his cabs, incurred on the 26th of November last, by driving into a gas drain on Ann Street, which it was alleged was not properly protected for the public travel.

The memorial from the County Council asking for a reduction in the fees for the use of the way scales was read.

A letter was read from the E. T. Barnum iron works of Windsor, Ont., stating that they had received offers of bonuses, exemption from taxation, and free water from forty-two towns and cities in the Dominion, but that they had decided not to remove their works for at least another year.

Professor Bell wrote the Council in reference to scientific paper on water.

The Women's Christian Association reported that they had expended $181.30 during January for the support of the poor.

The Cow Inspector submitted his report for the last quarter.

The Mayor asked ex-Ald. St. Charles to take a seat within the bar.

A petition from Mrs. P. Dolan, asked a remission of her taxes for 1883, amounting to $11.68, on lot number 8, south station road.

THE DELEGATES REPORT.

The reports of the Committees were read as reported in THE ONTARIO, and the delegates to Toronto in re the Grand Junction refund gave a verbal report of their trip.

Ald. Diamond said he would not be disappointed if the city did not receive any refund from the Government.

The Mayor said the Government conceded that the city had not been fairly treated in this matter and the Attorney-General promised to see that some benefit be given Belleville, but just what benefit that would be His Worship was not prepared to state at present.

Ald. Diamond reported the result of his visit to the Meteorological Observatory, Toronto, and thought the expense of receiving standard time daily would be too great.

The City Solicitor addressed the Council in reference to what was done by the late Assessment Convention which has already appeared in the public prints.

THE CITY CLOCK.

In Committee of the Whole, Ald. Tickell in the Chair, Ald. Diamond stated that the clause in the report of the Fire Committee asking the Solicitor to compel Mr. Spanberg to comply with his agreement with the city for the proper regulation of the city clock, originated with him. He thought that in the interests of the city Mr. Spangenberg should be made to keep the clock in proper repair. If the roof of the tower leaked he thought Mr. Spangenberg should have reported the fact to the Council.

Ald. Petrie said he did not know that the roof was defective, if he had it would have been repaired.

Ald. Hanley thought the Council should advertise for new tenders if Mr. Spangenberg was not fulfilling his duty properly. He suggested to the Fire Committee that they should consider the advisability of having a tin hood hung over the clock for the purpose of protecting the dials.

Ald. Vandusen would like to have the Market Committee investigate this matter first.

Ald. Biggar said the Council apparently intended to hang Mr. Spangenberg and then try him afterwards. Before this report was passed the proper Committee should see wherein Mr. Spangenberg was not doing his duty and then if it was found that he was neglecting it, it would be time to compel him to comply with the terms of his contract.

The report of the Committee was adopted.

Ald. Hanley moved that the Market Committee examine the city clock and report what repairs are necessary. This motion provoked some discussion but was finally carried.

GRAND TRUNK DEBENTURES.

Ald. J. W. Johnson would like to know if the whole $50,000 Grand Trunk debentures were issued; if so he would like to know in whose hands they were.

The Solicitor said the $50,000 debentures had been issued and signed, but he believed that $25,000 was in the hands of the Treasurer. At the time they were issued the then Mayor had $25,000 in his possession, but he requested the Treasurer to have them handed to him.

Ald. J. W. Johnson promised to follow up this matter at the proper time. He intended to have the matter referred to the Executive Committee for investigation.

Ald. Macoun would like for Ald. J. W. Johnson to couple with this matter the conditions upon which the Grand Trunk accepted the $25,000 from the city. This matter he thought should be looked after as well as the Grand Junction bonus.

Ald. J. W. Johnson moved, seconded by Ald. Tickell, that the Treasurer be instructed to inform the Council what has become of the $25,000 of the $50,000 debentures issued to the Grand Trunk and not handed over to the Company. The motion was carried without further discussion.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

Ald. Cooper inquired if the overhead bridge on North Front Street was to be repaired.

The Solicitor said he had been informed by Mr. Bell, Solicitor for the Grand Trunk, that they (the Company) intended to repair the bridge. This, he said, the city could not prevent.

Ald. J. W. Johnson wanted to know if anything was to be done in re the letter from the Reeve of Ameliasburg regarding the ferry question.

Ald. LaRoche, Chairman of the Ferry Committee, said he intended to call the Committee together in a few days to consider this matter.

THE ASSESSMENT QUESTION.

In Committee on By-laws, Ald. Blair took the chair. Ald Diamond moved the second reading of the By-law for the appointment of Assessor. Ald Biggar asked if any present official of the city was eligible for the appointment of assessor. He was answered in the negative by the Solicitor.

Ald. Diamond stated that while in Toronto he called upon the Treasurer of that city and learned from him (who by the way is an expert on such matters) that he was decidedly opposed to the one assessor system. An assessment commissioner, however, he thought would be all right with regular assessors as assistants. He strongly opposed the selection of one assessor, and argued that the time was too short for one man to complete the work.

Ald. Petrie—would it be in order to move that the By-law be read six months hence. (Laughter.)

Ald. Petrie moved that three assessors be appointed.

Ald. J. W. Johnson said it occurred to him that if Ald. Diamond had had the moral courage to come out boldly in favor of our system or the other at the last meeting, this question of how many should be appointed would have been settled before. However, by a large majority of this Council at its last meeting it was decided to try a single assessor and he did not think that this Council was composed of a parcel of children, to go back on what they had so recently decided to try, as Ald. Diamond anticipated they would. Ald. Diamond's present objection was that one man would not have time to do the work, while every one knew that one could do the work as quickly as three, as if more than one were appointed they always went about the city together. He moved in amendment that only one assessor be appointed.

A vote was taken and twelve aldermen supported the amendment for the appointment of one assessor.

Ald. Diamond then addressed the Council on the kind of man that should be employed. He strongly opposed any person who did not intend to devote his whole time to the work of assessing the city.

Ald. J. W. Johnson heartily agreed in the qualifications which Ald. Diamond thought such an official should possess, but he went further and thought the assessor should have permanent office hours the year round the same as any other city official.

Ald. Vandusen said that it did not matter what the business of any of the applicants was previous to their appointment they would be expected to forego that after such appointment.

FRANCIS MCKAY CHOSEN.

Ald. Diamond asked for the vote by ballot which was taken with the following result:

	1st bal.	2nd bal.	3rd bal.	4th bal.	5th bal.
J. H. Gordon	0	1	0	0	0
F. McKay	7	7	9	9	12
A. Black	0	0	0	0	0
M. B. Roblin	4	3	4	5	2
T. Rutherford	4	3	3	3	1
J. A. Campion	3	4	5	4	5
J. Jellett	0	0	0	0	0
J. F. Sircicks	0	0	0	0	0
A. Morton	0	0	0	0	0
W. Campbell	3	3	2	1	0
J. Lazier	1	0	0	0	0

Before the vote was taken the Solicitor stated that Mr. W. H. Campbell was not eligible unless he resigned the Chief Engineership, which he did not do.

It will be seen that on the fifth ballot Mr. Francis McKay received twelve votes, a majority of the Council, and was therefore elected. On the third ballot one of the Aldermen voted for Mr. Jas. Harrold, and Mr. P. P. Lynch received a vote on the fifth ballot.

The By-law appointing the assessor was then passed and numbered.

MOTIONS AND NOTICES.

Ald. Pope moved, seconded by Ald. Biggar, that the name of Ald. Vandusen be inserted as a member of the Harbor Committee instead of Ald. Pope.

Ald. Petrie would not oppose this change if Ald. Vandusen would not advocate the Bushy Island route. (Laughter.)

The above constituting an objection to the motion the suspension of the rules was moved, but the resolution was lost. The motion was then allowed to stand as a notice until next meeting.

Ald. Alford gave notice of a motion authorizing the appointment of an officer to inspect all defective walls in the city.

Before the Council adjourned, His Worship the Mayor called the attention of the Aldermen to rule 18, which strictly provides that no member shall speak more than once to the same question without leave of the Council. He said a good deal of time is often wasted by members who do not comply with these rules, and he hoped those who had been transgressors in the past would study this rule in the future.

Henry Clement Almonte. writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it, I began to use it both externally and internally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. ANOTHER BELLEVILLE BRIDE.

The Rathbun-Bell Marriage Solemnized this Afternoon.

Between three and four o'clock this afternoon Miss Agnes Bell, second daughter of Mr. John Bell, Q.C., of this city, was united in matrimony to Mr. Herbert Rathbun, of Deseronto. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. M. W. McLean, took place at the residence of the bride's father, George Street, and was very private. The invited guests consisted of a few intimate friends, some being from a distance. The bride was attired in a dress of cream satin trimmed with frills of oriental lace and relieved by bunches of orange blossoms. The train measured three and a half yards in length. Besides the bride's father the following amongst others sent very handsome presents: Miss Stewart, Miss Laidlaw, Toronto; Mr. W. R. Biggar, Mrs. Wilkie, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. J. Bell, Mr. R. Rathbun, Miss Biggar. There were also a number of handsome gifts from Montreal and elsewhere.

Among those present from a distance were:—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Rathbun, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Rathbun, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Rathbun, Deseronto; Miss Rathbun, Deseronto; Mr. and Mrs. Huldbaugh, Oswego; Mr. and Mrs. Craig, Deseronto; Miss Tupp, Toronto; Mr. F. W. Powell, Dr. Clinton, Deseronto; R. A. Gordon, Ottawa; E. C. French and Mr. W. B. McMurrchy.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

To Mr. Cluthe:—
Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could sound your praise from shore to shore. Hoping it will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

'Oh, I was only saying we were going to have a splendid benefit there about three months ago. All the magnates of the place were going to patronise us, only, unfortunately, the chief magnate of the town died suddenly. He was a very old man—Sir Ronald Madeley his name—good Heaven, sir ! what's the matter ?' he exclaimed.

'What name—what name ?' shrieked his listener, starting up, and leaning heavily on the table, which shook beneath his nervous pressure.

'Sir Ronald Madeley ; he died——'

'Dead, dead, dead !' exclaimed Henry Aubrey, and raising his arms aloft, he fell senseless to the ground.

CHAPTER III.

Some five miles from the town of Hurstleigh in Sussex, crowning a slight eminence, and looking over a wide expense of undulating meadows, stands Madeley Court.

A very old house now, for even in the time of the first Charles, it was of no recent date.

There had dwelt the brave old Cavaliers, the great-hearted gentlemen, who, seeing their liege lord in need of strong arms and trusty swords, had gone forth, with perfumed locks and lace frilled wrists, to his assistance.

Who, trolling their lightsome songs, and merrily cursing the canting Roundheads, had smilingly laid down their lives for the sake of the oath they had sworn to their king.

Turrets, gables, and chimneys, of different periods and styles there were, enough to drive the archetect purist to the verge of distraction, for each successive lord had added a little to the original pile.

From the porch the visitor entered a magnificent hall.

Round the sides were ranged suits of armour, which had been worn by scions of the house, and the dark oaken panels and painted windows added an air of grandeur to the apartment.

An open door showed the billard-room, in which two young men were engaged in playing.

It would have been easy, after glancing through the picture gallery, to recognise the one with drooping moustache and brown curling hair, as a member of the Madeley family, and indeed it was Bertram Madeley, son of the present baronet.

'Why, Bertram,' said his friend Arthur Ferrers, 'you are not playing well this morning. What's the matter ? Does bad Sir Ronald's arm trouble you ? I don't wish to speak disrespectfully of your ancestors, old fellow ; but really, considering that he died comfortably some hundreds of years ago, after a long enjoyment of the estate, I think it's uncommonly bad taste in him to disturb people's equanimity.'

'You laugh at the old legend, Arthur, but you wouldn't if you were a Madeley. It's a fact that there is always some trouble in this family, and as for what old Mrs. Hawkins, the housekeeper, says, I firmly believe it.'

'What ! Do you believe that Sir Ronald came in here at midnight, and had a quiet game at single pool ?' Ferrers laughingly asked.

'No,' solemnly continued Bertram Madeley, 'but that Sir Ronald's arm moved last night in a manner for which no one can account.'

The seriousness of his tone rather checked the mirth of his companion, who asked—

'Didn't you see it move once ?'

'Yes, the night before the last baronet's death ; I had been into town to call on the doctor, and was returning about nine o'clock. I entered the hall, and used as I am to the armoury, it isn't likely it would have the effect on me that it would on the stranger ; as I was passing Sir Ronald, the arm was distinctly raised five or six inches. You see from here how it stands, with the arm bent to a kind of right angle. The hand was raised towards the shoulder—most distinctly raised. I paused, and looked carefully, and the movement was repeated.'

'Are you sure of this ?'

'Perfectly sure.'

'Have you never had the thing pulled to pieces and examined ?' Ferrers asked.

'No ; what would be the use ? There can be nothing in it to explain such movements.'

'What is the legend ?' his friend inquired.

'That when anything extraordinary is to occur in the family, the figure raises its arm. It did, so report says, the night before the battle of Naseby, where Sir Henry Madeley was killed, and more recently before Waterloo was fought,' Bertram replied.

'It always presages something unfortunate, I suppose ?'

'No ; good or evil fortune—anything which vitally concerns the family, but good fortune never comes to the Madeleys.'

'Is it then a prophecy about your run of ill luck ?' Ferrers asked.

'Yes, an old verse had been handed down since bad Sir Ronald's time. Have you not heard it ?'

Ferrers made a gesture of dissent, and Bertram continued.

'Sir Ronald, a younger son, was the third master of Madeley (this was a hundred years before James I. instituted baronetcies) ; his father was the first, and between them came Sir Eustace,' the elder son.

'He was a quiet, unambitious man, and stayed at Madeley while his brother, Sir Ronald, passed his time in court.

'The story goes that he dissipated his patrimony soon after his father's death, and then commenced to tax his brother, and being utterly lawless, and hungering for the estate, he brought some absurd charge of conspiracy against Sir Eustace, and took possession of Madeley, keeping him a close prisoner till death released him, which it speedily did.

Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epedemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power, should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, billiousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is pidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength [illegible]ritating the nerves, or depressing the [illegible] such as the ready means of saving [illegible] when afflicted with colds, coughs, [illegible] other complaints by which so many are [illegible]iously and permanently affl[illegible] in mos[illegible] tries.

THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefits which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint.

ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883,

Mr W. LUMBERS, SR, Toronto Ont, Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

COMPLETELY CURED OF LIVER DISEASE AND CATARRH.

Mr. W. LUMBERS, 288 Carlton Street, Toronto. Dear Sir,—I feel great pleasure in informing you that I have used your Catarrh Remedy and Liver Pill, and am happy to say I am completely cured of these complaints and can with the greatest confidence recommend them to any one suffering from those complaints. Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monckton, County Perth, Ont., Suly 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. REID, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

CHAPTER II.

"Malden, Mass., Feb. 1, 1880. Gentlemen
I suffered with attacks of sick headache."
Neuralgia, female trouble, for years in the most terrible and exciting manner.
No medicine or doctor could give me relief or cure until I tried Hop Bitters.
"The first bottle
Nearly cured me;"
The second made me well and strong as when a child,
"And I have been so to this day."
My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious
"Kidney, liver and urinary complaint,
"Pronounced by Boston's best physicians—
"Incurable!"
Seven bottles of your bitters cured him, and I know of the "Lives of eight persons"
In my neighborhood that have been saved by your bitters,
And many more are using them with great benefit.
"They almost
Do miracles!" —Mrs. E. D. Slack.

OWING TO THE MANUFACTURERS of certificates of marvelous cures being very busy on the Bamboozlum and Jingoe preparation, none of their productions will appear in these paragraphs. If invalids can be induced to give up their 'bitters' and other rubish, that Punish the Stomach, induce Fatty Degeneration and lead to Chronic Inebriety, and use medical agents of known value as in Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya, they will have a reasonable chance of substantial improvement without risk of mischievious results.

A VALENTINE.

A Valentine! Ah, can it be
That some one has addressed to me
Those lines so sweet and tender!
Name on initial is not set
Upon the page, and yet—and yet
I think I know the sender.

What though the writing be disguised,
And many a little trick devised
To aid the fond deception;
St. Valentine provides the key
That spoils the little mystery
The moment of reception.

We may be right, we may be wrong;
For lack of confirmation strong
We give the reign to fancy,
And let her wander at her will,
And her bright destiny fulfil
In fields of necromancy.

And Valentines would lose their charm
If they at once could doubt disarm
Ere yet the seal was broken;
And so the deeper the disguise,
The more delightful the surprise,
And sweeter is the token.

OPPOSING FURTHER CONCESSIONS.

Sir Richard Cartwright on the C. P. R. Proposals.

INJURIOUS TO THE CREDIT OF CANADA

Following is a summary of the telling speech delivered by Sir Richard Cartwright in the House on the C. P. R. resolutions: He said that the whole question could be put in a nutshell. He asked if we are in a position, looking at our financial condition, to incur the risk of spending $30,030,000 more in assisting the Canadian Pacific Railway, and in the next place granting that we are in a position to spend this huge sum has a sufficient case been made out by the hon. gentleman's resolutions to warrant our assuming so grave a responsibility? Again, had the extraordinary variations which have already been shown to have occurred in the policy of the Government in regard to this road warrant us in placing any confidence in the present statement, in regard to the road, of the Minister Railways. He had frequently heard from the hon gentleman that the Company was possessed of sufficient means to construct the road. It seems strange now that the alleged wealthy combination came now to seek assistance. He held that in the present case the minister had not given any material explanation why the road should be pushed through to construction. Reference had been made to the grades. The House was more particularly interested in the grades of the passes in the neighborhood of Kicking Horse pass. The Minister of Railways told them there were only 447 miles to be constructed so as to connect with the British Columbia sections. In the opinion of the Hon. Minister this might seem a small distance, but there was no apprehension that it would require much larger time than two, three or four years in the construction. What did he charges against the Liberal press regarding the North West amount to when of that Province were at this day crying out loudly and bitterly of misgovernment and praying for the new policy the Liberals were advocating. The Liberal press by its expositions of the present policy of the Government had done much to benefit that country, and he wished to God that all the press of the country had the good of the country at heart and the hon. gentlemen opposite would never be sitting where they were. The discrepancies that are everywhere apparent called for a thorough investigation. Not many weeks ago they were told that the Government were about to extract 23½ millions from the Canadian Pacific Railway, which would put them in the proud position of saying to English capitalists, 'We can now do without you.' The tables have turned, and instead of being borrowers of 24½ millions the Government is about to loan 22½ million dollars to the Company. The present time was specially inopportune for the proposed transaction. On the first of June next the Government will have to provide for the redemption of nearly $30,000,000 of debt. Within the last two years extraordinary fluctuations in the trade and commerce of the country have occurred. Imports have reduced as much as fifty-six millons and the Minister of Finance over and over again declared his policy was to reduce imports and increase exports. If he succeeds in this policy he will have to face a reduction of very many millions in Customs returns. If the balance of trade be effected the minister will find himself with a largely increased expenditure and a fast diminishing revenue. At present the Government has thirty millions of dollars and have, to provide twelve or thirteen millions additional subsidy and they now propose to add to that an additional loan of $20,500,000.

THE CREDIT OF CANADA.

will be strained by this. Referring to the discontent in the North-West he said it was admitted the construction of branch lines was of paramount importance in the development of the country. The power of constructing these branches had been been taken away from the people of the Province, and by the resolutions the Company are prevented from doing anything else than pushing the road to completion. The Government's policy was a source of greater injury to the Province than a benefit. It was a present plainly evident that the people of the Province would have greatly preferred if the Government had never extended the line one foot westward from Winnipeg and allowed them to construct the western portion. The indebtedness of the country was fast increasing, and in face of this fact and when considering that no pretext whatever had been adduced, the Minister of Railways was by no manner of means warranted in taking the rash step he contemplated.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

MACDONALD-MOUSSEAU-CHAPLEAU

Sir John Macdonald has always been justly credited with aiming to preserve the purity and dignity of the Canadian Bench. His appointments have never been open to much objection. Under the pressure of political exigency, however, the Premier will it seems do strange things caring for nothing but party ascendancy. The condition of things in the Province of Quebec called for the removal of the Premier of that Province against whom scandalous charges of subserviency to cliques and of bribery and corruption were pending. How was he removed? "His usefulness was gone," but unlike Lieut.-Governor Letellier he was not degraded and dismissed. No. He was raised to the Bench to administer justice in its pristine purity and preserve inviolate the laws of the land!

Little wonder is it then that although Sir John Macdonald has had no better followers in the Senate that Messrs. Bellerose and Trudel, those gentlemen felt bound to protest against the appointment of Mr. Mousseau. The character of Mr. Chapleau is one also they cannot endorse. Speaking in the Senate, Mr. Bellerose attacked Messrs. Mousseau and Chapleau in vigorous style, claiming that they were selling their Province to Sir John, who was rewarding the former by giving him a judgeship. He asked if there was anything better calculated to demoralize a people that such promotions and appointment? Continuing on the general subject he said :—

Who was that gentleman whom Sir John, putting aside the constitutional right of Quebec, took to replace Mr. Mousseau? Mr. Chapleau, the same gentleman who has done so much towards ruining the Province of Quebec, that her best men now refuse to undertake the task of forming a government. Had Mr. Chapleau been actuated by a sense of duty: had he any sense of patriotism in his heart, ought he not to have declined and refused to join this Government until the claims of Quebec were attended to, like the Morins, the Lafountaines and the Cartiers have done in the past? Who does not know all the story of Quebec's shame? Has not the public press made it known to all the world? And yet last year I was almost brutally attacked because I dared to speak honestly of an absent, and it was alleged, sick and perhaps dying man, who, however, was well enough to appear in Parliament a few days afterwards. I was accused of attacking a sick man, whose death we might hear of at any time, yet, the next day this dying man appeared in Ottawa in good enough health to laugh with his friends at the rumors circulated about him. Who has not been told by the newspapers of the injuries that gentleman inflicted on Quebec? It is well known that that Province is now burdened by a debt of $19,000,000, that it has been looking for money to pay the balance or interest of that debt, which the Federal Subsidy was not sufficient to pay twelve months ago. The world knows that now since the press has published it abroad. And the man who did all that evil and who knew well he would have been defeated had he gone back to the Local Legislature, resigned in Quebec and was received by Sir John in his Cabinet and there taken care of by him. Have we not, then, a right to believe that the Prime Minister of Canada did this in order to induce other public men in Lower Canada to betray their Province for the reward which he offered? Was it not an inducement to Quebecers to help him in carrying on the work which he (Sir John) began in 1867 and which he only then failed to carry out because there was a Sir George Cartier in the way? But now that Sir George Cartier has gone, Sir John is working every day to bring about a Legislative Union, and what for? He knows very well that Confederation was given to Canada on account of Quebec, because, but for confederation, Quebec would have adhered to the old order of things, and as she would have nothing else than Confederation, it was given her. But how has Sir John been working since Sir George Cartier has gone? Why, in such a way as to centralize everything in the Dominion Government."

And yet that is the Province the Tory journals recently compared to Ontario!

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

St. Valentine's Day occurs to-morrow. We desire to protest against the vulgar, low practice that has crept in the modern observance of this day, which was originally set apart for the sending of sentimental souvenirs of friendship and regard. There is nothing to be said in favor of the circulation of rude lampoons. It may form an outlet for petty spite and malevolent "fun", but none who respect themselves will indulge in anything of such questionable taste.

OBITUARY.

Died at the 9th concession in the Township of Thurlow, John Wessly Sills in the 42 year of his age, after a lingering illness of nearly three months, I might say of the most excruciating suffering which could befal humanity. He had cut a small gash just above the knee pan, very trival in its appearance, but the prime cause of his death, as it formed a nucleus for latent diseases which were secreted in his system. All the medical aid appeared of no avail and death had its victim. Mr. Sills has left a young companion and five small children to battle an uncharitable world, without a father's watchful eye to guard their footsteps. But he left them in the hands of Him in whom he had confidence —Who had promised to be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless.—It was early observable as to the esteem in which Mr. Sills was held, by the crowds of sympathising neighbors and friends who came to the house to sympathise with his bereaved family, and to carry his remains to their last resting place.—Com.

A GARRISON MASSACRED.

Sinkat, in the Soudan, Falls to the Rebels.

DEATH TO SURRENDER.

London, Feb. 13.—Sinkat in the Soudan has been captured by the Rebels. Official despatches confirm the report. The Cabinet are painfully impressed. Large reinforcements of troops and marines will probably be immediately despatched to Egypt. Seven men-of-war belonging to the Channel squadron have been ordered to Egyptain waters.

DEATH PREFERRED TO SURRENDER.

Further advices concerning the fall of Sinkat state that Tewfik Bey, preferring death to surrender, blew up the fortifications, spiked the guns, and made a sortie, when his six hundred men were massacred.

COMPLETE DESTRUCTION OF THE GARRISON.

A Suakim despatch says :—The news of the fall of Sinkat was brought by a friendly Arab chief. The garrison made a sortie, and for a long time were successful in repulsing the rebel attacks, but at last the attacking forces gained the upper band and the garrison was completely destroyed except a few who were made prisoners' The fate of the women and children is unknown. The streets present a heart-rending appearance. They are thronged with women weeping and wailing.

HEROIC EFFORTS OF DOOMED MEN.

A Suakim despatch says for a fortnight the heroic garrison at Sinkat had been eating roots and tree leaves. It was an enfeebled band which sortied to die amidst the rebel hordes. Tewfik Bey harrangued his men, saying that by fighting they might serve themselves, but by remaining they must die from hunger in a few days. Flight was impossible. The men, animated with Tewfik's spirit, destroyed the military stores, exploded the magizines, filled their pouches to the utmost with cartridges, and issued forth six hundred strong. Osman Digna's men rushed to the attack. Tewfik Bey and his men fought nobly. For a long time they repulsed every attempt to break their ranks Finally superior numbers prevailed, and with a tremendous rush the rebels burst through one of the sides of the Egyptian square.

A GENERAL MASSACRE.

ensued, and not a soul escaped, according to the latest reports. only four sick men who were unable to take part in the sortie. The Candi of Sinkat and thirty women were spared by the rebels. Before the sortie a rebel sheikh approached Sinkat and summoned Tewfik Bey to surrender, saying his life would be spared. The garrison answered defiantely. During the sortie women and children followed in the rear of the soldiers. A large number of the rebels were killed. The rebels are now missing in the vicinity of Suakim, the the Sinkat contingent having joined the main body. An attack on Suakim is believed imminent.

Gen. Gordon telegraphs :—'The people are meeting me on all sides with enthusiasm. I hope the Soudan will soon be in good order.'

ST. VALENTINES' DAY.

It is curious, yet true, that Valentine's Day is only connected with St. Valentine by an accident. The theory has been put forward that the usage by the ancient Romans of balloting for the names, put into a box, of women was converted by Christian clergy into substituting names of saints, and it grew to be a practice in the Roman Catholic Church of choosing a patron saint for the year, on the 14th of February. In more modern days this annual obligation was kept in view, as a bachelor after choosing his valentine was bound to her service for the whole year. At one period it was customary for both sexes to make each other presents, but latterly the privilege seems to be restricted to young men though a return to the old time practice would be appropriate for Leap Year at least.

Election of Officers of the Grand Lodge to-day.

At the session of the Grand Lodge of the Sons of England yesterday afternoon. Bro. R. C. Holme, on behalf of the citizens, delivered an address of welcome, and assured the visitors that no effort would be spared to make their visit to the city a pleasant and profitable one.

The various committees were appointed and considerable interest was taken in the qustion of appointing deputies for the different districts, and a great deal of discussion took place on this point. The matter was not settled. The grand officers presented their reports which were accepted. In the reports reference was made to the large increase in the membership, and the financial standing of the society was reported to be flourishing, there being quite a balance still in the treasury, after paying out large amounts for the support of the sick. Reference was made to deaths of Rev. Dr. Clark, Grand Chaplain, and Rev. H. J. Nott, of Bowmanville, Assistant Chaplain, both of whom have died during the present year. Rev. E. W. Sibbald, of this city, was appointed Grand Chaplain.

The Grand Lodge Session opened at 9 o'clock this morning, the Grand President in the chair. The morning was taken up in the election of officers for the current year, and in the discussion of sessional papers. The following officers were elected :—Most Worthy Grand President, Bro. R. The Pope has summoned the English and French Bishops to Rome.

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE

Nothing Seen of Mrs. J. C. Moynes Since Monday.

SEARCH SO FAR OF NO AVAIL.

Statements of the Two Citizens Who Saw Her Last.

A startling sensation was created in the city this morning when the news spread that the wife of Mr. J C. Moynes, traveller, was missing, and when the rumor was investigated it was soon ascertained that the report was authentic. The feeling of sympathy for the husband was very great as it was generally thought that Mrs. Moynes had put an end to herself.

A TERRIBLE SURPRISE.

When Mr. Moynes reached Belleville this morning from the east and found his wife missing he at first was loath to believe the statement of his servants that Mrs. Moynes was not there, but on instituting an enquiry no traces could be found of her anywhere. The poor husband then gave up in despair and became almost wild with grief, giving vent to his feelings in the most heart-rending moans and sobs. Such a feeling as Mr. Moynes experienced when he found his amiable and affectionate wife missing, is indescribable—the pains and sorrows of that moment cannot occur again in the lifetime of any man.

THE HUSBAND'S STATEMENT.

A reporter of the THE ONTARIO obtained an interview with Mr. Moynes this morning and learned some facts connected with the case. A week ago last Monday he left in company with his wife to visit some friends in Ottawa. The temporary change of residence was recommended by her physician, Dr. Abbott, in the hope that it would improve her mental condition, which had been of late somewhat unhinged and she had been confined to her house on Everett Street for several months. As time wore on her case seemed to grow more alarming. At the Capital they visited several acquaintances including Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Proctor, Miss Baker, and Mr. Pennick, and Mrs. Moynes appeared to enjoy herself very much with the change of air and surroundings. Her reason became firmer and more natural. They attended church on Sunday last and passed an enjoyable day. Mrs. Moynes, however, was getting more and more anxious to return to her family, and on Monday last they took the express leaving Ottawa at 10:40 a. m. for Belleville. It was the intention when they left Ottawa to stop at Brockville and Kingston on their way home, as Mr. Moynes wanted to do business at these places, but his wife preferred when they reached Brockville not to get off the train, but to hurry on home. This was agreed to and Mrs. Moynes was put in a parlor car, and Mr. Moynes bid her good-bye for a couple of days. That was

THE LAST HE SAW OF HER.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hyman were in the car and came to Belleville with her. Mr. Moynes called on one or two customers in Brockville on Monday afternoon and on Tuesday he visited Kingston on business, arriving here on the early train this morning. He at once repaired to his residence and was met with the startling statement that his wife was not there. This was the first he knew of her absence, and the sad news was a severe blow to him.

THE MISSING WOMAN.

Mrs. Moynes is a lady well known in this vicinity to the general public. The fact that she was an excellent vocalist enlarged her acquaintance still further. She was also at one time a member of Bridge Street Church choir. She is thirty-four years of age and is a sister of Mr. N. Vermilyea, deputy reeve of Thurlow. Mrs. Moynes has been married for about twelve years and has four children two boys and two girls—the youngest being about nine months old.

WHAT MR. HYMAN SAYS.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hyman were in the same car with Mrs. Moynes during the ride from Brockville to Belleville, but as they were not acquainted with her they did not engage in any conversation. At Kingston Mrs. Moynes stepped on the platform for a few moments, but before the train started she boarded the train again, and took up her former seat in the parlor car. Nothing unusual occurred until they reached the Grand Trunk depot here ten minutes before seven in the evening. Mr. Hyman took his wife out on the platform and went to see if his private conveyance was in waiting for them, He returned then to see if Mrs. Moynes had got off all right, and met her in the centre of the yard, going towards, as he thought, a street car. She was carrying a white band-box with square corners in her hand, which had the name of Geo. Ritchie, & Co., printed on the label. This was the last Mr. Hyman saw of her, and as he supposed she was about taking a street car, he did not offer her any assistance.

A STATEMENT BY MR. OVERELL.

At the Brockville station Mr. Moynes asked Mr. J. C. Overell if he would see that his wife arrived safely in Belleville. He was answered in the affirmative, and for some little time they did not meet again. Mr. Overell secured a seat and went out of the car to look after Mrs. Moynes, when Mr. Moynes met him just before the train left and stating that he had secured his wife a seat in the parlor car, asked Mr. Overell if he would look after his wife at Belleville, which he consented to do. Here he went immediately to the car in which Mrs. Moynes was supposed to be, but she had gone. He waited until after every passenger had left and still he could not find her. She had left the depot before him.

SEEN NEAR CANIFTON.

While making enquiry north of the Grand Trunk depot this morning Messrs. Moynes and W. Pope learned that a woman carrying a white band box and resembling the description given of the missing woman had been seen Monday night near Lazier's paper mill going in the direction of Canifton. No further trace of her could be gathered in this direction. A telegram from the conductor states that she did not get on the train here again after leaving the car Monday evening.

A party was organized this afternoon and a vigilant search is being made for the woman along the river and in the vicinity of Canifton as THE ONTARIO goes to press. There is a probability that she may yet turn up all right at some farmer's house. It is to be hoped so.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD.

Proposed Changes in the Central Building Discussed

The Board of Education met last night, the Chairman, Mr. Wm. Johnson, in the chair. Those present were:—Messrs. Davis, Wensley, Richards, Carmichael, Tracey, Walker, Hayne, Diamond, Martin, Moore, Macoun and Tennant.

Mr. J. W. Narraway, head master of the Central School, wrote that he required a supply of maps for his school.

THE CENTRAL SCHOOL.

The Committee on Sites, Buildings and Repairs recommended that the large room in the Central School be divided into four class rooms at a cost not to exceed $500, and that $200 be expended in repairing the same school; also that repairs be made to the other public schools and new seats for a class room in No. 3 school, the total cost to be $1,150. In Committee of the Whole some discussion took place on the absence of any appropriation in the report for new seats for the Central School which will be required when the proposed alterations are made. It was finally decided to set aside $600 for these seats, and an amendment was added to the report setting aside the whole upper story of the building for the high school.

THE HEAD TEACHER.

The Special Committee appointed to revise the rules and regulations of the Board reported a By-law with some changes. One of the changes recommended was that the Inspector and not the Head Master should have the power of classifying new pupils arriving at the schools. Mr. Macoun and others strongly opposed this change, but an amendment moved by him to the report was lost on the following division:

Nays—Messrs. Carmichael, Diamond, Hayne, Martin, Moore, Tracy—6.

Yeas—Messrs. Davis, Macoun, Richards, Walker, Wensley—5.

THE ROMAN CATHOLICS.

In answer to Mr. Wensley the Chairman said the Roman Catholics did not contribute anything to the support of the High School, but they did, he believed, pay their share towards the erection of the High School building when debentures were issued. Since the Catholics had been treated as non-residents, as such they should have contributed, he thought, to the maintenance of this school. The Chairman asked the indulgence of the Board to give this matter further attention before next meeting.

Mr. Carmichael moved for returns showing the cost of the shed at the Central School.

The reading of the Inspector's report was deferred until next meeting. The report of the head master of the High School was received.

A BAD PRECEDENT.

Mr. Walker moved that a clause in the instructions to teachers be amended so that the Chairman's certificate or the Board that a child is not affected with any contagious disease should be sufficient to admit pupils to the public schools. His object in making this resolution was to avoid the necessity of poor parents getting the certificate from a doctor which costs in some cases more than the parents are able to pay.

Dr. Tracy thought this resolution, if carried, would establish a dangerous precedent, as any person but a medical gentleman could not say whether a child was convalescent or not. As to the expense he did not think any member of the profession would make such a charge if the parents could not afford to bear the expense.

Mr. Walker thought that the case he had in point was one worthy of some attention, therefore he called for the vote, which was recorded as follows:

Nays—Messrs. Hayne, Martin, Moore, and Tracy.—4.

Yeas—Messrs. Diamond, Carmichael, Macoun and Walker.—4.

The resolution was lost. Messrs. Wensley and Richards left the room to avoid recording their votes.

Mr. Walker gave notice of a motion to bring this matter up again at the next meeting.

Mr. Walker moved that not fees be collected from non-resident pupils attending the High School in consequence of the grant promised by the County Council.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

Gilford, Ont, Nov. 9th, 1883.

To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could sound your praise from shore to shore. Hoping God will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

'The prophecy arose it is impossible to say how—after Sir Eustace's demise.

'You will smile at it, Arthur; it does seem out of place nowdays, but you would accept it differently if you were one of us.

'Remember, at the same time Sir Ronald was master of Madeley de facto, and Sir Eustace de jure.

'The old rhyme says—

'A curse will still on Madeley stand,
While but one master holds command.
When there shall two acknowledged be
Beneath its roof, it shall be free.'

'Only I don't precisely see how there can be two acknowledged masters to one place, do you?' Ferrers asked, half smiling at the solemnity with which his friend spoke.

'I don't pretend to explain it,' Bertram replied, 'but it is certain that evil fortune comes to the Madeleys in all they do.'

'And you believe the prophecy?'

'Implicitly,' replied the heir.

'Well I hope that you won't have any second master disputing your right when you succeed. I suppose,' continued Ferrers, 'it doesn't mean that the family will be unfortunate until a baronet marries. No, that wouldn't do though; there would only be one master then. Of course it's quite right if one inherits a magnificent property, one ought to have a family ghost. I would cheerfully put up with half a dozen ghosts, and legends by the score, for fifteen thousand a year.'

Bertram Madeley thoughtfully stroked his moustache, and gazed out of the diamond paned window.

'You know, Bertram, if you care to try you might have your pick of Lady Bell's three daughters.'

'No, old fellow,' Bertram said, rousing himself from the reverie into which he had fallen. 'Fancy such a mother-in-law.'

'She's a lady,' said Ferrers.

'With the manners of a cook.'

'And the money of a duchess.'

'No, Arthur, a man should look for something more than money in his wife. There is a purity of heart in some good women, which is above price. It is for these qualities that a man should seek in his wife.'

'And how do you propose to assure yourself that the future Lady Madeley possesses these very desirable qualifications?'

'By gazing one second into her eyes,' Bertram replied. 'Tongues speak falsely, but eyes tell the truth.'

'Won't you play any more?'

'Not unless you care about it.'

'You're out of sorts' old fellow; don't you think a gallop would set you right? I never have the blues in the saddle.'

'Yes I should like a ride very much. We'll go round to the stables, and see what we can take,' Bertram replied.

The young men strolled out through the hall, pausing a moment to gaze on the prospect from the porch.

In front of the house was a terrace, smoothily gravelled, from which a sloping green bank, with here and there flights of steps, led to the lawn.

Beyond that was the park, and the magnificent old trees were rejuvenescent in their bright green raiment, save where here and there, stood some old monarch of the forest whose day was done, and for whose head spring no longer brought her vernal crown.

Beyond, on either hand, was the rich pasture, intersected by streams which glittered in the sunlight as they swept along, conveying their tribute to the cattle that dwelt on their banks.

A step on the gravelled walk withdrew their attention from the landscape.

It was Sir Hubert, Bertram's father, who approached.

A man of commanding stature, though smewhat bent, as to his shoulders, by the weight of five and forty years which had passed by him; for, if report spoke truly, they had been years of dissipation and excess.

His hair was iron grey in colour, but time had not placed a mark upon his heavy black moustache, nor upon the shaggy eyebrows which fringed his dark eyes.

Deep wrinkles in his forehead bespoke habitual thoughtfulness; and the quick, restless glance, which ever and anon he cast from side to side, seemed to tell of a suspicious spirit.

Sir Hubert was a nephew to the late baronet, his father having been younger brother, and as the late deceased possessor of the title had a son, there seemed but little prospect that Hubert Madeley would ever inherit the halls of of his ancestors.

A commission had been purchased for him, and his wants liberally supplied by his uncle, but his prodigality outran the patience of all connected with him, and he was about to leave England a ruined, if not a disgraced man, when an incident occurred, which entirely changed the presupposed course of events.

One night, the household was aroused by the report that robbers had broken in.

It was found to be the case, and just as they were passing quietly through the armoury, with plate and money safely packed up, lights appeared on the scene, and the thieves found they were discovered.

Better had it been for Eustace, and all who loved the young heir, had they let the villains escape unmolested. But it was not to be.

Rushing boldly forward, he seized one of the robbers, and despite the kicks and blows which the ruffian rained upon him, held tight.

Vain were all struggles to loosen Eustace Madeley's grip.

He threw his antagonist on the ground, and put his foot upon the villain's breast, turning aside for a moment, as one would turn from a polluted air.

'Ah, Eustace Madeley, bitter woe is coming to those who pleasure in your sunny smile.

'The evil fortune of your house is to be visited on you, and the sorrow which had been foretold is about to be brought to pass.

THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in reference to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we knew them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a safe, sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint

ARGYLE VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2[illegible], 1883,

Mr W LUMBERS, sr, Toronto Ont. Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

COMPLETELY CURED OF LIVER DISEASE AND CATARRH.

Mr. W. LUMBERS, 288 Carlton Street, Toronto. Dear Sir,—I feel great pleasure in informing you that I have used your Catarrh Remedy and Liver Pill, and am happy to say I am completely cured of these complaints and can with the greatest confidence recommend them to any one suffering from those complaints. Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monckton, County Perth, Ont., Suly 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir,—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. BELL, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

OWING TO THE MANUFACTURERS of certificates of marvelous cures being very busy on the Bamboozelum and Jingoe preparation, none of their productions will appear in these paragraphs. If invalids can be induced to give up their 'bitters' and other rubish, that Parish the Stomach, induce Fatty Degeneration and lead to Chronic Inebriety, and use medical agents of known value as in Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya, they will have a reasonable chance of substantial improvement without risk of mischievious results.

DOUBLE SPINAL CURVATURE.

Gilford, Ont, Nov. 9th, 1883.

To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of her back is almost straight again. I feel as if I could sound your praise from shore to shore. Hoping you will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I am, dear sir, yours very gratefully,

Mrs. Thos. Kneeshaw,
P.M. Gilford, On

VALENTINE TO A MAN OF WORTH.

(BY EDWARD A. CHURCH.)

(From "Bric-a-Brac" in the February Century.)

Fair Sir! to you my maiden intentions—
Shy but sincere—ingeniously incline,
And if I find you answer the conditions,
I'll take your bid and be your Valentine.

I know your worth—that is, your general merit;
But, when your mourned and wealthy father died,
Pray tell a simple girl, did you inherit
His virtues only—or—a bit besides?

Yes, I admire your lofty reputation,
Dear to my artless spirit as my own;
But tell me this—to still my trepidation—
Are you owner in Bell Telephone?

Your learning too has bound my heart in fetters—
For you are wise, if street report be true;
I, too, a childish fancy have for letters—
I hope you are solid on "C., B., & Q."

Your noble presence—"Dignified and stately"—
With inexperienced ardor I adore;
But those Villard stocks! Have you tried 'em lately?
And were you long or short on that Lake Shore?

So, gentle Sir, if you aright but read me,
And will, with all your Bonds and Stocks be mine,
Then into Mutual Union you shall lead me,
And I will be—
Your beaming VALENTINE.

THE SIDNEY SCANDAL.

THE MAN WHO WON A MARRIED LADY'S FAVOR DISCOVERED.

We have received a communication, written with an automatic pencil, but unsigned with the writer's name, from a gentleman in Sidney, who seems to have no doubt that the article entitled "Only a Woman's Heart," written from Bayside, reporting the entanglement by an American of a married lady's affections, applies to him. He says he will deviate from his rule of not replying to such charges and denies the impeachment. He denominates our correspondent a writer of fiction, a deliberate falsifier, devoid of regard for the truth, and a nefarious and lying villian. It will be observed that this indictment has a gently rising reflection till it reaches the last named climax. The whole article, he says is a series of malignant lies. First, he has been in Sidney only five and a half months, instead of seven as stated by the correspondent. Then he never travelled about the county selling cough drops, and while thus engaged, called at a respectable farmer's house, and during his absence won the affections of his wife. He never called at the gentleman's house to whom reference was made, for the purpose of selling cough drops or medicine of any description, nor, he adds, at any other house in the county. He further avers that he was regularly introduced to the lady at the house in question, at a time when her husband was at home. Moreover, as to the statement that he was to sing with the lady in public, when the husband prevented it, he denies by saying that he never did sing. He leads us to infer that as the lady's father-in-law lives, he says, 15 or 20 miles distant, the old man would not be likely to interfere to punish the villain. In conclusion, "Yankee," as he signs himself, says he trusts all and sundry persons who originate and circulate reports injurious to his character, will take his letter as an insult and "demand satisfaction." It looks as if the gentleman intended to kill his slanderers with a pill.

AN ACTIVE TEMPERANCE ORGANIZATION.

The Hamilton, Ontario, Young Ladies' Christian Temperance Society is evidently a live institution, judging by the good works it is conducting. Last year it had 300 children under instruction, and distributed 8,920 leaflets to children. There were 38 deposits in the girls' sewing school, and 59 in the boys' night school. A temperance library of 57 volumes had been bought. The sewing committee reports at present employing a staff of nine teachers, besides a superintendent and a lady to take charge of the work. 130 pupils are on the roll, of whom 97 are bank depositors. 185 boys regularly attend the night school. Many of them had to begin earning a living at a very early age, and some of them 15 or 16 years of age, do not know the alphabet. The boys show great application to their studies, and a growing self-respect. A balance of $34,37 is shown in the report of the society's treasurer.

WHY THE THING WOULDN'T WORK.

A young gentleman entered a newspaper office on Walnut street and asked if he might use the telephone.

"Certainly," replied the suave city editor.

"I live in Dayton," he replied "and I want to telephone to my wife for a little money, as I am unexpectedly short just now."

"I have been there myself," remarked the city editor, "and can sympathise with you. You may take the box clear off the wall if you want to."

"Thanks," he said and rang for Dayton. He got it but failed to get a satisfactory reply. He talked low and he talked loud, and then he howled. He spelled the words out slowly and repeated them again and again. His appeal was full of the words "broke," "money," "can't hear," "speak plainer," "send," "sober" "want to go home," and so on, but was signally unsuccessful in getting a fitting response Finally he hung up the tube and remarked:

"You will excuse me, I hope, for troubling you, but this result is unavoidable and unexpected, sir. The circumstances are perfectly unfortunate, sir. My mother-in-law is at the other end of the wire, and no wonder the thing wouldn't work. Good morning sir."

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

SECESSION OF QUEBEC.

Quebec despairs of securing wise and patriotic rulers. The regimes of Chaplean and Mousseau have stampel so much obliquy on the Provincial Government that respectable and able men like Judge Angers and Mr. Masson decline to step into the breach. But a Government of a kind has been formed with Mr. Taillon, the former Speaker, as Attorney General. Mr. Taillon being returned to the House the other day for Montreal East made a speech, the nature of which we can best reflect by quoting from the Montreal Herald. It says :—

"There is nothing new in the Attorney-General's programme except the threat which the Government, speaking through him, makes of seceding from the Confederation unless the Province receives more than it agreed to accept in the way of a Federal subsidy and more than the law and constitution give her. That the first official act of the new Government should be the utterance and publication of such a threat to be circulated throughout Canada, and telegraphed all over the American continent and to Europe, is a sufficient proof that the new Provincial Government is, if anything, more imbecile and more desperate than the Government that surrendered the other day before a blow had been struck in the Legislature. That the actual leader of the Quebec Government should so far compromise the people of this Province as to represent the Province as at once a mendicant and a bully, a beggar and highwayman; that he should declare in public that unless his Government—after crawling on his knees to Parliament—should receive favors which it has no right to ask, it will undertake to punish the Dominion for rejecting the beggar's petition, must be regarded as a disgusting and sickening spectacle. It is disgusting because no one knows better than this newly fledged Attorney General that his threat is meaningless; that a fifty thousand horse power could not draw the Quebec politicians from the teats of Federal patronage; that Quebec is already the favored member of the Confederation; that she has no 'case' to present except on the ground of charity; that her resources have been wasted by political jobbers and robbers and by extravagance unparallelled within the Dominion; that her financial troubles have been produced exclusively by her own people in her own Government and Legislature; that she has received from the Federal treasury every dollar of subsidy to which she was entitled and every dollar of income to which she could lay any claim under the articles of Confederation.

There is much more to the same effect. Sufficient has been said, however, to indicate that a true blue Conservative can threaten secession from the Confederacy whenever it suits him. It's about time that Sir John Macdonald turned his great head eastward and advises his friends in Quebec, instead of confining his attention to the obstruction of Ontario's legislation and the dethronement of Ontario's good Government.

A STARTLING STATEMENT.

Sir Leonard Tilley, Finance Minister of Canada, recently gave $300,000 to the Exchange Bank which he knew or should have known was rotten to the core. Of this large amount of public money $200,000 has been lost. Sir Leonard must needs try and make out that this unwise act is not censurable, indeed that he is entitled to credit in the matter, and he goes on to say :—

"We all know by looking at the returns that if to-day two-thirds of the banks in the Dominion were called upon to redeem their circulation where these banks would be, and where the business of the country would be. Under these circumstances, we felt that we were perfectly justified—feeling, at the same time, that we were safe in doing so—in endeavoring to save the country from the consequences that would follow from the breaking down, it might be, of two, or three, or four, or five of the banks."

These are assertions calculated to alarm every depositor in the country and every business man in trade.

THE GRAND TRUNK PROTEST

Correspondence Between the Premier and Mr. Hickson

PUBLIC MONEY FOR PRIVATE COMPETITION.

OTTAWA, Feb. 14.—The circulation to Mr. Hickson's protest to Parliament against the continual bolstering of the C. P. R. Company at the expense of other lines has created quite a sensation. The pamphlet opens with a letter from Mr. Hickson to Sir John Macdonald, dated 2nd Feb., instant, in which the former states that his cable advices from London intimated that all the daily papers published there were protesting against further aid being given by the Government to the C. P. R. Company, so long as that Company continues to go out of its legitimate sphere to compete with or injure the Grand Trunk Company. Mr. Hickson, said: "I am urged to protest against the course being pursued unless the Government are prepared to take measures to guard against the public funds granted, or to be granted, being used to damage private interests in other Canadian railways. The result of persistence in the course which has been pursued in the past by those controlling that company, can only be a total destruction of credit, endangering the large investments of the Government in the Canadian Pacific Railway and retarding the settlement and progress of the country. Your Government has the power to put an end to a state of things which is hurtfull in the highest degree to the best interests of the people of Canada. Have you considered what the result of united harmonious action by the two companies in Europe, working for the promotion of the settlement of the Northwest and the advancement of the interests of Canada generally would be? You will realize, doubtless, that unless I can secure the intervention of the Government it will be incumbent upon me, situated as I am, to make an appeal for justice to Parliament in such a manner as constitutional usages permit." On the 4th February Sir John replied, asking for explanations as to how the proposed aid to the Canada Pacific was going to injure the Grand Trunk shareholders. On the following day Mr. Hickson forwarded a letter to Sir John stating that he was instructed by cable message to inform the Premier of the Dominion that the Directors of the Grand Trunk, with every wish for the prosperity of the Dominion and the Canadian Pacific Railway proper, strongly protest against legislation embracing assistance to lines acquired by the Syndicate outside of the objects of the Canadian Pacific charter, thus using public money for competition against a private enterprise. In reply to Sir John's note, Mr. Hickson on Thursday last wrote stating that, while an amicable arrangement between the rival companies was desirable in the interests of the country, it was unfair that one contestant should have all the influence and aid of the Government thrown upon its side and the other be burdened with onerous charges rendered necessary by the policy pursued by its rival. Attention is called to the unsuccessful efforts made last year to harmonize the conflicting interests of the Grand Trunk and Pacific Railway Companies and proposing means to get over the difficulty in view of the desire of the Government that the Canada Pacific road should reach Quebec.

EDUCATION IN ONTARIO.

Report of the Minister for the Year Ending 31st. Dec. 1882.

The following is a summary of the report of the Minister of Education laid on the table of the House the other day. During the year 1882 the total sum raised from all sources for public school purposes was $3,469 990, an increase of $210,751 over 1881. The total expenditure was $5,026,974, an increase of $182,702. The average cost per pupil was $6.03 in rural districts. $6.86 for towns, and $8.81 for cities, making an average for the whole province of $6.42.

The number of children between five and sixteen in the province in 1882 was 483,817, a decrease of 407 as compared with 1881.

The total number on the school register was 471,512, a decrease of 2,648. The total average attendance was 214,176, or 15 per cent of the aggregate, the percentage for rural districts being 43, for cities 58, and for towns 53. The registered number of boys in school was 246,966, a decrease of 4,695; the number of girls was 224 546, a decrease of only 61.

In the 6,203 schools, 6,857 teachers were employed, 65 fewer than the year before. It is a significant fact that while of these 3,062 are males and 3,795 females, the former decreased by 300 and the latter increased by 235. The average salaries of male teachers in rural districts, towns and cities respectively were $385, $576 and $742; and of female teachers, $248, $273, and 331. The general average is far too low, but in the case of women this is peculiarly the case.

The Roman Catholic seperate schools decreased in number by two during the year, though the aggregate expenditure and receipts both show an increase. The number of teachers employed in these schools was 700, of whom 292 were females.

The total expenditure for high school purposes was $343,720, and the number of pupils 12,437, an average of $29.30 per pupil. The number of schools reported was 104. The head masters were all graduates of universities except five who taught on old certificates. The degrees of the graduates were in the following numbers from the following universities :—

Toronto	53	Aberdeen	2
Victoria	18	Queen's (Ireland)	2
Queen's	12	Dublin	1
Trinity	4	McGill	1
Albert	4	Cambridge	1
		Glasgow	1

The attendance at University College for 1882-83 was 380, including 60 students of the school of practical science, who got some of their tuition from the Professors of University college.

The latter portion of the report is taken up with the statistics of the mechanics' institutes and art schools.

THE TERRIBLE FLOODS.

Cities Under Water and the Tide Rising in Indiana.

APPALLING SCENES OF DESOLATION.

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio, Feb. 14.—The water has fallen nine inches in twelve hours. It is estimated that thirty thousand people along the river within twenty-five miles will have to be fed by charity for two weeks.

This evening the river is falling an inch an hour. The total fall is six feet. The relief boat Montgomery came in from her third trip to Pomeroy. She carried six tons of provisions.

HARMAR,—This town is flooded and the people are destitute. A hundred buildings have been washed away. The people are camping on the hill sides. The suffering is great. Money, clothing, or food is appealed for.

PORTSMOUTH, O.,—The entire city is under water, three-fourths to the house tops. All the merchants will lose heavily from inundated stock. One-half the citizens lose all their household goods. The river commenced falling slowly last night. Supplies are coming in from the surrounding country, and famine is being avoided. One hundred and twenty dwelling-houses has been carried into the river, and over five hundred more swept from their sites are piled in a confused wreck against obstructions.

PORTSMOUTH.—There is not an acre of dry ground in the city, and not a hundred houses not under water.

WHEELING VA.—At Wellsburg, twenty miles above the people are destitute and suffering.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—The Arkansas river is higher than in thirty years. It is three feet above the danger line. The banks are caving, and houses tumbling in. The loss to farmers is incalculable.

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—The country round about is one vast sea of water. Only the tops of the houses in Kentucky are now visible.

AURORA.—There is no news from Lawrenceburg to-day. Many houses were seen floating down this morning, and the anxiety is great. The water is rising an inch an hour, and more dwellings are toppling over.

CANADIAN NEWS.

Theophilus Smith, while chopping a tree on his farm in Lobo yesterday, was struck by a falling limb and instantly killed, leaving a widow in destitute circumstances

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective.

SPORTING NOTES.

The winter trotting meeting at Ottawa did not begin until to-day, owing to the storm Tuesday night.

Mrs. A. Nelson, Brantford writes: 'I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years. Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankfull to say that I have not been better for years, that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

ALBERT UNIVERSITY.

The Last Celebration of Charter Day To-morrow.

HISTORY OF THE INSTITUTION.

Prominent Names Connected with its Founding.

Apropos of what, in all human probability, will be the final celebration of the granting of a University Charter to Albert College on the 15th of February next, a brief sketch of the history of this institution may not be uninteresting. Although Charter Day only has reference to Albert University proper, still it is a fitting time to glance for a moment at "Belleville Seminary" and its staff of instructors, who still live in the minds of many of the citizens. In 1853 the Bay of Quinte Annual Conerence of the M. E. Church proposed a scheme which was adopted by the General Conference in the following year, for the erection and maintenance of an educational institution at Belleville.

THE CHARTERED BOARD,

The first section of the Act 20 Vic. provides that "the undermentioned persons, viz.: Samuel Gilbert, Caleb Gilbert, Robert Bird, and Elias Vandewaters, of Sydney, in the county of Hastings; John Commer, Waterdown, and John Rymal, of Ancaster, in the County of Wentworth; Nathan Jacobs, of London, in the County of Middlesex; Philip Carmen, of Miltilda, County of Dundas; John Campbell, of Brooklyn, County of Ontario; Samuel Osborne, of Sophiasburg, County of Prince Edward; and Peter Fisher, of Nelson, County of Halton, being the present Board of Trustees, and their associates and successors to be appointed as hereinbefore provided, shall be and they are hereby constituted and declared to be a body politic and corporate, by the name of 'Belleville Seminary,' and by that name shall have perpetual succession and a common seal."

The arrangement of preliminaries being completed, it was opened on the 16th of July, 1857, with the following staff of teachers.

Rev. Joshua H Johnson, M. A., Principal and Professor of Ethics and Belles Lettres.

Rev. Albert Carman, B. A., Professor of Mathematics.

Mr. Martin, M. A., Professor of classics.

G. Goldsmith, English Master.

Miss Deaver, M. L. A., Preceptress and Teacher of Modern Languages.

Miss E. Masuary—Music.

Mrs. Crowell—Painting and Drawing and Assistant in Music.

AFFILIATION WITH TORONTO.

In the following year, a considerable change in the staff was effected. Mr. Carman was raised to the Principalship, H. P. Shepherd, B.A., replaced Prof. Martin in the Classical chair. Robert Carswell was chosen English Master, and a Moral Governor and Bursar was added in the person of Gideon Shepherd, to whose memory a tablet may be seen in the College Chapel to-day. For seven years since its inauguration it continued to grow both in influence and efficiency, until 1864, its usefulness had outgrown its limits and it was deemed necessary to extend its powers by affiliating it with the Provincial University at Toronto. At this time the staff had been strengthened by the addition of a Natural Science chair, ably filled by Prof. Osband, M. A., and the procuring of Dr. Nichol, as Professor of Anatomy, while Mrs. Osband taught Modern Languages and Miss Tuft had charge of the Musical Department. After a brief existence as an affiliated College, an act of Parliament was obtained (29 & 30 Vic. Cap. CXXXVI) by which the name of the Institution was changed to Albert College, and limited University Powers thereto attached. By this act a Senate was created with power to make statutes for properly conferring Degrees in Arts. The first session of the Senate began on the first day of April, 1867, the Rev. Philander Smith, D.D., presiding, and was continued by adjournments until the fourth of July, when the first Curriculum was established.

THE FIRST CONVOCATION.

On the 3rd of July, 1867, the first University Convocation was held in the College Chapel, at which were laureated the first four graduates of Albert University, viz: J. B. Aylsworth, M.A., L.L.D., Judge Carman, M.A., T. F. MacIntyre, M.A., Principal of Brantford Ladies College, and Freeman Lane, M.A. In the following Autumn matters were settled and systematized and the new University continued its successful career with the following enlarged and strengthened Council:—

Rev. A. Carman, M.A., President and Professor of Mathematics and Metaphysics.

G. G. Hapgood, D.D., Professor of Classics.

G. S. Wright, B.A., Professor of Modern Languages.

Dr. Nichol; Professor of Anatomy.

John Macoun, M.A., Professor of Botany.

J. T. Bell, Esq., Professor of Zoology.

R. B. Carman, B.A., Professor of Chemistry.

Bro. Joseph Wild, M.A., Professor of Oriental Languages.

St. George Baron Le Poer Crozier, Professor of Music.

From this time Albert University rapidly developed, the number of students increasing, and the high stand taken by her graduates winning for their Alma Mater an enviable reputation. No small share of her prosperity during this period is due to the energetic and self-sacrificing labors of Dr. Wild, now pastor of Bond St. Church, Toronto, who, by means of a thorough and exhaustive canvass raised upwards of $10,000 as an Endowment Fund. But it was soon discovered that the University, like the growing oak, was bursting through its bonds, and in the winter of '71 a Bill was introduced in the Commons to convert it into a body corporate with the full powers and privileges of a University. This bill became law on the 15th of February, 1871, which has ever since been duly celebrated as the Natal Day of Albert University. A quotation from the College calendar of '76 declares that: "On that day the Undergraduates assemble in the College Chapel at 2 p. m., and after a prescribed religious service, the Acts of Incorporation are read by the senior Undergraduate present, a sermon is preached by one of the University preachers, and a short oration upon the state of the University is then delivered by some one appointed for that purpose. In the evening the Undergraduates Annual Exhibition is held, comprising essays, music, orations, colloquies and discussions."

DR. JAQUES PRESIDENT.

The University continued as before, doing yeoman service in the education of our youth, without much change, until the elevation of Dr. Carman to the Episcopacy in the M. E. church rendered the election of another President necessary. Before referring to the inauguration of Dr. Jaques as President, mention might be made of the founding of a college paper, termed The Aurora in December, 1873, which enjoyed a short but brilliant career. In the fall of 1875, the Rev. J. R. Jaques, D.D., Ph. D., was inaugurated President and at the same time filled the chair of Classics, He was supported by the following staff :

Rev. Bishop Carman, D. D., Emeritus Professor of Mathematics.

Geo. S. Wright, Ph. D., Professor of Modern Languages.

John Macoun, M. A., Professor of Botany and Geology.

J. T. Bell, Esq., Professor of Zoology.

Rev. E. I. Badgley, B. D., Professor of Metaphysics and Oriental Languages.

Henry Whish, Esq., Professor of Music.

A. Carlyle, B. A., Professor of Chemistry.

Geo. W. Andrews, B. A., Mathematical Tutor.

In addotion to the above there were several instructors confined entirely to Alexandra College which was clearly distinct from the University.

Since 1875 Albert University has been doing noble work in equpping the young men of our land for life's earnest battle. She has through the powers and efficiency of her Alumni, and the thoroughness of the training received in her halls earned her way to an honorable position among the older colleges in the Dominion. It is a curious coincidence that the initiatory step toward the building of "Belleville Seminary" was taken in the Bay of Quinte Conference, and upon the consumation of Union the almost historic structure will come for the first time into the territory of her mother conference. The name of Jas. G. Robinson figures prominently in connection with the finances of this Institution. He gratuitously performed the arduous duties of Bursar for a number of years, and by an extensive personal canvass raised an endowment fund of about $50,000. His recent retirement from the position was much regretted.

THE GRADUATES.

The Alumni consists of: D.C.L., 1; D.D., 1; L.L.D., 7; Mus. Doc., 1, M.A., 26, B.D., 6; L.L.B., 14; Mus. Bac., 1; B. A., 72. The list of Undergraduates comprises 147 names.

Henry Clement Almonte, writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it. I began to use it both externally and internally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equal.

FOURTEEN PROPOSALS.

Two brawny citizens met in front of a saloon on Centre street yesterday.

"Happy New Year to ye," said one, "May the same bless ye," was the reply. "They say as this be leap year; is it so?"

"Have ye had any proposals?"

Bad luck to the wan. Have you?"

"Fourteen."

"Who be the ladies?"

"What ladies?"

"Thim as proposed."

"Who said any thing about ladies?"

"You did"

"I didn't. I said I had fourteen proposals to drink, and accepted every wan of 'em."

"Ye'd better luck than I had."

A BALKY DRIVER

The night was dark.

Nights usually are of this gloomy description but this night, being Tuesday, was murky in the extreme It will be remembered that the wind blew and hail mingled with rain descended at intervals. About seven o'clock a sleighing pary consisting of five citizens, both ladies and gentlemen, including a clergyman, drew out upon the ice and headed for the Ameliasburg shore. It was not that these men "loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil", as their mission was to aid at a church entertainment in Ameliasburg. But the courage of those who undertook to brave the night, although sustained by such a benevolent object, began to ooze out at the prospect. Still they were bound to go through. They had got half way across the bay when the hired driver "kicked", and declared defiantly that if they would not turn back he would leave them and walk home. This settled the question and, not unwillingly it must be confessed, the heroic performers whose names graced the programme ahead of them but whose faces were never to greet the expectant audience, turned homewards and drove back to the city.

SONS OF ENGLAND.

The Grand Lodge Entertained at a Public Banquet.

GROWING ACTIVITY OF BELLEVILLE LODGE.

Last evening a grand banquet was gived at the Dafoe House, in honor of the Grand Lodge, at which between 70 and 80 sat down, including as guests, His Worship the Mayor and Col. Prince, U. S. Consul, Bro. London, President of Oxford Lodge, occupied the chair. The menu was one of the best the Dafoe House ever prepared, and was very creditable. The post prandial proceedings began with the usual loyal toasts, followed by that of the President of the United States, to which Col. Prince responded in one of his happy after-dinner speeches. He quoted the remarks of one of America's eminent sons to the effect that it was only by a moral miscalculation that the citizens of the Republic were not all sons of England instead of cousins to those sons.

"The Grand Lodge" brought Bro. Higginbotham, Grand President, to his feet. The Order, he said, had never been more prosperous than last year He eloquently eulogized love of country, and thought that while remaining true Englishmen they could also be thorough Canadians. He spoke hopefully of the future of the Order and by request he publicly acknowledged the great kindness shown the Grand Lodge by the citizens and brethern of Belleville. They were glad that one of the city's estimable sons had been placed at the head of the Order. (Cheers.)

Brothers Venables, Bickell and Melon (Toronto,) also responded.

"The Land We Left and The Land We Live In," was suitably acknowledged by Bros. Tickell and Sibbald, both of Belleville. The latter thought the presence in Canada of many intelligent and prosperous Englishmen proved that this was the better country. (Cries of no, no.) He bore high testimony to the good charitable work the members of Oxford Lodge were doing in this city.

The toast "The Delegates" was acknowledged by Bro. Clayton, of Hamilton.

Mayor Dunnet, and Ald. Tickell and Alford responded to "The Mayor and Corporation."

In replying for "Oxford Lodge" Bro. London said that the Lodge was now over two years old, and during that time nothing had occurred to interrupt the harmonious feeling which should exist. As a benevolent institution it was second only to one other in the city.

Bro. Holme remarked that the Lodge was yet in its infancy, and what they had done, however much, was nothing to what they would do, a sentiment which was very warmly received.

Bros. Alford and Tammadge expressed their gratification at the progress of the Lodge.

"The Ladies" were well represented by Bro. Dr. Pollard and Bro. Ald. Hastings, of Toronto.

"The Press" and "The Chairman" having been acknowledged "The Host" was duly honored and "God Save the Queen" ended the entertainment.

During the evening songs or recitations were givenby Messrs Wensely, Richardson Taylor, Parks, Chester, McKinnon, Minton, Cannon, Matthews Melon and Edmett.

The gathering was very successful and reflected the highest credit on the liberality and management of Oxford Lodge.

PROCEEDINGS TO-DAY.

The lodge opened this morning with devotional exercises by Rev. E. W. Sibbald, Chaplain. In committee of the whole a prolonged discussion took place on the proposal to form a Mutual Provident and Endowment Society, and at twelve o'clock the lodge adjourned for dinner.

Yesterday afternoon an invitation to visit the Deaf and Dumb Institution was received from Supt. Mathison.

The Grand Lodge will probably adjourn at noon to-morrow.

Mr. W. B. Lazier bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes: 'I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stables. I have used it for bruises, scratches wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gives the best satisfaction, We used it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., It is a perfect panacea. It will remove warts by paring them down and applying it occasionally.'

ASSESSING COMPANIES.

IMPORTANT DECISION BY THE COUNTY JUDGE OF YORK.

From Our Own Correspondent.

TORONTO, Feb. 14.—The question of the right of municipalities to assess the stock of companies doing business in the city having been decided against the companies the Bell Telephone Company, the Trust and Loan and the Upper Canada Furnishing Company took appeals to the County Court. Judge Boyd yesterday affirmed the assessment and dismissed the appeals

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD.

A meeting of the Separate School Board was held last night, all the members being present except the Chairman, Mr. David Holden. In his absence Mr. D. Brennan was asked to preside. A number of accounts for supplies were passed, and a committee consisting of Messrs. J. Doyle, F. Doland, T. Bayeur, in company with the Rgt. Rev. Mgr. Farrelly and P. P. Lynch, Secretary-Treasurer, was appointed to wait upon the city assessor and request him to assess all Roman Catholics as supporters of the Separate Schools. A petition from Miss McDonald, teacher, asking for certain repairs to the West Belleville School was also referred to the Committee.

THE MOYNE'S MYSTERY.

Part of Her Apparal Found on the River.

FULL PARTICULARS OF THE AFFAIR

It is now generally believed that Mrs. Moynes, who has been missing since Monday night as stated in THE ONTARIO yesterday, has committed suicide by throwing herself into the river. Her body has not been found and probably never will be, unless it is when the ice breaks up in the spring, but the mysterious place in which her muff was found on Tuesday morning is strong evidence that the unfortunate woman took her life in her own hands on the night she arrived in Belleville after leaving her husband at Brockville. That she met her death in this way is something which the relatives can scarcely believe, but the theory told below is one that cannot be discredited.

SEARCHING IN VAIN.

A large party of gentlemen organized yesterday afternoon and after learning that Mrs. Moynes had been seen going in the direction of Canifton, they concluded to search the banks of the river in that vicinity first and make every possible effort to learn the whereabouts of the missing woman as early as possible. All sorts of theories were advanced as to where the woman might have wandered, but as the search continued each one in turn failed to throw any new light on the subject. The ice and water-holes were carefully examined and, while Mr. F. H. Rous proceeded along the banks on snowshoes, others drove up and down the roads enquiring from everybody they met, if they had seen such a woman, but invariably they met with the same response—that no such person had been noticed beyond Lazier's paper mill. A call was made at the school house but the children there could give no information. Finally as night advanced the party became convinced the woman for whom they were searching was not to be found in that direction, and they began to

RETRACE THEIR STEPS

with heavier and sadder hearts and with less hopes of ever seeing her alive. They reached the city about dark and the result of their unsuccessful trip was soon reported about town. But this report still early in the evening was discarded for another and one more startling, to the effect that the muff and a book belonging to Mrs. Moynes had been found on the ice just above Coleman's dam by Mr. Nelson English. A representative of this journal at once sought out the residence of Mr. English on Marney street, West Belleville, and learned the facts from him regarding his finding the articles referred to.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. ENGLISH.

"Where did you find the muff, Mr. English," asked the reporter.

"I found a seal muff with a pockethandkerchief and a book inside on the edge of the ice over the dam at Walker's foundry about ten minutes before seven o'clock Tuesday morning, when on my way to work at Mr. W. Davis'. The book was entitled 'Saumbre Rivals,' by Edward P. Roe. I thought then that some person skating on the ice had left the articles behind them and that they had been carried by the wind to the place where I picked them up. But as soon as I read the papers last night I was quite certain the things belonged to Mrs. Moynes. I think it would have been impossible for any woman in the night to have laid the muff where I found it without falling over into the water. Even when I ventured up to it a number of men on the shore stood watching, expecting to see me tumble over the dam. I could scarcely recognize what the article was until I got my hands on it and brushed the snow off. I took the muff home and intended to advertise it, but I thought I would wait for a few days to see if the owner would advertise it first."

A SAD SIGHT.

"Were the articles identified by Mr. Moynes?"

"As soon as I got home last night I went down to his place and asked Mr. Moynes for a description of the muff and book, which he gave exactly as I have told you. Mr. Moynes and a relative of his, Mr. Sid Vermilyea, then came back to my house with me and got the things. The poor man almost broke down when he came in and saw his wife's muff on that (pointing to a small table in the parlor.) At first he did not want to look at it, but walked across the floor in an opposite direction. When he turned around and caught sight of the muff, he fell against the door and wept bitterly, screaming several times at the top of his voice. I tell you it was a hard sight."

GIVES UP IN DESPAIR.

"Was he satisfied that his wife was drowned?"

"No, he was not at first, but after taking him with about a dozen other men with lanterns to the place where I picked up the things, Mr. Moynes then gave up all hope of ever seeing her alive again."

"Is the river open below the dam?"

"Yes, there is a space of clear water about ten or fifteen feet there, and the current is very strong."

SEARCHING FOR THE BODY.

As stated by Mr. English the current below the dam for some distance is very stiff, but those who are familiar with the bed of the river know that there are a great many "boulders" projecting some times above the water, and it is just possible that the body has been caught and held by one of them. A gang of men went out on the ice this morning and began cutting it away in the hope that the body might be recovered.

After dinner men were at work sawing out the ice and reaching the bed of the river with pike-poles, but at the hour of going to press they were unsuccessful in finding the body.

A great deal of sympathy is expressed for the bereaved husband who has been deprived of a loving and affectionate wife in such a melancholy manner. If the body could only be recovered it would be some relief.

A SLIGHTED MAIDEN.

She Sues a Newly-Married Man for Breach of Promise,

AND CLAIMS $10,000 DAMAGES.

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.—Mr. Simon Howard, a merchant from Eganville, in county of Renfrew, Ont., who arrived here last night from Ottawa with his newly-married bride on a tour, was surprised this morning by a bailiff entering the hotel where the happy couple were stopping and serving the gentleman with a writ of action at the suit of Miss Annie B. Howard for $10,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage. The interesting complainant, who resides here, alleges in her declaration that she has been engaged to defendant since 1871, when he resided in this city. He made a solemn vow in the name of Jesus and the Virgin Mary to make plaintiff his wife in 1873. The defendant gave his fiancee an engagement ring. The marriage was then arranged to come off soon, but was postponed at defendant's request from time to time on the ground that business was bad and he could not afford the expense of married life. During the long period which Miss Howard was waiting for the nuptials she had several good offers for her hand, but refused them to keep faith with defendant. She claims that he is worth more than $50,000, and therefore asks for damages and costs for the heartless treatment.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligtnt eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keey the system in regular order, anh in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remody required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously administered· Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STEWART.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

The villain freed one hand, drew a pistol from his pocket, and shot the young heir dead on the spot.

In the confusion of the moment, it was hard for any man to tell how the fight was going, but where he himself was concerned, for the gang was numerous, and it was sometime before it was seen how evil was the day for Madeley.

It is not part of our task to speak of the sorrow which fell on the house, or of how the father grieved for his son; but to Hubert the accident was a lucky one.

Sir Ronald wanted to have a member of his family about him, and Hubert was the nearest forthcoming, so his sentence of exile was repealed, and it was settled that he was to take up his abode at the Court.

Strange to say he was not wholly pleased with the proposal, and begged for two years' leave of absence on the Continent, and as he had an evil savour with the world, Sir Ronald consented, and he departed.

Not entirely was the master of Madeley Court pleased with his new resident, when he came to take up his abode there, but Hubert took care that no rupture should occur between them, and when the country became unendurable to him, it was, perhaps, with some degree of mutual satisfaction that the young man left for a few weeks' change, and the old man saw him go.

Some five and twenty years before the date of this story, Hubert had married a gentle, loving girl, who might have worked good in life whose share of goodness was small, but she died in giving birth to Bertram, and so that chance was lost and the people shook their heads and said it was the Madeley luck, and that it always would be so, and in hushed voices repeated their tales of the Court.

As they stood on the terrace in the sunlight, you would have traced the relationship between them, for the younger man's hair was much lighter in shade than his father's, and the open, fearless look in his eyes, contrasted with his father's sterner glance.

There was no great show of cordiality in their morning greeting, but the baronet paused as though he had something to say.

Ferrers took the hint.

'I'll go round to the stables and smoke, Bertram, and wait for you,' said he, after interchanging, with Sir Hubert the amount of conversation which is requisite between host and guest.

'Don't like the old boy, somehow,' he soliloquized. 'Don't know why, he's very civil and all that sort of thing, but somehow, I don't fancy him; the reason I can not tell,' he quoted.

And turning off at the end of the terrace, he passed through a door in the wall to the stable yard, and was soon deep in a discussion with the stud groom.

'I wish to speak to you, Bertram,' said his father.

'I am at your service, sir,' was the reply.

'To speak to you,' continued the baronet, 'about a very serious matter.'

Bertram inclined his head.

'I am anxious to see you married, Bertram,'

'Married, sir!' exclaimed his son with surprise.

'Yes, married. Is there anything strange in that?'

'Nothing very strange, except that it is unexpected, sir.'

'It is necessary that you should marry, as I need not tell you; and there is in the county at present, a party, whom you should not let slip through your fingers.

'Pon my word, sir, I'm at a loss to know whom you are alluding.'

'I am alluding to Euphemia Bell,' said Sir Hubert

Euphemia Bell.

'You echo my words in a strange way this morning, Bertram. She appears to me in every way desirable. She is of good family.'

'On the father's side,' interrupted the son. 'Sir Thomas married his cook.'

'She is of good blood,' continued the baronet, not heeding the interruption, 'and will have considerable, very considerable property. I presume you have not already fallen in love,' he sneered.

'Not over head and ears, sir,' smilingly replied his son; and he thought for a moment of a little face which had once looked up into his, and made his heart beat strangely, and of eyes in which he would gladly have seen mirrored his future life.

Pshaw! the girl might be married now for all he knew, might, for the matter of that, have been married when he saw her. No, she could not have been.

The idea annoyed him intensely, and as he turned his thoughts from that little face and the wealth of bright hair, to Euphemia Bell's harsh visage, and scant headcrop, sandy in colour, and coarse in texture, he was very much less inclined to receive his father's communication with favour than he had been before.

'I have reasons for wishing this,' continued Sir Hubert; 'one of them is that a sum of money would be a great convenience to me at present. and, as I have said, and you doubtless are aware, Euphemia Bell's fortune will be very considerable.

'I need not say,' he continued, for he judged from the expression of the young man's face that he had noticed the selfishness of the speech, 'that unless I considered it an eminently suitable match, I should not propose it for the sake of any pecuniary advantage we might derive from it.

'You must not forget that you are heir, and,' he added, seeing that it would take a little display of fatherly affection to entirely round off the mercenary nature of his former speech, 'it would be a great comfort to me to see you settled down and taking your position in the county.

'But, sir; I suppose you ought to have some affection for your wife; some love for the person with whom all your future life is to be spent?' said Bertram.

And a warm, indignant flush suffused his cheeks.

His Outspoken Opinion.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail in the United States, Canada and England in [illegible] way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M[illegible] Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we knew them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a safe sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint.

ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883,

Mr W. LUMBERS, SR., Toronto Ont. Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

COMPLETELY CURED OF LIVER DISEASE AND CATARRH.

Mr. W. LUMBERS, 288 Carlton Street, Toronto. Dear Sir,—I feel great pleasure in informing you that I have used your Catarrh Remedy and Liver Pill, and am happy to say I am completely cured of these complaints and can with the greatest confidence recommend them to any one suffering from those complaints. Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monckton, County Perth, Ont., July 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Oct., Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. REID, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

PRICES—Sure Cure for Piles, $1 per package; Catarrh Remedy, 50c per package; Liver Pills, 10c per box. For sale by all dealers in medicine or sent to any address on receipt of the price.

The second made me well and strong as when a child,

My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious

Seven bottles of your bitters cured him and I know of the "Lives of eight persons"

And many more are using them with great benefit.

Do miracles?" Mrs E. D. Slack.

OWING TO THE MANUFACTURERS of certificates of marvelous cures being very busy on the Bamboozelum and Jingo preparation, none of their productions will appear in these paragraphs. If invalids can be induced to give up their 'bitters' and other rubish, that Parish the Stomach, induce Fatty Degeneration and lead to Chronic Inebriety, and use medical agents of known value as in Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya, they will have a reasonable chance of substantial improvement without risk of mischievious results

Gilford, Ont, Nov. 9th, 1883.

To Mr. Cluthe:—

Dear Sir,—I thought it my duty to write and tell you how we got along with the apparatus you made for my little girl in April. I can safely say from the day she put it on until to-day she has never once complained. She seems as well apparently as ever. Before I got it she could neither get up nor down herself, and would cry with the pain in her back, and walked with her back in, and I am sure in another month or so she would have been a helpless cripple, but for the instrument I got from you. I have often said since, your name and skill should be spread the world over. People here all think it a miracle. The spine of [illegible] is almost straight again. I feel as if I could [illegible] your praise from shore to shore. Hoping [illegible] will long spare your life to relieve the suffering, I [illegible] dear sir, yours very gratefully,

A CENTRE OF LEARNING.

Something of the Propaganda in the City of Rome,

PROTEST AGAINST PROPOSED CONFISCATION.

The building known as the Propaganda, in the city of Rome, contains: 1st, the offices and council hall of the dozen Cardinals who compose the Congregation de Propaganda Fide; 2d, the seminary or college; and 3rd, the Polyglot printing establishment.

No sane man will deny that to preach the Gospel and spread true civilization is laudable and highly commendable. This was the aim and object of said board of Cardinals. They were the directors, fosterers and benefactors of all Catholic missions. James I. was king of England, in 1622, when this congregation was first established. And this hint will be sufficient for intelligent persons to enable them, by contrast, to appreciate this Roman effort in behalf of religion and civilization. From the day of its establishment until now, every Catholic mission on the globe has been the recipient of the bounty, fostering care and paternal kindness of the zealous men and eminent scholars who have invariably formed the Sacred Congregation of the Propaganda.

A RENOWNED COLLEGE.

The Urban College was the speedy outcome of their liberality and that of Pope Urban VIII. It was primarily designed to educate and supply native priests for the eastern missions. Separated from the centre of unity, sapped by schism, the Christianity of the east was fast fading, like civilization, under the baneful shadow of the crescent. The Urban College came to the rescue and succeeded so well that there grew up around and under its fostering care twenty national eastern colleges. This fact, and the pressing wants of other and western missions, resulted in opening the doors of the colleges to Europeans, and, in course of time, to Americans. The alumni of the Propaganda are, and always have been, educated, fed and clothed in princely style—in a style worthy of Rome and of her catholic spirit and munificence—'free gratis, for nothing.' The students of many other colleges—that of the United States among the number—receive their education there on the same easy terms. The Urban College has more than once given martyrs to the cause of Christ, saints and scholars to every missionary country under the sun. Not to mention Wiseman, Newman and Manning in England, Cardinal Cullen in Ireland, this renowned college gave to the United States Kendrick, Spalding, Wood, Rosecrans, O'Connor, Lynch, McMullen and a whole host of others. Some of our bishops, many of our priests and the majority of our doctors were educated in and at the expense of the Propaganda.

HER LEARNED HALLS.

The students of this truly Catholic Institution represent nearly every nationality under the sun. The curse that fell on the builders of the tower of Babel was never removed except by a miracle, as in the days of the apostles, or by the wonderful power of the Catholic Church as exemplified by the college of the Propaganda. The learned men of Christendom used to flock to her halls on the feast of the Epiphany to see men of every color, to hear all tongues, to learn philology and thereby to study the kinship of the human family. Only the Catholic Church could, an only the Propaganda did, exhibit such and opportunity and such a spectacle. England, with all her power and wealth, tried to rival this standing wonder by founding a similar college at Malta. It ended in a miserable fiasco.

The Propaganda printing establishment has always been unique to the civilized world. It scattered broadcast bibles, testaments, medical treatise, grammars, theologies, histories, in fact, all sorts of useful books, even to Bresciani's novels. Every outgoing missionary was provided with his own selection of books; he got them for the asking of them. The first books of many languages that were ever printed with types came from the Propaganda press. When education was banned in Ireland, this glorious institution cast Celtic types and set about supplying Irish books as early as the year 1676. According to Belgier's dictionary "the Propaganda is provided with types for printing in forty-eight different languages." That it has many more to-day is more than probable, for the Propaganda press has kept abreast of the times and of all modern improvements. It bore off the palm from the whole world at the great Paris exposition. Passaglia's magnificent volumes on the Immaculate Conception did honor to the subject and to the press.

WHENCE THE MONEY?

The Propaganda spent millions yearly in the cause of religion and civilization, Whence came the money? It was a charitable gift of prince, pope, cardinal, bishop and pauper. The Barberina family gave freely. Even Archbishop Doyle contributed out of his modest revenue. In a very prominent place in the main hall of the Propaganda there stands a Mural tablet commemorative of the bounty of a certain benefactress. She plied her needle and her spinning wheel for a whole and a long lifetime, stinted herself to the bare necessities of food and raiment. All else went to help Christ's cause through the hands of the Congregation of the Propaganda. The same Christ who stood in admiration of the widow in the temple and eulogized her and her mite will take equally good note of the modern widow and her mite. Will He overlook the theives of such gifts and their accessories? It is a remarkable fact that stolen church property has never gone down in direct line beyond the fourth generation.

Only hatred for the truth—for God's Chuch—could possibly induce anybody to abet or applaud the robbing of an institution like the Propaganda. Religion apart, science, civilization and letters should calm the consideration of every decent man, and should open our eyes to the spirit that now animates the so called patriots of Italy.

A CASE STATED.

Change the case, and put our Supreme Court for the Italian Court of Cassation and Harvard for the Propaganda. What a howl of indignation would arise—and justly arise—against such injustice and robbery. But its all right so long as it is in Rome and to the detriment of the Catholic Church. So said England always. But when the Cavours, the Mazzinis, and the Garibaldis change to O's and Macs, and the sacred person of the Queen and of her trusty fidus Achates, John Brown—I beg pardon, I mean William Gladstone—are practised upon instead of Leo XIII, and Cardinal Simeoni, it is very different. Opposition to and hatred of the Catholic Church has often induced those in power to foster or permit and made people acquiesce in things and measures which otherwise they would not have tolerated. The lesson or example is not forgotten and eventually recoils on themselves. The eternal principles of justice can never be violated nor their violation applauded with impunity by any individual or nation.

The revenues of the Propeganda did not belong to the Pope nor to the Cardinals. They belonged and were applied to the missionary purposes in the interests of which they were first given, and have ever been faithfully administered.

WHAT IT DOES.

Be this as it may, the Catholic citizens of these United States have deep interest in and owe many obligations to the Propaganda. It gives its time and transacts all our business with the Holy See gratuitously. It has educated scores of our priests, and to-day educates all our students in Rome 'without money and without prise.' We and every civilized nation in the world have, or rather should have, an interest in the welfare and protection of such a Catholic institution as the Propaganda. It belongs to no nation or people, but to Christendom. To sneer and mock at the spoilation of such a centre of learning and world wide beneficence accords badly with our modern boasts and professions. If there was one institution that more than any other did honor to Italy, that made the story of her glories familiar in wigwam, hut, and hall, it was the Propaganda through her students and her books. The patriotism, the pride of country, the liberal spirit that animates the governing powers of Italy to-day needs no further comment. However, the end is not yet. That same glorious Propaganda saw worse times. We repeat it for the consolation of her enemies and of those who rejoice at such things When Frenchmen mad with pride and success, dared to lay hands on the Vicar of Christ and on the patrimony of St. Peter, they emptied the Propaganda and stabled their horses in its church It was a grand triumph. Some people were glad then as now. But it was short-lived, and the wicked perpetrators of all that impious vandalism had sealed their fate. History repeats its. Nous verrons. OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's, own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

NORTHWEST REPRESENTATION.

The ambitions of the Northwest citizens are fitly reflected by the following remarks from the Regina Leader: "The most important meeting ever held in the North-West crowded last night into the Methodist Church. The Mayor called the meeting on the requisition of thirty prominent citizens. The resolutions will be found elsewhere, and the admirable speeches made by Messrs. Saunders, Benson, Hambly and others will appear next week.

We echo the hope of that meeting that the Government intends to give constitutional privileges this session to the North-West. The more rights you give the people of the North-West the more attractive it will be to immigrants. According to the census of 1881 we had in the North-West a population of 56,000 people. There cannot be less now than 80,000 people living in a Crown colony! The time has come when the state of pupillage should cease. We do not think it too soon to make provinces here. But if provinces should be thought premature—then the time has come for representation."

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

CENTRALIZATION.

Lord Lorne is right in saying that there has been a constant tendency, under Confederation, to the increase of the central power; he is wrong if he thinks that this is certainly conducive to the stability of the Federal system. The stability of the Federal system depends on the stability of the central authority, but on the freedom from dangerous tension which attends the secure enjoyment of local liberties. It was not defect of central authority, but fear lest the central authority should be exerted for the abolition of slavery that led to civil war in the United States. The danger of Canadian Confederation at this moment is the abuse by Quebec of her practical possession of the central power.—Bystander.

PARLIAMENTARY NOTES.

In the Senate yesterday the expediency of establishing an additional school of military instruction for Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island was discussed. A motion for papers concerning the steamship Northern Light was also passed.

AID TO RAILWAYS.

The Government have now received applications for aid from the Napanee, Tamworth & Quebec, the Western Counties & Nova Scotia, the [illegible] Junction, the Sorel & Levis, the Gananoque & James' Bay, the Kingston & Pembroke, the Caraquet Branch, the New Brunswick Central, the Madoc and North Hastings, the Cape Breton, the Louisville Colonization and other purely local railway lines, which the Government will find it difficult to refuse.

A WARM RECEPTION.

A Newcastle-on Tyne despatch says:—Michael Davitt, lecturing here on "The Irish Problem and its Solution," was received with persistent howling and hissing and a rush was made for the platform. Thirty policemen interposed. Mr. Davitt drew a revolver, which he held in his hand for some minutes. He summoned the occupants of the gallery to eject the disturbers from the hall. They did so, being assisted by the police. There was some fighting while the disturbers were being ejected, and several persons were severely wounded.

IN THE COMMONS.

In the House of Commons the debate on the motion of censure was resumed, when Sir Charles Dilke read a reassuring letter from Col. Gordon who thinks there need be no futhur anxiety. Sir Charles Dilke further said there would be a large English force at Suakim by Tuesday, and there was every reason to believe their operations would be successful. He contended that the Government had exceeded, not fallen short of its responsibilities to Egypt.

UP THE PACIFIC COAST.

The City of Guatemala and Port of Acapulco.

A CURIOUS MODE OF EXERCISE.

(Special Correspondence of the Ontario.)

On Board Ship off Acapulco
December 20, 1884.

A coffee and sugar merchant came on the ship with me, and also a young lady, Miss Bernard, who gave me some valuable information. The gentleman has 90,000 acres of a farm and is making our white cut loaf sugar and a very fine coffee. He stated to me that the blue-white sugar that we so much like is colored with Indigo, and that the coffee we drink is 60 per cent. of impurities. He showed me his place, 160 miles from us, and I could see it as plain as you can Bednersville. It is 2,000 feet above us, and you would be surprised how clear the air is in this country. He grows corn and pays his men 25 cents per day. It was amusing to see the way we landed our passengers and freight. They put you in an arm chair, a crane and swung out into the dark night over a boat alongside the ship, ten feet above her, and then let down into the skiff below. It is the only way to get on or off a boat here. This from what I can learn of it, has a bright future before it, as they are now building a railroad to connect with New Orleans by a sail of four days, then two days from the Port of Livingstone to this city. The country is very fertile. The land is so rich that you can't grow oats or wheat. Butter is 50 cents a lb., milk 12 cents a quart, potatoes $2 a bushel, flour $8 a barrel, beef 12½ cents per lb., eggs 18 cents a dozen. They use charcoal for cooking and if you feel cool in your stone house just open the door and let in Nature's heat and you are made warm. All kinds of tropical fruit grow here. One suit of clothes will last you a year. If you get anything washed it is done on a stone as I described at Panama. We sent a sick man ashore. He had a fever and said he would die sure, but to keep him on board would not do, as he was a native. This is the first place where we see the volcanoes or burning mountains. There are a number along this coast. The exports here are coffee, sugar, hides and indigo. We are now half our voyage, being fifteen days out from New York, and getting finer and warmer weather. We made 290 miles to-day—the best run so far. We see to night San Miguel, in English, St. Michael. It is in eruption and for ten miles around it leaves its molten stones and lava. People run away when it gets larger and return when it gets over its bad temper. It is a grand sight to look as I did this morning and see those mountains for miles along our course above the clouds in some places. The clouds are only half way up the mountains.

In our last port were one French ship, one brigantine, one schooner. The first officer to come on is he of the Custom House. He has soldiers uniformed. They are barefooted, There is a flag of the Republic in the end of the skiff and the official comes on board. The first thing done is to give him a drink of brandy by the purser. Then the Captain does the same and so on. The able soldiers look like poor Indians only they have cigars in their mouths. They soon leave and we commence, as I told you before, sending the passengers ashore which just costs two dollars. We are still getting it hotter, the sea water to-day is 85° temperature. They drink 'ardent water' at Susatamil and it is stronger than whiskey, not a bad name to call it All washing is done in cold water as you can't get a native to use warm. They say if they use warm it brings on fevers. The young lady mentioned is going to Frisco—to arrange for her wedding and as she has a knowledge of several languages, it is quite interesting to get at the many curious ways of these people. They have a bull fight every Sunday afternoon importing their men from Spain. The Governor or President is named Barrias, and Miss Barnard said, is cleaning out the Spanish priests and convents, and encouraging foreign immigration.

APPROACHING MEXICO.

Now we are on the Tehuantepec near the boundary of Mexico and Central America—if you will take your map you will see that we have passed the Columbian Republics—Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, San Salvador and Guatemala. They all hate or are jealous of each. Then we pass Mexico proper which controls these small republics. One more little incident of these places and I will stop. When a native takes a good meal here and eats too much and has to take exercise—remember the climate is so hot—he just gets his wife to tramp on his stomach! To-night we passed the place where Capt. Eads is going to cross with his marine railway. We also see the new railway that is building by the Mexican Government which will cut off the isthmus route. The first little port we stopped at was Libertad. I interviewed a party who come aboard and those that like a 'smile' would not like the place as it costs $3 a bottle for brandy, $2·50 for whiskey, Bass' ale 50c and board $50 per month and no tea to drink. Now Mr. Editor I will stop else you will say I am getting too lengthy in my private jottings.

To-day, Dec. 18th, was fine and warm and hot all last night. There is no change here to fall or spring, no chilly night air. One gets so nice and lazy here, no wonder the people move so slow, and to watch them row a boat would make one ache.

Acapulco, Dec. 20—We anchored in this fine little harbor at 6 a.m.; it is all landlocked; population of town about 4,000, consisting of Spanish and Mexicans. We are now in the fever country. The Capt. would not let us leave the ship but let any number come on board to look at us. The town is very old and about 200 years ago they started to cut through a mountain to let in the west wind, but they have not yet finished it. Fancy us cutting twelve years as they did, a hole a mile long up through Murneyville to the fair grounds to let in the west winds and you have an idea. The houses are very low, covered as all are in this country with tile and thatched. It looks a mere wreck of a place. A fort is shown us which the French took some 20 years ago. Two sailing ships are in port and both fly the British flag. The crew of one just before we arrived. At 8 a.m. out come a large number of boats, old canoes. In the centre was the merchant. They have all kinds of fruit—oranges 50c per hundred' bananas 25c to 50c a bunch, cocoanuts 5c, mangos and limes 20c per hundred. I like them better than our lemons. There are citerons, sugar in cakes, pine apples, cocoanut milk, shells of all kinds, fancy matting, hats, parrots, and baskets made of native bark. All the passengers buy here and your humble servant does a big trade in the hot sun. This is the place where we get our ship supply of chickens, ducks and beef. Our freight here is coffee, pine apples, oranges, limes and coton. Exit Acapulco, to-night. We had our first man in irons yesterday. He got some Muscal at Acapulco—smuggled some from 'old aunties' up in a bottle. To explain this muscal it is what I call 'ten rod whiskey.' One glass sets one crazy. It is made in Mexico from a 'Mayey' plant, and looks first like buttermilk when refined. It is like brandy in color when distilled. They take a hog, skin him, sew up the skin, fill it full of muscal and ship it. When you want to buy it a native takes the hog or sausage skins, has them filled with it, and winds them around his body. Our second cook did it and the first warning we had of him he was abusing everyone, and when the 1st officer took him in hand he said he was crazy. They put him in irons and since all has been O.K. We also had an alarm of fire to-night, the smoke stack took fire and set the awnings ablaze. We had the fire alarm sounded and it took a little over one minute to get the fire out, so you see things are not so bad on our good ship. No one can imagine how exciting this was to the passengers.

Dec. 22.—The temperature this morning was 80°. Our mountains are still all along the coast. We now fill in the time between meals eating five cent pine apples and half cent oranges and coconuts. We get nuts here with clear water in them, when we open them we eat the meat with a spoon. It is not like when we get them at home—because in shipping them the water becomes milk and drys up, causing the white hard meat, which would cause a native to laugh at you here if you should eat it.

ENTERING PORT.

We arrive at Manzanillo. In entering the port we hoist each Republic's colors and the ships house flag. This is a pretty looking little place. It looks clean and has a railroad partly built back to the capital of this Republic. Before one can land or come aboard, the officials, a dirty looking Mexican, with the health officer, comes out with a flag on the stern of his boat, (all officials have a flag and men to row them here.) The first thing done is to order all hands in front of the purser's office to be inspected. We pass by when our name is called. It is all a farce, but we have to do these things.

Others of my family have used it with best results.

CURE FOR CHILBLAINS.

Bathe the feet for ten or fifteen minutes in water as hot as can be borne; then apply Hagyard's Yellow Oil and a cure is certain. THE SITUATION IN EGYPT.

A Vote of Censure on Gladstone Passed by the Lords.

In making a motion of censure in the House of Lords the Marquis of Salisbury said that the news would now run through the whole Mohammedan world that England had been defeated again and again, and was now being hunted out of Egypt. England's name would be a legacy of hatred and contempt to the Egyptians. He exerted the Lords not to be accomplices in the dishonor. The motion was carried by 181 to 81.

Sir Stafford Northcote made in the House of Commons a motion of censure similar to the Marquis of Salisbury's in the House of Lords. He said Egypt had not received the support from England she had every right to expect. Mr. Gladstone, rising to reply, was greeted with loud and prologed cheers. He denied there had been any vacillation or inconsistency in the Government's Egyptian policy. The situation in Egypt was not a situation which the present Government had created, but one which they had found. He said 4,000 men had been ordered to Suakim, and that Gen. Gordon had a plan of his own for extricating the garrisons and restoring the country to its former pacific condition.

EXPORTING LABOR.

Bringing in Foreign Mechanics and Driving out our Own.

Buffalo Truth, the organ of the labor unions of that district, says that the unemployed ranks are being augmented by Canadians who, having no work at home are flocking to this 'Canadian paradise.' Some of the men from Canada have been able to get away to western points. Others have returned to the Dominion disappointed and discouraged, but many more having a little money have remained hoping to get work when business bricks up again. Truth would advise all outside iron moulders, stove bands, carpenters, joiners, cabinet makers, wire workers, tinners, shoemakers and printers to keep away from Buffalo for some time to come.

QUEBEC'S THREAT.

This is what the Montreal Gazette reports of Attorney General Taillon's speech but the threat of secession if Quebec's demands were not met is omitted:—"The Government would demand from Ottawa an increase of the federal subsidy. It was not charity for which the Province asked, it wanted justice. A very elaborate memorial had been sent to Ottawa, and the electors would soon learn what ministers from Quebec were at Ottawa in the interests of the Province of Quebec.

Henry Clement Almonte, writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it. I began to use it both externally and internally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equal.

THE INUNDATIONS

Futher Reports of a Terrible State of Things.

CITIES AND TOWNS SUBMERGED.

TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 14.—The situation is growing alarming. In Covington, Newport and Cincinnati 20,000 to 30,000 people are driven from their homes, and not less than 20,000 laborers are thrown out of employment. At one a. m, the river stood 70 feet 7½ inches. Covington is now an island, and market waggons have stopped entering the city. The city of Ironton is two-thirds under water and the destruction is beyond estimate. More than half the people are homeless and out of food. Greenup, Kentucky, is completely submerged; there is great suffering among the poor. At Louisville the water has reached the highest point of last year, and is still rising. The situation at Jeffersonville grows worse. At Utica, Ind., there are twelve families in the church almost without food. The Governor of Kentucky has issued a proclamation calling upon the people to aid the sufferers.

SCENES OF DESOLATION.

A steamer has returned from Ripley, where she went with relief supplies. The houses have been swept away everywhere or are floating. Rural and Augusta Kentucky, are wrecks. Dover, Ky., is twelve feet under water in the shalldwest part. New Palestine Ohio, is nearly ruined. New Richmond is worse off. It Point Pleasant, General Grant's birthplace, only two houses are out of the water. Moscow is in a bad condition; many houses have gone. Moville is a wreck, and Shiloh is worse than Moville, Higginsport is half in the water, Levanna is hardly submerged, and Ripley is in a terrible condition. The people say the farmers are helping them wherever the roads and floods permit access. The misery, destruction, and distress cannot be overdrawn.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 14.—Uniontown is completely submerged, and all business is suspended. The people are living in the upper storeys. The Wabash river is falling rapidly. At Shawneetown the water is approaching the second storey of the Riverside hotel and is steadily swelling. the scene of desolation equals that of last year.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 14.—The Susquehanna has risen ten feet since last night. The west side banks are inundated.

SUFFERING IN KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 14.—The river continues to rise. A strong wind last night caused waves to do much damage in the submerged district. A great many houses have fallen down or floated off. It is not uncommon to see a large frame structure floating down over the falls. The suffering is great. At Jeffersonville the people are crowded together in the churches and school houses almost to suffocation. The relief measures in operation are inadequate. Two more feet of water will flood the penitentary, where there are six hundred convicts to be cared for. One hundred and twenty-five families of lime burners at Utica, twelve miles above here are still huddled together in one church, sadly in need of relief. The town of Clarksville, Ind., is almost washed away.

The river continues rising an inch an hour. The weather is very cold and the wind blowing. Waves are tumbling down inundated houses. The south eastern part of the city is flooded. About five thousand people are without homes.

ROW IN A CHURCH.

A DISTURBANCE QUELLED ONLY BY THE INTERFERENCE OF POLICE.

An Ada, Ohio, despatch says: At a meeting of the Sunday School of the Baptist church, Deacon D. A. Wood, a leader of one faction of the church, declared the election of a Mr. Eoos as Assistant Superintendent of the Sunday School null and void, and made some very uncomplimentary remarks. Superintendent Carey ran down from the pulpit, and shaking his fist under the deacon's nose, commanded him to sit down. The deacon's friends came to his rescue and commanded Carey to sit down. The two factions then became very boisterous, and cried, "Sit down," "Cover me up with sawdust," "No gamblers allowed to vote here." &c. The Superintendent endeavored to dismiss the school, but the deacon commanded his party to remain, as he desired to hold prayer meeting, and rallied his forces by singing "Hold the fort." One faction left and the other remained. At the evening meeting there was a regular riot which was quelled by the police.

THE CHESS CHAMPION.

Dr. Zukertort, who is now in Montreal giving exhibitions of his marvellous powers, is still a comparatively young man to gained his immense knowledge of such an intricate game of chess. He was born in Riga, in 1830, his parents being German, and took his first steps into the mysteries of chess in 1860. He first defeated every player in England and gained the first rank, by winning the Paris International Tournament in 1878. In 1883 he won the London contest, after seven weeks' play. He is now the only man living who has two chess tournaments. His memory is wonderful and he can play as many as thirty players simultaneously, and a full dozen blindfold.

THE MOYNES MYSTERY.

No Farther Trace of the Missing Woman Discovered.

There is nothing new to report in the sad disappearance of Mrs. J. C. Moynes, on Monday night last. The river below Coleman's dam was searched yesterday and this morning. The ice was cut out in places where it was thought most likely that the body would be found, but without success. The men have given up the search.

William Evans, baker for Mr. J. F. Siericks, told an ONTARIO reporter to-day that he saw Mrs. Moynes about two o'clock Tuesday morning in front of No. 2 engine shed. He was then on his way to work, and when he passed her he thought she appeared to act strangely. She had the muff in one hand and the bandbox on the other arm, and when the two met she dropped her head as if endeavoring to prevent Evans from recognizing her. When he got near the bridge she stopped with her back against the station house and looked back at him until he got out of sight. Evans was then of opinion that she was waiting for some person, but the finding of the articles on the ice shows her motive in trying to avoid being seen.

HON. ADAM CROOKS.

His Seat Declared Vacant and Writ for Election Issued.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—The proceedings in the Committee of Privileges and Elections yesterday resulted in the adoption of a report that Mr. Crooks is incurably insane, that his seat be declared vacant, and a writ issued forthwith for an election to fill it. The writ was accordingly issued yesterday and forwarded to Sheriff Perry of Woodstock. The nomination for South Oxford is to be held on the 27th inst. and the election on the 5th prox.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remody required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously admini ered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and ld by all druggists.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STEWART.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

'I was speaking of position in the county, not of childish romance,' coldly returned the baronet.

'You know, sir, if there is anything I could do—anything with reference to the estate, I mean, I should be delighted,' said Bertram; 'only marriage is such an important matter that one ought to decide for oneself,' and leaning against the wall of the porch, he beat his hunting whip on his boot.

'I have expressed my wish, and trust you will consider it worthy of your attention.'

And the baronet entered the house, while Bertram went slowly down the terrace, digging holes in the walk with the handle of his whip.

No thought of marriage had ever entered his mind, but when the subject was started, how quickly that sweet face rushed into his head.

Settling down wouldn't be so unpleasant after all. London had few charms for him.

He had, when at Oxford, spent a few days now and then in town, promising himself a good long stay when he had taken his degree, but he had soon wearied of it when he came to try it, and had roamed about the Continent till tired also of that, and then just after his return to England, his grand-uncle had died, and he was living on in a state of semi-contentment at Madeley, where there was little to do now that the hounds no longer met, and the shooting season was over.

Ferrers was waiting for him in the stable-yard, the horses were already saddled, and were having the finishing touches put to their toilettes, and the friends were soon cantering along the grass border which bounded the high road.

At length they came to the turnpike gate, where a road branched of to the right and to the left.

'Wo, wo, my beauty,' said Ferrers, with a strong pull at the mouth of the chesnut mare he rode,' but to the mare that would have made little difference, for, seeing an obstacle in front, it naturally occurred to her that the way to the other side was over it.

'Where shall we go?' he inquired.

'Suppose we go into Hurstleigh, and dine at the hotel?' replied Bertram.

Ferrers was, as usual, delighted with the notion, and they proceeded along between the green headgerows and into the little town.

Everyone had a salutation for the young heir.

'Look here, old fellow,' Ferrers exclaimed pointing to a bill on a neighbouring wall, 'we've dropped into a treat; we must go to the play.'

'Yes I heard that the company intented to return to Hurstleigh, but I didn't know they were here,' replied Bertram, reading the announcement that Mr. De Langtonville's London company would 'perform Shakespear's popular tragedy, entitled 'Romeo and Juliet;' in which Miss Vaughan, the young and very talented actress, would play the part of Juliet.'

'Those, I presume, are some of the local Thespians,' said Ferrers, as they rode slowly up the High Street; and he was correct, for it was De Langtonville, who was returning from the theatre with Mr. Aubrey, preceded by various members of the company.

'I say, I like that old fellow's face awfully. He's a gentleman, I'll take my oath.'

'I was just observing him; his face is strangely familiar to me. Where can I have seen him?' Bertram pondered.

'I know the face, too, I'm certain. I wonder who he is? I shall take the trouble to find out.'

Not yet may you know, Bertram Madeley, whose face it is that strikes a familiar chord in the harmony of your mind, but in the time to come you shall know.

CHAPTER IV.

Very slowly, under the care of his daughter and Mr. De Langtonville, Mr. Aubrey, revived

'I am not well, my friend,' he said, in a feeble voice, and with a vacant look in his eyes, 'not quite myself.'

'I'll look round in the morning, sir; our country air will soon set you up again. I couldn't leave you in better hands than Miss Ethel's. Good night sir. Good night to you, Miss Ethel.'

He left the room.

'I can't make them out,' he murmured, half aloud, as he walked down the street. Henry Aubrey doesn't seem the sort of man who ought to be down in the world.

'I didn't think he would have fallen in with my suggestion about the theatre, though. It's evident that they are hard up, and yet Aubrey used not to do anything at Avranches, except a little music and painting.

'What a little dear that girl is, too. Well, I'll return a little of her care down in the south, I suppose I've acted for the best. Somehow I have a kind of feeling that Aubrey's luck will turn some day, or else a life on the stage is not what I would choose for Ethel exactly; nor what she would choose either, I'm pretty certain, only she doesn't mind sacrificing herself for her father. He's a lucky man who calls Ethel Aubrey his own.'

The actor lit his cigar, and pursued his way towards the hotel at which he was residing.

Henry Aubrey was still very weak in the morning, and his face betokened that little rest had visited his pillow.

De Langtonville appeared early, and having easily succeeded in persuading Ethel that the fresh country air would be the best thing for her father, she added her entreaties to the manager's that there should be no delay.

DID SHE DIE

"No; she lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years, the doctors doing her no good; and at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about. Indeed! Indeed! how thankfull we should be for that medicine.'

Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epedemic. HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained a world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefits which are derived from the use of the treatment. Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THE OLD PATH

No Better Substitute Offered by "Advanced Thinkers"

SERMON BY REV. DR. TALMAGE.

The opening hymn of the services at the Brooklyn Tabernacle on Sunday was

"'Grace!' 'Tis a charming sound.
Harmonious to the ear—
Heaven with the echo shall resound,
And all the earth shall hear."

The subject of Dr. Talmage's sermon was "The Splendors of Orthodoxy," and his text was taken from Jeremiah, vi. 16: "Ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls." Following is the sermon:

A great London fog has settled down upon some of the churches and ministers in the shape of what is called "advanced thought." Without a single exception all such deny the full inspiration of the Scriptures. The book of Genesis is to them an allegory, and much of the Bible is a myth, and they philosophize and reason and guess an evolute until they have landed in a great contention of mud from which through all eternity I fear they will not be able to wade out. The Bible is no more certainly inspired than it has been divinely protected in its present shape. It would be easier now to take 'Hamlet' from the writings of Shakspere and substitute instead thereat the modern drama called 'Festus' without having the change discovered, than it would have been possible during the last three hundred years to have made any important change in the Bible. If any part of it had contained the elements of decay or disintegration or deception, it would gone to pieces long ago. If there had been one loose brick or cracked casement in this castellated truth, the bombardment of the last eight centuries would have discovered and broken through that imperfection. The fact that the Bible, notwithstanding all the infuriate assault on all sides, stands in tact and show me that it is a miracle, and

A MIRACLE IS OF GOD.

Some one might say: 'We accept the Bible, but do not believe that until now it is understood.' My reply is that if the Bible is a letter from God, our Father, to man, His child, is it not strange that God would write a letter which could not be understood until at least seventy generations had been born and had died? A very bright father that would be, who should write a letter of instruction and guidance to his children not understandable until a thousand years after the children were dead buried, and forgotten. As the years was new beauties and excellences will be unrolled from the Bible. But that the Bible is such a failure that all the generations of Christian scholars for the last eighteen centuries have been utterly deceived in regard to vast reaches of its meaning is such a demand upon my credulity that if I found myself at all disposed to yield to it, I would to morrow morning apply for admission at Bloomingdale Insane Asylum, as being unfit to go alone.

Who make up this precious group of advanced thinkers of our time to whom the Lord has made especial revelation of what He tried to say thousands of years ago but failed to make intelligible? Are they so distinguished for unworldliness and piety and scholarship that they may been expected to have selected by the Lord to fix up the defective work of Moses and Isaiah and Paul and Christ? On that mountain were there modern exegetes transfigured? Which one of the stars pointed down to their birth place? Was it the North Star, or Capricorn, or the Great Dipper? When they descended upon our world did Mars blush or Saturn lose one of its rings? This attempt to reconstruct a Divine book and interline it with their own wisdom, and suggest prophetic and apostolic errata excites in me a disgust insufferable. 'Advanced thought' which proposes to tell the Lord what he really meant to say and would have said had He been as wise as the NINETEENTH CENTURY CRITIC!

That is what comes of living away back in the eternities instead of in 1884!

'Now,' says some one, 'do you really think that all of the Bible was inspired?' Yes, either as history or of guidance. Josephus and Prescott and Gibbon recorded many things they did not approve, and so do the Bible writers. Because George Bancroft on his brilliant page may record an Indian massacre, does he sanction it? But may there not have been mistakes made by the copyists as they transferred the inspired words from one manuscript to another? Yes, no doubt; but such mistakes are like a misspelled word or an ungrammatical sentence in a man's last will and testament, is nowise affecting the meaning of the document. All the mistakes made by Scriptural copyists would no more change the meaning of the Bible, which is the last will and testament of God to the world, bequeathes everything in the right of way, although here and there a human hand may have damaged the orthography or the grammar, or made an unjustifiable interpolation. Orthodoxy takes the Bible as it is, a common sense book for common sense people, and not a gymnasium in which to allow critics a soft place to stand on their heads, and swing dumb-bells to develop intellectual muscularity. All those men who pride themselves on 'advanced thought' in scriptural interpretation will if they live long enough.

Now, I favor largest liberty of thought and discussion. I would have as much liberty for heterodoxy as orthodoxy. If I should change my views on this subject I would preach them out and out. Not in this building, for that would be dishonest. This church was built by evangelical Christians, and I would have no more right to use this pulpit and this house for the promulgation of different sentiment from that for which it was built than I would have a right to come into your house and malign your family. When we enter the ministry of any of the greatest denominations of Christians we take vows to preach these doctrines. If we change our views, and we want to preach something different, there is an outside world of many thousand miles in circumference, and many halls and many academies of music where we could ventilate our sentiments. There are in time of political agitation both Republican headquarters and Democratic headquarters. Suppose I should go to either of these headquarters, pretending to be one of them, but employ my time in electioneering for the opposite party, I should soon find that the centrifugal force mightier than the centripetal. And if a man shall stand in any denomination, having taken solemn vows to support that denomination, and then go to preach something else, he has broken his oath and is an out-and-out perjurer. But largest liberty of sentiment I advocate. The attempt to build a monument to Thomas Paine in New York I would have no more interfered with than the attempt to build a monument to George Washington on Wall street.

PLENTY OF ROOM FOR ALL

sentiments and discussions! Liberty for body, mind and soul!

But I want to show you the splendors of orthodoxy. Some have attempted to bemean the word, as though all its disciples were men of flat skulls and no reading, and benighted, and victims of gullibility. The word stands for the greatest splendor outside of Heaven. Look at its achievements. All the missionaries of the Gospel to-day, the world around, are orthodox. They believe in the whole Bible. As soon as one of them gets in doubt about whether there was a Garden of Eden or whether there is to be any such thing as future punishment he comes right home from Beyrout and Madras and goes into the insurance business. All the foreign missionary societies have in official position orthodox men, and are supported by orthodox people. While orthodoxy, beginning with the Sandwich Islands, has conquered vast regions of barbarism for civilization, heterodoxy has yet to conquer the first square inch. Blatant for many years in Great Britain and the United States, and strutting the earth with braggadocio, it has not civilized a continent, or a State, or an island, or an acre, or as much land as is covered by the small end of a sharp pin. It has done nothing but talk, talk, talk. Orthodoxy has built ninety nine out of every hundred Protestant Churches in America. I cannot now think of a single widely influential church that was not built by people who believed in the entire Bible. The pulpit may now declare some other gospel, but it is a heterdox gun on an orthodox carriage. The foundation stone of nearly all the churches was laid by men who believed in the Bible from lid to lid, and if I can not take the book in its entirety

I WILL TAKE NONE OF IT.

Just as if I should receive a letter pretending to come from a valuable friend, and I should find that part of it was his and part some one else's and it was an uncertain mixture and a literary mongrelism, I would throw the garbled sheet into my waste basket and say to my friend:—'The next time you write me a letter, put it in an envelope 'all by itself.' Behold the splendors of Orthodoxy in its stupendous effort by thousands of hands and thousands of hearts and thousands of pulpits and thousands of churches and thousands of missionary organizations to save the world!

Look at the splendors of characters which orthodoxy builds! Who had the mightiest human intellect the world ever saw? Paul. Little in physical stature, but head and shoulders above all the intellectual giants of the ages. Orthodox from scalp to heel! Who was the mightiest poet the world has ever seen? John Milton, who saw more without eyes than anybody ever saw with eyes. Orthodox from scalp to heel! Who was the greatest reformer the world ever saw? Martin Luther, so acknowledged by infidel and atheist, as well as the Christian. Orthodox from scalp to heel! In Music Hall, Boston, the talented Theodore Parker stood for many years battling orthodoxy, and giving it, as many supposed, its death-blow. On the same street, and not far from being opposite, stood Park-street Congregational Church, commonly called by its enemies 'hell-fire corner.' Theodore Parker died and his church died with him. It was attempted to keep up the organization, but, is still in existence, it is so small that it is barely visible to the naked eye. But Park Street Church, or 'hell-fire corner,' stands still, its pulpit thundering the magnificent truths of orthodoxy just as though Theodore Parker had never lived. You have noticed that the most of those who finish their ministry in a public hall, and when they are done their audience is disbanded. All that Boston, or Brooklyn, or New York or the earth ever received that is worth having came through the wide aqueduct or orthodoxy, from the throne of God.

Behold the certitudes of orthodoxy! Where do you come from believer in the Bible? Answer: 'I was descended from the perfect parentage of Paradise, into whose nostrils Jehovah breathed the breath of life. I am a son of God.' Half-and-half Bible man, where do you come from? Answer: It is all uncertain. In my ancestral line there was an orang-outang, and further back there was a pollywog, and still further back there was a tadpole, and it took millions of years for me to be evoluted.' Half-and-half Bible man, where are you going when you leave this world? 'Well, that is all uncertain. I suppose I shall pass out into the great To Be, and through the great Somewhere, and gradually on to the great Anywhere, arriving finally in the great Nowhere.' I thought that was where you probably would fetch up.

Behold the splendors of orthodoxy in its announcement of two destinies. A palace with gates on all sides through which all may enter and live on enternal luxuries just for the knocking and asking. Palace grander than if all the Alhambras and the St. Mark's and the Windsor palace and Versailles and Winter Gardens and all Imperial abodes of the earth had been heaved up into one architectural splendor. At the other end of the universe a penitentiary where men who prefer their sins may have them forever. Why, if you and I have our choice of Christ and the palace, should they be denied the choice of sin and eternal degradation? Palace and penitentiary! The first worth nothing unless you have the second! Better place would Brooklyn and New York be to live in with Raymond street Gaol and the Tombs and the Sing Sing and all the police stations and smallpox hospitals let loose upon us than heaven if there were no hell. Palace and penitentiary, and every one a free choice! If a man fills a great bowl with sin and and he is thirsty for it, and his whole being craves it, and he has put the bowl to his lip and with both hands he is pressing the bowl tight between his teeth and the drought has begun to pour its sweetness down his throat, why should I from him and jerk him up toward the heavenly palace, and he, though struggling to stay out, should be compelled to go in and sing psalms forever? No! So completely free has God made you and me that we need not go to heaven unless we prefer it, no more free to soar than free to sink, The most of the heterodox of this day set forth the theory that without respect to faith or character we are all to get out at the shining place. There they are in glory—Tom Paine and George Whitfield. Nero and Richard Baxter, Charles Guiteau and James A. Garfield. John Wilkes Booth and Abraham Lincoln, the inocent men and women and children who were massacred and their murderers. If there is only one and final destiny, then they, of course, are all together. Against that great caldron of piety and blasphemy, philanthrophy and assassination, self sacrifice and beastliness. I lift the two destinies of the Bible, forever and forever and forever apart.

Behold also the fact that all the triumphant death-beds of the ages were those who were styled orthodox Charistians. I challenge the world to show me an exception, and I will allow you to range all Christendon to find that exception. Those who have rejected the Bible, or any part of it, have either gone out of the wold in darkness or silence portentous. Gather up all the biographies since the art of printing was invented and show me whose last hours had visions of glory and shouts of triumph. Here I make a grand avenue. On one side put the death-beds of Christians, on the other the death-beds of those who rejected all or part of the Scriptures. Take my arm and let me go through that divided avenue. Hark to the death-beds on the right hand side: 'Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!' 'Glory! glory!' 'Free grace!' 'Hallelujah!' 'The chariots are coming!' 'I am sweeping through the gates, washed in the blood of the Lamb!' 'I mount; I fly!' 'Wings! wings!' 'They have come for me!' 'Meet me in heaven; all is well!' Alfred Cookman's death-bed, John Wesley's death-bed, Richard Cecil's death-bed, Commodore Foote's death-bed, Daniel Webster's death bed, Your father's death bed. Your mother's death bed. Your sister's death bed. Your child's death bed. Ten thousand death-beds, all radient, all songful, all triumphant! Turn around now and march back on that dividing avenue, and see the death beds of those who rejected part of the Bible or all of it. Listen and look! Not one smile of hope, not one song of joy, not one hand lifted as if to take a scepter not one face supernaturally illumined! Silence all along the line, or sadness unbroken, or dispair overwhelming. Half-and-half Bible believers never die well. They beckon for no angels. They hear the coming of no celestial escort. They go out of this world

BECAUSE THEY ARE PUSHED OUT.

While the list of those who have believed an entire Bible, and been almost impatient to go and meet their God, is so long a list it seems interminable. Oh, is not that kind of religion a splendor which makes what otherwise would be the most dreadful hour of life, namely, the last hour, positively Paradisiacal.

Young men and old men and middleaged men, prepare to take sides in this issue between orthodoxy and heterodoxy. Follow this crusade against any part of the Bible, and first you give up Genesis, which is just as true as Matthew, and afterwhile you will give up all the historical portion, and farther on you will give up the miracles, and gradually it will be convenient for you to give up the ten commandments, and you will some day wake up to find yourself in the midst of a treeless, [illegible] desert of skepticism swept by an everlasting sirocco. Take [illegible] of an entire Bible, just as God has kept it together for all these centuries. Laughed at, remember that if you save your soul and win Heaven you can afford to be laughed at. Dont jump overboard from this staunch Great Eastern of old-fashioned orthodoxy, till you see something stronger to take you up than the fantastic yawls which has painted on her sides 'Advanced thought,' but leaks at the prow and leaks at the stern, and has nothing stronger than a quill pen for an oar and dips from side to side until it is uncertain whether her passengers will land on the breakers of dispair or the sinking sands of infidelity and atheism.

With all the advancement of the world I am in full sympathy, but the world will never advance one inch beyond the old Bible. God knew just as much when He dictated the Bible as He knows now, and was just as competent to reveal all He had to say to the inspired men of the past as to the prophets and apostles in this last quarter of the nineteenth century. As to myself I will stick to the old paths. Although and fond of new things rather than old, I never so firmly believed the entire Bible as now, because I see what skeptical imbecility men rush into when they begin to chop up the Scriptures with the meat axe of human preference, and when I see them floundering about in the deep waters, ever struggling now under, now on top, now calling on geology, now on astronomy, now on mathematics, now on scholarships, now calling on the church, and now on the world to help them, I prefer for myself and mine the thick warm robe of the old religion, old as God; the robe that has kept so many warm throughout all the cold of this earthly pilgrimage and the chill of death, rather than the uncertain gauze offered by those wiseacres who believe the Bible in spots.

On July 27, 1814, aged seventy-two years, died Isabella Graham. She had been the most useful woman of her day among the sick and poor, at the head of orphan asylums and Magdalen societies, an angel of mercy in hospitals and reformatories; great head, great heart, great social position. Dr. John Mason, the most powerful preacher of his day, said at her obsequies, that intellectually and spiritually she was the most wonderfully endowed woman he had ever met. She was the impersonation of the most orthodox orthodoxy. Her last word was 'Peace!' An extract from her last will and testament I make the sublime peroration of this sermon, showing how a woman who believed in an entire Bible and serving God in all styles of usefulness can make final exit:

'My children and my grandchildren I leave to my covenant God, the God who hath fed me all my life with the bread that perishes and the bread that never perishes; who has been a father to my fatherless children and a husband to their widowed mother thus far. And now, receiving my Redeemer's testimony, I set to my seal that God is true; and believing the record in John's epistle, that God hath given to me eternal life and this life is His Son, who, through the eternal spirit, offered Himself without spot unto God, and being consecrated a priest forever, hath, with His own blood, entered into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for me! I also believe that he will perfect what concerns me, support and carry me through death and present me to His Father complete in His own righteousness, without spot or wrinkle. Into the hands of this redeeming God—Father, Son and Holy Ghost—I commit my redeemed spirit.

Glory to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost; as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end!

Henry Clement Almonte, writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it. I began to use it both externally and internally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equal.

COLONIZATION ROADS BUG-A BOO.

The Peterboro' Review finds, in the alleged neglect of the Ontario Government to furnish returns called for by the House, 'a monstrous evasion of Ministerial responsibility.' In the case of the Dominion Government defying the positive order of Parliament for returns which Mr. Blake had a right to call for, what degree of monstrosity is involved? But Mr. Mowat does not nor never did decline to furnish returns when called for. The Review thinks Mr. Mowat is "afraid" to bring down colonization returns. What nonsense. Does our esteemed contemporary not know that Mr. Meredith was afforded the fullest opportunity of investigating Colonization Roads accounts, of examining Government officials and others as witnesses, and of perusing documents and data produced at the order of the Public Accounts Committee? Yet Mr. Meredith discovered no scandal or irregularities.

THE ANNUAL FLOODS of the Western States seem to increase in destructive power every year. Already in many places the water is higher than the maximum of 1883 and the suffering and distress almost unprecedented.

THE WISEACRES who were so certain that if Mr. Morrow was appointed Registrar for Peterboro', Mr. Blezard, the Local member, would resign, are unable to account for all the false alarm and fuss and they begin now to call Mr. Blezard names.

A WRITER on French-Canadians in Harper's Magazine, says: "Perhaps the most interesting element in this study of Canadian life is this feature—the superiority of the people over their house and furniture. For in our day of increasing luxury it is an invaluable lesson to see polished persons happy in extreme economy and simplicity of living."

THE DEMAND of the Canada Pacific is brewing trouble for some one. La Minerve, the leading Conservative organ in Quebec, has the following: "Before we even enquire whether it is right to grant so large a sum we wish to know what will be left for ourselves. If the financial position of the country does permit of both, then, indeed, do we insist that the Pacific has no better rights than we have, and it shall wait with us, or step behind us.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

There was a lengthy discussion in the House on Thursday which lasted all afternoon on Mr. Charlton's Seduction Bill. The section punishing seduction under promise of marriage was struck out and the section against the enticement of young girls to houses of ill-fame passed. The general opinion of the House seemed to be that making seduction a misdemeanor would open the door to blackmail on the part of designing women who would sacrifice their virtue in an attempt to force men into marriage under threats of criminal action. It was well, however, that punishment should be meted out to rascals who shall be parties to feigned or pretended marriages and it was understood that such section should be added when the House again goes into committee on the bill. Mr. Charlton intends to take the sense of the House on the general principle of the bill when it is reported by the committee. Among the prominent speakers against the bill were Messrs. Curran and MacMaster. Sir John voted against the section punishing seduction on promise of marriage.

PARLIAMENTARY NOTES.

In the Senate yesterday Mr. O'Donohoe questioned the Ministry regarding destitute Irish Immigrants in Toronto. John Graham's divorce bill was read a second time and referred to a select committee.

In the House of Common the Orange Incorporation Bill was read a first time. Sir John Macdonald's resolution, giving the Canadian Pacific Railway resolutions precedence before all other business, was carried. The debate was then resumed and again adjourned.

GENERAL GORDON.

After a daring dash across the Nubian desert unescorted and unarmed Gen. Gordon has arrived at Khartoum. The sending of General Gordon to the Soudan has given great satisfaction, though it is only to carry out the policy of evacuation. He is a true hero. His first military service was rendered in the trenches before Sebastopol. His bravery and generalship vanquished the Taiping rebellion, and saved the Chinese Government, by a succession of brilliant victories. He refused all remuneration for his services. After service in Ashantee, he succeeded Sir Samuel Baker as Governor of Upper Egypt. He remained in the employ of the Khedive six years. He was sent to the Soudan by Ismail, and knows the country well, and is well known to the native tribes. He devoted himself to winning the confidence of the blacks, in conciliating hostile tribes, in suppressing the revolts of slave hunters, in surveying and exploring new lands, in opening a cordon of stations to the Equator, and in alleviating the miseries of the people. He is a modest and unselfish as he is brave and energetic.

A SMART ANSWER.

In one of the many picturesque little hamlets which stud the banks of the River Ayr, one of Her Majesty's inspectors was having his annual inspection of the parish school. He was examining a class in Scottish history, and wishing to elicit the historical fact of James V.'s quarrel with his queen, Mary of Lorraine, asked the question, "Why was Mary Queen of Scots born at Linlithgow?" when up starts a bright little fellow and shouts, "Because her mither was there." Well, replied the inspector, "there might have been some doubt as to the answer I would have given, but there can be none about yours."

IN A DAKOTA RESTAURANT.

'You infernal idiot! Can't you understand plain English? I want a glass of water—water to drink—and I want it quick!'

In desperation the waiter hunted up the proprietor and told him the story. The landlord looked puzzled and himself entered the dinning room and approached the stranger and said:—

'Excuse me sir; but my waiter is a little hard of hearing. I will take your order.'

'I ordered a glass of water—nothing but straight water.'

'I'm sorry,' replied the landlord; 'but I can't accomodate you. There is so little call for those foreign drinks here that it doesn't pay to keep 'em.'

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibillious medicine and general corrective.

THE GREAT FLOODS

A Falling Building Causes Great Loss of Life,

A FRIGHTFUL CONDITION OF THINGS

CINCINNATI, Feb. 16.—At 3:40 this morning the rear part of two brick dwellings at the corner of Ludlow and Pearl streets, where the water surrounds the houses, fell in. Ten persons were buried in the ruins or drowned. The firemen and police used superhuman efforts to rescue the victims. The dwellings were boarding houses and had from 20 to 30 occupants. the living were soon brought out.

DEVASTATED TOWNS.

WHEELING, Feb. 15.—A reporter who has returned from a trip down the river says that Powhattan, Carrington, Siterville, and Dornesville are entirely under water. New Martinsville is in a frightful plight. Several lives were lost there. The citizens have a cannon on the roof of a house, with which they protect the town by preventing steamboats approaching. At Cochranville only a few houses remain. A woman there whose house was swept away died from fright. Marietta is in a fearful condition. There is not a house to be seen in the lower part of the town. Two large bridges over the Muskingum were swept away. Every business house is submerged. At Harmer 50 houses are gone. The railroad from Wheeling to Parkesburg is a complete wreck.

FIVE PER ONS DROWNED.

PADUCAH, Ky., Feb. 15.—While John Beatty was attempting to convey his wife, three children, and two young ladies across the backwater, near Newburg, on the Tennessee River, the skiff was dashed against a tree by the current and upset. Mrs. Beatty, all the children, and one of the young ladies were drowned.

CHRIST'S DOVES.

ON SEEING A COMMUNITY OF NUNS ENTER THEIR CHAPEL FOR PRAYER.

I

Over the sea in Venice fair,
At the old cathedral of St. Mark,
When the silvery chimes on the noontide air
Float o'er the waters, cool, and dark.

From out turret, from spire and dome
(A'murmuring throng at the portal grand),
The doves of St. Mark, in legions, come
To be fed, each day, by a loving hand.

II

Why do I dream of the doves this hour?—
A fluttering sound (as of wings) I hear;
The bell hath chimed in the convent tower,
The nuns at the chapel door appear.

Slender figures in raiment dark
(Flowing wimple and snowy band),
The doves of Christ, like the doves of St. Mark,
Have come to feed from His loving hand.

III

Murmuring soft the whispered words
Of a tender prayer—the virgins kneel.
Lo! like the meek Venetian birds,
They have gathered here for their mystic meal.

And the Master keepth the noon-day tryst;
And manna sweet, from His golden ark.
Abundant giveth. O doves of Christ,
Ye are better fed than the doves of St. Mark.

DID SHE DIE

"No; she lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years, the doctors doing her no good; and at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about. Indeed! Indeed! how thankfull we should be for that medicine.'

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in its intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

TWO HORSE CASES.

TRIED BY JUDGE FRALICK AT WALLBRIDGE DIVISION COURT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

WALLBRIDGE, Feb. 16.—A lively discussion took place at the meeting of the Sidney Township Council this week on the on the appointment of assessors, which resulted in Messrs. John White and John S. Dench being chosen.

Judge Fralick, at the last session of the Division Court here, tried two more than ordinary interesting cases. The first was Hicks v. Hicks, for the non-payment of the 'boot' money promised in a horse trade. The defendant claimed that the horse was not as represented and refused to pay what he agreed to. The plaintiff was non-suited. The second case was even one which involved more delicate points of law than the other. A man named Besonday sued Randal Moran and John Daly for the value of a horse belonging to him which died while in possession of the defendants. The latter had hired the horse for use, but found it so balky that after whipping it the animal died. The plaintiff got damages for $22.50, each party paying their own costs. The defendants have stated that they intend to appeal the case.

ALBERT UNIVERITY.

Last Annual Celebration of Charter Day.

ELOQUENT SERMON; CHEERING ADDRESSES.

The usual services were held yesterday afternoon in the College Chapel, in commemoration of the passing of the Act, granting University powers to Albert College. Prior to the opening the bell tolled mournfully, reminding the assembled friends that they met to hear the present charter read for the last time. At 2.30 a large number were seated on both sides of the Chapel, and Revs Bishop Carman, Dr. Jaques and Badgley, Amos Campbell and Prof. Dyer were on the platform, when the Undergraduates, Sophs, and Freshies, filed in with dismal faces and funeral tread, each bearing a rosette of crape upon his left shoulder. The proceedings were commenced by the responsive reading of Psalm ciii., Dr. Badgley leading, followed by prayer by the Rev. A. Campbell. After the singing of the 1023 Hymn, W. C. Austin, Senior Undergraduate, read the time-honored charter. The lesson, Proverbs viii, was read by Rev. Prof. Dyer, M.A.

THE SERMON.

Rev. E. N. Baker, M. A., preached the annual Charter Day Sermon from the text, "The Word of our God shall stand for ever", Isaiah xl., 8. Solomon said "The making of many books has no end." In our time thousands poured annually from the press, and but few had passed beyond their first edition and fewer still had earned fame for their authors. Books generally have decreased in influence with the increase of years, but the Bible grows with the growth of centuries. Milton's "Paradise Lost" has been read by few; Christ's Paradise regained by millions of Christians. The tragedies of Shakespeare have been admired by few; the tragedy of the cross has been looked to by thousands for inspiration. History declared that the Bible has stood forever Why has it stood? Have Kings welcomed it? the wealthy helped it? and scholars venerated it? No! Some say that this very opposition has caused it success, that the winds of persecution that tore the leaves of this sacred text but scattered them for the healing of the nations. No! It endures because it is the pure Gold of Heaven's mints, because it is indispensable to man. It is needed to invest home with new charms, to teach kings how to rule and philosophers how to think. In a word, it is needed to save men. As long as there is a home to elevate, a man to save, there will be a Bible. How has the Bible endured? He did not claim that it is accurate in every particular, but that no more interferes with its value the spots on the sun mar its brightness. The Bible stands in the hospitals and Asylums erected under its influence, in the lives of its enemies, and in the men it has saved. Bury it in the sea and the nations would speak of its glories. His text said "It shall endure forever." How? When it has led the world to the feet of Jesus, then it shall endure forever in Heaven, not in the printed text but in the souls it has sanctified. As Michael Angelo, though dead, still lives in the statues he has carved and set up in galleries of earth so the Bible will endure in the statues carved by its chisel, polished and placed in the courts of Heaven. It was pleasing for them on that last Charter Day to reflect that the walls of their Alma Mater were erected out of the inspiration of its faith, that her officials have recognised its influence, her teachers have taught its doctrines, and its principles have ever lived in those halls.

BISHOP CARMAN'S ADDRESS.

After the singing of the 1084 hymn, Bishop Carman, chancellor, being requested to speak, said he was glad to be with the students. Sometimes men that dig holes in the earth cannot see the clear sunlight. It had been stated that this was the last reading of the charter. "You did not," he said, "read the grand old fundamental charter, you only read the third amendment to the charter." The document itself referred to the late Province of Canada. "Where is my Upper Canada?" he asked, "I am here to-day as loyal a Canadian as ever I was. What has become of my beloved Canada? Why don't we drape the Union Jack? It is not Upper Canada to-day, it is Canada, and where are the patriots that go whining over the land that our institutions are lost?" Continuing he said that he looked upon this University movement in the same way. He declared himself to be for a grand Methodist University with this college affiliated to it. This Charter was amended by simply striking out all through the word "degrees"; the Senate and College would remain. Some of them would yet hear the amended charter read in this Chapel.

OTHER ADDRESSES.

Rev. Amos Campbell upon taking the platform stated that he had come 26 years ago to this Seminary a poor boy. (Dr. Carman—Fat enough now.) He had enjoyed its privileges without knowing anything of the privation of its founders. When Methodism became a unit, he could raise $100,000 where he could $15,000 now. After a few words from Dr. Jaques, Dr. Badgley said he was pleased with the drapery; it told him of two things. First, the plucky determination of the students to stand by the Institution, and secondly that his little labor and zeal had not been lost in giving the University a name. Old memories could not be forgotten. "Bury Albert College? They might as well try to dam the rushing Niagara." He referred to the charges that some had made that he was to receive his reward for acquiescing in this movement. His past record would prove the lie to this assertion. (Hear, hear.) Having preached the first Charter Day sermon he was at the birth of this Institution as a University, and he was not now at its burial. After the National Anthem Dr. Jaques pronounced the benediction.

THE CONCERT.

In the evening a large and select audience listened to an admirable entertainment given by the students of the college. At the close of the programme the rooms were thrown social. which

CONSULTING A CLAIRVOYANT

Who Describes where Mrs. Moynes' Body Lies.

THE SEARCH OF NO AVAIL.

Although the search for the body of Mrs. Moynes had been given up yesterday, it was resumed this morning with renewed vigor, and the relatives were quite hopeful of success in consequence of an interview a nephew of the deceased had with Mrs. Sharp, a clairvoyant, yesterday afternoon in Trenton. She was appealed to for some information in reference to this mysterious case, on the suggestion, it is said, of Prof. Badgley, of Albert College, who once had occasion to test her gift. What she told the relative is given for what it is worth After imparting a minute discription of the missing lady's apparel when she was drowned, the clairvoyant told the interviewer the number of children in Mrs. Moynes family, their ages and other matters of detail connected with her personal appearance and so on. Although she said she never saw the missing woman in person.

The woman, who, by this time had secured another firm believer in her mysterious art, went on to tell that Mrs. Moynes drowned herself between eleven and twelve o'clock Monday night by jumping into the water below Coleman's dam. Her body, she said, would be found about two-thirds the distance over to the eastern shore, in a direct line between Walker's foundry and Cooper's flowing mill, with the head of the body pointing down the river against a rock. Yesterday morning the men were searching in another part of the river, but, after consultation, they began removing the ice over the spot where the Trenton Clairvoyant said the body would be found. Several teams were at work hauling the ice out of the water after it was cut, and a busy scene presented itself in that vicinity all day. The search will be continued, if the body is not found, up to Sunday morning. The river since early this morning was lined with people anxiously watching the open space of water and discussing the story told by the exponent of second sight.

At three o'clock this afternoon the body had not been found.

UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS.

Resolved that the Centenary Celebration Should be held in this District.

At a meeting of the officers and committee of the Native Canadian Society, held in Ald. Diamond's office last evening, Mr. C. L. Coleman, President, in the chair, and Ald. Diamond acted as Secretary. The following resolutions were carried:—

Moved by Mr. J. J. B. Flint, seconded by Mr. J. Clarke:—"That it is desirable that the Centennial Celebration of the first settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists should be held in the year 1884."

Moved by Ald. Vandusen, seconded by Mr. S. A. Moore:—"That whereas the first settlement of this Province by the United Empire Loyalists took place in the neighborhood of the Bay of Quinte, it is fit and proper that the Centennial Celebration should be held at the scene of their labors, and where their sacred dust now reposes.

Moved by Mr. J. J. B. Flint, seconded by Mr. P. Maybee, and resolved, that this Committee report to the pro tempore Committee at Toronto the above resolutions and state that while they are in entire sympathy with their centennial celebration movement they are of the opinion that the celebration should be held in the vicinity of the Bay of Quinte.

The question of the "Memorial Church" proposed by the Rev. Mr. Forneri was informally discussed and the undivided opinion expressed by those present was, that some prominent location should be selected and a monument worthy of the "Fathers" of our Province should be erected instead of the proposed memorial church. Further action hereafter will be taken in the matter.

STRIKE AT THE AXE FACTORY.

The hands in the axe factory went out on strike this morning in consequence of the heavy reduction which they were asked to accept by the firm. Twelve men quit work—six grinders and as many polishers. The latter were to be reduced 17½ per cent, and the grinders 12½ per cent. The men complain that they have been making very low wages all winter. They only averaged about $3 a piece this week. Latterly the grinders have only been allowed to make twenty axes a day at 3c. each, and the polishers were allowed 4c. and 4½c. The factory has been shut down to day. Mr. Pierce has threatened to send the axes to Montreal to be made

A LONG TIME.

Fifteen years of suffering from the tortures of Dyspepsia is indeed a long time. A. Burns blacksmith of Cobourgh, was thus afflicted but it only required one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters to completely cure him.

THOUSANDS SAY SO.

Mr. T. W. Atkins Girard, Kan., writes: 'I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers.' Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by R. Templeton.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

As it took very little time to pack up their belongings, in the afternoon the three were speeding away to the fresh country.

De Langtonville recollected having seen a notice that apartments were to be let in a pretty cottage a little way out of Hurstleight, and the actor safely installed his friends in their little domain before he left.

The company were at Eastbourne, and would not open for a few days at Hurstleight, so they would have a little rest before work commenced, and giving Ethel instructions to look over different roles, and to learn the part of Juliet, the Thespian shepherd went to look after his histrionic sheep; placarding the town, previous to his departure, with notices of his intended return, and with the announcement that he had, at considerable expense, secured the services of Miss Vaughan (so he had re-christened our Ethel), who would appear as Juliet on Wednesday, the 20th of June.

On the 19th the company arrived, and at eleven o'clock next day Ethel made her appearance at rehearsal, having, however, carefully been over the part with De Langtonville previously.

'I'd play Romeo myself, Miss Ethel, to-morrow evening. I'm not a very romantic Romeo for you, but you won't be so nervous with me as you would be with a stranger,' the manager had said; and Ethel was very glad, for the idea of addressing all those fine speeches to some unknown young gentleman had seemed very terrible to her.

The young girl felt very nervous and shy on entering the theatre, and seeing so many strange faces, for she had been little used to society.

But the presence of her father and De Langtonville made her entry less unpleasant than it would have been.

She was kindly received by all, for De Langtonville, who was very popular with his company, had earnestly begged them to be cordial to the young debutante.

Still Ethel was far from comfortable, and the whole place had a cold, cheerless look.

Before her were the bland rows of the pit and the holland-draped boxes.

The ceiling, where at night the chandelier would glitter with a myraid flashes of light, was lost in a gloomy kind of fog, and the stage was bounded by damp brick walls against which were reclined piles of dingy scenery; and a general air of dulness pervaded everything.

The rehearsal commenced with a farce, and Ethel wondered however people could laugh at such a thing, for the actors and actresses moved carelessly up to each other, and, without changing their countenances, gabbled off the words of their parts like schoolboys repeating a lesson which they had learnt by rote, and of whose meaning they had no idea.

De Langtonville retired to the back of the stage with Ethel, and took the opportunity of giving her a little information about the different people before them.

'Who is the gentleman standing on his head, at the side there?' she asked, pointing to one of the company who had assumed that abnormal position.

'That's Calthwaite,' replied the manager. 'He plays the comic characters I presume?' she asked.

'Calthwaite play comic parts! No, indeed, Miss Ethel, tragedy, and melodrama, of the most terrrific character, are Calthwaite's forte. He's only comic in private life. He's a very good fellow, and you'll like him very much. You should see him play the ghost in Hamlet, or Iago.'

'I should have thought that gentleman more capable of playing such parts,' said Ethel, pointing to a serious-visaged man clad in a grey overcoat, leaning against a wall.

'That's Lawson, the funniest man you ever saw in your life. It's impossible to see him on the stage without laughing. You'll like him, too.'

'Who is the tall gentleman with the dark hair and moustache?' Ethel inquired.

'Dalgleish; he plays first light, comedy.'

'Shall I like him, too? Is he a very good man?'

'He's a very good actor— no, I don't think that you'll like him so much. That is Montague, who plays second light comedy, and the little man is Twerkins—second low, he does.

'That good-looking young fellow, with light hair, is named Saville; he is stage struck at present; but I think it is rapidly wearing off, and we shall loose him soon.

'He's heir to a good property, I'm told.

'He plays what we call 'utility'—anything that may want a representative.

'The pretty dark-haired girl is Miss Henrietta Walmsley, and the young lady talking to Lawson is Miss Osborne.

'That is Mrs. Collins talking to Miss Walmsley, and laughing at Calthwaite; she plays the nurse in Romeo and Juliet.

Those are the principal members of the [company] [illegible]. See, they've finished [illegible] begin, please.'

'You inferna[l] [illegible] [shak]ing, nervous Juliet, stand plain Engl[ish] [illegible] Langtonville water—water to drink [illegible] then the quick!'

[illegible] strange [illegible]

In desperation the waiter hunted [up] the proprietor and told him the story. The landlord looked puzzled and himself entered the dinning room and approached the stranger and said:—

'Excuse me sir; but my waiter is a little hard of hearing. I will take your order.'

'I ordered a glass of water—nothing but straight water.'

'I'm sorry,' replied the landlord; 'but I can't accomodate you. There is so little call for those foreign drink here that I doesn't pay to keep 'em.'

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated, removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective.

Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epedemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power, should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, biliousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is epidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength, irritating the nerves, or depressing the [illegible]. Such as the ready means of saving [illegible] when afflicted with colds, coughs, [illegible] other complaints by which so many [illegible] [illegible]iously and permanently afflicted in most [coun]tries.

THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail in the United States, Canada and England in [this] way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M[f'g] Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we knew of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation cured when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a [sure] and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint:

ESPOIGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883,

Mr W LUMBERS, SR, Toronto Ont Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

COMPLETELY CURED OF LIVER DISEASE AND CATARRH.

Mr. W. LUMBERS, 288 Carlton Street, Toronto. Dear Sir,—I feel great pleasure in informing you that I have used your Catarrh Remedy and Liver Pill, and am happy to say I am completely cured of these complaints and can with the greatest confidence recommend them to any one suffering from those complaints. Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monkton, County Perth, Ont., Suly 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. WHEN INVALIDS COME TO understand that in all diseases whether acute or chronic, inflamation or fever, the aim of treatment is to promote constructive work or repair of tissue and arrest excisive waste, they will stop boling pretentious specifics and cure-alls devoid of medical value, and resort to physiological, rational medication. No matter what disease has emaciated and debilitated the body, restoring nutrition is the only means of cure, and we have in WHEELER'S Phosphate and Calisaya elements of nerve force and tissue restorative that will benefit any form of debility, no matter what the cause.

FEEDING COWS.

Discussion on Conversion of Food into Milk

WESTERN DAIRYMAN'S ASSOCIATION

The Western Dairyman's Association met last week in London.

Prof. L. B. Arnold, of Rochester, N. Y., read a paper on the process by which food is converted into milk. He regarded the cow as more a machine than a 'chemical laboratory,' as she was sometimes referred to. It is important to select EASILY DIGESTIBLE FOOD FOR COWS.

Hence the value of vegetables cut in their early stages. Dairymen require a knowledge of the chemistry of foods, because lacking it, tons and tons of food are wasted, particularly in the winter. In milking the most important points are regularity, skilfulness and cleanliness. A machine for milking is of little use that cannot manipulate the udder like the human hand. A large amount of milk is secreted while milking by the hand process. The milk is secreted most readily when the udder is not full. 'I have given up all hope of milking machines as at present constructed,' said the Professor. As a rule milk is formed from food in excess of that required by the animal to sustain life. The food supply must be full and constant, and to make a profit the food must be produced the dairyman himself and be raised cheaply. Grass, fodder, corn, peas and oats, young clover either dry or green, make good food for the summer, and cheap enough to produce milk at a cost of 50cts. per 100 lbs. When cows come in in the spring, by having a good supply of early cut hay and roots, a well preserved ensilage, with a little bran or meal till grass comes, and then plenty of grass in its season, and when this begins to fail beginning on a good supply of soiling crops and feeding all the cows can utilize till the close of grazing, and then, as in the spring feeding, early cut fodder with roots or ensilage or both, a continuous large flow will be kept up through the whole milking season, and will be obtained. He said the cause of a frequent stoppage of milk was a species of inflammation just at the place where the teat adjoined the udder. The inflammation caused the nerves to pucker up, closing the orifice. One way to remedy this was by flattening out one end of a knitting-needle for half an inch, sharpening each side, and then carefully running it up through the formation, and then back, making a double cut. Another remedy was by inserting a small silver or ivory tube, with a little bulb at the lower end. He said it didn't pay to milk three times a day, because that encouraged secretion. All the big yields of milk are obtained in that way. Food was rendered more digestible in winter by boiling or steaming, but the aroma and certain nitrogenious properties were lost. He would not undertake to say whether the loss equalled the gain or not. The milk of the Jersey cow would produce 25 per cent. more cheese than that of the Holstein. It only requires four-fifths as much milk from the Jersey cow to make a pound of cheese as from the common cow.

THE LARGEST QUANTITY POSSIBLE

A SHARP DISCUSSION

took place over Prof. Barnard's statement that in Quebec an average of 9½ pounds of milk produced one pound of cheese that sells as A1 in the Montreal market, but it was explained that the cows were of the Normandy breed, and much depended on the character of feeding.

Mr. J. W. Butcher, of Burgesville, Norwich township, said the great secret is that faultless milk must be used to produce faultless cheese. He indicated the necessity of clean, well aired stables, and in short absolute cleanliness from the time of milking till the fluid reaches the factory. He showed that filth in solution could not be strained out at night. After milking the milk should be cooled down to 8 degrees and in the can as low as possible, and sweet and no whey carried home in them. The practice of carrying home sour whey in cans was especially condemned both by Mr. Butcher and other speakers.

CANS SHOULD BE KEPT CLEAN

Mr. Benjamin D. Gilbert, of Utica, New York, delivered an able address containing a complimentary reference to the rapid growth of dairying in Canada, particularly in Ontario, which by the last return had 628 factories, an increase of 150 over those of 1882. He considered the Canadian cheese fully equal to the American product, and said had it not been so it could never have been so successful in the markets of England. The importance of the American cheese industry could be seen in the fact that one thousand millions of dollars were invested in it. The progress of the industry in Canada was largely due to the fostering care of the Provincial Government. Mr Gilbert then gave an elaborate description of the Interior Board of Trade, Utica, with its enormous cheese deals. He did not think butterine or oleomargarine had depreciated the price of butter, for since they have been on the market butter has ruled extremely high, so that the exports of 1881 fell off more than 10,000,000 lbs. from the year before, and in 1882 again fell off over 12,000,000 lbs., leaving only a beggarly 5,000,000 lbs. to the United Kingdom.

THIS BUTTERINE TAKES THE PLACE of a class of butter which never should be made, but sells readily because purchasers prefer it to the lower grades of butter. The competition of these imitations causes butter makers to improve their products.

Rev. F. Clarke opened the discussion on Mr. Gilbert's paper in reference to the prospective demand for the North-West dairy products. Mr. Craig, of Woodstock, advised the Ontario farmers to devote attention more extensively to the cheese, leaving the fields of the North West to produce grain for some years at least to come. In reply to Rev. Mr. Clarke he said oleomargarine was made from sweet suet oil, coloured and flavoured, and butterine from a superior quality of lard mixed with 25 per cent. of the very best Elgin butter with an addition of cotton seed oil.

To Prof. Barnard he said the artificial cheese had died a natural death in the States.

THE CHEESE TRADE.

An essay by Mr. Robert McAdam, of Rome. N.Y., was read by Mr. McAdam Jr. The subject was the demands of the cheese trade and the defect in the supplies. It was contended that the alleged danger from overproduction was a bugbear, and that demand for good dairy products must increase. In Great Britain upwards of $80-000,000 was last year paid for cheese and butter. He pointed out the danger of inexperienced makers being permitted to manage factories for the sake of saving a few dollars; they were almost certain to ensure losses before the season passed. The standard qualities of cheese are solidity, close texture, fine flavour, mild rich, sound, handsome and clear looking.

A LONG TIME.

Fifteen years of suffering from the tortures of Dyspepsia is indeed a long time. A. Burns blacksmith of Cobourgh, was thus afflicted but it only required one bottle of Burrock Blood Bitters to completely cure him.

THOUSANDS SAY SO.

Mr. T. W. Atkins Girard, Kan., writes: 'I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers.' Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by B. Templeton.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY, is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co s. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

MR. MEREDITH'S DISHONOR.

It will be remembered that during the recent West Middlesex local campaign a member of the Conservative candidates' committee, one Weekes, wandered accidentally into the committee rooms of the Reform candidate and being encouraged in the belief that he was among his friends it came out that Weekes had received $100 for corruptly influencing the election. He made other disclosures before a number of witnesses This direct evidence of Conservative corruption being published, Mr. W. R. Meredith, leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, thought it incumbent upon him to induce Mr. Weekes to sign a legal Declaration denying the truth of the charges. An action for perjury being promptly brought against Weekes the poor fellow fled the country, but returned and stood his trial, the upshot of which was that the original Declaration not being produced led the presiding Magistrate to discharge the prisoner, at the same time indicating his belief as to the moral guilt of the man Weekes.

But the weak-minded Weekes was not the greatest culprit in the matter. It came out in evidence that Mr. Meredith sought out Weekes and induced him to sign a declaration, which is equivalent to an oath, saying "I will see you through," or gave verbally what is legally known as an "undertaking" assuming all responsibility. Mr. Meredith wanted to influence the pending election and remove the bad impression produced by the Weekes' disclosures. To party exegency therefore Weekes fell a victim and, unable to resist the influence of his political leaders, perjured himself. What man was this who induced a citizen to commit a crime against the state he would not dream of doing himself, looking to party warfare for his justification? William Ralph Meredith, one of Her Majesty's Counsel and leader of one of the great parties! Almost incredible! Admitted, but nevertheless true, as proved by the records as we shall presently show.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Kingston News of Friday, had an abusive article which commenced in this way:—"The Weekes case has been the centre round which the meanness of some vile partisans revolved for the past two months. The London Advertiser deliberately altered the judgment of Squire Hannah on the case so as to reflect on Mr. Meredith, leader of the local opposition."

The following letter from Squire Hannah, the Magistrate before whom the case was heard answers this and explains itself:—

Having read in the Free Press of this morning the report of an interview between the reporter of that paper and myself, and also an article referring to me in the Mail of this morning, I think it only right to state publicly that what I have said has been greatly misrepresented in both papers. The report of the interview, as given in the Free Press, is, in almost every particular, pure fiction, and the article in the Mail equally so. What I told the Advertiser reporter respecting the true meaning of my judgment in the Weekes case is, in every respect, correctly reported in said paper, and to put the matter beyond question, I will now repeat that, by the language which has been so much misrepresented, I intended to express how much I despised the conduct of Mr. W. R. Meredith and his friends in committing so glaring a fraud upon a weak young man as to get him to make a false declaration. I have nothing more to say on this subject, and hope this letter will put an end to further misrepresentations. I will only add that my answer to Mr. C. H. Mackintosh's telegram, as reported in the Advertiser, is absolutely correct except as regards the initial of my Christian name. I have sent copies of the above to the London Free Press, the Toronto Globe and Mail.

London, Feb. 14, 1884. R. HANNAH, J.P.

William Ralph Meredith, the quondam young politician of unstained honor, has indeed fallen low. Sir John Macdonald has now every reason to be proud of his protege.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

AS A SAMPLE session of the Public Accounts Committee of the Ontario Legislature, we submit the following report from Saturday's Mail:—

"The Public Accounts Committee met yesterday, Mr. Ferris in the chair. No business of any importance was transacted, as the members were not able to find anything in the papers presented either irregular or doubtful."

A MICHIGAN MILLIONAIRE has bequeathed $5,000 each to Josh Billings, Eli Perkins, and the mother of Artemus Ward. The feeling of gratitude that prompted this action is worthy of all commendation. Or was a feeling of pity that these men should from want be compelled to perpetrate the atrocities of which they are frequently guilty that was the motive?

PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS.

Harpers Magazine for March with its many sided table of contents has a claim upon the attention of all classes. The serial stories by Wm. Black and E. P. Roe are of course eagerly looked for. The early American President will not perhaps have as great an interest to Canadian readers, but a sketch of Will Carleton, an eminent American who is as well known in Canada as in his native land will be widely read. This number is graced by a poem from that shaggy American poet Walt Whitman entitled With Husky—Haught, O Sea!

THE UNIVERSITY QUESTION.

Resolution Passed by the Graduates and Undergraduates of Albert.

A mass meeting of graduates and undergraduates of Albert University was held in the College Chapel on the afternoon of Charter Day, Friday Feb. 15th, and organized by the appointment of Prof. W. P. Dyer, M. A., Chairman and T. T. Holgate Secretard. It was moved by Rev. Dr. Badgley, and seconded by E. N. Baker, M. A., that whereas the public policy of this country on University Education has established one Provincial University and maintained it out of the public lands and funds, and has at the same time with equal sanction and authority established other Universities under the control of different churches; and whereas the Provincial University so called has in its administration and it relation to the educational system of country been far from a Provincial University in fact declining to adapt its statutes to a genuine affiliation and employing a considerable share of its income to the detriment of other Universities established by the government of the country by such an arrangement of options and rewards, in connection therewith, as to draw off worthy candidates from the other colleges and universities; moreover as the Toronto University has now an income of $65,000 per annum, and yet with this income, greater than that of all the other Universities together, does less than one half of the University work of the Province and whereas in other days, probably for ulterior purposes, it acquiesced in the conversion of a considerable share of its resources to the support of Upper Canada College, a school that is now in an unjustifiable imposition, if not an unseemly excrescence on the Educational System of Ontario and even a reflection upon the High Schools and a detriment to them; Resolved, by the alumini of Albert University on Charter Day assembled, (1) that we regret the exclusive and even unpatriotic course of Toronto University in dealing with the other Universities of the country and thereby precluding the possiblity of a truly National Universty with federated colleges, which seems to have been the design of the early University Legislation. (2) That as to the supply of further Government aid to Toronto University, whether we view this question from our present condition, as an independent University, or from our contemplated consolidation into the noble Methodist University of the near future, we earnestly protest against the government granting further financial aid to Toronto University till, that institution shall have proved that in the interest of the whole people it requires more of their money, and after it shall have gathered and econimized all its resources and ceased to employ them to the detriment of the other Universities established by the Government of the country. (3) We invite the alumini of sister Universities resident in Belleville and the vicinity thereof, to join with us in these declarations.

HOLLOWAY STREET CHURCH.

Anniversary Services—Sermon by Rev. J. H. Locke, of Toronto.

It is now eight years since the comfortable brick Canada Methodist Church on Holloway Street, West Belleville, was dedicated to the worship of God. One of the first pastors who received a call from the congregation was the Rev. J. H. Locke, now stationed in Toronto, and during his incumbency of office his labors among the Christian people of that church will never be forgotten. It was, therefore, quite a fitting occasion yesterday to invite him to preach the anniversary sermons, as there were few who have become identified with that church but were glad to welcome him back. The congregations on both occasions were large. At the morning service he preached an appropriate sermon from Psalm xcii., 12—"The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree." Frequent reference was made, he said, in the old scriptures to the palm, the finest speciment of which are to be found in Jericho; hence it was called the City of Palms. The palm tree, however, was not confined to the plains of Palestine but could be found in more southern climes. The palm tree was the most instructive and beautiful on earth. The righteous are often referred to in the Bible as thrifty trees, therefore the palm was suggested by the text as a symbol of the beautiful. This tree laden with luscious fruit and with bright green foliage was what God intended the Christian to be, and there was no growth so beautiful as the Christian growth. If he lived up to the fulness of his relations with Christ he would flourish and his whole nature grow luminious within. It will enable him to be what the palm tree was in whatever locality he resided; it was God's wish that he should flourish in all his loveliness and beauty. There were some, of course who did not come up to this, but it was not God's fault. The Christian was intended to stand out from the world as a shining light among the people—shining more and more in the words of inspiration. He implored the congregation to be radiant with all loveliness at all times and on all occasions. Better not appear at all he thought if they could not shine as the palm tree. This tree has been known as the most fruitful tree on earth, therefore it was meet that he should compare the text with that tree. In living up to this command they could see what God intended them to be—useful and fruitful members of society. A barren and unfruitful tree was an anomaly in the Christian vineyard. Grace began in the heart but it did not end there. God made them the subject of his grace and the preacher's earnest wish and prayers would be that the people of that church would be Christians of the palm tree type.

This evening the annual tea-meeting will be held in the lecture room of the church. The ladies have been untiring in their exertions to furnish a good tea, and from the reputation they have earned in the past in this direction it is safe to look for an excellent spread on this occasion. Afterwards address will be delivered by Rev. J. H. Locke, Rev. Charles Fish, of Trenton, Rev Prof. Badgley and other.

RECEDING WATERS DISCLOSE DESOLATION

SHAWNEETOWN, Feb. 17.—There was nearly five inches rise during the night and nearly half an inch an hour during the day. There was heavy rain all night and during an early hour this morning. The suffering among the refugees in the hills is increasing. Bad as the situation now is it will inevitably get worse. Wm. Alwold left Henry Richardson's mill in a skiff four days ago to go to his house, and has not been seen since. He is probably drowned. The dept of water throughout the town ranges from 15 to 40 feet. Skiffs pass over good sized houses well weighed down, the roofs of which are scarcely reached by the longest oars. The situation at Uniontown is growing more serious hourly. The entire town is under water to the depth of several feet. The river is still rising steadily.

New Liberty, twelve miles above, is entirely abandoned, nothing but the roofs of the houses is to be seen.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The Presikent signed the resolution appropriating $200,000 additional for the relief of the Ohio sufferers as soon as received.

The number of destitute in Clermont county, Ohio, is 6,000.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—The total subscriptions to the flood sufferers, raised in this city up to the present time, amount to $20,000.

PARKERSBURG, W. V., Feb. 17.—The water has receded twenty feet, and as the banks are appearing on both sides of the river the full destruction is exposed. Parkersburg has lost over one hundred buildings. Belpre, opposite Parkersburg, is a mass of desolation. Its principal street, with the flour mill and a number of brick and wood buildings, has totally disappeared. The Parkersburg Mill Co. lose twenty thousand of this amount.

CAIRO, Feb. 17.—The Ohio river is rising slowly.

POMEROY, Feb. 17.—Eight thousand people are idle and 9,000 homeless demanding immediate assistances. The river in the bend reaches 64 feet. It has fallen twelve feet and is going down at the rate two inches an hour. It is estimated that five hundred houses have been swept away on twelve miles of the bend.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 16.—At Newport the overflow of the White river is the greatest ever known. Communication with Jacksonport, is cut off. A hundred families are lodging in the court-house at Jacksonport, and the Newport academy is crowded with sufferers. It is feared the Iron Mountain levee will break. Business is suspended.

FULTON, Feb. 17.—The whole country is one vast sea. Hundreds are fleeing. Dead mules and cattle are floating down all day

'See here, Mr. Editor," said an irate woman coming into the sanctum and leaving the door open "see here, what's this in your mean little newspaper?"

"Really, madam, there is too much in it, considering that it's only $2 per year in advance, with liberal reductions to clubs, and I cannot at he first blush tell you what it is."

"Well, don't talk your jaws off but tell me what you mean by this reference to my late husband."

"Ah, madam, the good kind soul who died only yesterday?"

'The same one; you didn't think I was planting one after each meal, did you?'

"Hardly that, madam; but what do you refer to?"

"Well, sir, this passage in the obituary where you say he was consigned to a roasting place with his fathers."

"Ahem, madam, ahem, let me see," and the editor grabbed the paper and gazed intently at the words. "I beg your pardon, madam; it should have been a resting place, and if you will come down to the office this afternoon you can have the scalp of any infernal compositor in the office, and I will tear it off for you. We can stand some things, but that style is too harrowing on the feelings of a good paying subscriber like yourself."

She was pacified and got the scalp.

He stood upon the world's broad threshold; wide
The din of battle and of slaughter rose;
He saw God stand upon the weaker side,
That sank in seeming loss before its foes;
Many there were who made great haste and sold
Unto the common enemy there swords;
He scorned their gifts of fame and power and gold.
And, underneath their soft and flowery words,
Heard the cold serpent hiss; therefore he went
And humbly joined him to the weaker part,
Fanatic named, and fool, yet well content
So he could be the nearer to God's heart,
And feel its solemn pulses sending blood
Through all the wide spread veins of endless good.

OVER THE CATARACT.

THE CURRENT LEADING TO DEATH'S WHIRLPOOL, AND HOW A PROMINENT MAN AVOIDED IT.

Albany, N. Y., Journal.

Among the hundreds of thousands of tourists who have visited Niagara Falls and stood in awe before its miracle of power, there is, probably, not one who has failed to notice the large stone building which stands directly opposite the cataract and a short distance below the railroad suspension and cantilever bridges. This building is known to all as the 'Monteagle House,' and it has been a popular place of resort for hundreds of travellers during many years. Nearly every place in America possessing unusual naturel scenery has its legend, and a most tragical one is located on the site where this stone building now stands. Monteagle, a young chieftain of the Miami Indians, loved the daughter of a mighty chief among the Iroquois. His wooing, unlike that of Hiawatha, was not received with favor by the father chief, and hence he was compelled to resort to the usual methods of abduction and flight. The escaping pair were over taken on the banks of the Niagara where the hotel now stands, and rather than submit to capture the lovers cast themselves into the cataract below. Their bodies were subsequently found at the mouth of the river clasped in an embrace which even the cataract could not sunder. many occurences since that time have tended to make Monteagle famous, and it was with surprise that it was learned a short time since that the edifice was to be entirely transformed, rearranged and refurnished for the benefit of tourists, and especially invalids.

Feeling that it is a subject in which the public would take unusual interest, especially as the National Park question is being so strongely agitated, a representative of this paper visited Niagra Falls yesterday and learned the following facts:

Dr. W. R. Crumb, who is about undertaking this important task, is a gentleman who is well known throughout the land, having succesfully praticed medicine in the city of Buffalo for nearly thirty years. He is exceedingly well preserved, though nearly 60 years of age, while his energy and ambition are something wonderful. In conversation with the reporter he said:

'I anticipate great success here, although a few years ago I should not have dared undertake it, for I was then what people call a dead man.'

'How was that doctor? How did it occur?

'It was brought about, as such troubles usually are, by mental and physical depression, arising out of troubles and reverses. The mind has a remarkable effect upon the body and when one meets with misfortunes financially. Such, at all events was my case. I was irritable, restless and feverish. I had a heavy and irregular pulse, my food did not assimulate, my heart would throb violently and then stop and the fluids I passed were profuse, high colored and thick with deposits. I was obliged to abandon my practice, and also to suspend pushing a valuable invention, known as 'Crumb's pocket inhaler,' for the cure of catarrh and asthma.'

'How long did this continue?'

'For about two years. I realized that I was quite sick but like everyone else I felt it would only be temporary. The majority of people drift along the way a man might who knew nothing about these great Falls and was floating with the current. It is so easy to drift you see. At the end of a year however, my condition became simply horrible. I had a serious irritation of the throat, a hard, sluggish pulse, a swelling of the limbs and numbness extending down the things. I had terrible night sweats and my urine was loaded with albumen and acids. I called in several of the most skillful physicians but I continued to sink rapidly. I was the victim of Bright's disease of the kidneys, and I looked forward with almost certainty to a few weeks of terrible agony and then—death!' It is painful to described this experience and it is sufficient to say I am entirely well and that my life has been saved by means of Warner's Safe Cure, which arrested the disease, effected a cure and has preserved me in health ever since.'

'Then it was this remedy that saved your life, doctor?'

'Yes, I can testify from a grateful heart that it is invaluable for men or women who are depressed by reason of disappointments and reverses; who are losing flesh and strength and must find relief or a fatal termination awaits them. I prescribe this great remedy to my patients constantly and the wonderful effects I observed in my own case I see repeated in their experiences. It is this that makes me certain I can endure the cares of the great Sanitarium I am about to establish.'

It is understood that a change in the close season of fish will be made this year, and that it will begin on the first of March instead of the first of April. The reason for this is that the pot hunters have spotted places where the fish wait to spawn and capture them through holes in the ice.

Mr. Joseph Hickson, manager of the Grand Trunk, has sent out circulars to his employees asking them if they could accept a reduction of 10 per cent. on their wages. This the men it is believed, have refused to do, and if the matter of the reduction is pressed, a strike will certainly be the result. At present the men have the circular under their consideration.

The Kingston Whig says:—"Some days ago the Belleville ONTARIO published an item to the effect that Mgr. Farrelly, in a discourse said the Whig, although a good paper, unduly glorified the Salvation Army," and it is informed that the sermon contained no such reference. The Whig is misinformed as the reference was made. A fuller report can be furnished if necessary.

When the case of the Queen v. N. S. Appleby was called by Police Magistrate Holden this morning, the defendant did not answer to his name, and it is reported that he has left town. He was admitted to bail last week by furnishing bonds for $6,000, Mr. Appleby giving his own recognizance for $3,000 and Stephen A. Lazier and James B. Fullerton became his bondsmen for $1,500 each.

At a meeting of the License Commissioners under the McCarthy Act on Saturday in the Judge's Chambers, there were present, Judge Fraleck; Dr. Faulkner, of Stirling, Warden; and A. B. Ross, of Madoc. Robert Gordon, of Tweed, was chosen as Chief Inspector for the County; James Ray, of Tyendinaga, sub-Inspector for East Hastings; Frederick Cornwall, of Trenton, sub-Inspector for West Hastings, and James Cook, of Rawdon, sub-Inspector for North Hastings. The Board then adjourned to meet on the 21st inst.

Mr. N. W. Hawley, who has lived for twenty-eight years in the third concession of Thurlow, was surprised on Wednesday evening last to receive a call from about fifty of his neighbors, who came with well-filled baskets to pay their respects to their host and hostess, previous to their removing to the fifth concession. The evening was spent by the party in a peculiarly happy manner, and at about three in the morning the company dispersed. Some of the ladies present added to the pleasure of the meeting by supplying some very acceptable music.

A telegram was received by the manager of the Opera House, on Saturday, from Mr. O. B. Sheppard, Manager of the Grand Opera House Toronto. "Devil's Auction Company are playing with crowded houses. At the matinee hundreds were turned away. It is one of the nicest shows on the road. There is nothing objectionable in it to ladies or children. You are at liberty to use this over my signature." A Toronto paper says of the performance:—"The ballet is poor; the transformation scenes very good; the contortion feats marvellous; and Maffit and Bartholomew in the Chinese festival extremely laughable." A Belleville gentleman who saw the show in Toronto on Saturday says no one should miss it.

Andrew Reid is a moulder in the stove foundry and his conduct on Front street Saturday was such that should make him ashamed. He had been drinking some during the afternoon and met his wife below the police station. She wanted to accompany him home. He answered this appeal from his wife, who is in a delicate condition, by knocking her down and afterwards kicking her. Sergt. Downs was notified of Reid's unhuman treatment of his wife and he arrested him. Reid was picked up and carried into the Edward House where she received attention. The husband was kept in over Sunday and to-day the Magis[illegible] a fine of $5 and costs.

DEATH OF EUGENE McMAHON.

Mr. Eugene McMahon, Barrister, who has only been ill since last Tuesday, died a few minutes after three this afternoon, of congestion of the brain.

THE STRIKE IN THE AXE FACTORY.

The axe factory is still shut down and the men are idle. What the upshot of the difference between the employer and the employees will be it is difficult to state at present. The men are determined not to submit to the reductions, and the management states that in consequence of the dullness in the market they are unable to pay higher wages at present.

An ONTARIO reporter in connection with one of the strikers this morning learned some further particulars regarding the difficulty between the men and Mr. T. P. Pierce, the owner of the shops. He said a week ago they were notified of the reduction and some of them partially agreed to accept it, but on more mature consideration they found that the cut in the prices dealt more heavily on some than on others. Of late weeks about 275 axes have been manufactured daily. The forgers were asked to accept a reduction of half a cent an axe, which would be equal to a reduction of 5 per cent. to the forgers and their helpers. The grinders had been receiving 4 cents and 4½ cents per axe, and it was purposed to reduce them to 3½ cents 4 cents. The polishers got 3½ cents and in the reduced rates they would only be allowed about 3 cents each.

MECHANICS' LIENS.

In the Ontario Legislature,

Mr. Ermatinger moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Mechanics' Liens Act. The chief provision was one which he described as likely to touch the main reasons why the Act had failed to meet the expectations of its friends. Under the present Act the owner and contractor might make an agreement which ruled out very many claimants. He desired to strike out, 'Unless there is an express agreement to the contrary.'

Mr. Mowat stated that he had no objection to the bill being referred to a Committee, but he would like very much that the opinions of those entitled to judge should be heard. He did not think that the Act was ever intended to include subcontractors under its provisions. He concluded by intimating that he was interested in this class of bills, and set forth several changes he would like in the measure.

The bill was referred to a Committee.

"Lookout," owned by Mr. F. Gauthier, of the Willard House, Belleville, won the open trot at Hamilton. He was driven by the veteran driver, Henry Covert. "Lookout" has been meeting with good success in the west which is pleasing news to the many admirers of the horse in this section. Jim Mitchell got second place and Russian Spy third.

BEE KEEPERS LEGISLATION.

Mr. Cornell, Chairman of the deputation appointed at a recent meeting of the Ontario Bee-Keepers Association, to wait on the Attorney-General as to the question of legislation to appoint a Government inspector with a view to the prevention of foul brood among bees, reported that they had obtained an interview with Mr. Mowat, who had advised them to obtain information of what had been done in this respect by other Legislatures.

Mr. W. B. Lazier bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes: 'I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stables. I have used it for bruises, scratches wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gives the best satisfaction. We used it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c. THE MOYNES MYSTERY.

Another Visit Paid to the Clairvoyant at Trenton.

In compliance with her request Messrs. Alfred Vermilyea and Aden Frederick yesterday visited Mrs. Sharp, the Trenton clairvoyant, not with any hope that what she would tell them would prove of any avail in finding the missing body of Mrs. Moynes, but out of curiosity to hear what she would say. The woman possessing the mesmeric powers told them that the body had moved since the search began below the dam. It was now, she said, near Cooper's flour mill, at the end of the bar which runs out from the shore at this place. She described Cooper's mill as a place where not a great deal of work was being done, but in the building on the opposite side of the river she said the workmen were very busy. In the building first spoken of the clairvoyant told them they would find a window overlooking the river with a pane of glass broken in it, and the body was directly out from this. There was no current, she went on to say, where the body lies and the man who will recover it will be a short, stout man, dark complexion and dark hair. Mrs. Moynes, she said, went home on the Monday night in question, saw the light in the hall, and turning back again went to the river. For this information the mind-reader demanded fifty cents which was paid and the two gentlemen drove back to the city.

Large crowds visited the river yesterday and this morning the search was resumed in the vicinity of where the clairvoyant stated they would find the body. The description given of the man by Mrs. Sharp who would find the body corresponds with the appearance of Mr. L. Grills, who has been searching the river thoroughly from the first.

NOTE FROM PROF. BADGLEY.

We are in receipt of a note from Rev. Prof. Badgley, from which it is plain that the statement of his advising the consultation with old Mrs. Sharp was erroneous. Dr. Badgley says:—"I was totally ignorant of the existence of such a person until after the friends had decided to consult her. I never had occasion to solicit her services in any matter, and am now and always have been skeptical concerning the claims of clairvoyants to knowledge inaccessible to common mortals.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

A good meeting was held this morning. After devotional exercises a letter was read from the City Council concerning the Association's petition to them of January 21st. The subject of a petition to the School Board of this city concerning the introduction of a temperance text book into the schools was brought forward by the Rev. E. W. Sibbald, and the following resolution unanimously agreed to:—"That this Association hereby cordially endorses the said petition, and recommends the congregations which its members represent and the citizens at large to sign the petition immediately and thus express their strongest sympathy with the temperance movement." A resolution, sympathizing with Rev. T. W. McVety in the injury he recently sustained and offering assistance in pastoral work, was unanimously carried. Rev. Wm. Stacy presented the subject of 'Qualification for Christian Work.' The meeting was closed with the Benediction by Rev. Mr. Sibbald.

DR. WILSON'S RECEPTION.

The reception to Rev. Dr. Wilson on Friday evening in the City Hall, Kingston, on the occasion of his return after being dismissed from the curacy of St. Georges' Cathedral, by the Dean for his adhersion to the Salvation Army was an enthusiastic one, over 1,500 ladies and gentlemen crowding the hall. Principal Grant in his address described this memorable meeting as follows:—"Since coming to Kingston I have seen no purely civic meeting like this. Looking around I see the Mayor, ex-mayors, the head of our educational institutions, professors of our four colleges, the bench and bar, ministers of all denominations, the banking, merchantile, manufacturing and mechanical interests and professions, mechanics, laborers, rich and poor, men and women, all animated by one common sentiment. I again say, I have never seen a meeting like this in Kingston.

Henry Clement Almonte, writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it. I began to use it both externally and internally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equal.

TRENTON NOTES.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Chief Hinde, the newly appointed officer gives, so far, the best of satisfaction.

A Catholic Temperance and Literary Association has started here under the most favorable auspices. A suite of rooms has been procured and debates are held weekly.

The Town Council has laid over for further consideration a petition asking for (1) the separation of liquors from groceries, (2) billiards from hotels and (3) the restriction of the number of hotels.

TRENTON, Feb. 18.—Trenton is, according to the gossips, excited over a great scandal. The truth is that very few give the matter a moments thought, the parties belonging to a class that usually furnishes food for talk. A married man, who turns his hand to anything from pressing the keys of a cornet to slinging tumblers and decanters, and who has been engaged in a leading hotel suddenly left town taking with him one of the waiting girls. That's all.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE SNOW BY-LAW.

SIR,—Is the snow By-law still in force? If so why is it not enforced in certain parts of Commercial Street? I need not designate which parts, those who have to pass there know only to well and have known them all winter. Is it because the officer charged with this duty wishes to spare his friends? at the expense of those who keep their walks clear of snow. It is decidedly unfair to the ratepayers of this part of "MURNEY WARD."

TROUBLE IN TRENTON.

Regarding the trouble which an hotel keeper of Trenton was alleged, by our correspondent, to be in, a resident of that place writes assuring us that our correspondent must have been misinformed, as no such scandal attaches to the hotel keeper.

FARMERS' CLUBS.

Mr. John Le Boutellier, of Sidney, is endeavoring to organize Farmer's Clubs in different parts of the township, and assisted in organizing one at Johnstown, on Friday evening. The co-operation of all those interested in the movement is requested. Having given some attention to the theoretical agriculture, lectures will be given in the various school houses on subjects pretaining to agriculture. Those who desire his services are requested to communicate with him. It is purely and simply from the good that may accrue therefrom that this work is undertaken.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15th, 1880.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STEWART.

The battle flag of Gen. Grant's first regiment is so riddled with bullets that it will hardly hold together. A Kentuckian thinks that the Confederates committed a great military error in firing at the flag instead of banging away at 'the old man' himself.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

Ethel could not speak the poetry of Juliet's utterances with unfeeling heart; and De Langtonville, to assist her endeavours and lead her on, acted his part instead of hastening the words; and indeed the familiar phrases seemed to possess new meaning when addressed to that fair girl.

All were eager in their congratulations when rehearsal was at length concluded.'

'By Jove! Miss Ethel,' said the manager as they walked through the town. 'I can't find words to tell you how pleased I am.

'It ought to be Drury Lane, before the Queen, instead of the Theatre Royal Hurstleigh.

'I prophesy a tremendous success. I'll call for you about six, or, perhaps, if I come about half-past five, you'll give me a cup of tea.

'I should like to speak to you about one or two little points of stage business.'

And the delighted manager turned aside to his lodgings while Ethel and her father proceeded to their cottage; he very proud of the praise which he felt his child had justly deserved, and she pleased beyond measure at the prospect of earning those golden soverigns which yield so much comfort.

So they entered through the rustic porch overhung with the tendrils of fragrant honeysuckle, and into the cheerful little sitting room, and Ethel placed her hand on her father's shoulder, and whispered those sweet words of affection which brought sunlight to the old man's heart.

He felt that truth must triumph, and that to trust with implicit faith to the guidance of Providence was better than to form vain plans.

Through long years he had trusted and hoped the discontened spirit sometimes reminded him.

Hope on, Henry Aubrey—if so it pleases you to call yourself—the end is coming with swiftly hastening flight.

CHAPTER V.

Bertram Madeley and his friend put up their horses at the hotel, and having ordered dinner, sauntered off through the town.

'Your interview with your father has not had the effect of rendering you particularly cheerful, Bertram,' said the lightheated Ferrers, when they had walked on for some time in silence; the last remark you made was extremely entertaining, but some three-quarters of an hour had elapsed since then.'

'You must forgive me for being dull, Arthur, My father started rather an unpleasant subject.'

'You've heard of that old Roman emperor,' Ferrers rejoined, who used to ask, when anything of any sort went wrong, 'Who is she?' feeling assured that a woman was at the bottom of it. Uncomplimentary to the ladies, but such is the anecdote. May I ask—Who is she?'

'Your question is not very wide of the mark; she is Euphemia Bell,' replied Bertram.

'Didn't I tell you so only this morning? I presume that you did not accept the proposition in a very genial spirit?'

'Not particularly; you know my ideas on the subject of love and marriage. Exploded nonsense, some people would call them, but I hold them all the same.

'You talk as if you were in love a'ready,' said Ferrers.

'I have a strange remembrance to-day of a little face I used to fancy I loved. I wasn't very far gone, for I only saw her about half a dozen times, and never spoke to her. You don't believe in love at first sight, of course?'

'Indeed I do. When you were taking places at the theatre, such a pretty girl came out of the side door, and I immediately became a convert.

She was just the sort of girl I should choose to inhabit the gorgeous rooms I have prepased for the future Mrs. Ferrers in my magnificent castle—in the air.

'You see, old fellow, I have no wealth but wealth of devotion,' and that isn't negotiable with the butcher.'

'One of the company, I presume?'

'I imagine so, and we shall have the opportunity of convincing ourselves soon, for it's very near dinner-time,' said Ferrers, as they began to retrace their steps to the the room where their repast was awaiting them.

De Langtonville escorted his Juliet to the theatre, and for the first time Mr. Aubrey took his seat in the orchestra.

The house was a little brighter now, and some of the more enthusiastic patrons of the drama, who had been waiting about the doors for some time before they were opened, had taken their places.

Ethel had not tried on her dress; and as for making up,' it was an art of which she was supremely ignorant.

The old dresses, however, was skilled in all these mysteries; and in a shorter time than she could have believed possible, Ethel issued forth from the dressing-room arrayed in Juliet's robes, and proceeded to the green room.

There was something so attractive in the girl's gentle manner that it was impossible to resist its influence, and such of the company as had completed their toilettes, gathered round her and spoke words of encouragement.

She hardly recognized De Langtonville, so changed did he appear in the garb which he had assumed, and so altered was his expression by a few skilfully-applied touches of paint, and she quite failed to recognise Mrs. Collinson, the nurse, in her white wig and wrinkled face and forehead.

Dalgleish shortly afterwards appeared, as Paris, and was very pronounced in his compliments, and the other characters dropping in, the cast was complete when the bell rang for the overture.

Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epedemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power, should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, billiousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is epidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength irritating the nerves, or depressing the ... THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical profession stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of those happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a safe, sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint: ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883.

Mr W LUMBERS, SR., Toronto Ont Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

COMPLETELY CURED OF LIVER DISEASE AND CATARRH.

Mr. W. LUMBERS, 288 Carlton Street, Toronto. Dear Sir,—I feel great pleasure in informing you that I have used your Catarrh Remedy and Liver Pill, and am happy to say I am completely cured of these complaints and can with the greatest confidence recommend them to any one suffering from those complaints. Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Mornington, County Perth, Ont., July 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one ... taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. REID, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

The second made me well and strong as when a child,

My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious

Seven bottles of your bitters cured him and I know of the

WHEN INVALIDS COME TO understand that in all diseases whether acute or chronic, inflammation or fever, the aim of treatment is to promote constructive work or repair of tissue and arrest excessive waste, they will stop buying pretentious specifics and cure-alls devoid of medical value, and resort to physiological, rational medication. No matter what disease has emaciated and debilitated the body, restoring nutrition is the only means of cure, and we have in WHEELER'S Phosphate and Calisaya elements of nerve force and tissue restorative that will benefit any form of debility, no matter what the cause.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Winslow's Soothing Syrup For Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. WITH HUSKY-HAUGHTY LIPS, O SEA !

With husky-haughty lips, O Sea !
Where day and night I wend thy surf-beat shore,
Imaging to my sense thy varied strange suggestions,
Thy troops of white-maned racers racing to the goal,
Thy ample, smiling face, dash'd with the sparkling dimples of the sun,
Thy brooding scowl and murk—thy unloos'd hurricanes,
Thy unsubduedness, caprices, wilfulness ;
Great as thou art above the rest, thy many tears—a lack from all eternity in thy content,
(Naught but the greatest struggles, wrongs, defeats, could make thee greatest—no less could make thee),
Thy lonely state—something thou ever seek'st and seek'st, yet never gain'st,
Surely some right withheld—some voice, in huge monotonous rage, of freedom-lover pent,
Some vast heart, like a planet's, chain'd and chafing in those breakers,
By lengthen'd swell, and spasm, and panting breath,
And rhythmic rasping of thy sands and waves,
And serpent hiss, and savage peals of laughter,
And undertones of distant lion roar
(Sounding, appealing to the sky's deaf ear—but now, rapport for once,
A phantom in the night thy confidant for once)
The first and last confession of the globe,
Outsurging, muttering from the soul's abysms,
The tale of cosmic elemental passion,
Thou tellest to a kindred soul.

ROBLIN'S MILLS.

On the 12th inst. a very successful festival and musical entertainment was here in the Town Hall by the friends of the Church of England. After a sumptuous repast, the meeting was called to order by electing Mr. Wm Anderson, Warden of the County, to the chair, who, in a few well chosen remarks, directed attention to the object of the gathering, viz., to render a well deserved token of regard to the Rev. John Halliwell, whose devotion to his work has won him the esteem of all who know him. A very pleasing feature of the assembly was the presence of members of all religious denominations and the heartiness with which all joined to make it a success. The performance of the local band, both brass and string, was exceedingly creditable, while the songs and recitations were all well rendered and choice selection. Speeches were not in order, but the short and effective one of Dr. A. J. File was well received when he announced the proceeds of the evening, $100, as a present to Mr. Halliwell. After a suitable acknowledgement by the rev. gentleman, a most enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the band rendering the National Anthem.—Com.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks, The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co s. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool,' they will be are of getting the best made.

NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

Judging by Mr. Fraser's remarks in the House the other day it is not the intention of the Mowat Government to use the appropriation voted by the House some years ago for the erection of new Parliament Buildings. We think this decision an unfortunate one. It is admitted on all hands that new buildings are necessary; the present ram-shackle structure disgraces the Province as much and more than it does the city of Toronto. Even a fire-proof building for the protection of the valuable documents of the Crown Lands Department is not now mentioned. We do not think the country averse to the expenditure of half a million or three quarters, nor could the Opposition thereby prejudice any appreciable number of votes if they tried. Jealousy of Toronto is out of the question, as we cannot have two Provincial capitals. Belleville might as well be jealous of Guelph having the Model Farm.

A suggestion recently made, by the Toronto World we think, that the Upper Canada College block should be taken for the purposes of new Government buildings, is the best yet made. Instead of transferring Upper Canada College, however, the scheme would be perfected by abolishing the "College" altogether, as in this case a legitimate and natural country jealousy does exist. But let us by all means have Government buildings worthy of this great, prosperous, and wealthy Province.

BISHOP AND CURATE.

Following is a copy of a letter from Bishop Lewis to Rev. Dr. Wilson, dated January 19 in reply to one:

MY DEAR DR. WILSON—On receipt of yours of the 12th inst., I forward it to the Rector of Kingston. He replied as follows:

"I do not see the least advantage to be gained on one side or on the other by examining details. It simply amounts to this, 'He will and he wont.' Therefore my decision is that he cannot return here as Curate of Kingston."

I cannot bring any pressure on your late Rector to bring about your reinstatement as Curate, for many reasons, because I do not see how you can with any self respect or regard to honor, accede to the condition imposed by the Dean, viz., that you should give up all connection with the Salvation Army. It is not merely that you pledged yourself to "nail your colors to the mast," but that you had a direct revelation from God's Holy Spirit forbidding you to do so—that is, to withdraw from the grotesque in the Army performances. I had hoped that you were betrayed into your eccentricity by cerebral excitement—which is the verdict of the Infidel papers—but I see now that you intend to persevere in the course you have adopted. Of one thing you may be sure, I am intensely grieved, and saddened beyond my power of expression. I am as ever,

Faithfully yours,
J. T. ONTARIO,

Rev. Henry Wilson, D.D.

THE RALWAY QUESTION.

(From our own Correspondent.)

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—A general meeting of the Board of Trade is now in progress considering the following resolution:—"That whereas in the correspondence under the date of Feb. 7th, between Mr. Hickson and Sir John Macdonald, a proposition is made in the following terms:—'That there might be an exchange of the North Shore line for lines owned by the C. P. R. Railway, (or those controlling that Company) in Ontario.' Therefore be it resolved that this Board views with alarm any approach towards a monopoly of the railway lines of Ontario by the Grand Trunk or any other railway company, and would respectfully urge upon the Government to protect the interests of the country by preventing the amalgamation of competing lines."

THE SOUDAN REVOLT.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Matters in the Saudan are still improving. Admiral Hewitt has succeeded in establishing tranquility and contentment among the natives at Suakim. General Gordon has summoned the tribal chiefs to meet him at Khartoum. Tokar is well supplied with food, but has only bad water, and ammunition is scarce. It is, however, believed that the garrison will be able to hold out until relieved. The rebels are reported to be massing strongly near Tokar, with the object of capturing it, and also Saukim, before the British troops can arrive, of whose intended coming the enemy are fully aware. The abandoment of the Soudan will be formally protested against by Turkey.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—This city was the scene yesterday of a terrible gunpowder explosion, in which two persons lost their lives in a horrible manner and a third was fearfully injured. The catastrophe was caused by a clerk throwing a match with which he had lit his pipe carelessly down on the flat of the wholesale hardware store of Hobbs & Co., where the gunpowder was kept.

HARDLY TRUE,

A well-known clergyman in the north of England entertained recently a brother clergyman from some distance. The evening being unpropitious, he asked him to remain for the night. At dusk the clergyman asked his guest to step into the manse while he gave orders to have his conveyance ready in the morning. As the visitor entered the manse the clergyman's wife mistook him in the dusk for husband, and, seizing the pulpit Bible which was on the lobby table, brought the full weight of it across his shoulder, exclaming emphatically, 'Take that for asking the ugly wretch to stay all night.'

GLADSTONE'S WONDROUS ORATORY.

A London cable despatch says:—Great is the tongue of Gladstone, and with one speech he has absolutely revolutionized the situation. Up to last Tuesday the position of the Cabinet was miserably bald. The Liberals howled as loudly against them as the Consevative press. Their supporters were openly mutinous or mourned in abject depression, Even the most faithful could not pluck up courage to give Gladstone anything but a faint cheer. The Conservatives were noisy and exultant, and just before Gladstone arose on Tuesday the capture of Sinkat apparently filled the Ministerial cup of humiliation to overflowing. When the Premier sat down the liberal ranks were closed up in one solid body, and the Conservatives were once more flabby and forlorn, Not more than five or six Liberals were expected to shirk voting, and the conclusion of the fight became at once so foregone that though the talk was kept up, there has not been one good speech in the attack on the Ministry eversince.

LOCKED OUT OF CHURCH.

Senior Deacon James W. Banney, and his fellow deacons and members of the New York Madison Avenue Congregational Church, who called a meeting of church members only for Friday night, met on the church steps promptly at 8 o'clock and found themselves locked out. Brother Dewitt tried all the doors and found them locked. The Newman trustees had changed all the locks on the doors because they found that Sexton Senior was in sympathy with the anti-Newman party. The utmost precautions were taken to prevent the anti-Newman folks from getting into the building, which was guarded by a section of policemen from Capt. Hooker's Nineteenth sub-precinct. It was said that the Newman trustees had a special force garrisoning the church as well to thwart any attempt to force an entrance.

Mrs. A. Nicoo, Brantford writes: 'I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years, Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankfull to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and langud feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

JOHN BROWN'S ROOMS.

The Queen has decided to close the rooms at Windsor Castle which were occupied by John Brown during the last few years of his life; and they are to be kept permanently shut up as a sort of tribute to the memory of 'the Highlander.' It is intended to place a large brass plate in his sitting room, which will bear an inscription recording his virtues and deploring his loss.

DID SHE DIE

"No; she lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years, the doctors doing her no good; and at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about. Indeed! Indeed! how thankful we should be for that medicine.'

THE PREACHER ACTOR.

REV. GEORGE C. MILN AS HAMLET IN THE BROOKLYN ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

When George C. Miln, lately the Rev. George C. Miln of Chicago, stood out upon the broad stage of the Brooklyn Academy of Music last week, dressed in sable tights and a short black jacket, as Hamlet, an audience that filled the parquet and balconies and most of the proscenium boxes applauded him to the echo. His face was clean shaven, and his long raven hair hung in a straight loose mass on his neck. In declaiming he shook his hair as a lion shakes his mane, lifting his coal black eyebrows at the same time. Hundreds of opera glasses were leveled at him by women who studied his features with great persistency, and cordially clapped their gloved hands whenever he spoke a familiar declamatory passage.

There was nothing in Mr. Miln's performance that suggested that he had once been a parson. His declamation at times was strikingly like Henry Irving, while his actions and method and general make up seemed to indicate that he had modelled the part after Booth's conception of it. He made an interesting melancholy Dane, and was aided in winning the good will of the audience by Miss Lettie Allen, who gave a very agreeable impersonation of Ophelia, and O. H. Barr as Laertes. Some in the audience smiled when Ophelia repeated to Laertes the line:

But good my brother,
Do not as some ungracious pastors do,
Show us the steep and thorny way to heaven.

LEAP YEAR IN SPAIN.

I noticed that a Spanish girl of my acquaintance held her fan half open.

I asked the philosophy of the thing.

'Why, you wouldn't have me hold it any surprise.

'What difference does it make?'

other way, would you?' she said, with mild

'All the difference. If I keep it closed it means I hate you.'

'Heaven forbid!'

'And if I open it wide it means I l-o-v-e y-o-u.'

As she then began to open it I fled.

THE SOUDAN REVOLT.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Gen. Gordon has issued a proclamation at Khartoum recognizing El Mehdi as Sultan of Kordofan and granting other privileges, with which the Arabs are much pleased. The rebels are hotly pressing Tokar, the commander of which has enough supplies to last till the end of the month, but wants arms and ammunition. El Mehdi is stated to be in great fear of assassination, rigorous restrictions being observed in the case of visitors. It is expected that a decisive battle will be fought on Sunday.

JAY-EYE-SEE IN DOUBLE HARNESS.

On Thursday the famous little trotter, Jay-Eye-See, was hitched to the pole with Ellen Sprague and driven by Edwin Bither. It is the first time the animal has been in harness since last fall. No person, to look at the horse as he was being driven along on that day, would imagine that he was the fastest in the world. He is very small and inferior looking animal at a distance, but upon close inspection the fine points can be seen at a glance. Bither says the wonder is in perfect health and condition. Next season, if everything is right, he will drive Jay-Eye-See one mile in less than 2:10. One gentleman who stood on the street and observed Bither drive by with the team wanted to know "what little plug that was on the left hand side." He was almost paralyzed when informed that he could not purchase that plug for $100,000, and that it was Jay-Eye-See.—Milwaukee paper.

CERTAINLY NOT GREAT.

Whether Miss Anderson is a great actress is a ques tion open to discussion. No one, however, can deny that she is an exceedingly clever young lady. Her telegram to America, informing her fellow-citizens that, being wedded to her pot, she does not intend to marry the Duke of Portland, could not have been surpassed had she been a daughter of Mr. Barnum. All the sons of Her Majesty are now married, or, of course, the name of one of them have replaced that of the Duke Labourchere.

So extraordinarily mild has been the weather in England that an ascent of Snowdon Wales, was made Jan. 6 a feat almost unprecedented. No snow was visible.

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective,

STAGE NOTES.

Prepared for the Ontario.

LOCAL.

The spectacular sensation will be put on the stage of the Opera House to-night. Proper arrangements for seating the crowd should be made.

The Holmans, who are booked for the Opera House, are rehearsing a musical comedy in two acts by the late Canadian comedian, Joe H. Banks, entitled "Bubbles." Those who had the privilege of a private hearing prognosticate a great success. Boston Brown, the manager, is very enthusiastic.

GENERAL.

Miss Nilsson will return to London in July to sing in concerts.

The Vokeses propose to make a tour of America in the spring.

Lotta returns to this country in time to open her regular season for September.

Lester Wallack continues to live in Florida. His "touch of the gout" proves to be paralysis.

The comedian who does not give an imitation of Henry Irving is now the favorite in New York.

Joe Emmett failed to catch on in New York as heretofore. The people are evidently dropping the bold "Fritz."

Minnie Palmer's first engagement in New York after her return from England will be played in October next.

Bandmann, the German tragedian, has returned to New York. He has made a dramatic tour round the world.

Sarah Bernhardt is likely to revisit the United States next season for a short time under the management of Henry E. Abbey.

It is said that Bartley Campbell's new play—"Seperation"—will run one hundred nights at the Union Square on its merits.

A new melo-drama by Robt. Buchanan is now running at Wallack's Star Theatre, New York, called "Lady Clare." It is a success.

Fred. Warde has purchased a tragedy written by Henry Guy Carleton, the editor of Life, called "Memnon," and will prepare it this season.

Mary Anderson has offered Mr. Gilbert £2,000 for the copywright of "Comedy and Tragedy," which he wrote and in which she is now playing.

The Brooklyn Eagle calls Tom W. Keene, a "scene-eater," and says "he is simply terrific when he starts in." He is simply a much over-rated man.

Mme. Ristori will begin a six weeks' engagement at the Star Theatre, New York, beginning on October 6th. She was in her zenith many years ago.

Dion Boucicault's own company appeared at the Grand Opera House, Toronto, last night in Dion Boucicault's "Shaughraun" with the author himself in the cast.

The dramatic critic of the Chicago Tribune says that Ellen Terry has "a voice that is laden with some of the sweetness of a whisper and some of the softness of a sigh."

Mary Anderson says she will no longer accept valuable presents like diamond necklaces from admirers. This will cause a flutter and much disappointment among newspaper men.

"La Charbonniere," a drama recently produced at the Gaiety Theatre, Paris, has been translated into English under contract with the author for the Park Theatre, New York, where the title role will be taken by Agnes Booth.

A Cincinnati concert for thoe benefit of the flood sufferers by Abbey's opera company produced over $7,000. Nilsson sang for an encore "Give Me a Penny," and then taking a basket went through the aisles, assisted by Scalchi, Lablache and others, and took a collection amounting to nearly $1,400.

A GOOD COSMETIC.

The best cosmetics are good soap and water to obtain purity of the skin. But for boils, blotches obstinate humors and impurities of the blood, Burdock Blood Bitters is the best of all purifiers.

Health is a duty, Disease a crime. Use Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters and be cured of all biliousness or liver trouble. 25 cents will buy a large bottle.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

A Meeting Held Last Night to Organize such a Movement.

Chief Justice Sheldon, one of the most distinguished members of the celebrated Historical Society of Buffalo, met by invitation last evening at the hospitable residence of Mr. J. Lyons Biggar, Messrs. Thos. Wills, John J.B. Flint, C. Bogart, W. R. Smith, and W. N. Ponton to discuss the organization of an Historical Society in Belleville. Judge Sheldon explained in very eloquent and expressive language the many advantages resulting from such a society. Everything which bears upon the history of the country is gathered and preserved; a record and brief history of the old inhabitants, old plans and maps of city and country, showing old land marks, history of the principal buildings, collection of photographs and paintings of old citizens and residents of the country. A museum of all objects of interest connected with the growth and history of the country; record of marriages, births, and deaths. It was resolved that those present should meet the Murchison Society on Monday next and endeavor to arrange for the formation of the society. A great deal of enthusiasm was manifested which augers well for the success of the project.

TEMPERANCE IN THE SCHOOLS.

A petition to the Public School Board has been printed asking that steps be taken to introduce a temperance primer into the Public Schools of the city. The petition already represents probably 500 adult citizens of Belleville and as it is desired to give everyone a opportunity of sanctioning this important movement copies of the petition have been placed for signature at the following named places:—Post Office, Express Office, bookstores, Mechanics Institute and the newspaper offices. As the petition may possibly be transmitted to the Minister of Education, all who desire the children to grow up in the paths of temperance should sign.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

The public have a right to complain of the management of the Grand Junction Railway. The time table of that road is frequently changed and no public notice of the fact given. The Midland Railway would not change its hour for entering and leaving the Union Station, Toronto, until full notice had been given. But no treatment is shabby enough for Belleville, and consequently yesterday morning many patrons of the line missed the train only to learn for the first time that this measly road had changed its time for departure.

THE LATE EUGENE McMAHON.

Died in Belleville on Monday, February 18, of inflamation of the brain after six days illness, Eugene McMahon aged 30.

An encomium on the subject of this sad notice is not here required. All Belleville mourns the loss of one of her most gifted sons, in whose character were admirably blended those generous and manly qualities which so often distinguish his race. The death of Eugene McMahon is rendered sadder by the circumstances. Endowed with talents that would flatter the ambition of any man, he was cut off in life's green spring at the threshold of a career which bid fair to reflect renown upon his name and honor on his birthplace. But having laid well the foundation, he had only begun to uprear the superstructure when the inscrutable will of Providence interposed and for labor substituted rest. He has been given a chamber in the silent halls of death, and once again are we reminded:

All that tread the globe
Are but a handful to the tribes
That slumber in its bosom.

SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

Mr. McMahon was born at the old homestead near Albert College in the year 1853. His father, Mr. Michael McMahon gave him a good common school education and in 1868 he began his law studies at Albert University. In the year 1872 he graduated as B.A., winning honors in modern languages and oriental. Soon after he entered the law office of Mr. John Bell, Q.C., as a student and at Toronto a few years later he completed his law course. He began practising as Solicitor and Attorney in this city in 76, and up to the time of his death he transacted an extensive law business. During the same year he was married to Miss Sarah Ashton by whom he had one child—a bright little daughter of over four years. The deceased was elected at one time to the Presidency of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union of Canada, and for several years occupied the President's chair in the Belleville branch of the Union. His death was a surprise to nearly everyone as very few knew even of his illness. He was in his office as usual on Monday of last week and on Tuesday rose early to go to Toronto but, not feeling well he accepted the advice of his wife and returned to bed. Pressure of business, however, compelled him to transact some matters at home on Wednesday, but his illness becoming more serious he was obliged to remain inactive, and at ten minutes past three yesterday he breathed his last. The bereaved widow and family have the heart-felt sympathy of all in such a very sad affliction.

Mr. McMahon left a life insurance policy in favor of his wife for $12,000.

SIGNS OF MOURNING.

The members of the Belleville Legal and Literary Society assembled at Shire Hall last evening. The President being absent Mr. F. S. Walbridge was elected to the chair. The following resolution was unanimously passed "That the members of this Society learn with deep regret of the sudden death of Eugene McMahon, Esq., and express their sorrow by an adjournment of this meeting and that the sympathy of this Society be conveyed to his bereaved family in their deep affliction." A committee composed of Messrs. E.E. O'Flynn, J. F. Wills and W. H. Walbridge was appointed to draft a letter of condolence. The meeting was then adjourned till Tuesday 26th inst.

The front of the hall of the Sons of St. Patrick in the Centre Block was draped in mourning this morning out of respect to the late Mr. McMahon, The Society will meet in their hall at 9:30 a.m. to morrow and attend the funeral of the deceased in a body.

The funeral will proceed to St. Michael's Church after leaving the residence, at 10 a. m., where Rev. Father Donoghue will conduct the burial service.

BEE-KEEPERS'S ASSOCIATION.

MATTERS DISCUSSED AT THE MEETING THIS MORNING.

A meeting of the Bay of Quinte Beekeepers' Association was held in the Police Court room this morning at eleven o'clock, the President, Mr. Dempsey, in the chair. The following were present when the Association was called to order:—Messrs. P. C. Dempsey, President; W. C. Wells, 1st Vice President; A. McClatchie, R. A. Brooks, J. H. Ruttan, H. G. Stafford, 2nd Vice President; A. C. Mallory, T A. Chatman, C. Noxon, E. Benson, J. Adams, L. Sarrels, E. Caverly, J. W. Diamond, A. B. Mallory, E. Mallory.

The Chairman addressed the convention and proposed to begin the session at once by discussing any questions that might be asked, Mr. McClatchie acted as Secretary pro tem.

Mr. Wells gave his opinion on the merits of the different kinds of bees, preferring the Italian to any others. One important feature of this kind of bees was that the queen could always be found without much searching.

Mr. McClatchie considered that the Italian bees worked more hours each day than any other kind he knew of. Several others of those present expressed their preference for the Siparians. The President spoke of several good species of bees he had handled, but he had found them so disagreeable to manage, he had gone back to the Italians.

The convention is still in session.

HOSPITAL AND HOME.

Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Dunnet, John Bell, The Mayor, John J. B. Flint, M. Sawyer, A. G. Northrup, R. Richardson, and J. L. Biggar, the building Committee of Hospital and Home, held a meeting on Monday to examine the plans prepared by Mr. Sheard, of Toronto, for the new Hospital and Home for the Friendless. Three plans were exhibited. A letter was written expressing the view that if there was not much difference in price between No. 1 and 3 that the committee would prefer No. 3, but if a great difference No. 1. would be favored, a statement as to cost being desired.

"I had been for eight months unable to work and felt as though I would as lief die as live, through Dyspepsia and Indigestion, I weighed at the time of of getting a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure 130lbs.; used three bottles, and now weigh 165 lbs, and never was better in my life. It was McGregor's Speedy Cure that brought me around' So says Wm. Fell, Hamilton, Go to A. L. Geen's wholesale and retail Drug Store and get a free trial bottle or the regular size for fifty cents and one dollar.

HOLLOWAY STREET CHURCH.

Successful Tea-Meeting — Satisfactory Financial Statement.

The tea-meeting at the Holloway Street Church last night was a grand success in every respect. The attendance was good and the addresses were better. The tea furnished in the lecture room by the ladies was evidence of what can be done in that direction by those connected with this church. There was an abundance of everything in this line, and those present can testify to the careful attention which the ladies in charge of the tables bestowed upon them. After tea the audience retired up stairs, where several capital addresses were delivered. Rev. Dr. Jeffers, pastor, occupied the chair, and seated beside him were Rev. J. H. Locke, Toronto, Rev. Mr. Fish, Trenton, and Rev. Prof. Badgley, Albert College.

The Chairman congratulated the trustees and the congregation generally on the pleasant company present at their anniversary tea, and thought it was a significant sign to see them all unite so heartily in the work for God.

Mr. Dafoe, Secretary of the Trustee Board, gave a financial statement of the funds of the church from 24th of last February to the 14th of the present month, and remarked at the opening that the standing of the church was much better now than three years ago. With cash on hand at the beginning of the year amounting to $28.28, the total receipts up to the present time were $1,319.79, and the expenditure $1,286,12, leaving a balance on hand of $53 67. The interest, he stated, on the debt of the church had not been paid this year, but the Board hoped to be able to meet that with the proceeds of the tea-meeting and pew rents overdue. The total liabilities of the church a year ago amounted to $11,206.09, but this had been reduced to $9,790.00, leaving the sum of $5,396,33 against the church which is unprovided for. However, the Board hoped to have this satisfactorily arranged soon, which would place the standing of the church on a better financial basis than ever before.

Rev. J. H. Locke then delivered an address, expressing his pleasure at meeting with his old congregation again. As one of their former pastors, and one who knew of the heavy financial burdens and the many discouragements which the congregation had met with in the past, it afforded him peculiar pleasure to hear the report presented by the Board.

Rev. Mr. Fish and Rev. Prof. Badgley also spoke for a short time.

The choir, assisted by Mr. A. Wensley, who sang a solo in fine voice, furnished some splendid music.

CAUGHT IN CHICAGO.

PROF. OLDHAM, OBLIGINGLY CHANGES A TEN DOLLAR BILL.

"Where do the wicked go," was the solemn question addressed to a St. Louis scholar who answered according to his light, "Chicago," Against one of those abandoned citizens Professor Oldham, late of Belleville, recently ran. A well dressed stranger went up to the Professor, who was picking his teeth on the steps of the Palmer House, and politely enquired if he could accommodate him with change for a ten dollar bill. The Professor, ever obliging, dove into his pocket and fished out the desired change. Alas for human gullibility! When our musical friend went to make a purchase he narrowly escaped arrest for trying to pass counterfeit money. And the sadness of it. This amount constituted the bulk of the Professor's wealth. When he again found himself on the steps of the hotel little wonder that his reverie should run on the recent request of the polite stranger and his breast be filled with an unutterable longing to meet him "Only Once Again":—

Broke, broke, broke
On the steps of this hostelry
And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me.

A VISITING SUPERINTENDENT.

Mr. P. G. Gillett, L.L.D., Superintendent of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb in Jacksonville, Illinois, arrived in the city last night and was the guest of Mr. Mathison of the Institution here. He visited the various class rooms this morning and became acquainted with all the teachers and officers, and expressed himself highly pleased with his short sojourn at the Institution. Mr. Gillett has been for a quarter of a century Superintendent of the Illinois Institution which has grown until now it is the largest Institution for the Deaf and Dumb in the world with over 500 pupils and 31 teachers. He left by the fast express to-day for Montreal.

We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equal.

RELIGION IN THE SCHOOLS.

According to the report of the Minister of Education of the 5,203 schools reported, the daily exercises were opened and closed with prayers in 4,627 of them, increase, 126; and the Ten Commandments were taught in 2,789, decrease 4. While the Public Schools Act provides that "no person shall require any pupil to read or study from any religious book, or to join in any exercise of devotion or religion objected to by his or her parent," the Department has framed regulations of a recommendatory nature on the subject, with forms of prayers, in the earnest hope that school boards, trustees, and teachers may thus be better able to impress upon their pupils the principles and duties of our common Christianity. In 4,627 out of 5,203 schools, religious exercises of the kind recommended by the Department are voluntarily conducted.

THE MOYNES MYSTERY.

A Man Used to "Handling Cards" Proposes to Find Her.

As there is no tariff on rumors they are manufactured wholesale in the case of the Moynes mystery, but as each one is investigated they explode as easily as a toy balloon. It is now over a week since Mrs. Moynes was seen and no definite traces of her whereabouts can be learned. Yesterday a startling report reached the men working on the ice that a man named Cronkrite would produce the missing woman alive for $5. This being more absurd even than any of the previous reports, it was not considered worthy of any attention, but finally two gentlemen called on Cronkrite and asked him what he meant. He said he had considerable experience in "handling cards" and he failed to see that Mrs, Moynes was in the water. He said she was at Shannonville alive. They told him if he would get her he would be paid $1,000. He promised them he would, but of course he didn't.

QUEBEC'S DEMANDS.

At a large mass meeting of the citizens of Quebec the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—1st. Moved by Hon. Mr. Garneau and others, "That the citizens of Quebec without distinction of party give their entire approval to the demand formulated by the Government of the Province concerning readjustment of Provincial subsidy, and the grant of $12,000 per mile asked for as compensation to the Province for the construction of the Q., M., O., & O. Railway as part of the Pacific."

The impression is strong that, while the C. P. R. is asking for $30,500,000 more is just the time for pressing these claims.

Every observer who walks the streets of a a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STEWART.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

Ethel's heart beat quickly as she peeped through the side of the curtain, which De Langtobville had pulled back a little for her at the sea of faces.

The house was very full, and he was afraid that the sight of it, when she first stepped on the stage, would unnerve her.

'Don't be a bit nervous, Miss Ethel,' he whispered to her, as the last bars of the overture were being played. 'Forget all about the audience, and think only of Juliet, or if your thoughts will stray away for a second, let them stray to your father, who is sitting down there—you can just see his head from where we stand, anxiously watching you. Courage, my little nurse.'

'I'll try my best to do as you tell me,' Ethel replied; but trying did not stop the trembling knees and quivering lip.

'There's the bell to ring up the curtain,' exclaimed the manager. 'We must stand back a little, or they will be able to see us from the front when it rises. The time has come; you're not afraid?' he asked reassuringly.

'Only a very little now. I shall try to forget that you are Mr. De Langtonville, and think of you only as Romeo.

'Yes, that's the way. We shall have a most glorious triumph, I foresee.'

He stood by her side awaiting his cue, which shortly came.

And Romeo walked on the stage.

Juliet must shortly follow.

Line succeeded line, and the line she was to speak was rapidly nearing; at length it came.

Lady Capulet. 'Where's the girl? What, Juliet?'

Juliet. 'How now, who calls?'

Nurse. 'Your mother.'

Juliet. 'Madam, I am here. What is your will?'

Whose voice was it repeating Juliet's words, she wondered?' Not hers, it could not be, it sounded so strange. But soon it became familiar, and she lost herself in her assumed character, for, unaccustomed as she was to the stage, her strange dress, and the strange dresses in which her companions were clad, were as great an illusion to her as to any of the audience.

Neverthless, the little rest at the end of the fourth scene was very welcome, for the applause which had been bestowed upon her had confused her as much as her unwonted position.

De Langtonville whispered a few words in her ear, and her father smiled from his seat, and soon, with renewed courage she returned to the stage, and began to make her way to the hearts of her audience.

'What is you gentleman?' she asked and the question came pertinently, for at that moment the door at the back of one of the private boxes opened, and a gentleman entered.

The nurse replies—

'His name is Romeo, and a Montague,
The only son of your great enemy.

But not then did she know how the master's words chimed in with the truth, as she replied—

'My only love sprung from my only hate!
Too early seen, unknown; and known too late;
Prodigious birth of love it is to me
That I must love a loathed enemy!'

She sighed and rised her eyes to the box which had just become tenanted.

What was her surprise to find that the arm which was leaning on the red velvet cushion of the box, was the arm which had supported her to land from the sea-girt rock at Avranches?'

And what was Bertram Madely's astonishment to recognise in the mimic Juliet's face that which had so often occupied his waking dreams!

CHAPTER VI.

Juliet's triumph was complete.

Not only on the stage was her Romeo, but there, just above her head, and his was the face that was imprinted in her mind's eye as she uttered the thrilling words which Juliet addresses to her ill-starred husband.

Long, loud, and continuous was the applause which followed the final descent of the curtain, and the walls of the little theatre had never before echoed with such sounds of approbation as those which called heroine to appear before the curtain and receive the hearty assurance of her success.

The whole town rang next morning with tidings of the great actress who had come among them.

As for little Kinko, carpenter, sceneshifter, prompter, call-boy, gas-manager, and general hanger-on to the company, he was at a loss to find words in which to express his admiration of the new comer; and he held forth to such an extent in the top room of the 'Madeley Arms' during the whole day, that it is a wonder he managed to perform his multifarious duties at all in the evening.

'I've seen 'em, and I've known 'em,' said he, referring to his past experience of actresses, 'but I've never known nor seen a young one to take to it like Miss Vaughan.

'If you don't hear of her at Droory Lane, my name ain't Kinko—which it ain't, for Kinsbury is the name I was born to, but the gents says Kinko is quite enough for a man of my size.

And Ethel? Thoroughly tired out by the exertion and excitement, she proceeded to her room immediately on her arrival at home, and was soon sleeping peacefully, with a happy smile on her fair face.

'You are tired, my darling,' her father had said; 'sleep, and we will talk in the morning'

Morning soon arrived, and Ethel rose, and opened the lattice window of her room.

The birds sang their good morning very sweetly, and the air, laden with the perfume of the honeysuckle, which grew in the porch just below her room, was very pleasant after the heat of the night before, and she [illegible] just the window to inhale its full fragrance.

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

WHEN INVALIDS COME TO understand that in all diseases whether acute or chronic, inflammation or fever, the aim of treatment is to promote constructive work or repair of tissue and arrest excessive waste, they will stop bolting pretentious specifics and cure alls devoid of medical value, and resort to physiological, rational medication. No matter what disease has emaciated and debilitated the body, restoring nutrition is the only means of cure, and we have in WHEELER'S Phosphate and Calisaya elements of nerve force and tissue restorative that will benefit any form of debility, no matter what the cause.

AUSTRALIAN MINES.

Our Correspondent Spends a Day With Miners.

INTERESTING SCENES AND SIGHTS

(From our own Correspondent.)

LETTER NO. 14.

SIDNEY, Australia, Jan. 2, 1884.

In a previous letter I said something about the coal mining industry of Newcastle. Since then I have spent a day among the mines and miners and experienced the peculiar and interesting pleasure of being "down amongst the coal" and "amongst the dusky diamonds underneath the ground." 'Twas a rare treat and I can't refrain from telling about it. We made up our minds (Stewart and I) that we would not canvas that day (we are even surfeited with money-making sometimes) but would visit the celebrated Wallsend colliery, about eight miles from "Canny Newcastle." Arriving at our destination by means of a rickety old coach of prehistoric construction, we sought out Mr. Neillson, the manager for the company. There are forty different coal mining companies in this district within a radius of five or six miles, but the one I speak of is the largest—not only in all Australia, but one of the largest in the world. From the kind and genial manager, who showed us all to be seen above ground, we learned that they had been working this mine for over twenty-three years and comparatively speaking there was as much left as ever. They are taking out now on an average 2,000 tons per day, ann even at this rate it is estimated that no person now living will see it give out. There are two entrances to the mine—one for men and horses and the other for the trollies or small cars, which are drawn up and down by a wire cable by powerful engines. I expected that we would find a large hole or shaft sunk perhaps two or three or four hundred feet perpendicularly down, and that we would enter by means of ladders or buckets, but instead we just walked in through a long tunnel. The seam of coal comes nearly to the surface, and "dips" only about one in twenty-five. The seam is about eight feet four inches thick and this was the height of our passage, the width being about the same. The foreman was our cicerone who provided us each with a small miner's lamp. We are apt to think of the interior of a mine as being a large dome-shaped room, forty or fifty feet high, perhaps, and as large otherwise as a circus tent. At least, so I fancied—so the picture books of my early days showed them. I supposed that there would be two or three hundred men perhaps all working together and that the light from each man's lamp would make it light, and workmen and objects would be easily discernable. But "things are seldom what they seem."

AN UNDERGROUND AVENUE.

We walked in tandem in this tunnel, the walls of which you could touch with your hand on all sides, for over a mile in a straight line. At short distances along the main line other galleries would branch off, and far up these you would perhaps see the glimmer of the light from the lamp of a solitary miner, where for hours at a stretch he pecks away. Although at the time of my visit there were engaged about the mine 780 men, of which number at least 300 were in the mine when I was yet I only saw about 20 of them though I walked over three miles in these subterranean galleries. There were fifty or sixty horses in there also, yet I only saw five or six. They are used to draw the coal in small cars to the main line or station where a train is made up and the cable attached which runs them to the outer world. The lads, who drive these horses, are a marvel in themselves. They use no lines and with only a whip and a pair of leather lungs they navigate the brutes about with the greatest of ease and most wonderfully quick. You will hear him yelling:—hi! ha! hi! ha! whoop!! Git along! and hear the thud of the heavy whip stalk as it falls on the flank of the poor beast, long before you can see them coming. He sits close to the horse's heels on the edge of the tolly and you scarcely see him coming when with a rush and a roar they dash by you in the Cimmerian darkness, the horse on the full galloy. These horses understand the work of command full well and when the evil spirit at his heels yells "whoa back", he stops so quick that he nearly sits down.

A miner thinks his calling just a little more important than all others pursued by mankind. He is dogmatic and generally reserved, and forms a community by himself. The mine is a little world to him, and it is divided into districts and wards the same as a city would be. Here we are in the "Dutchman's Gully," now we come to "Magpie flat," and further on Chinaman's flat," &c. They are consummate beggars, and a large portion of them drink like—miners. No other word will convey a better idea. When a visitor goes down the mine he is called upon to "pay his footing." This means that he is either to treat them from a bottle you take with you or give them half a-crown so they can get it themselves. Well, as I didn't take a bottle along, and as half-a-crown a piece to 300 men would have been about $180 I didn't pay my footing in that way. Not but what I could afford it all right, but I didn't wish to aid and abet in such an evil habit. I gave the guide a ten shilling gold piece and another individual who seemed to be interested in us three "bobs" and concluded to leave the rest till next time. There were two places in here that bore curious names and fulfilled a curious mission. The miners call them and the name is not inappropriate although I don't altogether like it. They consisted of two immense furnaces situate in different parts of the mine about twenty five feet square with doors for fuel on all sides To each of these was a huge chimney or smoke stack which penetrated the roof of the mine (here 270 feet) and kept up a draught for ventaliating the mine. There were doors in some parts across the galleries and the suction to this furnace was so great that the door would be slammed too with force, although perhaps half a mile distant. Several men are employed constantly shovelling the fine coal into this prototype of the infernal regions from one year's end to the other, its fires never being allowed to cool. "That's the way we lose our men" said the foreman to me as we were watching a man at work with his pick and lying flat on his side. He had already worked a narrow place just wind enough for his body in tor about six or eight feet while over him hung a great mass of coal. At short distances in the coal bed there is what they call a "face" or smooth wall from which the coal falls when undermined to this point. When, say 10 or 20 tons falls down in this way, it saves a deal of labor and although attended with great risk is made use of by all the miners. On enquiry the foreman said they only lost on an average about one man in twelve months in this way. The miners all work by "pieace work" and in this way earn about 12 shillings per day. With wages like this they could not only live comfortably, but could save considerable besides. As it is the "pubs" get the most of it and the majority of them live little better than cattle. The Salvation Army is among them and are doing a good work in their behalf. The coal sells in Newcastle for 11 shill per ton and altough there are two score mines yet vessels frequently wait in the harbor two, three and four weeks before they can get loaded. After a brisk walk of about fifteen minutes we were again in daylight and after performing the act of ablution we hied us back to the city.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

POPE LEO XIII.

Six years ago to-day Gioacchino Pecci, the present head of the Roman Catholic church, was chosen to succeed Pius IX. That the choice was a good one has been proved by the events which since then have transpired. Descended from an old patrician family the future occupant of Peter's chair was born in Central Italy, March 2nd, 1812, or about three months after Mr. Gladstone. He studied at Collegio Romano, graduated in law and theology, and becoming a favorite with Pope Gregory XVI was named a prelate of the household. At the comparitively early age of 33 he was, in 1843, made Archbishop of Dalmacia and sent to Brussels as papal nuncio. In 1846 Archbishop Pecci was selected by the Pope for the dignity of Cardinal but death intercepted the intention and it was not till 1853 that Pope Pius IX bestowed upon Pecci a Cardinal's hat. Although Cardinal Pecci's influence was partially overshadowed by that of Cardinal Antonelli be was made Papal Finance Minister in 1877, and on the death of Pius IX in the following year succeeded to the See.

The administration of His Holiness has been beyond doubt eminently successful, and the recent visit of the Crown Prince of Bismark's empire was not the least of the many tributes that have been paid to the wisdom and diplomacy of Leo XIII.

LIQUOR LICENSE APPLICATIONS.

It would be well for all who intend applying for liquor licenses for the coming year to bear in mind two or three things.

The Act of the Ontario Legislature, under which they at present sell, has been endorsed and declared valid by the highest tribunal in the Empire.

The authority to regulate the liquor traffic has been declared to rest solely with the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Meredith has expressly declared that even if the Province had not the power he would favor an amending of the Constitution in that direction.

The admission has been forced from Sir John Macdonald that in threatening to disturb the Crooks Act he had "gone a little too far."

Mr. Hodge, speaking as Secretary and in behalf of the Ontario Trades Benevolent Association, advises liquor dealers to take out licenses under the Crooks Act.

The fact that the Ontario Government intends to vigorously enforce the Crooks Act as heretofore is well known and is evident from the fact that Mr. Hardy has introduced an amending bill.

The constitution of the Board of Commissioners under the McCarthy Act is irregular, as the Warden of a county or Mayor of a city cannot hold both offices.

The Tupperian style of talk about the great national character of the Canada Pacific Railway Company does not harmonise with developements concerning the North American Construction Company, into whose hands the Syndicate gave the construction of part of the line. The members of this Construction Company were admittedly Americans incorporated under the laws of New Jersey. Again, the anxiety of the C.P.R. Company to secure Portland or some other American seaport as its eastern seaport ill fits to this claim of the enterprise being purely national. The Government should insist on the Atlantic seaport of this road being in Canadian territory.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

GOOD AND BAD GOVERNMENT.

Quebec started even with Ontario at confederation. Now after seventeen years Quebec is in debt $19,000,000. Ontario has no debt and a surplus of $5,000,000. Quebec has been governed by Tories, Ontario by Liberals. Quebec has taken Sir John by the throat and demands better terms, Ontario wants nothing but to be let alone.—Ottawa Free Press.

HAILED WITH JOY.

The coal and iron duties are extremely unpopular in most parts of the Dominion, and their removal will be hailed with joy, more especially in the Northwest, as with a reduction in the cost of raw materials used by many of our manufactures, we might hope for a decrease of the agricultural implement and other duties.—Winnipeg Sun.

The Salvation Army, as conducted here, is an evil. The means it uses for doing good are evil, and it cannot seek refuge in the Jesuitical text that the end justifies their use. We say it advisedly that the injury done to the youth alone of this city, far overbalances the good accomplished to all classes.—St. Thomas Journal.

EXCITEMENT AT OTTAWA,

Indications of the Government's Narrow Escape from Defeat.

DISSENTIONS IN THE CABINET,

Hon. John Costigan Resigns His Seat.

(Globe's Correspondence.)

Ottawa, Feb. 20, 1 a. m.—The excitement here to-night is intense. The debate is proceeding, and the galleries are densely packed, but still, strange to say, there is not a French Conservative in the House, except two Quebec Ministers, Sir Hector Langevin and Mr. Caron. The resignation of Mr. Costigan and reported resignation of Mr. Chaplean have brought matters to a head. In room No. 8 an animated discussion is going on. The Bleus are assembled in caucus discussing whether they shall vote for or against the resolutions. Forty-two French Conservatives have bolted from their party and threaten to overturn the Ministry unless the demands of Quebec Province are satisfied. With the exception of Mr. Girouard, not a single one of the sixty French members has yet spoken in this debate, and Mr. Girouard is by no means a representative of his class. His speech only served to intensify the opposition of the Quebec rank and file to the local scheme.

Mr. Daly, of Halifax, is spoken of as Mr. Costigan's successor.

THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

A rumour has obtained currency that Mr. Chapleau, Secretary of State, has resigned, as well as Mr. Costigan.

[It appears from the vote that Sir John managed to cajole his French supporters into voting against the amendment].

MR. COSTIGAN RESIGNS.

The Mail of to day speaking of the resolutions:—"One member of the Government, it appears, sucumbed in a moment of weakness, and believing, no doubt, that the Government would fall, sent in his resignation. This was Hon. John Costigon, Minister of Inland Revenue. His place will be easily filled by a more worthy man."

In the eyes of the Mail the "worthy" men are those who blindly follow their leaders in the most outrageous proposition ever submitted to any Parliament.

DEATH OF A. W. LAUDER, M. P. P.

The Member for East Grey suddenly Expires and the House Adjourns.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Toronto, Feb. 20.—A. W. Lauder, Barrister of Toronto, M. P. P. for East Grey, died at noon to-day. He was in the House apparently well on Friday. The House adjourned without transacting any business, postponing the Budget speech.

Mr. Lauder was a prominent supporter of Mr. Meredith's.

THAT $30,000,000.

Some Opinions from the French-Canadian Press.

"There are folk who say: 'If we do not come to the help of the Pacific, it will not finish the road,' and shall we be any the worse? The syndicate tell us that they need $27,000,000 to finish the work, and ask us to provide it for them. If we refuse, because of their want of good faith and the little confidence which they inspire, we shall get the Pacific road finished by other capitalists. If the Dominion Cabinet had taken this position Messrs Stephen Smith & Co. would not be before parliament with a demand for $30,000,000."—Mr. Israel Tarte, in Le Canadien, (Conservative).

A VISION OF THE FUTURE.

What will the Province of Quebec be in twenty years? The Pacific Company asks millions from her to people the North West, and seeks a port in the United States from which to discharge its produce. The North West, on its side, wants to have, at any price, an outlet to the sea by Hudson's Bay. . . . Happy people of the North West! We have lodged and nourished them, and our children will live on the crumbs from their table or else die die of hunger. . . . No matter! Those of us who will have saved some remnants of capital from the shipwreck may make the best of our way to contemplate that radiant spectacle—a sea, for centuries believed to be inhospitable, covered with ships and fringed with flourishing towns. And those who remain to warm themselves in the sun on the desert promontory of Quebec will be able to earn something by acting as guides to the tourists who will come to visit our antiquities.—Le Quotidien.

DARING OUTRAGE.

A Young Girl Brutally Assaulted in Picton.

GIVEN HIS LIBERTY THE YOUNG MAN "SKIPS".

Picton, Feb. 20.—On Sunday evening as Miss Clapp, a respectable young woman, a domestic in Mr. Chadd's house, Main Street, was on her way to a meeting of the Saved Army about 7 o'clock, she was accosted by a drunken rowdy named Ryan. He first attempted to tie her, by means of her cloud, to the lamp post, but not succeeding he tried to drag her down a side street and partially succeeded, when she escaped and ran up in the hall, only a short distance, occupied by the Saved Army. She states positively that he attempted to outrage her, and swore out a warrant to that effect. He appeared before the Magistrate Monday morning, when his case was laid over until the following morning. The prisoner was given the privilege, in the meantime, of walking around town as if nothing had happened. He did not appear yesterday, and has skipped the town. Such rascals should be punished, and the public seem to think that it was hardly the thing for the Magistrate to give a person arrested on such a serious charge the liberty of the town.

THE LIMESTOME CITY.

The local paper that prints the following must have some faith in it:—"A big military man (not of Kingston) asserts that Kingston has more squeezable married women than any place in Canada.'

The Whig reports a case in which a young lady crossing on foot from Garden Island to the city was invited by some young men into a sleigh and driven rapidly in another direction. She at length managed to throw herself out on the ice and an approaching pedestrian frightened the scoundrels away.

A man known as "Spud" Murphy has been arrested on a charge of indecently assaulting a young girl named O'Rielly.

The City Solicitor has given it as his opinion that Mayor McCameron cannot fill the position of License Commmissioner without first vacating the civic chair.

A young married woman, separated from her husband, yesterday took action in the Police Court against a young man whom she charged with indecent assault. The case when the evidence was heard looked like one of blackmail and is still pending.

MAYNOOTH AND BANCROFT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Bancroft, Feb. 19.—The great amount of of business being under way this season among the large lumbering concerns in the extreme northern part of this county operates beneficially for the village of Maynooth, and also for the townships around. The different stores and artisans in the village are kept busy, and the farmers throughout the back country are now reaping their winter harvest, the demand for produce being good, and for teams it is far above the supply. Messrs. Bronsons, Conroy, Booth, McLachlin and others, with an unusual number of jobbers contracting under those firms are now pushing business to the utmost, as the impression seems to be that a thaw may now at any time set in that would seriously impede their operations, as they rely no longer on old fogies who have been much exercised as weather frogs both here and elsewhere, and have signally come to grief through the abnormal vagaries at the weather office.

The stores and mills at Bancroft feel also the benefit of the winter's boom, and the distress so conspicuous in our large towns meets with sympathy here, but not with the suffering so far, and the large amount of cash distributed through this community for the building of the Central Ontario Railway has proved a boon to the settlers.

The municipal council of Dungannon and Faraday seems to be of a peripatetic character marching from one place to another; its last meeting was held at Bancroft on the 9th inst. The Reeve congratulated the council in a neat little speech on his and their re-election to office, and gave a synopsis of the proceedings of the last County Council, commenting at length on the Warden dispute.

Great activity is anticipated in Iron Mining operations as soon as spring opens up as the Messrs. Coe alone will place 500 men in work.

PARLIAMENTARY NOTES.

In the Senate yesterday Mr. Bellerose enquired if it was the Government's intention to appoint a French-speaking librarian in the place of the late Mr. Todd.

In the private bills committee, the bill providing for the union of the methodist churches was passed and referred to a sub-committee. Bishop Carman addressed the committee,

In the House of Commons the debate on the Pacific Railway resolutions was resumed by Mr. Wood of Westmoreland, who was followed by Messrs. Charlton, Dawson, Paterson, of Brant Ross, Mullock, and Laurier. The house then divided on Mr. M. C. Cameron's amendment, which was lost by a vote of 132 to 62, On motion of Mr. Costigan the debate was then adjourned.

Mrs. A. Nicoo, Brantford writes: 'I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years, Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankfull to say that I have not been better for years; that burning, sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

SHOCKING ASSAULT.

Account of an Almost Incredible Piece of Brutality.

CRIMINAL NEGLECT BY THE POLICE.

Montreal, Feb. 19.—On Friday night Mrs. Grace, of 33 Hibernia street, a married woman about forty-five years of age, was going from her house to the post office about 8:30 p.m. to receive a telegram when she observed a man with a small cap and a dogged looking face following her. It was bright moonlight. The man did not speak, so she passed over the road to get rid of him, when he came and struck her on the temples with his fists, knocking her over, he then bounced on her and held his hand on her mouth to keep her from screaming. He rifled her pockets as if for money and as she had only twenty-five cents she begged him to spare her and she would give him a purse she had at home with $20 in it. He did no answer or say anything about money, but caught her by the hair of the head and putting her head under his elbow with his hand still on her mouth, dragged her down Grand Trunk street. She now noticed there was another man present. On passing the grocery store of Mr Berthiaume, No. 251, she observing a light in the windw, shook the door, but failed on calling attention. The man at this pulled out a dagger knife, and with a profane expression, threatened to put through her. He the dragged her to a back wall or fence—she was too excited to remember which—and catching her by the hair threw her down. she crying out, "Oh, I'm dead." He gruffly whispered, "When you are dead, I'll strip you and we'll see wheather you'll know us or not." Observing what she thought was some pity for her condition in the other man's face, she begged in pitiful accents, for mercy, asking him if he had a mither or if he was of woman born, he answering that he had a mother and was born in h—l. She then became insensible, during which period the ruffians effected their purpose and made off. When she came to her senses it was some time before she could recollect anything, and then she was as if in a dream. She thinks she met a young man with a light complexion and a dark moustache, and asked him to show her the way home, but she was in such a dazed state she cannot well remember. It was about eleven o'clock when she arrived there. Her body was all black and blue. Her two eyes were blackened and the blood was pouring down her face. She also vomited blood. She was put into a warm bath and mustard plasters applied, but for the next three or four days she was in a semi delirious state, and could not give incoherent accounts of what had taken place. It was a week before she was able to leave bed, and is still suffering from the effects, ann says she will never feel right until the ruffians are brought to justice. Her husband informed the police the next morning, and from various sources of information the names of the parties implicated became known, but instead of arresting them on suspicion the police took the astonishing course of waiting until the sufferer was well enough to make a deposition, and meanwhile the suspected parties have cleared out.

LIFE.

Look, the world tempts our eye,
  And we would know it all!
We map the starry sky;
  We mine the earthen ball,
We measure the sea tides, we number the sands;
  We scrutinize the dates
    Of long-past human things,
  The bounds of effaced States,
    The lines of deceased kings;
We search our dead men's words and works of dead men's hands,
  We shut our eyes, and praise
    How our minds are made—
  What springs of thought they use,
    How righten'd, how betrayed,
And spend our wit to name what most employ unnamed!
  But still, as we proceed,
    The masses swell more and more
  Of volumes yet to read,
    Of secrets yet to explore.
Our hair grows gray, our eyes are dimm'd, our hearts are tamed.

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective.

The Manhattan for March, issued to-day, has for a frontispiece, a masterly engraving of one of the finest pictures of the Spanish painter, Fortuny. Rafting on the Alleghany is profusely illustrated. There is an article on Egypt by Gen. Loving, of absorbing interest at the present time. The Manhattan is now becoming such a leading magazine that it cannot afford to present poetry of such doubtful merit as that in this number. The April number of the Manhattan will be enriched by contributions from the pens of Mathew Arnold and Julian Hawthorne. A paper on Edwin Booth, with engravings, should alone secure an unprecedented sale for the April number.

FRANKFORD NOTES.

(From our own Correspondent.)

FRANKFORD, Feb. 20.—A tea meeting was held here in aid of the M. church on Thursday. The evening was fine though quite cold. The tea began at 6:30 p.m. The tables, which were set in the gallery, fairly groaned with the the weight of good things. When all had refreshed the inner man Rev. Peake, the pastor, called the meeting to order at 9 p. m. and called on Mr. Wilmot, Reeve of Sidney, to act as chairman. The music of the evening was furnished by the Frankford choir and the choir from the 4th con. of Sidney acting alternately. Rev. Mr. Chapman, a former pastor of this circuit, delivered a pleasant and instructive address. The chairman then called on Rev. Walker, who after a humorous preamble, spoke for about fifteen minutes on intemperance, comparing it to fierce wild animals, and urged the people to do their utmost to banish it from our country. Rev. R. Walker then spoke instructively on character. Rev. Mr. Fish was the last speaker. The proceeds of the tea were about $30.

BEE-KEEPERS ASSOCIATION.

Interesting Discussion on how to Winter Bees.

The attendance at the meeting of the Bee Keepers' Association yesterday was much larger than in the morning and the session was an interesting one to beekeepers. On the subject of considerable discussion took place. Mr. T. A. Chapman, of Baltimore, got 15c. for extract and 20c. for comb honey, best samples, and 10c. for buckwheat honey. Mr. Sarles thought that the best way was to put honey in kegs of 100 or 150 lbr. Several of those present stated the price they had been receiving for their honey. Mr. Dempsey said that section honey was worth five per cent. more than box honey.

Mr. McClatcher moved, seconded by Mr. J. H. Peck, that in the opinion of this meeting 10lb. tin and glass cases and kegs holding from 150 to 200 lbs for extract honey, and one pound sections and honey boxes from 5 to 10 lbs for comb honey are preferrable for marketing ;

The resolution was carried.

WINTERING BEES.

The question of the best way to prepare bees for winter was next discussed. Mr. Sarls stated that he put a rack on filled with sawdust, and furnishes the bees with plenty of good honey. Mr. Porte opens his hives when the honey flow stops. Mr W. A. Roblin thought it a good idea to smoke the bees a little and then put a hole through the section so that the bees can pass through the combs in order that the bees can get through to the honey on the opposite side of the comb.

WHERE TO KEEP THEM.

"Where to keep them" in the winter was the topic for an interesting discussion. Mr. McClatchie stated that he kept his bees in a cellar built especially for the purpose, with a uniform temperature of about 40 ° in the room. He did not believe it was a mistake to meddle with bees after they were put into winter quarters, but he thought it better to leave them alone. The bees should be kept at least two feet from the floor or from the sides of the walls. Vegetables were injurious to the bees. The room is always kept dark. Mr. W. C. Wells keeps sawdust on top of his hives and ventilates the box from the bottom. He also attends to the ventilation and has found that the bees do better when kept a proper distance from the bottom and walls. Mr. A. B. Mallory left the quilt on the top of the hive. Over this and around the hives he throws chaff, and with proper ventilation he always wintered his bees all right. The month of April he thought was the most adverse one in the year to the bees. Mr. D. J Hawley was convinced that a cellar could be kept too dry as well as well as too damp. A few weeks ago he discovered his bees were disturbed. He placed a small a small vessel in front of each hive in the morning and by night of the same day the bees were perfectly quiet. Mr. Dempsey was opposed to handling bees much in the winter. They should be left as quiet as possible. His bee cellar was perfectly dry and thoroughly ventilated.

Mr. Allan Pringle, of Selby, read a voluminous paper on "spring management of the Apiary" which contained many points of interest and profit to the members of the association. The thanks of the society was tendered Mr. Pringle for his able paper, when the Convention adjourned until this morning,

TO-DAY'S SESSION

The Convention resumed at 10 o'clock this morning, the President in the chair.

In the discussion of spring management of bees Messrs. Edward Stafford and Searles urged the feeding of weak colonies in the spring. Messrs. Dempsey and Stafford did not think such a practice was a good one. President Dempsey advocated artificial heating under the bottom of the hives by means of manure pits with boards over the manure. This he claimed would strengthen weak colonies in the spring.

Mr. W. R. Lazier bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes: 'I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stables. I have used it for bruises, scratches wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gives the best satisfaction, We used it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., It is a perfect panacea. It will remove warts by parting them down and applying it occasionally.'

SIDNEY COUNCIL.

The Sidney Council met on the 11th inst. A communication was read from the U. E. Loyalist Committee on the proposed celebration. A circular was read from the Dominion Bridge Co. Mr. Bleecker presented the petition of W. J. Turley and others asking aid for on Michael Kenedy, granted $1 per week. Mr. Holgate presented the petition of Egbert Mott and others asking to be detached from School Sec. Nc. 13, and attached on Sec. No. 20 ; laid over. Mr. Bleecker presented the petition of Samuel Caw and others asking aid for one Richard Oliver and wife, aged 84 and 78 ; granted $1.29 per week until next meeting. Mr. Elias Ketcheson was heard in refence to road allowance. The petitions of W. R. Maybee and George Cleall were taken up and further laid over, the trustees in both sections opposing the petitions. The Auditors, Messrs. Grass and Farley, presented their report which was adopted. Mr. Bleecker presented the petition of Dr. A. Rockwell and others asking further aid for one Sarah Corsan ; granted. John White and John S. Dench were appointed Assessors. The Council adjourned until the 1st Monday in April.

NEWS FROM FOXBORO.

School Inspection—Broken ribs—Business Changes—the Levelling up Question Miscellaneous Notes.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

FOXBORO, Feb. 20.

The School bell gives a new tone to the village.

The new shed at the M. E. Church, Marsh Hill, was completely levelled by the great snow storm.

Mr. E. A. Dafoe has sold his interest in the harness shop to Mr. Austin Hubble. The business goes on as before.

About 75 of our citizens attended the funeral of the late John Wesley Sills at Bethel. The Rev. H. I. Allen, of this place officiated.

I expected long ago to be able to report the progress of the Union revival in this place but I cannot say whether the project will be carried out or not.

Mr. Calbury a young man of 20 yearr. while loading logs was thrown into the air. The binder struck him in the side breaking two ribs and otherwise injuring him.

Mrs. Chas. Ashley is visiting her friends north of Modoc. She will be gone some weeks. No doubt she will enjoy herself and return somewhat recuperated.

Foxboro now boasts of a livery stable. Mr Ira Simmons has purchased a number of suitable horses and is getting up vehicles, It is to be hoped he will make it pay.

Mr. I. M. Laird has disposed of his stock at Rossmore. This will enable him to devote his entire time to his merchantile business here. He will now be found behind his Foxboro counters which heretofore was an uncertainty.

Mr. John Johnson P. S. Inspector made an official visit to the school last week, and inspected both departments. He expressed himself highly pleased with its condition. He believes that Messrs. O'Shea and Burke are doing all they can to advance the pupils.

Your account of the pigeon shooting match, which appeared under the head of Sporting Notes in Saturday's Daily, was slightly incorrect. It was Mr. E. W. Ashley captained the winning side, whose score was 270, while Mr. Roote's team lost on a score of 259. Mr. Ashley himself scored 28 and Mr. Roote 26.

The Rev. S. Campbell addressed a meeting in the M. E. Church on the "levelling-up" topic. His remarks were logically arranged and well received. As Foxboro does not take so active a part in favour o the great Union Movement, and, as Mr Campbell's address failed to elicit an ex pression from those present, as to what they were willing to do towards levelling up. Mr. Campbell asked permission to preach to the congregation at an early date. He will face a full meeting. Mr. Holgate spoke on the subject and expressed himself willing to go in with the majority.

MR. McMAHON'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of the late Eugene McMahon took place at ten this morning when all that was mortal of the departed citizen was laid to rest in the R. C. Cemetery. There was a large attendance of citizens of all classes and the funeral cortege was a large as has been seen in Belleville fo some time. The pall-bearers ware Messrs. H. Corby, S. Eustace S. B. Burdett, F. Doland, J. Walker, and J. Coughlin. After leaving the residence on Alexander street the procession proceeded to St. Michael's Church where the Rev. Father Donoghoe conducted a very impressive burial service. At the close the corpse was taken to the cemetery.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

SHANNONVILLE, Feb. 19.—On the evening of Friday, Feb. 8th a goodly number of the many friends of the Rev. J. S. Bell, pastor of the M. E. church at Shannonville, according to a preconcerted plan, bombarded the residence of the above mentioned gentleman with heavily laden baskets. The rev. gentleman surrendered unconditionally and granted full possession at once. The junior portion of this social gathering led by Miss Clarke, organist of the village union choir, began to exercise their vocal propensities, while the matrons of the throng set about preparing the evening repast. About 7 o'clock the assemblage was called to order by the stentorian tones of Mr. W. R. Earle, Jr., who advanced to the chair of the host of the evening and on behalf of the committee presented him with an appropriate address accompanied with a purse containing over $42. The recipient of the gift made a touching reply, after which the tables, one glance at which would have satisfied a Delmonico, were promptly filled. This portion of the programme occupied considerable time as the guests numbered nearly eighty, and each and everyone seemed to manifest a deep interest in the work before them. As the hour of midnight drew nigh the guests began to depat, all, including the host and hostess of the evening, apparently well pleased with the evening's enjoyment, and "happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again."

Henry Clement Almonte, writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled ; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it. I began to use it both externally and internally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equal.

IMPORTANT TO TEACHERS.

The Committee of South Hastings Teachers appointed to make arrangement for promotion examinations, Teachers' Convention &c., met in the Inspector's office on Saturday last. It consisted of Messrs Burke, Stickney. Sine, Gardiner, Howell, Gerow, Hicks, Anderson, and the Inspector. The next Uniform promotion Examination will be held on the 26th and 27th of June. Candidates will hereafter be required to make 33⅓ in each subject, instead of 25 per cent. as formerly. The next Convention will be held on the 22nd and 23rd of May. The best available talent will be secured.

OPERA HOUSE NOTES.

The Devil's Auction appeared at the opera house last night before a large and enthusiastic audience. There is no plot on which the performance hinges, and the situations are made up of the most exaggerated absurdities, but as a spectacular extravaganza the Devil's Auction surpasses anything that has ever visited Belleville. The scenic effects were good, the costumes rich and beautiful. The ballet was fair, but the two first dancers were not good. The audience was more than delighted with the piece as a whole, and frequently attested their approbation by hearty applause.

The Royal Hand-Bell Ringers, of England, established in 1861, will appear at the Opera House next Monday, the 25th inst. They carry a carillon of 131 sweetly-toned bells and have a repertoire of 30 instrumental and 14 vocal pieces. The Hamilton Spectator says, "their playing was marvellous," and the Ottawa Citizen, "they gave a superb performance."

Manager Tammadge is daily receiving three or four applications for engagements for next season.

Every observer who walks the streets of a a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrop and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remody required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STEWART.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

The country, too, looked so green and fresh, that she determined on taking a long walk after breakfast, for she had much to occupy her thoughts.

She wanted to be by herself, even her father's company would, she felt, interrupt the current of fancies with which her mind was filled.

Fancies pleasant or painful?

She hardly knew which.

But of this her quickly beating heart assured her—she loved.

Yes, she could no longer disguise it from herself, and Juliet's words came into her mind as the breeze played with her flowing hair—

'Oh! gentle Romeo,
If thou dost love pronounce it faithfully;
Or, if you think I am too quickly won,
I'll frown and be perverse and say thee nay.
But trust me, gentleman, I'll prove more true
Then those that have more coying to be strange.'

And he, her Romeo?

There was hope for her if the poet's words were true,

'Love goes t'ward love, as schoolboys from their books:
But love from love, t'wards school with heavy looks.'

De Langtonville made his appearance at an early hour, and was most enthusiastic in his expression of admiration.

But you look a little pale after it, Miss Ethel, and the best thing you can do is to take a good walk. Go down the road a little way, and over the first stile you reach, and you'll come to a piece of country of a sort you only find in dear old England,' said the manager.

'You may as well take Ophelia—but no, we had better not bother you too much; and it doesn't matter, as I have announced 'Romeo and Juliet' for repetition. By Jove! I didn't imagine, down at Avranches that my little nurse would make the greatest success my company has ever had. The walk will soon bring back the roses to your cheeks.'

'You safely entrust the care of the domestic duties to me,' said her father, smiling; 'don't hurry back, Ethel.'

And kissing her father, and shaking hands with De Langtonville, Ethel set forth.

'What a strange thing,' said the manager 'that you should find the young fellow who saved Ethel's life at Avranches down here.'

'Yes; I little thought that Hubert's son—that it was Sir Hubert Madeley's son,' Mr. Aubrey repeated, 'who had preserved my child. We met him and a friend riding into the town the other day; I thought his face was strangely like—a face I had seen somewhere. I must have met him at Avranches,' he quickly added.

The actor glanced for a moment at his friend.

'I must congratulate you most sincerely on your daughter's success, sir. It was success in the fullest sense of the word; I speak quite impartially when I say that I never before saw such talent in a first performance.'

'And this young Madeley,' said Henry Aubrey, scarcely heeding the actor's remarks, although they were in praise of his child, 'do you know anything of him?'

'Not much, personally. I met him two or three times at the 'Madeley Arms,' when I was here last, and was very favourably impressed by the little I saw him; he's a good hearted manly young fellow, and very popular with everyone. His father isn't very much liked, to tell the truth, he's an overbearing unpleasant person to deal with, and there are some very ugly stories floating about concerning his youthful career.

'You may have heard that he came into the property unexpectedly.

'His cousin, who was heir, was shot by burglars, who broke into the court one night; shot clean through the forehead, and killed instantaneously, of course.'

Had the actor, as he carelessly rattled on, seen Henry Aubrey's face, his wonder would indeed have been aroused.

But Ethel's father had turned to the window during his friend's speech, and no one saw the look of intense pain which contracted his countenance.

De Langtonville continued—

There are lots of legends and stories connected with Madeley Court; one of them is, that whenever anything is going to happen to the family, a suit of armour which belonged to one of the old baronets, moves its arm, and there was a report in the town, when we arrived, that the arm had moved the night before. There doesn't seem to be a well-authenticated ghost, strange to relate, but there's an old rhyme which doesn't seem to have much reason in it, to the effect that—

'A curse will still on Madely stand,
While but one master holds command.
When there shall two acknowledged be
Beneath its roof, it shall be free.'

At the window stood Henry Aubrey, gazing vacantly at the idle country before him, but very busily with his mind's eye into the past.

The day is not sultry, and yet beads of perspiration stand on his forehead; he does not turn round, but says in a low tone of voice—

'This figure moved its arm lately, you say,'

'So goes the report, but I don't know who originated. I'm not given to superstitious fancies—no man less so—but I seem to have an idea that there is something strange at Madeley Court.

'It seems utterly ridiculous to believe the legends, and yet it is said that on one occasion Bertram Madeley saw the arm move.

'By Jove! it's eleven o'clock, and I'm standing chattering here, if I hadn't five thousand things [illegible] Then you'll be at the theatre about three? Good morning sir.'

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious (will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

Sir,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation [illegible] medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

WHEN INVALIDS COME TO understand that in all diseases whether acute or chronic, inflamation or fever, the aim of treatment is to promote constructive work or repair of tissue and arrest excisive waste, they will stop bolting pretentious specifics and cure alls devoid of medical value, and resort to physiological, rational medication. No matter what disease has emaciated and debilitated the body, restoring nutrition is the only means of cure, and we have in WHEELER'S Phosphate and Calisaya elements of nerve force and tissue restorative that will benefit any form of debility, no matter what the cause.

AUSTRALIAN MINES.

Our Correspondent Spends a Day With Miners.

INTERESTING SCENES AND SIGHTS

(From our own Correspondent.)

LETTER NO. 14.

SIDNEY, Australia, Jan. 2, 1884.

Next day we visited the copper smelting works in the vicinity. All the copper smelted here comes from South Australia from the celebrated mines of Wallaroo. The mines of Wallaroo Lake Superion, the manager informed us, were the most noted and produced the best copper in the world. The object of having the works here is on account of the coal and vessels coming for coal can bring up copper ore for ballast. There were one hundred men employed here keeping 18 furnaces in full blast and turning out about ten tons of fine copper per day.

But you are anxious to hear about gold! Is not this the land of gold? Most certainly! At present the best paying mines and those working on the largest scale are at Ballarat in Victoria and Gympie in Queensland, but still considerable of the precious stuff is being found in N. S. W. I say there is considerable, yet it is done in a very primitive and unsatisfactory manner. Although during 1882 there were engaged in gold mining in N. S. W. about 9,500 persons yet the machinery, plant and capital used were very meagre. A large percentage of the number mentioned were Chinese (about 1,400) and the rest no better. Nearly all the gold mining in this colony is alluvial and sufficient found in this way for the poor miners to eke out a miserable existence. There is so much of the gambling nature attached to it and so many hundreds of persons have been ruined by mining, that although now and again one succeeds in getting a bananza, yet there are thousands who curse loud and deeply the whole business. A fellow passenger by coach the other day from Annidale to Glen Innus was a Mr. Spiers. He had immigated here from Denmark thirty years ago. He worked for some time as a common laborer and then as a butcher. Finally in company with another they started mining, did well and is now a rich man counting his wealth by the thousands of pounds. A year ago he owned a tin mine. It did not pay. He spent large sums in prospecting and sinking shafts but to no purpose. He sold it for £30. Soon after the purchaser found a new "lead" and now they are paying a royalty of £400 per month. Just the day previous to my meeting him he had been at the first ceremony of crushing the first ore from near Armidale. It was pronounced by analysts and experts to be the richest they had seen in Australia. From four different assays it proved to contain 37, 40, 38 and 50 450 oz. to the ton. It will be understood how valuable this is when we learn that from 15 to 20 dwts per ton pays very fairly, and an ounce to the ton big. Putting it at the very lowest possibility of 2 oz. per ton, his income (from a one-fifth share) would be £100 per week. Besides this he owns several other gold and tin mines in various parts of the colony. The total amount of gold mined in New South Wales for 1882 was 140,469 ounces, worth £526,521 which would amount to about £57 for each miner engaged during the year.

The history of one gold field in the colony is to a large extent the history of them all. Accidentally or otherwise gold is discovered in some gully or flat—the news flies and down comes the miners like—I was almost saying "the wolf on the fold," but I have heard it before and I let it rest. Lo, now behold the transformation that takes place in a few days. Where nought but the Kangaroo or the Emu a week ago was to be seen, now the ground resounds to the tramp of rugged men. They come with their swags and billies, their picks and spades. Each man erects his tent and within an hour of his arrival is ready for work. Then follow fast the lecherous grog seller and the long-fingered gambler, the keeper of the billiard table, the sneak thief and the tramp. O, they are a motley host a crowd of the unregenerate and the great unwashed. Men's brains are fired with sudden acquirement of riches and money is squandered for drink and the air is blue with the ribald jest, the obscene song, the vulgar speech and the drunkard's oath. Still they come until the silent plains are teeming with life and from a once quiet and uninhabited place there are now perhaps a population of 25,000 or 30,000 men. The "find" continues for a while but a change comes soon the leads run out, the yield does not pay, first one and then another drops off and still another follows, till the once populous district is deserted and alone. No sadder sight excepting a battle field can be seen than a deserted gold field. All around in the greatest confusion lie the remnants of the camp. The embers of the fires, bottles by hundreds whose contents fired the brains of the departed, tin cans and empty boxes are testifying to the mutability of man. But sadder than all is the spectacle of the vacant and like sepulchres with open mouths ready to swallow up the unwary traveller who dares to haunt their lonely sight. Everbody unites in saying that the gold mining of New South Wales is only in its infancy, and that all that are needed are brains, energy and capital to do a paying business. But there are so many openings in the colony in which a man can invest without running any risk and with sure prospects of large returns that they let mining "severely alone."

In the northern part of New South Wales and about 200 miles from the coast, is the district of New England, where are to be found the tin mines of the colony. Two hundred and twenty-five miles of this district on horseback, 140 miles in the saddle on Christmas day. Some of the towns are not connected by coach and so I bought a horse. In company with the Rev. Mr. B—— I visited the tin minning village of Vegetable Creek and the tin smelting works of Tent Hill. Mr. Reed, the manager of these works, came in early childhood from Fredericksburg, P. E. County, Ont. He has succeeded here and has no desire to return to the land of his birth. Two large smelting furnaces were kept going night and day. They claim that this tin is of an extra quality. Large quantities of it are sent to British Columbia from which it again returns in cans filled with salmon. The process of separating the tin from the "slag" (which resembles lava) and of oxidizing the iron contained in the ore, &c., In company with one of the proprietors I entered one of the largest mines. We were lowered down the shaft by a steam windlass, for about 170 feet. Here the miners were at work with barrows and picks somewhat the same as in the coal mine, only on a smaller scale. It struck me as peculiar that this fer-de-blanc or white iron as the French call it should be so black in the ore, The most of the minning in tin here is alluvial and the ore resembles, very much fine gunpowder. Large crystals of tin, very beautiful, have been found some weighing as high as 500 lbs. Of late the tin industry has been dull but is now again reviving as new and important "leads" are being discovered. They are also finding some rich tin on the Murrunbridge and I met a man a few days ago who was looking for men to go with him to help to develop a new find there, There are several hundreds of Chinese about the diggings here who re-wash the old dirt from which the white man has taken the greater part. They make from 15 shillings to a £ per week.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY, is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks, The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co s. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

A MEMBER OF THE GOVERNMENT RESIGNS.

The resolutions upsetting the original contract with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and giving them $30,000,000 additional aid from the public exchequer have been carried by the compact party majority, returned as it was by such questionable means in June, 1882. It is more than probable that under a threat of abandoning the construction of the North Shore Superior section the company forced the Government to agree to the advance. The Government knew that an abandonment of this section would weaken the Administration almost as much as the loan and they preferred to chance the latter. It was a bold proposition, but the result has been disastrous to the Government notwithstanding their apparent majority. The elements in the Cabinet are at war with each other. Chapleau menaces Tupper and jealously watches Langevin, whose adherents in Quebec and in the House are protesting against the action of their leaders. Hon. John Costigan, unable to agree with his colleagues had resigned. That $30,000,000 of money should be voted in aid of a Syndicate reputed to be the wealthiest in the world, whose members live in palaces and travel like princes, ostensibly in order to complete the road a year or two earlier is an act which should arouse the people of this country to a sense of the public danger involved in the retention of the present Government in power. That it will retain the confidence of Parliament for the full term is exceedingly doubtful; it has already lost the confidence of the people.

POSTMASTER - GENERAL'S REPORT.

The number of registered letters passing through the Canada Post Offices during 1882-83 is estimated at 2,650,000. The postal revenue collected amounted to $2,264,384, or an increase since 1879 of 48 per cent. 148 Registered Letters failed to reach their destination, of which number 66 were misdelivered, lost or stolen by persons employed in the Post offices concerned, and in 61 cases out of 66, the value contained in the letters which so miscarried was recovered from, or made good by the officers found to be responsible for the miscarriage, but in the five other cases, containing in the aggregate $126, the amounts lost could not be recovered or made good. In the remaining 82 cases of miscarriage, 80 Registered Letters were contained in mails lost or destroyed whilst under conveyance, or were stolen from the Post Office, and two cases are still under investigation. The number or ordinary Dead Letters, Circulars and Post Cards received at the Dead Letter Office during the year was 620,704. The business of the Money Order System was marked by contined freedom from loss by defalcation. The number of offices in operation is 6,397.

THE DEATH OF A. W. Lauder, M.P.P. for East Grey, will be a loss to the Conservative party in Ontario seeing that he was accounted one of the prominent leaders. Mr. Lauder in private life bore an irreproachable character, and in his death Toronto loses a good citizen.

THE Grand Master of the Eastern Ontario Grand Orange Lodge said in his address at Allison, "what the ultimate state of the Bill of Incorporation will be time alone can tell". WHEN CANADIAN STATESMEN talk of advancing $30,000,000 to the Canadian Pacific Railway no better evidence is needed to satisfy a sensible person that Hon. Adam Crooks, late Minister of Education, is not the only man of unsound mind in Canada.

This is the opinion of the Buffalo Evening News of the men who are wantonly seeking to impoverish the people of this country.

IT MUST BE admitted that the exhibition of young girls in tights on the stage cannot help having a demoralizing effect upon the performers. No gentleman who sat in the Opera House in this city on Tuesday evening would care to see even a lady friend, not to speak of a relative, taking any part in such an exhibition, and the ladies who attended must have felt pity for the girl who chooses to earn a livelihood in this way. Such displays pander to prurient taste. The atmosphere becomes heavy with suggestive whispers and impure snickerings. We say the ballet can reflect to the eye the poetry of motion and please quite as well without a display of immodesty in young girls. Those who plead for the stage as a public teacher are bound to discountenance these undress exhibitions.

Mrs. A. Nkes, Brantford writes: 'I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years, Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankfull to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

THE OTTAWA CRISIS.

Mr. Ouimet on the Charge Against Mr. Blake.

THE MAIL SNUBBED BY THE PREMIER.

Sir John Again Takes Mr. Costigan to His Bosom.

THE RESOLUTIONS CARRIED.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21—The Canada Pacific Railway resolutions were carried last night by a party majority of 70. Mr. Blake again protested against their passage. Mr. Costigan declined to speak against them.

THE SLANDER DENIED.

Mr. Ouimet—Before the House rises I beg to draw attention to an article which appeared in the Toronto Mail of this morning, which I consider an insult to myself and the other representatives of Quebec, Mr. Ouimet then read the article headed "A base but unsuccessful conspiracy." Regarding those who I hope will act with me, and with this Conservative Governmennt I would say that it is entirely false; that we never had any opportunity of meeting and considering overtures of the Hon. Mr. Blake. I suppose the gentleman referred to is the leader of the Opposition, and I believe that the hon. gentleman has more respect for us than to do anything that would justify him in offering us any bribe; and I believe if we had had any overtures of that kind made to us the representatives of the Province of Quebec would not consider the question of accepting a bribe. (Cheers.) If some of our actions have looked strange, I may say that we have acted in a constitutional way, making to the Government what we consider fair representatives as loyal supporters of what I believe to be a just Government. I think it is fair to the hon. leader of the Opposition to say that no offer of any kind was made to us by him. We never expected to be treated by the Opposition or the Government as if we were ready to accept a bribe. Before I resume my seat I beg to say that I consider any attempt of that kind from the press, to whichever party it may belong, to intimidate members of this House on both sides, as an attempt to blackmail and nothing else.

Mr. Scriver—I wonder the hon. gentleman did not call attention to a similar statement in the correspondence of the Montreal Gazette and give it equal emphathic contradiction.

MR. BLAKE.

Mr. Blake.—As the House knows very well it is not my custom to notice newspaper attacks, and I should not now depart from that custom but that my hon. friend has spoken upon this subject, and as he has spoken as became him, I think I may say one word to them and him for the language he has used. (Cheers.) We have been opponents, he and myself for many years. We have not learned to agree with one another in opinion, but I trust we have learned to respect one another. I should have regarded it as entirely beneath the sense of honour which ought to belong to any member of the party if I had supposed he or those who acted with him would be open to such overtures or suggestions as the article the hon. gentleman has read have imputed, and if I had thought that they had fallen so low as to be so tempted I should have had too much respect for my own honour to meddle with such persons, It is true there has been base but unsuccessful conspiracy. It is not confined to the Toronto Mail, but has been participated in by the Gazette to cover with common dishonour the humble individual, who now addresses you Mr. Speaker and the Conservative members from the Province of Quebec. (Cheers.)

SIR JOHN MACDONALD.

Sir John Macdonald—I can say without a possibility of doubt that there has been no unconstitutional or improper pressure brought to bear upon the Government by the gentlemen alluded to from the Province of Quebec. Some of them have in exercise of this privilege, in exercise of their duty stated to me and no doubt to other members of the Government certain matters which they thought, as representatives of Quebec, should be pressed upon the Government, but to say that anything like moral or immoral is utterly untrue and errorous. With reference to my colleague who was alluded to in that article, his conduct is unexceptionable in every way. He is now my colleague, and I hope he will long remain so. (Cheers.) I would say, sir, that it has been said his resignation was sent in; that is true. For personal reasons not connected in the remotest degree with this question, he tendered his resignation, I regretted very much that he had done so. I hesitated, almost refused, to present his resignation to the Governor General. After explanations between him and me he withdrew his resignation, and stands a member of the Government, as he has done ever since he first became a Minister. The House adjourned at 3:10.

MONTREAL, Feb. 21—Rev. Parnell Le Bas Cross, pastor of St. Luke's, and Rev. Mr. Lloyd have resigned from the communion of the church of England. It is surmised that the difference is over that part of the thirty-nine articles which has reference to future punishment. It was felt, Rev. Canon Henderson says, that their views disqualified them from pursuing the work of the ministry in the Church of England as administered under the creed upon which they all based their belief.

GOVERNMENT SURRENDER.

Sir John's "Firm Stand" Yields to the Quebec Bleus.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER CONFESSES IT.

(Globe.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 20.—"John A. has surrendered to the Bleus" was the report circulated in the corridors of the House of Commons as soon as members and spectators began to gather for the afternoon session, and the report appeared to be well founded. It was stated that about nine o'clock last night Sir Hector Langevin went to his followers then assembled in caucus and declared that the Government were ready to yield to their demands," and he would pledge his position as a Minister of the Crown to the fulfilment of all conditions. The Government were, he said, ready to grant $12,000 a mile upon the entire railway from Ottawa, amounting in all to $3,600,000, to guarantee interest upon the $4,000,000 necessary to construct a railway bridge at Quebec, and to undertake also that the main line of the C. P. R. should be extended to that city. It was arranged that Sir John Macdonald should go the caucus at three o'clock this afternoon and ratify the arrangement entered into by the Minister of Public Works.

THE ACT CONSUMMATED.

This story was fully confirmed when at a few minutes after three Sir John was wending his way along the passage escorted by Sir Hector and Mr. Caron towards room number eight, where the Bleus were assembled awaiting his arrival. A general reconciliation seems to have taken place, and in about three quarters of an hour the Ministers returned to the House followed by their lately recalcitrant followers.

THE SURRENDER CONFESSED.

Mr. Blake's speech and amendment was apparently designated to force the Government to show their hand in regard to the demands of Quebec. The complete surrender to Quebec's demand was confessed by Sir Charles Tupper, who in his reply informed the House that it was the intention of the Government to ask Parliament at an early day for such grants of money as would enable them to carry out their arrangements with the Quebec Conservative contingent.

MR. COSTIGAN'S POSITION.

Mr. Blake purposes enquiring of the Ministry whether the Minister of Inland Revenue has resigned, whether he now holds office only pending the appointment of a successor, or whether his resignation has been withdrawn.

The friends of Mr. Costigan, say that his resignation was owing to differences with his colleagues on matters affecting the interests of the special class which he was supposed to represent, as well as in reference to the proposed additional subvention to the Canada Pacific Railway. For some time, they say, he has been dissatisfied at having his recommendations and wishes overruled by more influential members of the Ministry.

Hon. Frank Smith has arrived from Toronto, having been telegraphed for.

NAPOLEON THE GREAT:

HIS INFIRMITY REPEATED IN THE EXPERIENCE OF A LEADING PUBLIC MAN—TRUTHS FOR THE AGED.

(Syracuse N. Y., Courier.)

'How long has he been in the public service?'

'Before the memory of the oldest inhabitant.'

'And he has kept his name untarnished during all that period?'

'Absolutely!'

'He is a man I should like to meet.'

The above conversation occurred between two gentlemen at one of the leading hotels. The interrogator was from abroad the other resident of the city. The conversation had drifted into politics and Hon. Thomas G. Alvord was the man whos record and qualities were being discussed. To trace the history of public men who have grown old in the service is a task both interesting to the investigator and entertaining to those who read his investigations. It was with this truth in mind that the writer set out to call upon the man, about whom those politicians were so earnestly talking, at his spacious residence on Turtle street.

Mr. Alvord who had been and is familiarly known as 'Old Salt,' owing to his advocacy of the salt interesst, is now well advanced in years, being on the shady side of seventy. He has long, white hair and a snow beard which gives him an appearance both defined and grand. His voice is full and clear and the moment any person comes into his presence he cannot but be impressed with the inherent power of the man. Indeed he was endowed by nature with an unusually strong organization, both mentally and physically, which all the strain of public life, both as speaker of the Assembly and Lieutenant Governor, failed, for many years to in any way undermine.

It was during the year 1881, while Mr Alvord was a member of the Assembly at Albany, that he first began to feel peculiar sensations. At that time he was in the midst of a very important work, which was seriously interfered with by reason of the mysterious trouble which seemed to assail him. He felt uncomfortable nausea almost continually, accompanied by occasional violent retchings. History accounts that Napoleon the Great, while in the midst of his public career, was frequently attacked by an enemy greater than he had ever faced, which came in the same insidious yet violent manner as the terrible troubles that overtook Mr. Alvord, and are to-day menacing so many thousands of others. In speaking on this subject to the writer, Mr. Alvord said:

'This same bitter experience came to me again in 1872 while I was a member of the Assembly, with symptoms indentical to those I had felt the year before. I believe it was largely caused by my advanced years, for I had a worn out feeling that that was terrible. This conclusion is evidentally the correct one, for I was again attacked last summer while away from all cares and recreating at my Island in the St. Lawrence river. I experienced a painful sense of fulness in the lower portion of the body, accompanied by sensations of feverish heat or chilling shudders. All efforts to move my limbs or body were followed by intense weariness or exhaustion Those who have reached my years can appreciate my sensations.'

'And did neither yourself nor the physicians understand the cause or nature of these troubles.'

'It seems not entirely, for the physicians failed to relieve me and I kept growing worse. I suffered intensely and the only relief I could possibly obtain was by lying upon my back and this was only temporary.'

'But you are looking well and strong now Mr. Alvord. How did you bring about the change?'

'By using a remedy which is very popular and which I found wonderfully efficient—Warner's Safe Cure. Indeed it has driven remarkable in its power over me. I believe in it and therefore recommend it to others, especially to those who are advanced in life; who feel a breaking down when there is no necessity and whose lost vitality and manhood remind them of their increasing years.'

The interview then drifted to other topics, but as the reporter gazed at the man whose experience is so ripe and who has seen so much of the different phases of life he could not but wish that those who are suffering from the various forms of physical ailment, and especially those persons who are advanced in years, might see and converse with the veteran whose experience and knowledge have been so rich and who is so firm a believer in the efficacy of the remedy that cured him. There is no excuse for shortening life, as so many have done and are doing. There is no necessity for 'breaking down' early in years. Premature decay and death are a disgrace to our modern civilization. They are wholly needless and men or women who permit them when they can be so easily avoided should blame no one but themselves.

SPORTING NOTES.

A purse of $500 will be offered at the Kingston races on the 3rd and 4th March.

Owen Nolan, owner of the trotter St. Patrick, by Clear Grit, which made a record of 2:34½ at the Hamilton races last week, has been offered and refused to accept $8000 for him.

Mr. Gladstone is advised that Mr. John L. Sullivan is in San Francisco; but he can be had at any reasonable time. He can knock E L. Mahdi out in the usual number of rounds.

In the 2:32 class at the Ottawa races Olive, Brighton, was first, Little Walter, of Belleville, second, Jennie third, N. J. Fuller, Picton, fourth, and Alice Flint, fifth. Best time 2:33½. A protest was entered against the first two horses. Little Walter was first in the second heat and made a hard fight for the race but Olive managed by good luck to reach the wire first. There was very little difference in the speed of the two horses.

A correspondent of the Mail makes the following among other suggestions:—I would suggest the building of a fleet of first-class boats the same size, something like the fleet of 12-tonners, and have some good even races with the larger boats; as it is, there is hardly two first-class boats the same size. He hopes that the clubs of Toronto, Oswego, Kingston, Belleville, and other places will unite and form an association and get up a valuable flag or cup to be competed for by the boats of the different places by having one or two races at each place during the summer season.

Mr. Buckle who temporarily succeeds Mr. Chenney, Editor of the London Times is thirty years of age.

Mr. W. R. Lazier bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes: 'I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stables. I have used it for bruises, scratches wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gives the best satisfaction. We used it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., it is a perfect panacea. It will remove warts by pariing them down and applying it occasionally.'

OPERA HOUSE NOTES.

BELLEVILLE BY FAR THE BEST SHOW TOWN EAST OF TORONTO.

It is probable that the Silver King Company will visit Belleville shortly.

It is said that Mrs. Rich. Gardner of Trenton, will rejoin the Holman's, who are booked for the Opera House here.

The practice in the Kingston Opera House is, according to the press of that place, for the occupants of the gallery to spit tobacco juice on the heads of those below.

The Royal Hand Bell Ringers, who appear at the Opera House on Monday, are not, as many suppose, one of those ordinary bell ringing companies which they have often heard. The writer can vouch for this: that for an entertainment of high order and sweet melody this company are unequalled.

We desire to protest against misrepresentation from outside sources regarding this city as a show town. The managers of the Devil's Auction were informed in Toronto, that it was of no use going to Belleville, as they would not get more than a $200 house. In Kingston on Monday they were coolly told something to the same effect. "In fact," said the Manager to an ONTARIO reporter, "We were nearly making up our minds to go by Belleville." The smile with which the manager was counting over the receipts said plainer than words, that he was glad they didn't for the receipts were just $110 in excess of those in Kingston, and totalled nearly $600 a figure not beaten many nights in Toronto. Belleville is undoubtedly the best show town in Ontario outside of the three large western cities. The management of the Devil's Auction Company were so pleased at the result that they express their intention of returning here in October. In view of this the following paragraph from the Kingston News is interesting:—"For the information of the Belleville ONTARIO we might say that the Devil's Auction company will pay Kingston a second visit in a short time, when Belleville will be given the go-by."

THE CEMETERY COMPANY.

Action Taken on the Disreputable Condition of the Grounds.

At the last meeting of the Directors of the Belleville Cemetery Company. Mr. John Bell, Q. C., was elected President and Mr. A. G. Northrup, Secretary. A discussion took place on the condition in which the grounds and roads of the cemetery had been kept during the last year, to which the ONTARIO drew attention, the result of which was the appointment of a new committee on grounds as follows: Ald. G, S. Tickell (Chairman) and Messrs. J. Forin, Dr. Hope, Jas. Smith, J. Brenton and Sawyer. Stephen Burton was reappointed Superintendent of grounds. The public will look for better things from the new Committee. The directors will meet next week to pass a by-law compelling those holding plots to keep them in order.

METHODIST UNION.

THE BILL BEFORE THE PRIVATE BILLS COMMITTEE OF THE HOUSE.

When the Bill for the union of the various Methodist Churches of Canada came up in the Private Bills Committee at Ottawa, Rev. Dr. Rice gave a general account of the origin, progress and consummation of the plan, and was followed by Bishop Carman, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who said that with a few exceptions, the Church of which he was a member was in favor of the measure. J. J. Maclaren also spoke on the legal aspect of the subject, and said that the object of the Bill was merely to create a corporation composed of the different Methodist Churches. The objection against the Act referred to in the petitions were fully gone into by Bishop Carman, and the preamble was unanimously carried, the Bill being then referred to a sub-Committee, who are to go into all the details of the subject. No one was present to present the case of the minority who object to the union.

THE LIMESTONE CITY.

The merchants are organizing for a drive around town to-morrow the apparent object being to arrive at the Windsor Hotel in time for dinner.

Rev. Henry Wilson met his Bible Class, consisting of over 100, at the City Hall Tuesday evening. A large crowd filled the body of the hall.

It is stated that further letters from the Bishop suggest a compromise regarding the curacy of St. George's Cathedral which is now under consideration.

When the Queen's Own, of Toronto, are going to Ottawa on the 24th of May, people cannot well understand why the 14th Batt. should go to Toronto on that day.

Henry Clement Almonte, writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it. I began to use it both externally and internally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equa

BEE-KEEPING.

Best Method of Moving—Spread of Foul Brood.

The best method of moving bees was discussed yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the meeting of the Bee-Keepers Association. Mr. Stafford said he had no particular time for moving bees, but he did think they should not be moved during the winter. Mr. Gilbert had met with success in moving bees at all times. Mr. Dempsey had not been so successful, but he found on investigation that his failures in removing bees was the result of mismanagement,

The Association suggested plenty of room and fresh air for bees to prevent swarming A discussion took place on the relative merits of the different hives and the one which seemed to meet with the most favor was the Langstroth.

It was decided to hold the next meeting in May at Brighton. The convention endorsed the action of the Ontario Bee-Keepers Association in memorializing the Ontario Government to take immediate steps for the purpose of preventing the spreading of foul brood in the Province. The Secretary was asked to write the local members of the Legislature urging upon them the importance of supporting the proposed legislation on the subject.

A resolution of thanks to the local press for the attention which they have given the meetings of the Association, was adopted.

The programme for the next convention was discussed for a time, a resolution thanking the City Council for the use of the Police Court room, a similar one to the Secretary and President were passed and the Association adjourned.

LOVERS AT RIDEAU HALL

A VICE-REGAL BEAUTY TO MARRY ONE OF THE GOVERNOR'S AIDES.

A correspondent of the New York Sun, writing about Rideau hall, says: Two lovers are living there now, Lady Florence Anson, who came over with her brother, the Hon, Henry Anson, the handsome fashion-plate looking aide, is engaged to wed Mr. Streatefield, the other equally dainty and beautiful aide, and they are to be married in a few weeks in Ottawa. The Lady Florence is far prettier than Mrs Langtry, of similar form and finer features. She is not more than twenty, and bubbles over with laughing flood humor, Her fine brown hair falls in a silken cloud upon her high white forehead, and her big brown eyes are the eyes of a fawn illuminated with intelligence and fun. She sat in the senators gallery on the night of the great Pacific railway debate, laughing at the fun of a backwoods member, while young Streatefield sat beside her, leaning over so as to look into her eyes and feast his affection. He is not as handsome as her brother, but then her brother is not in love, though he must be soon if the Sherbrooke street girls in Montreal assail him as earnestly as they openly assert they intend to do,

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective,

The 'International League of Peace and Liberty' has obviously a very wide field to work in. It has memorialized Mr. Gladstone to summon an international conference to settle the 'differences that exist relative to the Congo and Ognee Rivers and their affluents.'

Every observer who walks the streets of a a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously administered Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

A BANKERS TESTIMONY.—For a Cough Cold or any Bronchial affection, 'Pectoria' in my opinin, is just the thing. OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

And the actor went off hurriedly.

His pace soon slackened, however.

'I can't make Aubrey out,' he said to himself; 'can't make him out at all. He looked awfully queer when I left, and while I was talking to him, seemed to take more interest in Bertram Madeley than in what I was saying about Ethel; I remember now, I had just mentioned the old baronet's death, when he was taken so ill up in town. No, I can't make it out at all.'

And sagely shaking his head, he entered the door of the theatre, at which he had just arrived, and soon forgot all about the real world in his arrangements of that mimic world which was to him more real than reality itself.

Meanwhile, Ethel had passed down the road, and crossing the style of which Dr Langtonville had told her, found herself in the open fields.

Very pleasant was the soft grass beneath her feet after the harsh London pavements.

And the sky.

Surely this was not the sky, if sky were London's canopy?

The wild flowers were so beautiful to the young girl's eyes, that it seemed quite sad to her to think that many of them sprang up, lived, and died in the hedgerows, without ever gladdening human heart by their quiet beauty.

All things seemed fresh and bright that morning, for all things took their colour from the girl's heart.

Ethel had not analysed her feelings; had not even put her thoughts into definite shape, but had only a vague consciousness that her heart was no longer her own; that there was one to whom even her dear father—fondly, tenderly loved as he was—must hold a second place.

A figure passed through the gate leading into the field where she was.

It must be he.

She had felt a strange certainty that they would meet this morning.

No; it was Saville, one of the company at the theatre, coming towards her.

He shook hands with Ethel.

'Taking a walk, Miss Vaughan? Best thing one can do. Theatre's terrible stuffy Nice morning, isn't it? See you this evening. Good morning!'

And he passed on, leaving Ethel to her reflections.

She had almost reached the gate through which young Saville had entered the field, when the measured canter of a horse smote her ears.

There was a gap a little way up the hedge, and for this the horseman made.

Easily the horse rose, and lightly it landed near Ethel, the rider swinging with each movement of the noble animal under him—the rider, Bertram Madeley.

He saw Ethel at once, and springing lightly to the ground, and throwing the horse's bridle over his arm, was at the girl's side in a moment.

'Good morning, Miss Vaughan. I am afraid you don't remember me'—how slight a foundation had his fears—'but I recognised you the moment I saw you on the stage. I cannot tell you how surprised I was to see you. Perhaps you do not recollect —'

'Indeed, I do remember, and shall never forget,' said Ethel. 'My father and I have been grieved that we have never had the opportunity of thanking one who so bravely and generously——'

'You make too much of the little service I was so fortunate as to render you. A young lady had strayed out a little too far, and a young gentleman assisted her to land.'

'A young lady,' Ethel rejoined, 'was on a rock, far from land, which would have been covered by the tide in a few minutes, and a young gentleman plunged into the water, and risking his life to save hers, brought her to the shore which she had never thought to feel again beneath her feet.

The young lady could not then thank her generous preserver, but now she does so from the bottom of her heart.'

Quite unconsciously Ethel stretched out her hand, and the young man held it reverently in his own for a moment.

He had been a little disappointed the proceeding night, to find the object of his dreams on the stage.

But when he spoke to her, and heard her fresh, sweet voice, and looked into her gentle face, he felt that she was worthy of the love his heart was more than ready to bestow.

He knew, also, that Ethel's version of the occurrence was the true one; that there had been danger in the attempt to support his burden through the wide expanse of water, for, narrow as it may have seemed to a spectator, it was wide when each yard of the distance had to be contested.

'My father has been most anxious to see you, and to try and tell you how grateful he is to you, Mr. Madeley,' said Ethel.

'I shall be most happy to call if you will kindly permit me, Miss Vaughan. You know my name, I see?'

Know his name?

Know the name of Bertram Madeley?

Why, it was as familiar to her as her own.

She had known it ever since yesterday!

'I heard someone on the stage mention it,' she answered, with a blush, 'when you were in the box last night.'

'You recognised me?' he asked.

'Oh, immediately,' she replied.

I had no idea you were an actress, Miss Vaughan, when I had the pleasure of meeting you Avranches,' said Bertram.

'I was not, then,' she replied, 'and, indeed had no thought that I ever should be. Last night was my first appearance.'

'I am astonished. I should have supposed you had played Juliet very often from the manner in which you sustained the character. Do you remain long at Horstleigh?' he asked.

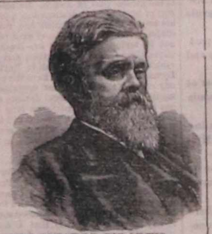
Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epidemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, billiousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is pidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength rritating the nerves, or depressing the Such as the ready means of saving or when afflicted with colds, coughs, is other complaints by which so many sr iously and permanently afflin mos tries.



THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

His Outspoken Opinion.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemn I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious I will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation eved when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we knew them.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state wity very good effect. WHEN INVALIDS COME TO understand that in all diseases whether acute or chronic, inflammation or fever, the aim of treatment is to promote constructive work or repair of tissue and arrest excessive waste, they will stop bolting pretentious specifics and cure alls devoid of medical value, and resort to physiological, rational medication. No matter what disease has emaciated and debilitated the body, restoring nutrition is the only means of cure, and we have in WHEELER'S Phosphate and Calisaya elements of nerve force and tissue restorative that will benefit any form of debility, no matter what the cause.

In search, from A to Z, they passed,
And 'Marguerita' chose at last,—
But thought it sounded far more sweet
To call the baby 'Marguerite.'
When Grandma saw the little pet,
She called her 'darling Margaret,'
Next, Uncle Jack and Cousin Aggie
Sent cup and spoon to "little Maggie.'
And Grandpapa the right must beg
To call the lassie "bonnie Meg.'—
(From 'Marguerite' down to 'Meg'!)
And now she's simply 'little Peg.'

LECTURE ON CONTRACTS.

Delivered by R. C Clute at Ontario Business College

"Contracts', formed the subject of a very able lecture by Mr. R. C. Clute Wednesday afternoon before the students of Ontario Business College.

That is a contract was shown to be an agreement to do, or refrain from doing. Simple contracts not under seal may be either written or verbal. Besides simple contracts there are contracts under seal and contracts of record.

The Statute of Fraud passed in the reign of Charles II, declares the kind of contracts that must be under seal. To make an executor liable the contract must be in writing. A regular guarantee to pay the debt or be responsible for the miscarrage of another must be in writing. Marriage contracts must be in writing. An agreement to buy any thing worth over $40 must be written, or to bind it a sum of money—say 25c. must be paid. All arguments effecting land should be be written and deeds of conveyance must be under seal. The discharge of any document under seal must also be under seal.

Any contract that cannot be performed within a year must be written, so also must [illegible] for over three years.

If you are obliged to enter an action to enforce a contract remember,

1st. That a simple contract not under seal requires the consideration to be proved.

2nd. A contract under seal is conclusive in itself without other proof, unless it was obtained by fraud or duress—that is by force.

3rd. A promissory note is also conclusive but can be rebutted.

The consideration in a contract need not necessarily be for money, it may be for a benefit, or may be the refraining from doing something.

One contract may merge into another, as a note, not under seal, may merge into a mortgage, a higher contract under seal.

In dealing with a corporation or company see that all contracts are under its seal. It speaks and acts only by its seal. a contract presupposes that both parties agree. If a mistake has occurred which is mutual, then the contract would not be valid. Or if an untrue statement is made, or something has been suppressed which should have been stated, the contract is vitiated by fraud

ANY PERSON CAN ENTER INTO A CONTRACT who is of the full age of 21 years, and is of sound mind. There is now nothing to prevent a married woman from making contracts, except those effecting land, to which her husband must be a consenting party. An infant under 21 may make contracts for the necessaries of life, but they should be ratified after he comes of age.

In selling the good will of a business the law does not permit a man to engage that he will not carry on that same business in the Province. It would be a good contract to agree that he would not carry it on say within 30 miles of the place he is leaving. It would be against public policy to allow such contracts.

In tendering payment of a contract it won't do to say "I have the money to pay you in my pocket." You must actually present the money in legal tender. You need not count it, or throw it at the feet of the person if he refuses it. If you offer it in your hand in presence of a witness he cannot afterwards make you pay the costs of a suit for it.

THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS makes simple contracts void after 6 years. mortgages on land after 10 years and judgments after 20 years. Any contract after right of action must be discharged under seal.

A debt that is nearly outlawed may be renewed for six, ten, or twenty years by getting a written acknowledgment from the debtor. This acknowledgement might be a reply to a letter stating in plain language the particulars of the debt.

The assignment of a lease does not release the orginal leasee unless the landlord consents to the assignment. Better in such a case to cancel the old lease and draw a new one.

CONTRACTS ARE DISCHARGED. by fulfilling them, but there are other causes that will discharge them. The alteration in a material part will make a contract void. While the holder of such a contract could not inforce it yet he might sue for the debt for which the contract was made. For instance a note given for goods and altered could not be collected, but the original debt could be sued for. Both parties to a contract may terminate it if mutually agreed to do so, or it may be discharged by accord and satisfaction For example taking a team of horses, instead of so much wheat, contracted to be delivered.

The next point touched on was the Chattel Mortgage Act. Mr. Clute pointed out how a man might buy an article from another and pay for it, and for convenience leave it in the seller's possession and return to claim his property and find it in the hands of the seller's creditors and he would be unable to secure it, unless he had taken a bill of sale or chattel mortgage in which he would swear that such bill of sale was not given to him to enable the mortgagor to avoid paying his creditors.

There is here given but an outline of a lecture which the learned lecturer occupied an hour and a quarter in delivering, and which was fittingly acknowledged by the students by a hearty vote of thanks proposed by Mr. Mykel, seconded by Mr. Knox.

A LONG TIME.

Fifteen years of suffering from the tortures of Dyspepsia is indeed a long time. A. Burns blacksmith of Cobourgh, was thus afflicted but it only required one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters to completely cure him.

THOUSANDS SAY SO.

Mr. T. W. Atkins Girard, Kan., writes: 'I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers.' Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by R. Templeton.

The reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfectly harmless. Second, It saves more than [illegible] the labor. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

A POLITICAL FORECAST.

Editor Tarte, of Le Canadien, of Quebec, which is one of the leading French Conservative journals, says in his paper: "The position of the three French Canadian Ministers in the Federal Government is critical. It is to be hoped that they will not forget that they can only conserve their strength by supporting themselves on the public sentiment of their province. The future, a not distant future, will place them face to face with a new state of affairs, let us say new men. Sir John is on the decline of his political life. Before a few twelve months have passed he will have disappeared from the scene. Sir Charles Tupper, it is generally believed, is in his last session. Sir Leonard Tilley is an old man which the next parliament will not see in its bosom. These three men disappeared—Sir John alone disappeared—Mr. Blake becomes the master of the English element. His talent ensures this. I am not now saying anything which I have not already written some time ago in these columns more than once. Mr. T. G. Huot, in making the biography of Sir Hector, foresaw and desired the union of the Lower Canadian chief with Mr. Blake, the chief of the Upper Canadian majority. It is by conserving their influence among their compatriots, by leaning on their province, that our public men will remain strong and will be ready for the events which may be brought about tomorrow. Their programme ought to be justice to all, for Lower Canada and for the others."

ONLY THE FIRST INSTALMENT.

It will be well in the future to remember the predictions of the Liberal leaders on the question of the loan. Sir Richard Cartwright said:—"I look upon this advance as the first instalment, but I very much fear the second, third, and even a fourth will follow. Here is a document called the public accounts. I wonder if hon. gentlemen opposite ever looked at it, or do they trust their leaders implicitly to manage the financial affairs of the country? In this book they will find among the assets $25,607,793.33, which to my knowledge has been there for twenty years, which represents a certain advance made to the Grand Trunk. Let the second line be left there and let the first entry in it be thirty millions advance to the Canadian Pacific Railway. (Cheers.) It is just 30 years as nearly as I can recollect since the Grand Trunk was appealing to the Parliament of Canada for concessions almost identical with those now asked for, backed by almost the same arguments."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

IT WILL BE NOTED that Mr. Robertson, the member for West Hastings voted for the resolutions giving $30,000,000 to the Canada Pacific Railway.

IT HAS now been proved that the great Brooklyn Bridge is to be a railway bridge, and moreover that it doesn't pay. The week before last the receipts of the bridge were larger than for any other week since its opening, their amount having been $10,866. But even if those were the regular weekly earnings the year through the sum obtained would not be enough to make the bridge pay its way.

THE Mail has asserted that anything which appears in its columns will be endorsed by every Conservative in the country, yet the first Conservative, the Premier himself, has just repudiated that journal. On Wednesday it called Hon. John Costigan a weak man, and said his place could be easily filled "by a more worthy man" On Thursday Sir John Macdonald said, alluding to the Mail's article:—"With reference to my colleague who was alluded to in that article, his conduct is unexceptionable in every way. He is now my colleague, and I hope he will long remain so."

THE PROVINCIAL BUDGET,

Large Increase In the Fees Payable For Licenses.

A CLEAR AND LUCID FINANCIAL STATEMENT

In the Ontario Legislature yesterday, Hon. A. M. Ross, Treasurer, made his financial statement of which the following is a summary.

The total receipts from all sources for 1883 were $2,439,941.42, of which sum the dominion subsidy furnished the largest amount, $1,333,569.42, crown lands furnished $635,447.25, licenses $96,460.50, public institutions $93,846.43, interest $76,578.28 the balance being made up from other sources. The revenue from most of the sources was to some extent stationary, but the revenue from crown lands was to some extent an index of the prosperity of the country. He regretted that there was a deficiency in the revenue from crown lands owing to the depression which had prevailed for the last few months of the year. There was also a deficiency in the receipts from public institutions. The expenditures had been $2,887,037,73. There had been an increase in some departments over the estimates for last year, caused by an over expenditure for civil government, the cost of repairs and furniture for government house, repairs to the east wing, and a new institution the provincial board of health. Also by an over expenditure from legislation arising from stationery and printing, sessional writers and repairs to the chamber. With regard to the first two of these, the opposition were as responsible as the government. With regard to the repairs no apology was needed. There had also been an over expenditure in the northwestern part of the province of $9000 or thereabouts, not $40,000 as had been stated by hon. gentlemen opposite. In his opinion the maximum had been reached in the cost of maintaining the institutions for the deaf and dumb and the blind, the reformatory for boys and the central prison, and in future years these would show little if any increase.

He regretted to state that they had not overtaken the requirements for asylums for the insane. There had been an increase in the cost of immigration owing to an increase in the number of those settling in the province of about 5000. There had also been an increase in the expenditure for the purposes of agriculture and arts of about $7000, caused by the adoption of a new system of collecting the returns. The total expenditures on revenue account had been $2,548,181, while the estimated expenditure had been $2,606,151. The assets of the province were $4,740,654,95 and the total liabilities $356,413,03, showing a surplus of $4,384,241,92. The provincial government had been under the impression that the act of 1873 had wiped out the debt of the old province of Canada, but the way in which the Dominion Government account is made up the province is charged with interest on account of it. The bill of 1873 was understood to explain the British North American Act of 1867, and if the views of the Ontario Government prevail there will be a difference in favor of the province of over two and a half millions of dollars. The Dominion Government had evidently made up a statement charging everything, just and unjust, that they could think of and many of these charges the government of which he was a member disputed. The surplus of the province had been in 1873 $4,332,294, in 1874, $5,756,352, in 1883 it was $4,384,241. They could safely count on a revenue from the sale of crown lands for many years and the receipts for the last year were only $15,000 less than the average of the past ten years, notwithstanding the depression of which he had spoken. The expenditure of the government in 1873 had been $2,460,212, in 1883 they were $2,548,117, while the average for the past ten years was $2,326,115. The difference between the expenditure ten years ago and now was only $87,959, or only three and a half per cent. The receipts in 1870 were $2,932,564, and in 1883 $2,439,941, while the average receipts were $2,534,908, while the population had increased from 1,620,851 in 1873, to 1,933,228 in 1883, or 18½ per cent., there had only been an increase in expenses of 10½ per cent. If a comparison were made with the province of Quebec it would be found that while the population there had increased only 12½ per cent, the cost of civil government had increased 32 per cent. The cost of legislation in Ontario had increased 11½ per cent., while in Quebec it had increased 21 per cent. The actual expenses per head of civil government in Quebec in 1882 was 15 cents, while in Ontario it was only 9 cents. The cost of civil government in Ottawa was 27 cents per head, and in Ontario only 9 cents. The increase in the cost of civil government in the Dominion in the past five years was 20 per cent. while in Ontario in ten years it had only been 10½ per cent. The Province of Quebec was making a strong effort to have their subsidy increased, and alleged with some reason that the subsidy ought to be increased every ten years, or each time the census was taken. If Quebec obtains what she asks for on this ground, Ontario as a matter of justice would also participate in the increase. The estimated expenditure for the coming year was greater than before and this was due to extraordinary circumstances, notably a balance of expenditures of previous years on account of colonization roads of $36,596.52, and from other causes. Coming down to the estimated receipts and the methods to be adopted to cover the increased expenditures, he said the temperance people had been agitating for a large increase in the cost of liquor license, and in the bill which would be introduced by the provincial secretary the following increases would be proposed: Wholesale licenses from $150 to $225; city tavern or shop licenses from $100 to $160; town licenses from $80 to $100; township from $60 to $76, and vessel licences from $100 to $125. From this it was expected that a considerably increased revenue would be received though there would probably be a decrease in the number of licenses granted, and this after deducting an allowance for the reduction in the number would give a revenue of about $200,000 against $96,460 last year. Then there were charges against the government for railways, and this year that charge would amount to $242,000, and would continue at that amount for eight years yet. The government propose that inasmuch as these railways were largely for the benefit of posterity, to take up the certificates now outstanding and issue new ones running for a longer term. This would make the cost for this year $13,105, and next year $26,210, and go on increasing until the maximum $154,883 was reached in 1902, at which sum it would remain stationary until the expiration of forty years, when all payments would cease. After making allowances, there would still remain a balance of expenditure over receipts of about $40,000. He then recited the work of the Government which had been presided over so long by his friend the Attorney General. He hoped, if he had the honor to present a financial statement another year, to show that the receipts from crown lands had largely increased, and that they were receiving revenue from the territory now in dispute. He also trusted the Dominion Government would pay them a larger subsidy, and that the questions at issue in connection with the late Province of Canada would be settled, and this Province in the possession of the large sum which was justly due. He moved that the House do now go into Committee of Supply. (Loud and prolonged cheering.

Mr. Creighton spoke for two and a half hours and the debate adjourned.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

OTTAWA, Fed 22—A sad story of the fatal results of over-indulgence in spirits comes from South March. It seems on Saturday evening last Susan Morgan, wife of Mr. Geo. Morgan, went to the "Corners," where she partook too freely of spirituous liquors. Starting for home she seems to have lost her way on the road and was frozen to death not far from her place of residence.

MADOC RACES,

Report of the Events Participated in by our Northern sports,

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

MADOC, Feb. 22.—The horse races which closed here last night were largely attended and considerable interest was taken in the various events on the programme. In the green race Mr. W. Coe's fine stallion 'Driftwood" made a good exhibition of speed and captured first money. Whittick's horse was second, and Bumblebee, of Trenton third. Lady Pike took first in the three minute trot, Clara C. of the same place second and Oyster Girl, of Campbellford next. The honors in the farmers race were awarded to P. Merns, S. Kimmerly and T. Reynolds respectively. They are called local men. Coe's stallion led in the named race also, with Simmon's Madoc Girl second and McNeill's third. The greatest amusement to those present was caused in the free for all. The blinding snow storm made it impossible for the drivers to see the grand stand, and instead of driving by it on the home stretch, the jockeys evidently impressed with the idea that it was time for refreshments, drove in an opposite direction. It was not long before the storm abated somewhat and the horses had a go-as-you-please to the wire,—Clara C. first, Lady Pike second and Oyster Girl third, of course the time in this heat was not officially recorded. Five heats in all were trotted. It was stated on the the ice that Bob Rollins refused to drive any horse that could not go to the front.

A COVENANT WITH HELL.

At a recent meeting of the Workingman's Temperance Association of Napanee an address was delivered by Mr. Thomas Flynn, the Mayor in the chair. Mr. Flynn believes that the agency of such associations are powerful to further the cause of temperance. National law, he said, requires that we should live honestly, hurt nobody, and render to every man his due; common law declares that no man has a right to use his property to the injury of another, and that the consent of the party injured is no mitigation of the offence. Let us all work and fondly hope that the day of redemption from drunkenness is near at hand. The Government may derive some unholy benefit from this wide spread ruin and sale of intoxicating liquors, nevertheless the entire traffic was a covenant with hell.

COLONIZING ONTARIO

At the recent meeting or the Ontario Lodge of Graingers in Toronto, the Executive Committee reported that during the year 1883 they had deemed it advisable to request the Ontario Government to set apart two townships in Ontario for them, as those who wish to have their sons stop in the country could thus obtain suitable land for them at a reasonable price. The Government has complied with that request, and the committee now ask that members be appointed to select the land,

THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

Scene in the House on the Question of Admitting Bradlaugh.

DEBATE ON PARNELL'S AMENDMENT,

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The House of Commons was the scene of great uproar to-day when the question of admitting Bradlaugh was broached. Sir Stafford Northcote moved that the House reaffirm its previous resolution preventing Bradlaugh from taking the oath and excluding him from the precincts of the House. After a stormy discussion the motion was carried by 266 to 173.

The debate on Mr. Parnell's amendment condemning the Government's policy in Ireland was resumed in the House of Commons this evening.

Mr. T. H. O'Donnell said England's safest policy would be to allow the Irish to conduct their own affairs. If she did not do so a large accession of Nationalists in a future Parliament might some day greatly harm England.

Mr. Gladstone said the country ought to know that the undue prolongation of the debate, to the hindrance of other business was the work of a small coterie against a strong feeling on a part of the rest of the House.

MAGISTRATE AND PRISONER BOTH DRUNK.

The following curious scene was enacted in the Mayor's court of a certain town in Lincolnshire: Unfortunately for the Mayor his duties on the bench claim his attention as he rises from the table. A man was brought up before him on the charge of being drunk and incapable. The Mayor, who had previously been smiling benignly around on the crowd assembled in the court looked at the man unsteadily for a moment with blinking eyes, and on the completion of the evidence said: 'Prishner, you—you orra be shame o' yerself! You'll 'ave a pay four and ten-pence orra month.' The man was removed by the constable, and the magistrate was assisted out by his clerk.—Pall Mall Gazette.

ADVICE TO EDITORS.

(Moncton, N. B., Transcript.)

It is always to be regretted that personal differences should be obtruded upon the public notice, especially when such differences are marked by angry recrimination. It would be a most unseemly spectacle if any two prominent citizens of a town or other community should frequently meet and exchange angry and insulting references to each other upon the public street. But it is worse still when those who conduct public newspapers indulge frequently in the language of street brawls through the public prints. The town and country are the school of the editor and he has a wider and more numerous auditory than the schoolmaster or the clergyman. It therefore he uses, needlessly, language not fitted for the reading of the gentle and the good he is doubly blameworthy in that he prostitutes a noble calling and obtrudes his improprieties within a thousand home circles who have no desire or wish to hear or read the language of angry quarrel.

HE COULDN'T LIVE WITH HER.

A gawky boy and a "gangling" girl were married by an Arkansaw magistrate the other day, and shortly afterwards the boy reappeared and said: "Squire gimme back them license." "I have sent them to the county clerk's office where they properly belong" the justice replied. "I'm mighty sorry, for I want 'em back." "What's the matter?" "Why, I don't intend to live with that gal. I never seed sich a creetur, judge. You see, her daddy gave her a cow, an' this mornin' when I went to milk the blamed thing, she kicked me heels over head. I wouldn'ter minded this, but my wife stood there an' laughed fit to kill herself. I thought I was goin'ter settle down in a life of love an' lasses an' all that, but the kick o' that cow opened my eyes The county clerk ken keep the papers if he wants to, but I wush you'd tell him the next time yer see him that I'll be dad blamed if I'm goin' to live with that gal.—Arkansaw Traveller.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if propery and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

THEIR QUID PRO QUO.

An Ottawa despatch says:—In addition to all other grants to Quebec in return for political support, Sir Charles Tupper has promised to grant $200,000 to aid in extending the Jacques Cartier Railway to St Vincent de Paul, giving independent connection between the Grand Trunk and the Nova Scotia Railway without using any portion of the Canada Pacific Company's. Rather than oblige his pet company to give up their dog in the-manger policy, which prevents the Grand Trunk utiling three miles of their track, the Government are willing to throw away $200,000 of public money.

Mr. W. B. Lazier bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes: 'I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stables. CIVIC COMMITTEES.

The Bushy Island Ferry Route Meets with Approbation.

Several Civic Committee met last night. The Board of Works passed the pay list amounting to $35.16, and decided to give Patrick Calley credit for $10 on his taxes.

THE HOSE QUESTION.

The Fire Committee endorsed an item of $2 from R. McCrudden for assisting in repairing No. 2 engine, and paid Geo. Roblin $12.50 for acting as stoker for the same steamer. A letter was read from the Gutta Percha Rubber Company, Toronto, endorsing a tender for 500 feet of their Maltese Cross Band hose at $1.15 per foot without couplings. After a consideration of the matter, it was agreed to defer the purchase of hose until tenders have been obtained from other hose companies.

A letter was read from Mr. Clarke asking $1,200 ($200 more than last year) for the property opposite the Commercial House for a fire stand. Mr. Traisch, the Chairman stated, had made a verbal proposition to him to sell the site north of the upper bridge or erect a building and rent it to the city. The chairman also added that Mr. T. S. Carman had agreed to place a turntable in the present shed used for No. 1 engine, and make such repairs to the building as to place it in a satisfactory condition to all parties concerned, provided he was given a renewal of the lease for another term. Several of the members of the Committee were favorable to the proposition to remain in the present shed, in view of the low state of the city's finances, but it was finally decided to inspect all the proposed new sites before any action was taken.

THE AMELIASBURG FERRY.

The Harbor and Ferry Committee considered the communication from Mr. Wm. Anderson re the ferry and the Bushy Island route. Ald. Diamond moved that no money be expended on the Bushy Island route and that the slip at the foot of Dundas Street be used as a landing. Ald. J. W. Johnson moved in amendment that no action be taken at present in this matter in view of the pending negotiations with the Government. The Mayor alone supported the latter. The original resolution was carried on the votes of Ald. L. Johnson, LaRoche and Diamond.

CITY MISSION ANNIVERSARY.

The 3rd Anniversary of the City Mission was held last evening, a stormy night, but a good number assembled in the Mission Room, Dundas Street. Mr. D. C. McArthur presided, the meeting opened with singing and prayer, after which Mr. McArthur read the II Chapter Ep. of James. The report was read by the Missionary and adopted. On motion of Mr. A. G. Northrup, Treasurer of the Mission, and seconded by Mr. Marsh, Mr. Northrup said he was acquainted with the work from its beginning. When the work started Mr. Schuster asked for nothing else than the co-operation of the Christian people of Belleville, and he and his wife started trusting in God, and he was glad to see such results after three years labor. He expressed his sympathy with those who must have had many difficulties in these three years of toil, but they persevered having faith in God.

He thought there should be a greater interest taken in the work. Children from the mission day school have come to other city day schools, Sabbath School children to different Sabbath Schools, and grown up persons can be found in almost all the city churches and in other Christian organizations, who were first instructed here. Mr. N. was glad that there was a financial increase. $222 was the net income this year for the support of the work, not as much as it should be. Mr. Marsh made a few acceptable remarks after which a Gospel Meeting was held, Mr. McArthur dwelling upon the subject of God's Love. Others spoke, and prayer was offered. A good and spiritual influence prevailed.

The services closed with the benediction by the Missionary. The children were then treated with good things. Most of of the congregation remained, enjoying to see the children eat, and at about 9:30 all went home glad and happy.

HAWAIIAN BEAUTIES.

The following description of Hawaiian beauties is dedicated to Consul Robertson:—The Hawaiian lady is a voluptuous, good-humored, soft-hearted, sweet-tempered, tender-eyed, merry-making creature, of a fascinating form and most languishing, longing, admiration-seeking, yet demure cast of countenance, with enviable advantages of physique in the way of teeth, eyes, hair, form and complexion. She has the ability as well as her sterner companion of discerning the laughable side of a subject and cracking a sly joke thereat. European education has greatly improved and instructed the gentler sex of Hawaii, but it must be confessed that it has signally failed to curb the exuberance of their spirits, or tame the impetuosity of their sentiment, or convert them into straitlaced prigs, they whose natures are as boisterous as their bounding billows of their sea-swept rocks.—Exchange.

THEY CLIMB THE TOWER.

Inspection of the City Clock by the Market Committee.

Yesterday afternoon the Market Committee met to inspect the tower of the city building and transact other business. There were present Ald. Petrie (Chairman), Vandusen, Graham, Pringle and Davis members of the committee and Ald. Hanley by request of the Council, gave the Committee the benefit of some practical experience as a contractor.

THE CITY CLOCK.

When the word was given to "proceed" the members of the Committee led by the Chairman, ascended the long line of steps, and finally reached that part of the tower where the works are located. The municipal legislators were nearly exhausted by this time but after the lapse of a few moments proceeded to inspect the defects in the tower. A large quantity of snow was found on the works and on the floor above several pieces of ice had formed from water dropping through from above. Above this again where the dials are the place is in a dilapidated state. Large holes exist in many places, while the snow is blown through the tower as freely during a storm as it is on Front street. As a result of this poor protection to the clock, ice had formed on the works and rendered the proper regulation of the clock an utter impossibility. Mr. Spangenberg informed the Committee that frequently—twice during this winter—he had taken the works of the clock to his store and remove the ice by means of hot water. Besides this he alleged that some person on Wednesday had tampered with the works by removing a screw which regulated the hands on the eastern dial. The dial on the west side, which had been broken for some time, was examined and found not only unfit for use, but dangerous to parties walking along on that side of the street. When the Committee returned to the Mayor's office to discuss the matter, Ald. Hanley stated that he would recommend that a roof of galvanized iron or tin be placed over the upper works near the dials and a covering of tin over the floor above the lower works. This he thought would protect the machinery from the inclemency of the weather, and guard against the difficulty in the past from snow and ice which Mr. Spangenberg had to contend contend with. The Committee after carefully considering the matter decided to recommend that the repairs be made, and that a new dial be purchased at a total cost not to exceed $175.

In view of the defective state of the tower, the Committee exonerated Mr. Spangenberg from all blame in the matter of the condition of the clock.

THE MARKET FEES.

A memorial of the County Council was considered which set forth that certain farmers had made representations to them that they were dissatisfied with the manner in which the produce merchants weighed their produce, especially grain, therefore they prayed for an authoritative and official check upon the same at a reasonable cost—a cost less than the present figures demanded by the market clerk.

The Chairman and other members of the Committee thought that they had no power to make any change in the revenue of the market during the continuance of the lease which Mr. Northcott holds with the city. Some alteration might be made another year. Others present were of the opinion that there was certain farmers who would in time—and that before long—ask for free scales.

The petition was not entertained, and the committee adjourned.

THE TEMPERANCE MEETING.

The meeting last evening of the Church of England Temperance Society was well attended notwithstanding the storm, which proves the deep interest taken in the meetings. After a song by Mr. Robinson, an address was delivered by Mr. Hugh Walker, who pointed out the discouragements and the encouragements in the temperance work. He spoke hopefully of the prospect which he thought was bright. Capt. Parker also addressed a few remarks to the meeting and Miss Sisson and Miss Shaw sang. The President, Rev. E. W. Sibbald, regretted to say that one of the printed petitions to the School Board, regarding a temperance primer placed in the Post Office had been wantonly torn to pieces after a number of signatures had been attached. No good will ever come of the boy who did that, for certainly no adult would commit such an act. A number of new names were added to the pledge list.

ACCUSED OF PLAY ACTING.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—A fair-haired young girl was arrested in Third avenue to-day upon complaint of her mother, Mrs. Caroline Wyble. She was taken before Justice Murray in the Yorkville Police Court. Mrs Wyble said that the girl was incorrigible, and insisted upon playing in the theatres. She said that she wished to have the girl sent to some institution. The case was enlarged.

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective.

A FLYING MURDERER.

TAKES REFUGE IN A CHURCH BUT IS CAPTURED.

WINFIELD, L. I. Feb. 21.—Rugg, the negro murderer, was discovered in St. Paul's church at Woodside yesterday. He had barricaded the doors, and when an officer broke the window and entered, he ran through the churchyard and jumped over the fence. Sergeant Whitson shot at him and missed him. The sergeant in climbing the fence fell and broke his leg. Rugg was captured after running two hundred yards and taken to Long Island City.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

Surely Fate would not be so cruel as to take her from him directly he had found her.

'I don't at all know,' replied Ethel. 'The idea of coming was conceived very suddenly, and I know little or nothing about the company or Mr. De Langtonville's arrangements.'

'And may I call, and tell your father how sincerely glad I am that I was able to render him a service at Avranches?'

'I know he will be more than pleased to to see you Mr. Madeley; he has frequently expressed a wish that he might meet you. We are staying at Rose Cottage, a little way out of the town.'

'And you—shall you be pleased to see me?' asked Bertram, in a lower tone,

Ethel's heart beat very quickly, and the red roses mantled her cheeks.

If her reply had been the unconcealed truth, she would have said—

'My life would be a blank if I had not that visit to long for,' but maidens do not speak from their hearts always, and she replied—

'I should indeed be ungrateful if I were not pleased to see you, and I am not ungrateful,' she added, after a little pause.

'I wonder you recognised me at all.' she said, when they had walked on a few steps in silence.

'Recognise you? I had seen you so often.'

'Often?' asked Ethel.

'Yes, for I very frequently rode over to Avranches from the little village where I was staying, and used always to see you sitting under the rocks reading. I grew into the habit of always seeking for my unknown little friend, and was quite disappointed if you were not in your accustomed place,' said Bertram.

And a feeling of ecstasy filled the young girl's heart at the softy spoken words.

'I never saw you, I think,' said Ethel, 'No, I am sure I did not, or else I should have remembered.'

'You would have remembred, you think?' asked Bertram.

'Oh, yes, I am sure I should.'

From the sparkle in his eyes, she saw how warm her words had been, and qualified them by adding—

'Strangers were so scarce at Avranches.'

'But we are not strangers any more,' he asked; 'friends now, is it not?'

'Yes, indeed, Mr. Madeley, I hope so.' Ah that runaway tongue, that would speak without consideration. 'Yes, Mr. Madeley, after that great service you rendered me.'

So shut out were they from the world, that they did not notice the advent of a stranger, until he was close upon them.

It was Dalgleish from the theatre.

He bowed to Ethel, casting anything but a loving glance at Bertram, and passed on.

Ethel returned his salution, but not very warmly for she did not like the man.

Very attentive he was—very attentive and complimentary, too much so, in fact; but somehow she did not like him, in the way he spoke to her, or in the manner he looked at her.

He passed on, and turning round looked at the pair.

'Confound you!' he muttered. 'I thought I had run little Ethel to earth by herself. Bah! I didn't think she was the sort of girl to be attracted by a man because he's the son of a baronet. Never mind, Philip Dalgleish fears no man's rivalry, where his heart is fixed,' and he continued on his way.

De Langtonville had told Ethel that she would have a delightful walk; but he could not have guessed how delightful it would be.

Surely this was perfect happiness, Ethel thought, as she walked slowly along by Bertram's side.

The docile horse followed his master's footsteps, and his docility was fortunate for Bertram, who had dropped the bridle from his arm, thinking very little of horse, or father, or the Court, and least of all of Euphemia Bell. But time flies on, regardless of young lovers' wishes.

'I must return, Mr. Madeley, or my father will grow anxious about me,' she said holding out her little hand to Bertram.

'Then I will call very soon, and see your father. Are you generally in during the afternoon?' he asked.

'Yes, always in the afternoon,' she replied. Very beautiful must that country have been which would have tempted Ethel to leave home upon an afternoon when Bertram Madeley might appear.

'Then good-bye, Miss Vaughan, good-bye. May I think you are a little glad to see me?' he asked, as he held her hand in his.

'Very glad, she replied, and looking for a moment into his face, she turned away, and commenced her homeward journey.

Her heart had controlled her voice, and obliged her to utter the little words which gave such pleasure to the listener.

Bertram mounted his horse and turning in his saddle, gazed after her retreating form.

'There goes a true little lady,' he said.

'A true little lady, if faces speak the truth, as I think they do.

'Yes, and there goes my heart.

'Does hers go with me, I wonder?

'Will it ever be mine?

'I think there's a chance,' and he thought of the tone in which she had said 'Very glad,' and the look in her face, as she had gazed into his own, and he smiled happily as his horse bore him swiftly homewards.'

His Outspoken Opinion.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we knew them.

WHEN INVALIDS COME TO understand that in all diseases whether acute or chronic, inflammation or fever, the aim of treatment is to promote constructive work or repair of tissue and arrest excisive waste, they will stop boling pretentious specifics and cure alls devoid of medical value, and resort to physiological, rational medica tion. No matter what disease has emaciated and debilitated the body, restoring nutrition is the only means of cure, and we have in WHEELER'S Phosphate and Calisaya elements of nerve force and tissue restorative that will benefit any form of debility, no matter what the cause.

THE STILL SMALL VOICE.

Serene and tender shine the smiles
Of God upon my soul to-night;
His loving care my doubt beguiles;
His presence bringeth light.

The world of discord dies away;
I hear no more its deaf'ning din;
And ghost-like through the evening gray
Steal out the shapes of sin.

A holy hush is on the air;
A holy peace possesses me;
My very being is a prayer,
To pray is but to be!

Did God speak as long ago
He spoke to prophets face to face,
I should his loving language know
Within this holy place!

And does he not in present time
So speak to men as once he spoke?
With awful syllables sublime
He Sinai's silence broke;

And now again in thunder tone
May men His awful speaking hear,
But all the ages men have known
His "still small voice" anear.

Some men have listened, hushed and still,
As list we now, my soul and I,
Have caught, as now we catch, the thrill
Of God's own whisper nigh!

BYRON AT THE CELL OF TASSO.

ST. ANNA'S HOSPITAL, FERRARA.

(From the March Century.)

Those tears become thee, Byron! Wandering free
As wind and sunlight over Italy,
O'er every land of beauty and renown,
Yet stamping oft a satyr's hoof-mark down;
How could'st thou view the cell where, undefiled,
Impassioned, pined the sun-god's elder child,
And not weep for lone Tasso? Woe for thee,
In seeming freedom, heavier chained than he!

—Mary Stacy Withington.

MR. BRAY'S RELIGION.

HE BELIEVES IN GOD AND THE BIBLE AFTER A FASHION OF HIS OWN.

Rev. A. J. Bray having been forced to resign his position as pastor of Zion church, Montreal, on account of his unorthodoxy, preached a farewell sermon, defending himself as follows:—After referring to his early life at college, Mr. Bray remarked that he had small confidence in theological colleges, and believed that they did not do much to develop freedom of thought and kindness towards men. He then resumed: "I began to be displeased with the seeming antiquity of the Old Country, and saw in this country, with its vast extent of forest and stream, a land of freedom and liberty. So I argued, and so I came to Canada. Only a brief tarry here convinced me that there was not that freedom I had dreamt of. Youth does not always mean liberty, vast geographical distances do not necessarily mean great breadth of mind. And perhaps there is some reason here for the fact that denominational lines are closely drawn and well defined. Protestantism is in close contact with its great opponent, Catholicism. So it is driven back upon its own lines, and compelled to maintain a defensive attitude. Then it happens here, as it happens elsewhere under similar circumstances, that those who have the guidance of theological thought are for the most part men of rough hewn character, they have not had the opportunity of coming into sympathetic contact with the great broad, craving world of ideas, they have had hardly a chance of becoming humanized by friction with the many sided world of humanity; their culture is not broad, and so their sympathies are narrow. Social distinctions here are carefully marked, political differences create political warriors, who fight each other but waste no time or strength on mutual esteem. So it is with the religious denominations. We have the Roman Catholicism as it can only be found in Spain or Ireland; we have Presbyterianism as only Knox would have insisted upon in the days of his strength; we have Methodism as Wesley hardly dreamt of making it; we have the Episcopacy of the agricultural districts of England; we have close communion Baptists and Congregationalism with narrow doors, red-tapeism, high-handed officials, and without raison d'etre. In such a case no man can reckon to depart from the old lines and live in peace and prosperity. To differ from all is to be hated by all, and hate will always find some violent way of expressing itself. To be in the church and yet not of the church in spirit and in substance is a crime. No offence can ecclesiastically be greater;

THE INQUISITION WAS BUILT

to punish such; to that end blazed the fagots of Smithfield and the cross was set up on Calvary. Truth has her cradle near Golgotha always. To break with ecclesiastical authority is a great thing, it is to be accounted amongst triflers, mockers and infidels, although you may be severely in earnest, with mind and heart set upon educating men into true religion. Knowing that well enough I had grace to set my teeth hard to go on in the path I called my duty, regardless of reputation and rejoicing in tribulation. But let me say that I did not take advantage of my people or my position. When I accepted the pastorate of this church, I did so as an avowed free man. I only accepted a free pulpit and openly declared that I would not at any time be trammelled by the trust deeds or any creeds concocted by convention or council. I say this now with a purpose which will be obvious to all of you and in vindication of my own consistency. And reading again what was said at that time by me, I can only affirm to-day that during my seven years of ministry I have adhered to the lines then so frankly and plainly laid down. What were they? Well, in brief outline they may be settled thus:—First, as to God. I have always taught the infinite perfection of God and held that to be the corner stone of all religious teaching. He is the perfection of being, self-subsistence, conditional only by itself; the perfection of power, almightiness; of mind, all knowingness; of conscience, all righteousness; of affection, all lovingness. The perfect God is eminent in all the world of matter and all the world of mind, the two hemispheres which are to us the universe. God is therefore a perfect Creator, making all worlds from a perfect motive, which is love, and for a perfect purpose, which is welfare of perfet substance, and as a perfect means. So that by the development of a perfect motive to a perfect purpose, love becomes a universe of perfect welfare.

Holding that, what could I say to that doctrine which tells me of an outlying person to the Godhead, the Devil, unacknowledged, but the complex embodiment of all evil, and far more powerful than the Trinity? For this roaring lion devours what the others but create, what they inspire, what they fill, and what they die for. Believing in the perfect God, what could I do with this

PALPABLE PIECE OF HEATHENISM?

What but bury it with other monstrosities of barbarism Some men reviled me therefore and mourned for a friend lost. But my mission was to speak the truth as I know it and not to perpetuate errata and unprofitable friendships. And with the doctrine of a personal Devil went the dogma of eternal Hell. To believe in the infinite power of God to hold that He cannot be thwarted, to believe in the infinite love of God can never be compatible with belief in the infinite hate of God. I can believe that there is that in God which goes forth to make immortal souls forever and forever happy, but I cannot believe that there is that in God which can be exercised with infinite ingenuity to apply infinite torture. I know of course that hell has always been handy to the priesthood, for a priesthood means lordship autocracy to which the people must bow, not in reverent love but in drivelling fear. A priesthood commands heaven and must have hell as the other pole. But when a preacher makes no claim to be a priest, the vicar of God upon earth, then he has no need for those glowing deeps of torture. One of our clergy argued the other day, and I think with fair show of reason, that the doctrine of eternal hell is not contained in the Bible. I do not think it is but I would not believe it if I found it stated there ten thousand times, or if I found it clearly affirmed in ten thousand Bibles, all as authentic as our own book of books. I do not believe it, because I will not in my proper person insult humanity and God. It would change the style of teaching so dear to the heart of certain college professors, perhaps, but if they would send their students forth to preach less of their embruting doctrine of eternal punishment and more of that healthy mortality which goes to strengthen and beautify human character, it would be better for the students and their hearers.

'And believing in the infinite perfection of God's power and love, how could I hold the orthodox dogmas as to the total depravity of man — [illegible] the nature of him he is born bad and into a bad world, every limb of the body and every faculty of the mind evil—the innocence of childhood only devilhood quiet and undeveloped—virtues only potential vice, and truth the first movements of falsehood. Of course I believe in depravity. With experience of mankind how could I do other—more than all—with knowledge of my own heart; but even ill has its thick, hard underlayers of good.' He had not taught that vicarious virtue or righteousness, that gospel of glad tidings for pharisees and hypocrites, but that each man for himself must have that character which shall recommend him to God and fit him for heaven. Not a popular teaching that, friends; and often it has sounded like blasphemy in the ears of those peculiar saints who find it convenient to have faith in the efficacy of another's righteousness to save them because they know they will never have righteousness of their own to save a grain of mustard seed from rotting. But truth is rarely popular, and I have spoken for truth, wherever might take offence.

'Then it came much in my way to speak of the Bible, and some near-sighted mortals have satisfied themselves that I have done away with the inspiration of this Book of books. On the contrary. I have carefully affirmed that inspiration, but I have sought to teach a theory of inspiration which is not unreal and absurd, for unreal and absurd is the doctrine of plenary or verbal inspiration, which affirms that every word and sentence were inspired directly of God, that the writer was but the vehicle for communicating the Devine thought and will to man. I have endeavored to teach that while the religious books of all nations may be called God's books, this Bible is preeminently God's Book for while there are in it blunders of many writers, misconceptions and false ideas marks of human errors and proofs of human ignorance, it contains God's word as the good and the true and the noble felt it spoken to their earnest, honest, mind and heart. If I have broken somewhat with orthodoxy, I have steadily held for the higher morality of life. I have demanded carefulness and honesty in thinking, speaking, and doing.'

A RETROSPECT.

All the haste in pushing the project for tunneling the Rocky Mountains and railing the sterile shore north of Lake Superior has arisen from the unstatesmanlike action of Sir John Macdonald's government in 1871 when the wild and unnecessary guarantee of building a trans-continental line in ten years was given to British Columbia. It may be of interest at this time to recall a few of he circumstances.

British Columbia came into the Union in 1872 under certain conditions which included the promise, by the Dominion Government of Sir John Macdonald, that railway communication should be afforded by building a line connecting British Columbia with the east in ten years. This road, the Canada Pacific, was to have been commenced within two years from July, 1871. The Government left office which was taken by the Liberals in November, 1873. When the two years had already elapsed within which according to the terms the road was to have been commenced and nothing had yet been done. British Columbia became disaffected and threatened to secede unless something was done. Mr. Mackenzie took the ground that the bargain entered into by the late Government with respect to the time for commencement was an impossible one but they determined to take steps to complete the road. The Carnarvon Terms were proposed in the summer of 1874 and were interpreted by British Columbia in one way and by the Dominion Government in another. The position of the Government was this. They would not agree to increase the taxation of the country merely in order to build the road rapidly. They put this intention on record in Acts of Parliament, and by resolution.

At the first session of the new Parliament Sir John Macdonald and Dr. Tupper admitted they were responsible for the breaking of the terms and were in honor bound to help the Government. But they gradually became aggressive and alleged that the Liberal Government had deceived British Columbia and Sir John actually advised British Columbia to secede in a speech delivered in Kingston. The Nanaimo Road Bill was passed by the House of Commons but thrown out by the Senate. Then the Government offered British Columbia $150,000 wherewith to build this road themselves, but British Columbia refused to accept. This was all that was done with respect to British Columbia and the C. P. R. up to 1878 when Mr. Mackenzie left office.

The Carnarvon Terms were as follows: The Dominion Government should build immediately a road 67 miles long from Esquimault to Nanaimo; also a wagon road across the country on the line of railway, and a telegraph line across the continent and subject to the question of taxation, to complete the Canada Pacific railway spending not less than one and a half millions a year within the Province of British Columbia,

It will be noticed that in regard to the two great questions which of late years have agitated the public mind the position of the Liberal party has been consistent from the beginning; namely, a determination not to unduly increase the burdens of the people who for the most part are compelled to work hard the year round in order to make ends meet. This policy was manifested with respect to the Canada Pacific Railway, and in 1878, when the theory of high taxation became popular, The Liberal railway policy was this: to construct the Canada Pacific Railway with all possible speed in Manitoba where it was needed to develop and open up that rich country, and then as settlement required it and the finances of the country warranted it, to push on the road westward. This would have been, we believe, the wise policy. It is all very well to talk of having the line completed by 1886 and of having conquered the Rocky Mountains, when that is done, but we are asked to pay the piper dearly. A man may own a fine house if he mortgages all his possessions, but he is in danger of having his reputation for wisdom and business management questioned if he allows his vanity for an expensive residence to tax all his resources and strain his credit in the market. With a national debt of $157,000,000 constantly increasing, and the enormous sum of $10,000,000 added to our annual expenditure it behooves the prudent man to pause and consider our position.

It should not be forgotten that the Province for whose particular benefit the Canada Pacific was projected did not stipulate for a road in ten years or fifteen. In fact we have high authority for the statement that if British Columbia had been promised the line by 1888 she would have been satisfied. Lieut. Governor Trutch said respecting the rash promise of a line in ten years:—"If they (the Dominion Government) had said twelve or eighteen years that time would have been accepted with equal readiness, as all that was understood was that the line should be built as soon as possible."

British Columbia never dreamt that on the bare promise of completing the line five years earlier than expected the managers should receive $30,000,000.

THE CITY OF TORONTO has determined, we gather, to move independently of the county in the matter of a new Court House. The County Council of York is certainly a hard body to deal with, and and in this matter has taken many stands, one sometimes wholly at variance with the other. If it is true that Toronto is determined to build her own court house it is to be hoped her action will bring the mean but wealthy County Council to some reasonable agreement.

CONSUMED BY FIRE.

THE SAD FATE OF A TRENTONIAN IN THE STATES.

TRENTON, Feb. 25.—The Advocate says A young man named Somers, son of Mr. Jno. Somers, of this place, met with a sad fate in a lockup in the States. It appears he got into a dispute about a livery rig, and was arrested by a policeman and placed in the lockup. The policeman had not got two blocks away when the building was discovered to be in flames, and young Somers was burned to a crisp, all efforts to rescue him proving unavailing.

A STORY OF JOHN B. GOUGH.

John B. Gough contemplates a departure from the lyceum platform to religious revivalism. He told a reporter that profanity was his besetting sin. He was not at all inclined to intersperse his ordinary conversation with oaths, but when suddenly excited a whopper was apt to pop out of his mouth. "I've got the biggest and tenderest corns ever grew on feet," he said. "I was waiting on a railroad platform last summer. It was a moist day, and my corns were as sensitive as so many barometers. A lubber of a boy tramped along past me, and every step of his would have driven a pile at a single stroke. I pulled in my feet as far as I could and felt grateful when he got by me. But my safety was fancied, not real. He turned back before I knew it, and brought his feet down square and hard right on mine. I let out some of the most direct and unequivocal curses that ever were uttered. He fled in dismay to a remote corner of the platform. I'd made up my mind before that to become a Christian, and the profanity was no more than out before it was repented. I went to that boy and apologized. That was my last swearing. I don't think I shall ever swear again."

PASSED THEIR MAXIMUM.

The interesting fact was brought out by the Provincial Treasurer's comparative statistics that the blind, and deaf and dumb of the Province have been amply provided for, and that, for many years at least, no further expenditures to provide increased accommodation for these unfortunates will be necessary. The reduction in expenditure per head has been very marked, especially in regard to the Asylum for the Blind and the Deaf and Dumb Institute, the reduction in the latter case from 1873 to 1883 amounting to $37.08 per head and the former $15.15. This is certainly complimentary to Mr. A. Livingston, the Bursar for the Institution here, who is responsible for the large reduction in the cost of supporting the unfortunate inmates who have occasion to attend this Provincial Institution.

STORY OF FORREST.

A banker who attended the Gen. Collis dinner to Henry Irving in Philadelphia, entertained the loungers in the Lotus club parlor with following: After the dinner Mr. Irving proved himself to be a most pleasant conversationalist and an excellent story teller. He told a story of Edwin Forrest. 'Mr. Forrest,' Mr. Irving said, 'being out to dinner, sat opposite an old gentleman who was a very diffident person, but apparently a great admirer of Forrest. The old man sat the whole evening drinking in every word Forrest said, and at last mustered up courage, during a slight lull in the conversation, to address Miss Forrest.

'You—ah—play King Lear, I believe,' he said timidly,

'Lear!' shouted Forrest, rising from his seat, and raising both arms aloft and focusing the old gentleman with a stagey and terrific look; 'Lear,' he repeated in thunder tones as the mild old questioner quailed and sank in his chair, 'I am Lear!'

The intimate friends of Forrest present greatly enjoyed the story, which was most characteristic of him, as well as Mr. Irving's imitation of fierce manner of the great tragedian.

DID SHE DIE

"No; she lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years, the doctors doing her no good; and at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about. Indeed! Indeed! how thankfull we should be for that medicine.'

URANIA,

(Matthew Arnold.)

She smiles and smiles, and will not sigh,
While we for hopeless passion die;
Yet she could love, th[illegible] declare,
Were but men nobler than they are.

Eagerly once her gracious ken
Was turned upon the sons of men;
But light the serious visage grew—
She looked, and smiled, and saw them through.

Our pretty souls, our strutting wits,
Our labor'd, puny, passion fits—
Ah, may she scorn them still, till we Scorn them as bitterly as she!

Yet show her once, ye heavenly powers,
One of some worthier race than ours!
One for whose sake she once might prove
How deeply she who scorns can love.

His eyes be like the starry lights—
His voice like sounds of summer nights—
In all his lovely mien let pierce
The magic of the universe!

And she who will him reach her hand,
And gazing in his eyes will stand,
And know her friend, and weep for glee,
And cry, "Long, long I've looked for thee!"

Then will she weep; with smiles till then
Coldly she mocks the sons of men,
Till then her lovely eyes maintain
Their pure, unwavering, deep disdain,

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY

A Dispute over a Family of Illegitimate Children.

CHARLES POLLARD SKIPS OUT.

NAPANEE, Feb. 23.—Charles Pollard is a much married man. Some thirty years ago he married a woman in Brighton, who had seven children by him. Tiring of this spouse he came to this county some fourteen or fifteen years since and struck up an intimacy with a young woman named Young. They lived together as man and wife for some years and she bore him five children. Last year they seemed to have tired of each other, and each took another partner. Pollard married a woman named Beasley, and the woman Young wedded John Cornelius, a hunchback. The estrangement which the new relations of the couple naturally caused did not last long. Pollard soon forsook his last inamorato and she removed to Camden East, where she is now living. Mrs. Cornelius also soon tired of her choice and returned to the arms of the fickle Pollard—but not permanently. It seems that she also was wonderfully capricious, and it was during one of her spells of ardent affection for Cornelius that she took up her permanent abode with him a short time ago and got possession of the children she bore Pollard. This Pollard objected to. Taking advantage of Mrs. Cornelius' absence from town attending her sick mother he captured the little brood. On her return Mrs. C. caused her relative Mary Ann Young to enter proceedings against Pollard for maintenance of the children and to give her possession. The Express says as soon as Pollard got wind of this "racket," he applied to the Mayor for a warrant for the arrest of Cornelius for bigamy, he alleging that that worthy had a wife and family in Chatham. But upon reflection Pollard did not persist in the action. He feared a similar action against himself and therefore he wisely decided to clear the town. According to the story each tells they are a pack of bigimist who should either be in Utah or —in Kingston.

MR. BEECHER SAYS HIS CHURCH IS NOW A SPIRITUAL HOTEL.

At a recent annual meeting of the Plymouth church, the Rev. Mr. Halliday, the pastoral helper, reported nearly 2,000 pastoral visits, 100 funerals and twenty-five marriages during the year. He criticised habitual absence of the members of the congregation from the services when the pastor was not present, and remarked upon the constantly lessening contributions to charities as an evidence of a decadence of the congregational spirit which had characterized the church during the lifetime of some of the old members, whom he mentioned by name. When he had concluded Mr. Beecher arose and said:

"I recognize with sympathy the allusion that has been made to the removal of old members; my audience has come to be a strange one. I wish I could say that their places have been filled, but I must confess that Plymouth Church has become rather a spiritual hotel than a church. People come here to be filled, and go away again without any thoughts of housekeeping. There is little church feeling in the congregation, though there is, of course, plenty of Christian feeling. There is a feeling that the old church is able to take care of itself, and that all that needs to be done the pulpit will do. The Friday night meetings have come to be simply lectures. There are only half a dozen brethren among us who are ready to arise and pray, and as to these it is probably the wish of all the others that they wouldn't. I have felt more and more, as the years go by, that I was losing my power in the church, and that my usefulness was rapidly giving out. Under the circumstances I could not help thinking what would become of Plymouth Church if I should die or go away. It would then be spoken of as the church that was. This has given me many discouraging thoughts. The idea of having to leave it to be dilapidated has been a constant trouble to me, and often pray to God to make it more cohesive before He calls me."

Just think of it! Beecher's church on the verge of going to pieces.

CHILDREN HALF PRICE.

An Austin gentleman who had lost one of his children, was presented with a bill for payment.

'I see by your bill that you charge twenty dollars for ten visits while you were treating my child,' he remarked.

'Certainly; two dollars is the usual price for a visit,' responded the doctor.

'Yes, but man alive, the child was under ten years of age. I could have got her into a circus for half price.'

MAGISTRATE AND PRISONER.

UPON GETTING HIS SENTENCE THE LATTER ATTACKS THE FORMER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—A man named Fitzpatrick was arrested and taken before Justice Jacob M. Patterson, Jr. He appeared sober and quiet. Who the Justice said "You are fined $10," Fitzpatrick noiselessly glided out around the railing on to the platform in front of of the Justice's desk, picked up a large sponge glass and hurled it at the Justice's head. His Honor dodged. The glass smashed against a closet back of him. Fitzpatrick then picked up a paper weight. Before he could throw it Policeman Mullen had him by the throat. He fought desperately without uttering a word. Four policemen carried him bodily into the prison to await trial for assault.

TERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE.

A HUNDRED LIVES LOST BY THE SOUTHERN CYCLONE.

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 23.—Several wagon loads of dead bodies have been taken to Rockingham from the surrounding country. The court house has been converted into an hospital. The forests are levelled, so that the country can hardly be recognized. It is estimated that not less than 60 and perhaps 100 lives have been lost in the state.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 22.—Accounts from various parts of the state show that Tuesday night's tornado was far more destructive than supposed. The estimated number of persons killed is not less than 90, and at least 100 were injured. A vast amount of property was destroyed.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligtnt eye the colorless faces of more tham fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but rrquires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keey the system in regolar order, anh in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remody required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judicirusly adm ns ered· Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

A CHEEKY ADVENTURE.

Michael Goggins Arrested for House Breaking

A case of house breaking occurred near the Canifton Crossing last night. The offender, Michael Goggins, well known to the police as a semi-insane individual, broke into the house occupied by Mr. Thomas Frizzel, and owned by Ald. M. Graham, by smashing the door. Frizzel, being an employee of the Grand Trunk, was absent from home, but his wife and family were sleeping up stairs. Goggins, after entering the house, proceeded at once up stairs, and his presence was not known to the inmates until Mrs. Frizzel observed the intruder standing alongside her bed. She at once shrieked out at the top of her voice, but Goggins warned her to keep quiet as he said he did not intend to hurt her. In a few minutes he went down stairs without doing anything further and left the house. This morning again he endeavored to quarrel with some parties near McGinnis' grocery, when the police were sent for to arrest him. His mental faculties, it is said, are deranged, and if so his relations should see that he is sent to a place where he would receive proper treatment.

A HANDSOME MONUMENT.

(From Hastings Star)

On visiting the Roman Catholic Cemetery in Asphodel, one day last week, our attention was called to a monument which some workmen were erecting for Mr. T. Coughlin, senr., of this village, in that "city of the dead". We were informed the mass of limestone and granit weighed over three tons, and the height a few inches over twelve feet. The base is a block of granite three feet square and was quarried at St. Ann's Point six miles below Belleville. The next member is a plinth having on the pannel facing the road the word "Coughlin" in large letters, a square of polished granit next follows, and contains the inscriptions to the memory of Mr. Coughlin's two daughters, Annie and Catherine. The workmanship displayed in the lettering, which is in relief, could not well be excelled, being as perfect and as clean cut as in the softest marble, the "raised" form being certainly a decided improvement on the "sunk" letters, which have either to be painted or gilded, and retouched every few years or they will become illegible. A projecting cap, handsomely moulded, receives the polished granit shaft which rises to a height of seven feet, its delicate tracy adding additional beauty to the whole design. It is one of the finest monuments in the section, and reflects credit on the taste of the sculptor, Mr. John Coughlin, of Belleville, and who, although a young man, has made his mark in the profession, have during the past five years erected a large number of very handsome headstones and monuments in the neighboring cemeteries.

GOLDEN THOUGHTS.

Though we love the treasure, we hate the traitor.

They are never alone who are accompanied by noble thoughts.

Discontent is the want of self-reliance; it is infirmity of will.

There is a power in the direct glance of a sincere and loving soul which will do more to dissipate prejudice, and kindly charity than the most elaborate arguments.—George Eliot.

Witty sayings are as easily lost as pearls, slipping off a broden string, but a word of kindness is seldom spoken in vain. It is a seed which, even when dropped by chance, springs up a flower.

Men are apt to mistake the strength of their feeling for the strength of their argument. The heated mind resents the chill touch and relentless scrutiny of logic.—Gladstone.

No man or woman of the humblest sort can really be strong, gentle, pure, and good without the world being better for it, without somebody being helped and comforted by the very existence of that goodness.—Phillips Brooks.

Great men often have greater faults than little men can find room for.—Lardor.

Handsome women without religion are like flowers without perfume.—Heine.

A beautiful woman is a practical poem, planting tenderness, hope, and eloquence in all she approaches.—Emerson.

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. TO TEACHERS.

Necessary Qualifications for the Members of the Profession.

Probably no profession requires more skilled workers than that of teaching. To be fitted for the responsible duties the teacher should possess:

1. Purity, that he may come before his pupils as a living example to them in thought, word and deed that his life may influence them to all that is good and noble.

2. Politeness, true and genuine, that he may have regard for the views and opinions of the little community over which he rules.

3. Personal neatness, that he may appear before them in a creditable and becoming manner.

4. Peculiar fitness for the work; pleasant, to attract instead of repel; patient, with faults and failing pity, in trival troubles; a philanthropist, to exercise justice without favoritism.

5. Preparation, by hard work, time and thought, to be thoroughly qualified in all necessary studies: able to come before the classes master of the subject under discussion instead of confined to text-books; knowing the how and why of methods and systems.

WHAT AN OLD MAN CAN DO.

A youth of limited means, who had just married, sent his wife's father a beautiful copy of Tom Hood's poem, 'What Can an Old Man Do but Die?'

The gratified father-in-law at once took away his daughter, clubbed his son-in-law and having broken his leg on the front steps of the youthful schemer, sued for $20,000. And now the young man has concluded that an old man's sphere of action is not so limited as Tom Hood supposed.—Harvart Lampoom.

Mrs. A. Nhon, Brantford writes: 'I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years. Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankfull to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

CHAPTER VII.

Prominent amongst the audience on the night at the theatre was a stranger to Hurstleigh, who took his seat in the centre of the boxes.

He was clad in a coat of a vivid blue shade, plenteously decorated as to the collar and sleeves by what with only an extreme degree of courtesy could be called seal skin; and a yellow and green striped tie formed a striking, if not a pleasing, contrast to this resplendent garment.

His gloves, somebody else's gloves you might have supposed from the want of fit, had originally been lavender, and were now dirt colour, and a quntity of cuff, of somewhat similar shade, reached down to his knuckles.

Rings were worn outside the gloves, containing some of the largest diamonds which were to be found in the Lowther Arcade.

His face was closely shaven—to say clean shaven would be a fiction, as nothing about him could accurately be characterised by that adjective—except that a bristly tuft decorated his chin.

A highly-oiled curl, of the class known as 'aggravator,' meandered from his ear to his eye; and it was only on the repeated entreaty of his neighbours in the theatre, that he at length consented to remove the curly-brimmed hat which crowned the edifice.

That his attire was in a degree removed from the usually received notion of evening dress, apparently never entered his head; at least if one might judge from the self-satisfied smirk which played over his countenance.

Some books on etiquette inform us that 'to be quite at ease, is to be well bred.'

Accepting this maxim for authority, it may be fearlessly asserted that the stranger was very well bred indeed.

For nothing could be more easy than the friendly manner in which he nudged his neighbour—Miss Louisa Hawkins, the doctor's daughter—with his elbow, and winked at her with a knowing jerk of the head when anything on the stage particularly touched his fancy.

Very much to that young lady's discomfiture was his behaviour, though the stranger did not notice that circumstance.

And though all the attempts at conversation were baffled by the stern glance of her father, it is to be greatly feared that Miss Hawkins did not much enjoy, the evenings entertainment.

Next morning he was up betimes, and arrayed as before paraded the little town.

Apparently this occupation was not much to his satisfaction.

At any rate, it appeared that he required stimulants to enable him to continue it, for he had not been out long when he found it necessary to turn into the taproom of the 'Madeley Arms' to recruit.

Kinks, and one or two people employed in subordinate capacities at the theatre, occupied the room, together with a few coachmen and grooms who had been attending to horses at the adjoining stable.

Saville was seated at the window, for he entertained a vague idea that to associate with his inferiors in social standing was to 'study character,' and being perfectly affable, without in any degree, compromising his position as a gentleman, he managed to assume himself perfectly well with them.

'Ah,' said the stranger, perceiving Saville, 'you're one of them hacter fellers. What'll you have to drink? You poor beggars ain't got too much money to spare, I reckon.'

Saville slowly readjusted the glass in his eye, and carefully surviving the stranger with an expression of countenance, equally divided between surprise and disgust, slowly rose from his chair and left the room.

'Not very much inclined to be friendly, he don't seem,' the stranger remarked, gazing at the door through which Saville had left the room. 'What's he stuck up about, I should like to know.

'You're another of 'em. I see you last night a shifting the scenes—a sticking side wings of a palace on to a forest scene, you was. I suppose you are too hard up to say no to a drop of drink?' he said to Kinks.

Anything to drink was always a wighty argument with Kinks.

But he was indignant at the manner in which the stranger had addressed Saville, for no one is more quick to recognise, or respect a gentleman than a person in Kinks' position, and that Saville merited the title was unmistakable.

Nor was the little man very well pleased by the stranger's allusion to the scenic arrangements.

He rose, therefore, with a faint imitation of Saville's manner, and said—

'He left the room because he didn't like being addressed familiar—not to say insulting. No, I thank you; I ain't so hard up as to drink with every low bred feller as comes in.'

The stranger looked almost with dismay at his clothes as Kinks stalked out of the room, somewhat after the manner in which the ghost in Hamlet makes his exit.

If his attire, though the brilliantly-arrayed personage, could not gain him respect, on what quality should he fall back?

Were not the stripes on his nether garments wide enough to earn applause, or was it possible to cram any more fancy stitching or pearl button patterns on his boots, capacious as those coverings certainly were.

'I had been for eight months unable to work and lelt as though I would as lief die as live, through Dyspepsia and Indigestion, I weighed at the time of getting a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure 130lbs.; used three bottles, and now weigh 165 lbs, and never was better in my life. It was McGregor's Speedy Cure that brought me around.' So says Wm. Fell, Hamilton, Go to A. L. Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epedemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, billiousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's correcetive medicines.

Holloway's Ointment, and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is epidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious (will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use his preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS!

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In way bringing it within the reach of all class, at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

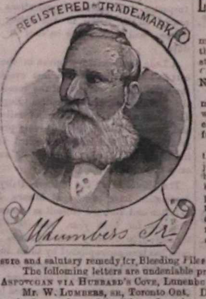
LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.



Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation eved when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

AFTER THE CULMINATION OF manhood at forty, the prime of life, begins to decline into old age. The activity of the digestive apparatus which at first was sufficient not only to provide for the daily waste, but to add new material later on is only able to supply the daily waste, and at last too imperfect to maintain the balance and substain the frame in its existing entirety. At this period when the expenditure is greater than the income, WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA, by augmenting nerve force and supplying ready-made tissue elements, will have a tendency to prolong life.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS

POWER ON PARNELL.

He Makes an Unslaught on the Irish Leader and His Followers.

A London despatch says:—John O'Connor Power made a speech in the House of Commons, in which he criticised the course of Parnell and his followers. He asserted that the present unfortunate condition of Ireland in the greatest difficulty England has to overcome. He censured the so-called National party for wasting the time of the House in the discussion of factional disputes instead of working for the social improvement of Ireland. He excused Parnell because he was surrounded and urged on by certain lieutenants who were hoping to arrive at a similar prominence. He was strongly opposed to the amendment, which he characterized as very disappointing, and failing to condemn with sufficient emphasis the present policy of stimulating immigration, and making no mention whatever of the importance of the development of Irish resources. Neither Nationalists nor Loyalists had any right to either designation. "While Parnell," said Power, 'was posing before the county and complaining that his safety had been threatened by a portion of his countrymen, I quietly awaited public vindication of my course. My delaration that intimidation was a brutal and immoral practice now comes from the lips of Parnell. A member of the National league has no more right to rob me of free speech than to steal money from my pocket.' Power proceeded to indict the National leaguers from their own speeches. He said he was convinced that Parnell inwardly disented from many things which his disciples did, both inside and outside the House. The Parnellites have been pursuing a policy adverse to the interests of Ireland. Since the Land act was introduced Irish land lords owed their present condition to the neglect of their most important duties Irish discontent was due not only to historical events, but also to the fact that Ireland was smarting because equal privileges were withheld. But better times were coming when strife would be at an end and England and Ireland would be more closely united than ever, when Ireland would share in equal priviliges. Mr. Power was frequently interrupted by applause and when he resumed his seat the cheering was tremendous. The Parnellites maintained a sullen silence.

Mr. T. M. Healy replied to Mr. Power's speech and compared it to dancing on the tight rope. He spoke of Power as balancing between the Orangemen and Whigs He reproached Power for deserting his party. He said that the Government was in league with the Orangemen and concluded with describing Lord Rossmore as a "bigoted malevolent young pup."

Justin McCarthy accused the Orangemen of seeking to involve the country in civil war.

The House was full and Powers onslaught upon the Parnellites cause a great sensation.

THE ANTITHESIS OF DON'T.

Do remember that you are married to a man and not to a god; be prepared for imperfections.

Do not anticipate the discovery of your husband that you are "only a woman," if you were not, he would not care about you.

Do bear in mind that a popular preacher often has a wife, have some regard for her feelings.

Do, once in a way, let your husband have the last word; it will gratify him and be no particular loss to you.

Do let the sun into your home; a man detests dark rooms, and his taste is of more importance than your carpets, curtains, or complexion.

Do be responsible; it is a great deal to ask under some circumstances, but to do try; reasonable women are rare—be rare.

Do resist your neighbor's encroachments.

Do refuse to tell your home worries to your closest friend; they are nobody's business but your own.

Do be dignified; keep your place and make your associates and dependents keep theirs.

Do remember that servants are made of the same material as you are; a little coarser grained, perhaps, but the same in essentials; 'one touch of nature makes the whole world kin.'

Do respect their feelings and attachments; let the pretty parlor maid have her lover openly, she will have him any way, and if you do you may save her a life-long misery.

Do forget your clothes as much as possible.

Do try and forget yourself, as for your husband, forget that you married him, and remember that he married you; he will then probably do the reverse.

Do, if a friend drops in occasionally, leave things just as they are. If the tidy is off the chair back, what does it matter? A newspaper on the floor, even, is no absolute disgrace.

COLONIZATION ROADS.

We were quite right, the Peterboro' Review notwithstanding, in our statement that when Mr. Meredith closely investigated the accounts and routine of the Colonization Roads Branch of the Crown Lands Department he found no scandals or irregularities. It is quite true that some trivial irregularities came out, such as the absence of the signatures on the pay sheet of some of the men who received pay and who were unable to write. But the fact of the payments having been made was never questioned. A proper form in keeping pay-sheets need not be looked for from the nature of the case. Graduates of, say the Ontario Business College, are not found working on Colonization Roads. In the mass of pay sheets and vouchers critically examined by Mr. Meredith, a lawyer, he found nothing on which he could base a charge in the House, a fact proved by this; that although the propriety of continuing the practice of distributing moneys through the medium of the local member, a method which overseers themselves in some instances advised, no wrongful appropriation was attributed nor was it shown that any complaints of the existing system had been made.

The Review is either not aware or is concealing the fact, when speaking of the sending of large sums for the men to the local member, that it was shown that these sums were sent in sealed envelopes addressed to the overseer in care only of the member who did not himself handle the money. Where is the scandal or irregularity in this?

Our contemporary says that supplies were purchased from Thos. Murray & Co., at their general store in Pembroke, Mr. Murray being a member of the House. A few, very few, articles were purchased at this store and as Mr. Meredith could not find that the Department had paid other than regular prices according to the vouchers produced and did not say anything about the matter our contemporary cannot do better than follow the example of its leader.

The last grave charge under the startling head of "Colonization Roads Frauds" in our contemporary is that several men of the same name, and perhaps of the same family, as the overseer were employed. Now everyone acquainted with the working of this branch knows that it is extremely difficult, especially during railway building, to secure men of any kind for the roads and is John Smith to be debarred a job because Wm Smith is already employed? In this case also it was not shown that these men received any more than the market rate and the House on both sides treated the matter in a jocular rather than a serious manner when it was mentioned.

If our contemporary cannot find any more glaring "frauds" than these little exploded insinuations the country may rest content in the belief that the Colonization Roads Branch of the Crown Lands Department is honestly and effectively managed by Hon. T. B. Pardee.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

AMERICAN JOURNALS are contending that it would be as well to place copper on the free list notwithstanding that the tariff enables the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company, which controls the market, to pay in 20 years $27,000,000 on a capital of $2,500,000.

AS MR. WM. HOUSTON, M.A., dubbed all institutions of learning that closed their doors against women "fossil anachronisms", Prof. Goldwin Smith asks why our colleges for females do not redeem themselves from the reproach of fossilism and anachronism by the admission of a few young men. The learned "Bystander" also asks with very great force, "has nature placed the duty and happiness of women in the line of domestic affection or in that of intellectual ambition"?

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

VICTORIOUS, BUT WOUNDED.

The government comes victorious out of the crisis, but it comes out with a wound which may well prove fatal before long. It is undeniable, in fact, that public opinion is awaking more and more every day all over Canada. Who knows but such a national crime will suffice to cause a complete awaking, which would be the salvation of the country?—L'Electeur.

THEY OBEYED ORDERS.

The Conservatives voted as one man for the Pacific resolutions. The thing was forseen! These good fellows cried, swore and stormed till the moment when their chiefs, whom they call Sir John, Cartier, Langevin or Chapleau, gave them the signal to re-enter the ranks, to obey, and to file off to the right or to the left.—La Patrie.

PARLIAMENTARY NOTES.

Friday Sir John Macdonald moved a resolution giving precedence to concurrence in the Pacific Railway Loan Resolutions. Mr. Watson moved that the railway monopoly in the North-West be abandoned by the C. P. R. It was lost by 115 to 49. Another amendment, moved by Mr. Weldon, that the Atlantic terminus of the Pacific Railway be on Canadian territory. It was also voted down by 43 to 104. The resolutions were then concurred in.

MARRIED AT THE CAPE.

A young man in Kingston took out a marriage license swearing that he was twenty-one years of age, when he was only eighteen. He was followed, captured, and made hand back the license. On being asked why he swore falsely he said he had not his own way in the matter. He and his sweetheart went to the Cape Satur-

FROM OTTAWA.

Sir Leonard Tilley on the High road to a Deficit.

IMPENDING MINISTERIAL CHANGES.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—Sir L. Tilley's N. P. seems to be a tremendous failure, both as a means of bringing about an equilibrium between the exports and the imports and of preventing deficits. The imports for January exceed the exports by $3,382,265, while there has been a heavy falling off in both as compared with last year. The Customs duties for January last were $1,117,720, against $1,589,049 in the same month last year—a decline of $472,319. The Excise returns also show a large diminution for the eight months of the current year ending with the present month. The receipts and expenditure on account of the Consolidated Fund will be about equal, indicating a deficit of about a million dollars for the fiscal year ending 30th January next.

THE SENATE.

The Senate has now been in session nearly six weeks and no legislative work of any kind has been performed. The sittings of that body average about half an hour per day and not so much as a private Bill has yet been introduced. Yet the expenses of the Senate are nearly as great as those of the House of Commons.

CABINET CHANGES.

There is little doubt that Sir John Macdonald now considers Mr. Costigan's usefulness gone and that he will be dismissed from the Cabinet with a petty office of some sort at the end of the session, if not before. Sir Chas. Tupper, who studiously refrains from voting on any question will also it is understood, "diappear" from the Ministry as soon as the Pacific Railway matters are settled, and a general shuffle of portfolis will then take place. Mr. Daly will probably be taken in as a second Nova Scotia Minister, while Mr. Wood, of Westmoreland, appears to be the favorite as second New Brunswick man.

MR. NORQUAY DECLINES TO RETURN.

The latest report concerning Mr. Norquay is that he has refused to obey Sir John's summons to return to Ottawa, and says that the Federal Ministry must now knock at his door to obtain a settlement of the existing difficulties between the Dominion and the Province, as he has been dancing attendance upon them long enough.

ALARM AT THE SITUATION IN THE NORTH-WEST.

Leading Tories here confess that the North West is in a bad condition, and Sir John will probably quit office as he did in 1873, leaving his successors to grapple with a rebellion in that county fomented by tyranny and misgovernment. Sir Charles Tupper is utterly indifferent to the future of the country now that he is about to take the High Commissionership permanently, and is, perhaps, anxious to plunge the country into debt and difficulty before retiring. The C. P. R. would, no doubt, provide for him in any event.

THE ATLANTIC SEAPORT.

The Tories from the Maritime Provinces are going around the lobbies this morning whining that the Opposition took an unfair advantage of them last night by forcing them to vote against the selection of a Maritime Province port as an Atlantic terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway. There was nothing unfair about it. It was the duty of the Opposition to expose the hypocrisy of the patriotic professions of the Tories, and to place themselves in record against diverting the trade of the country to United States ports. Mr. Peter Mitchell, one of the many members of Parliament who are in the pay of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, boldly announced that the policy of that company was to make Portland their terminus, notwithstanding the promises of Sir Chas. Tupper to the contrary. The references to St. John, St. Andrews, Halifax and Louisberg were merely intended to sugar-coat the pill which the Tories had to swallow. It is remarked that neither Mr. White, of Renfrew, nor Mr. Bryson have voted in favor of the Pacific Railway loan at any stage. These gentlemen spoke in caucus against the measure, and their remarks were communicated to the members of the Syndicate, presumably, by their paid solicitor.

THE QUEBEC CONSERVATIVES.

The continued attacks of the chief Tory organ upon the honor of the Quebec Conservatives has greatly embarrassed the Ministerial party here. In conversation with several leading Bleus it has been ascertained that Mr. Ouimet was the chosen leader of the section that forced Sir John Macdonald to yield to the demands of their Province, and that when he spoke on Wednesday defending his own friends and Mr. Blake from the blackmailing attacks of the Mail he spoke by arrangement on behalf of the whole party. It is also believed that the Mail's course has been prompted by Sir John Macdonald, particularly its attack upon Mr. Costigan, whom the Premier is now anxious to get rid of. Costigan, the Tories say, showed the white feather at a critical moment and must go.

Her grief at the unexpected and terrible news cannot be described.

THE NEWSPAPER REPORTER.

A TRIBUTE TO THE MEN WHO INTEREST ENTERTAIN AND INSTRUCT.

(Joe Howard, in the Boston Herald.)

Reporters differ in many ways. Some are purely descriptive; in some a bump of humor is magnificently developed; some permeate a story, long or short, with indices of personality. Others are cast-iron in recital, and make their stories as piquant as an algebraical problem. A good reporter, gifted with normal spirits and health, is a thing of beauty and a joy forever in any well regulated newspaper office. Every door is open to him, and the field of life is spread before him with its sunshine and its shadow. In the course of an evening he talks with presidents and walks with princes; he sits with the sorrowful and mourns with the humble. In church to-day in jail to-morrow; merrily dancing with Arion this evening; deep down in coal pits with striking miners some other evening. Now he interviews a magnate of the land, and takes the dying deposition of a butchered thief. Part of the evening is spent in a cathedral fair, part in a political meeting, part in police headquarters, part in the debris of a railroad collision. No place is too sacred, none too lowly; no man is too high, too rich, too great for him to approach; none too humble, too poor for him to serve. He is as much at home in the palace of a millionaire as in a hospital ward of a prison. He writes with equal readiness the glib utterance of a barefaced bishop and the harrowing confession of a poor devil in the Tombs. A good reporter must be discreet. How much he hears he cannot tell—how much he knows it would not be fair for him to reveal! He sees the best and worst types of society, and has his hand more constantly upon the pulse of affairs than any minister, lawyer doctor, or merchant. The work of the American reporter speaks volumes daily for itself. Now and then one is deceived and misled, fooled; but with men at large from Maine to Georgia, from New York to Oregon, the American reporter holds his own in the interesting, the instructive, and entertaining.

FIVE CENTS A DAY.

Let us take the small an insignificant sum of five cents, which we daily pay to have our boots blacked, to ride in a car the distance we are able to walk, or to procure a bad cigar we are better without, and see what its value is in the course of years We will suppose a boy of 15, by blacking his own boots, or saving his car fare, or going without his cherished cigarette, put by five cents a day; in one year he saves $18.85, which being banked bears interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, compounded bi-yearly. On this basis, when our thrifty youth reaches the age of 65, having set his 5 cents a day religiously aside during fifty years, the result is surprising. He has accumulated no less a sum than $3,893.17.

A BANKER'S TESTIMONY.—For a Cough Cold or bronchial affection, 'Pectoria' in my opinion is just the thing. I have used it in my family for Coughs and Colds for the past four years with the most unvaried success, and to-day my opinion of it is that I continue to think still more of that which I began to think well of. HAWKINS DEFEATED.

The Bothwell Usurper Ruled Out of Parliament.

THE SEAT GIVEN TO MR. MILLS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 25,—The decision of the Supreme Court to-day in the Bothwell election case gave the seat to Hon. David Mills Four of the judges, Chief Justice Ritchie, Justices Strong, Henry and Fournier, were in favor of Mr. Mills, Justice Gwynne alone dissenting. There is great rejoicing here among the Liberals as Mr. Mackenzie's Minister of the Interior with his great parliamentary knowledge and departmental experience will now be enabled to take his seat in the House of Commons and ably support Mr. Blake. John Joseph Hawkins, having been here over thirty days can legally draw the thousand dollar indemnity which he will doubtless do before sneaking back to Brantford.

Every observer who walks the streets of a a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Pure Milk for Belleville,

—from the—

City of Belleville Milk Company

—sealed and delivered in—

CLASS BOTTLES.

To the Citizens of Belleville:

THE Stockholders of this Company owning farms in the vicinity of the City, and keeping a large number of cows will supply the people of Belleville with milk in sealed bottles, which they GUARANTEE to be ABSOLUTELY PURE and of a SUPERIOR QUALITY. The milk for the present is bottled and sealed at the homes of the individual stockholders, a vital feature, as the milk is then delivered into the hands of the consumer without a possibility of it being tampered with. The bottles are filled to the brim which keeps the milk motionless during transportation and thereby prevents any injurious effects from shaking and exposure, as in the case of cans.

The unusually large quantity of cream can be seen upon the milk, which can be poured off for separate use or can be mixed through the milk again,

Another great advantage is that the milk is kept air-tight, and in warm weather can be set away in refrigerators or plunged into ice water until wanted, therefore, always perfectly fresh.

Customers are requested to wash the bottles and wash off the seal as soon as empty, to be exchanged for full ones. For convenience tickets will be sold which can be exchanged for bottles of milk.

This method of delivering milk entails additional labor and expense, but we shall furnish those who may favor us with their custom with fresh, sweet, rich milk at same rates as supplied by other dealers. We expect to start about the first of March. As a trial of our milk is the best way to test its quality we shall be pleased to leave it on trial to all applicants.

All orders to be sent to J. E. Sills, Esq, the City Treasurer's Office, City Hall, Reid & Pringle's grocery, or to the Managing Director, P. O. Box 601, from whom any information can be obtained.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again, I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. A PASTOR'S FAREWELL.

Rev. E. J. Stobo says Good-bye to his Congregation.

Rev. E. J. Stobo, pastor of the Baptist Church for about a year, having accepted a call to the Baptist Church, Quebec, preached his farewell sermon last evening from Galatians, v—1—"Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." He spoke of the many cases where heroic persons have rushed before a passenger train on the railway to prevent a terrible loss of life by plunging into an open bridge, and warned the congregation that there was equal necessity for the man of God to raise a warning against an abounding error. A man's conduct in the world, his independence and liberty with Christ was the question upon which the rev. gentleman spoke for some little time. At the close of his discourse he spoke feelingly of his relations with the members of that church and of their separation. He said perhaps his rugged and terse manner of address may not have suited all. It would have been impossible to expect that it would. "If I have made any faults," he said, "it has been the error of the head and not the heart. I came here to bring souls to Jesus, but my physical inability to visit my people from house to house has no doubt been a drawback to the spiritual welfare of the church. But what I have neglected in that respect I have endeavored to overlook in the pulpit. I had very poor health in the summer, but its much worse now than it was when I came here All this will come up again for final review and God will deal with us fairly. There are few people who know the anxieties of a Christian minister. Some men think of a minister as a 'talking machine,' but they are sadly in error. They little know of the heart achings and heart burnings of a minister for his people and of the many sleepless nights that are put in by the minister thinking over his congregation. Brethren we may never meet on this side of the broad river again; we will meet on the shore beyond. We only part to-night to meet again Oh let us think of that meeting again, and let us be sure that everything is right in the light of that day. Finally, brethren—farewell—be of good spirit, be of good mind." His sympathetic remarks to the members of the church brought tears to their eyes and there were few present who did not in this way express their regret at the departure of their esteemed pastor. The choir at the close of the service sang "We shall meet by and by," which was quite appropriate to the occasion.

OBITUARY.

The death of Thomas Linklater at an early hour yesterday morning was a sudden surprise to everyone. He had only been ill for about ten days with inflammatory rheumatism, but while unable to leave his room during that time his case was not considered by any means serious until Saturday. He had previous to this been opposed to having a doctor called in, but as his condition became more and more alarming the friends sent for a physician in the afternoon on Saturday, but it was too late. He gradually sank until ten minutes past seven o'clock Sunday morning, when he was called away to a better land.

Thomas Linklater was born in Orkney, Scotland, on September 1st, 1830, and came to Belleville when a young man where he has carried on a large hardware business since. He returned to his native land in 1857 and married Margaret Spence, who preceeded him to the grave just a few weeks over two years ago. There were five children in the family three of whom are still living. The deceased was a warm-hearted, unostentatious Christian gentleman, whom to know was to love and respect, and his departure will be sadly missed. He was a kind and indulgent father, and the family will have the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

DEATH OF MR. EDMUND SNELL

Edmund Snell, an old and esteemed resident of Belleville, also went over to the silent majority yesterday. In his case death was not unexpected. He had been ill for several months and it was only a question of time when he would be called away. His death was caused by heart disease. The deceased was born in Cornwall, England, and was 72 years of age. Belleville has been his place of residence for a number of years, where he was engaged in the butchering business. His son, Mr. John Snell, who succeeds his father in the business, and the other members of the family will receive the warm sympathy of a large number of friends in the loss of the head of the family.

For Walking into a House and Disturbing the Residents.

"I guess I'm no lunatic," was the remark made by Michael Goggins at the Police Court this morning when he overheard a conversation going on between the Chief of Police and the Magistrate.

The Magistrate—What charge do you propose to put against him?

The Chief—There will be two charges—one for being a dangerous lunatic, and a second for doing injury to property.

The Magistrate—You can't prosecute a person on a criminal charge if he is a lunatic.

The prisoner—Your honor, I am not a lunatic.

The Magistrate—That's a sure sign you are No man that is crazy ever admits it.

The prisoner—I only went to the house in mistake. The door was open when I went to the house and I went in and up stairs. I turned down the quilt from her face and as soon as I saw it was not the right party I begged to be excused and left. She said it was next door.

The Magistrate—I should give you six months or going into a house at that hour of the night. Take him down stairs

The prisoner was then conducted to his cell below. His case will be tried to-morrow.

Henry Clement Almonte, writes: For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism at times wholy disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil told me about it. I began to use it both externally and internally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns cuts and bruises, it has no equa

HENRY IRVING.

Conclusion of the Great Actor's Toronto Engagement.

HE MAKES A LITTLE SPEECH.

Of this the writer is convinced, that in the dramatic firmament there shines no star of greater magnitude and power than Henry Irving. His stage creations are so artistically perfect they seem to be embodied pictures of the originals. He is instinct with dramatic power and makes the precise impression upon his audience he intends to produce. Whether it be true that Edwin Booth is a greater tragedian there can be no question that Henry Irving is a great actor, a consummate master of his art, and unapproached by any other English speaking actor now alive. In attention to the mise en scene of his performances he stands alone, and the dressing and scenes put on the stage of the Grand Opera House were nothing short of a revelation to Toronto theatre-goers.

Of Miss Terry there was but one verdict—a charming actress of great skill and subtle power. Subtle, for her voice, though pleasant and by no means weak, is not so sweet as Mary Anderson's nor as strong as Mrs. Siddons', and yet so pure is its tone and so clear the enunciation, backed by the true fire of dramatic genius that the effect is nothing short of electrical.

The manager of the Grand Opera House, Toronto, Mr. Sheppard, was the only one in Canada enterprising enough to secure this great English troupe, which includes such names as Teriss and Tyars. It was the greatest engagement ever handled in Canada. Some idea of the worth of the company aside from the two great stars may be had from the fact that it consists of seventy people, carries three car loads of scenery and travels by special trains. Toronto gave Mr. Irving and Miss Terry an enthusiastic welcome and crowded houses. On Saturday evening after the most magnificent performance of Louis XI, Mr. Irving was called before the curtain and made the following speech:—

Ladies and gentlemen: I cannot thank you as my heart would prompt me. You have given us a right royal Canadian welcome; if I may say it, a British welcome (Cheers.) I have but two regrets: One is that our stay has been so short—(a voice—come back again) I will endeavor to do so. (Loud cheers.) The other is that I have not had the opportunity of going through your Dominion. It would have given us great delight to have shaken hands with your fellow citizens in Montreal, Ottawa and—(here Irving paused, but the name Belleville had apparently escaped his memory,)—and other places. I believe Toronto means a "place of meeting." I hope that this may be our place of meeting again and again (cheers.) We may meet here as brothers and sisters in love and loyalty to our English Throne. I have to thank you on behalf of my friend Miss Terry, (Loud cheeing) whose gratitude is equal to my own. If I fail to express to you how much we thank you you must take the will for the deed, and, beggar as I am in words, believe we entertain the hope that you shall remember us as we shall remember you. (Cheers.)

Two hours afterwards Mr. Irving and his company left by special train for Boston after which he goes to Washington and then back to New York.

STAGE NOTES.

"Rice's Surprise Party" Company, which is in Toronto this week playing "Pop," will very likely come to Belleville on the recommendation of Manager Sheppard, of the Grand.

The "Silver King" Company is booked at the Opera House for March 26th and 27th.

There are a number of varieties of corns. Holloway's Corn Cure removes any of them.

THE BELL RINGERS.

That the Royal Hand Bell Ringers, who appear at the Opera House this evening, are no ordinary performers is a fact, and Belleville has heard nothing like them before. They should not be confused with any previous Swiss Bell Ringing organization. They produce on their carillon of 130 bells such pieces as 'March of the Israelites' from 'Eli' in which 66 bells are manipulated, 'Caller Herrin', Weel may the Keel Row' and other Scotch airs, Handel's 'Scipio,' Strauss' 'Blue Danube, the Turkish Patrol, 'the 'Last Rose of Summer' 'Westminister Chimes,' 'Les Cloches de Corneville' (entailing the manipulation of 76 bells). There are 30 varied selections and 14 vocal pieces in addition.

Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscels and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated removes through the natural channels certain acid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective,

PERSONAL.

Mr. J. C. Moynes left for Montreal this morning.

Rev. E. J. Stobo will leave for Quebec next week.

Mr. T. Holden, P.M., has returned home from Toronto.

The Imperial Speaker has declined a peerage upon retiring.

The Princes of Wales' maiden spech in the House of Lords the other night created a flutter.

Mr. E. J. W. Barton, collector of Customs at Port Hope, was in the city to-day visiting friends.

Rev. H. Auston, of Gananoque, has declined the position offered him by the Dean as senior curate of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston.

It is probable that Mr. Cline, of McMaster Hall, Toronto, will succeed Rev. E. J. Stobo, as pastor of the Baptist church. He will preach here next Sunday.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co s. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

The Ministerial Association met this morning as usual, Rev. D. Williams in the chair, and in the absence of the Secretary Rev. D. Mitchell discharged his duties. There was an excellent attendance. A letter was read from Rev. E. J. Stobo, intimating that he was about to leave the city to take charge of a congregation in Quebec, and expressing his regret at having to part with the brethren, and his earnest prayers for the Association. The following resolution was unanimously adopted: "Brother Stobo having resigned his position as Vice-President of this Association before leaving to enter upon an important charge in Quebec, the brethren unite in expressing their sincere regret at the loss which they are thereby called to sustain. During his year's residence in this city, Mr. Stobo has approved himself a wise workman, needing not to be ashamed. He has taken part in many public meetings, such as the Bible Society, the Lutheran celebration, and several of those connected with the Week of Prayer, and always with much credit to himself and benefit to the community. The association will always retain the most kindly remembrance of their intercourse with their brother, and the warmest appreciation of the manner in which he discharged all his duties as Vice-President, of the able papers he has submitted on various topics, and the suggestive criticisms made by him on the essays of others.

The members unite in the prayer that the divine blessings may be with brother Stobo in his new sphere of labor, or where ever his lot may be cast, and that God may vouch safe his favor to the wife and family of their brother in their new home."

Rev. E. J. Stobo afterwards read a paper upon the difficulties and encouragements of the Ministry which gave rise to an animated and instructive conversation.

Rev. Prof. Badgley was appointed to give next Monday an exegesis on 1 Peter III 18 22, and Rev. D. Mitchell to read a critique on the 10th prox., on a recent work "Gesta Christi."

Mrs. A. Nixon, Brantford writes: 'I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years, Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling which would last for hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist of our city, to try Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure, and I am thankful to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results.

GENTLEMEN:—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

Savile had been attired in a light suit of clothes of an ordinary grey pattern, and a low crowned hat, yet he was treated with a respect which the stranger failed to receive, despite the fact that Shoreditch had lavished all its wealth of taste and fashion on his array.

This was not the reception he had expected, when he had journeyed to Hurstleigh, little doubting that a week would see him in the vortex of county society.

He glanced round the room, but the prospect of eleemosynary beer had dulled the appreciation of the snub, which the remaining inmates would probably have had, if beer had not been brought into question.

'Good morning, gentlemen,' he said seeing the state of things at a glance. 'You ain't too proud to have a glass of ale with a gentleman as comes down to see your town?'

Far from it, they being (at that moment) equally of opinion with the stranger that 'actors is a stuck-up, low lot, and ought to treat a gentleman as is a gentleman, and behaves like a gentleman, with respect.'

So they said, and if they did not add that they were prepared to treat him with the most marked deference so long as the gratulations supply of refreshment lasted, it was not because they didn't mean it.

This was all very pleasant as far as it went, but not exactly answering to the purpose for which our friend had left London.

His little programme had been as follows.

He was to appear at the theatre, where it seemed a foregone conclusion that someone, struck by the elegance of his manners or person, would have desired further to investigate the treasures of his mind, and invited him home.

A fashionable man from London would be, he fancied, a great acquisition to a house in a quiet country village, and when once there, his position was assured.

Nature had lavishly endowed him with conversational abilities, and he had not neglected the gift, as many were free to confess, who, carred away by his flood of eloquence, had recklessly invested half-crowns in the purses which he had been in the habit of selling at provincial race meetings; purses containing—or so it seemed gold and silver coins in abundance, which were only parted with in consequence of a bet which had been made between Mr. Disraeli and Lord John Russell; but which purses failed lamentably in carrying out their promise.

Music, too, was one of his accomplishments, and his imitations of popular comic singers were considering rather startling by his numerous friends in the 'Dials'; and if the piano did not come within the range of his powers, his proficiency on the banjo (acquired by constant practice when, the purse-selling business having proved unremunerative, he had assured the ebon hue of the peripapetic Christy minstred) was considerable.

His present position, in a taproom with a number of servants, was altogether a deviation from the programme; still it had better be turned to account, he thought.

'Was you at the play last night, sir?' he inquired of his neighbour.

'Yes, master, I was there,' replied the man.

'And what did you think of it?'

'Moighty pretty lass, surely the one as all them troubles come to—moighty pretty lass!'

'There was a many o' your haristocaracy there, I suppose.'

'Many o' the what, master?'

'Lords, baronets, and cetrers.'

'We ain't got no lords, jest here; not handy like to Hurstleigh; nor no 'cetrers'—at I knows on,' he added, the last few words being unwilling absolutely to deny the existence of a class of the aristocracy of which he had never heard before; 'and the only barronite as lives nigh warn't there though his son was.'

'How's that, then?' asked the stranger.

'Sir Hubert Madeley,' replied the man; ''e warn't there; he don't care for plays and such like.'

'Ain't a haffable man, eh?'

'I don't know nothing about haffable but he ain't a nice man to deal with, that I do know.'

'Where does he live?' pursued the questioner.

'Madeley Court, five miles away from here.'

'Worth seeing is it? Does the bart, let wisitors hinspect the premises?'

'Haw! haw! don't you go a tryin' to inspect the premises,' laughed the man; ''e don't let no strangers go near, I can't tell ye.

'Him let visitors inspect the premises!' and he laughed aloud at the notion of any such gracious act proceeding from the act of Madley Court.

'He's got a son you say?'

'Ah!' was the reply, in a gruff sigh of admiration, 'there's a nice young feller, if you like.

'A good thing it'll be when he steps into the old un's shoes, say I,' and a chorus of approbation from the listeners showed that the sentiment was generally appreciated.

'Does he live at Madeley Court?'

'Yes, him and a young frend is a staying there now.'

'It ain't a very big household,' remarked the stranger with, a view to ascertaining if anyone else resided at the Court.

'Ain't there no women?'

'There's a Lady Stembriege,' and one of the coachmen. 'She's a widder, a cousin of hold Madeley's. Civil-spoken person she seems, too.'

'Rather dull she must find it hup there, I should fancy?'

'Raythe, with no better company than old Madeley,' acquiesced the hearers.

'It's a fine old house, though,' exclaimed another man.

'Worth seeing, is it?' the stranger asked.

Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epedemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, biliousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is pidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength irritating the nerves, or depressing the spirits. Such as the ready means of saving many when afflicted with colds, coughs, and other complaints by which so many are seriously and permanently afflicted in most countries.

THE GREAT DR, DIO LEWIS.

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained a world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefits which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

AFTER THE CULMINATION OF manhood at forty, the prime of life, begins to decline into old age. The activity of the digestive apparatus which at first was sufficient not only to provide for the daily waste, but to add new material later on is only able to supply the daily waste, and at last too imperfect to maintain the balance and sustain the frame in its existing entirety. At this period when the expenditure is greater than the income, WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA, by augmenting nerve force and supplying ready-made tissue elements, will have a tendency to prolong life.

BEFORE THE BALL.

To-night I shall dress in my finest—
I'll put on my latest white silk,

My gloves shall run to my shoulders,
My roses all lovely and fair,
And then I shall wear all my diamonds,
And have diamond dust in my hair.

I'll sit in the box at eleven,
And all the rich cavalcade scan,
And Freddie shall sit at my elbow
And to and fro teeter my fan.

Right there we shall linger together,
And in tender whispering speak,
And I shall be happy, and make all
The other girls sick for a week.

EASTERN DAIRYMEN.

PROCEEDING OF THE ANNUAL MEETING IN PETERBORO.

(Review.)

The President after calling the meeting to order, said that the convention met under very favorable circumstances in the flourishing town of Peterboro. They had a great future before them, if they employed their time properly in cultivating the great industry of the country—the dairying industry. If they would take into account the amount of money received for cheese and butter exported from Canada, they must come to the conclusion that it was an industry worth looking after. The dairymen of the future would have to use more intellect and science than those of the past made use of. Active competition and the more fastidious tastes of the consumers made this necessary. Smooth, bright, sweet flavored cheese, possessing keeping qualities, could only be manufactured on the Cheddar system. To be able to compete with the American manufacturers, they would have to educate their producers so that they would be able to satisfy the tastes of those whom they wished to supply. There were thousands of packages of butter in this country for which there was no market on account of its inferior quality. Some people commence to make butter in May and salt it down like they would pork, and when they take it to the market they lose from 5 to 7 cents a lb. If they sold the butter when fresh they would have realized more for it, and besides the customers had in the meantime received their supplies from other places. Only a few years ago the farmers were all speculators in cheese, holding it on the shelves waiting for better prices, but during the past three years they had succeeded in wiping that out considerable, and had succeeded in getting the cheese moved to the market when it was in its best condition, and when it would sell to the best advantage. A manufacturer should have ability, experience and a taste for the business, and should study the interest of those whom they had to please. The proper time to canvass for milk for the next year was in May. They should study the wants of their customers, so as to be able to supply them. Experience was needed in the manufacture of cheese the same as in any other business. No factory should have less than 500 cows to supply it with milk, and the cattle should have plenty of nutritious food, and the tins should be kept scrupulously clean. The dairyman should see that the milk reached the factory in its best condition, and then the manufacturer could make a good article. A cheap manufacturer, making a cheap article to sell it at a low price did not pay. Two or three salesmen for a factory were unnecessary, and interfered with each other in the disposal of the cheese. A factory should have one intelligent man for a salesman, and should remunerate him for his trouble. They should remember these points, namely, to have a manager who understood the business, 500 cows supplying milk a good, experienced maker, and one capable salesman, and then their business would succeed. In the interests of themselves, their patrons and the Dominion, the manufacturers should make a good article. They should have good boxes with lids that would fit down on the cheese, and they should give 16 ounces to the pound, so as to establish thoroughly in the minds of the people of Liverpool that they were honest. They should try to build up a reputation for the country, and they had succeeded largely in doing this. The cheese produced in this country had been improved 25 per cent. yet half of the factories in the east were making a common article. They needed to remedy this and they must remedy it in the future. The mode they had adopted during the past two or three years was the best one, namely employing travelling schools to carry the gospel to the poor heathens. Some manufacturers said they did not want instructions while the cheese on the shelves were shedding tears for the instructors to come. The instructors had succeeded in teaching these men something. An American Governor had said that they would spend thousands of dollars to beat Canada in the cheese market, but the Americans could not do it if they would unite in producing the best article and the best only. Cheese makers who had not enough interest in their profession to attend a convention where they would learn something should be put out of the factories. No cheese manufacturer could make cheese for less than a cent and a half a pound and do it properly, to have anything left for himself. Poor cheese was always a drug in the market, while good cheese was commanding a good price. They had produced more cheese and had exported 187,000 boxes more in the past year than ever before, yet the demand was never better. This was on account of the improvemet in the character of their goods, owing to the efforts of the instructor. They must have all the cheese made in the country come up to the mark. The future of dairying never looked so bright as now. Butter producing had been neglected by some of the farmers. They should have a good milk cellar in which the temperature would never go below 55° or rise higher than 60°. The cream should be removed on the first appearance of acidity, and churned at a temperature of 60°. An ounce of salt should be put in to the pound. The butter should then be put up in nice little pakages in the best condition, and placed in the market regularly every two weeks. Potatoes, roots and vegetables should not be kept in the same cellar with milk, as they tainted the milk. If a cheese factory were convenient, more money could be mode with less labor by sending the milk to the factory. Minister of Agriculture had told him that if the Association could spend more money to advantage, the Government would be willing to give it. The committee which waited upon the Government in regard to the creameries, urged upon the Minister that only one creamery should be established, and that one at the Agricultural College, Guelph. Every farmer should send his sons to this college. The speaker referred to Peterboro' in flattering terms as a centre of enterprise, and resumed his seat amid applause.

HOW TO TEST BUTTER.

A waiter employed in a restaurant says: "Any housekeeper can prove the honesty of her grocer or his butter by melting it. Pure butter melted produces a pure limpid golden oil. and it retains the butter flavor Melt oleomargarine and the oil smells like tallow and looks like tallow, and a scum rises to the surface. Butterine is a mixture of dairy butter and fats. Melt that and the butter oil will rise to the top. Pour this off and you will fiop the fats at the bottom, whitish in color and giving off a disagreeable smell."

THOUSANDS SAY SO.

Mr. T. W. Atkins Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by R. Templeton.

The reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfectly harmless. Second, It saves more than ½ the labor. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but these should be sufficient. For sale by all

DISSENTIONS IN THE CABINET.

Mr. Cameron, of Huron, in the House of Commons made the following sarcastic reference to the harmony existing in the Dominion Cabinet:—

I cannot pass on to the discussion of the question before the House, without congratulating the hon. gentlemen on the other side, on the marvellous harmony which appears to reign supreme on the Ministerial benches—the singular unanimity of sentiment which appears to exist between the different members of the Government, and the different organs of the Government outside of Parliament. One is curious to know, Sir, whether the old spirit of rivalry which used to exist between the Secretary of State and my always esteemed and able friend the Minister of Public Works is all harmonized. Perhaps so; but it is quite clear that they have not been able to reconcile the expression of opinion of the party organs outside, with the expressions of opinion by the hon. gentlemen themselves. One would gather from what my hon, friend from Jacques Cartier (Mr. Girouard) said the other night, that the little difficulties are not all yet settled. One would rather be inclined to believe from the thunders of denunciation which one hears occasionally re-echoing from the Canadian House of Peers, as well as from the public platform, respecting the actions and conduct of the Secretary of State, that all these little difficulties are not yet reconciled. Sir, the hon. gentleman, however, sits there, he occupies a seat as a member of the Government on the floor of the House, notwithstanding all these rivalries and jealousies, notwithstanding the denunciations of the public press controlled by himself, he sits there like a fly in amber and one wonders how the mischief he is there. There, however, he sits, as a Minister of the Crown. Now, Sir, I have always admired the genius, the ability, and the power of controlling men, which are possessed by the First Minister. It is one of those traits in his character which is unparalelled in the history of any other man in this wide Dominion. But I think the hon. gentleman has a little difficulty just now. His colleagues may be submissive, they may yield when the proper kind of pressure is brought to bear upon them by the right hon. gentleman, they may lend an unwilling hand to him in carrying out the different schemes he may see fit to devise, but still, I think, the hon. gentleman has a difficult task before him. He has not been sleeping on a bed of roses for the last four weeks, nor has he sunk into the arms of Morpheus during that period, with the Secretary of State on one side, and the Minister of Public Works on the other, and with La Minerve and La Monde, away down in the great Province of Quebec, denouncing the Minister of Railways as an utterly incapable Minister.

LIBELS AND THE PRESS.

More than once, says the Hamilton Spectator, we have expressed an opinion that the law of libel as it stands bears hardly upon the newspaper press. We have believed that more than one Canadian journal has had to pay damages for publishing news that was both true and proper; and in other instances, for statements which might not have been strictly correct, but which were published in good faith, without malice, and in answer to which the statement of the aggrieved person was published in full. We do not believe in license; reasonable restraint should be put upon those who would abuse perfect freedom of utterance; but where malice is not shown, where good faith is evident, where the matter published is of public interest, and where permission for the hearing of both sides is given, we think the law should not bear so hardly as it does upon publishers. These were the opinions of the Spectator when other journals—some of them political opponents—were made to suffer; and the fact that a verdict out of all proportion to any possible damage has been recorded against the proprietors of this journal does not tend to change our convictions. At present, some penniless scoundrel, fined for drunkenness or disorderly conduct, may bring suit against a newspaper for publishing the record of police-court proceedings if the slightest error is made in the report; and needy lawyers are not wanting to encourage such suits, who just manage to escape the penalties for barratry."

Other of the leading journalists of Canada have expressed the same views, and why such an estate as the Fourth cannot exert influence enough to secure proper amendment to the law is perhaps a pertinent question. The Act passed by the Ontario Legislature of 1882 privileged press reports of public meetings and we think our contemporary's police court report might be covered by this Act.

A BANK EXPLOSION.

Thirteen Clerks Hurled from their Seats by the Shock.

THE VAULT EMITS A THUNDER BOLT.

TORONTO, Feb. 26.—A terrible explosion occurred in the Bank of Commerce, on the corner of Young and Colborne streets, yesterday morning. About ten minutes past nine. George Shaw, the bank messenger, proceeded to open the cash vault to be ready for the business of the day. The vault is situated in the rear of the bank, and is air-tight. After mastering the combination he lit a match and swinging open the door started to enter for the purpose of lighting the gas. At that moment he was hurled from his feet, and rushed from inside the vault, across the room towards the Yonge street front of the building. The twelve clerks seated at their desks were knocked down like so many nine-pins, and every window smashed, and the sashes blown out. Mr. William Fuller, the paying teller, happened to be standing near the window facing Yonge street. He was lifted up and thrown into the street by the force of the explosion, and was picked up insensible and bleeding from a deep cut in his neck. The heavy plaster rained down in showers, the railings and guards were twisted off the counters, and flying pieces of glass inflicted cuts innumerable on the bewildered clerks. For a moment, everything was confusion inside the bank. No one seemed able to stir for fear of setting fire to another hidden mine. At last when the officials recovered their senses sufficiently to take in the situation they telephoned for the police, closed the bank doors, and proceeded to examine the extent of the injury. It was found that George Shaw the messenger, was severely burned about the head, and that W. H. Fitten and W. H. Dunsford, clerks, were badly gashed by being struck with pieces of glass. Several others sustained trival cuts and contusions. The doors of the cash vault were were almost twisted off their hinges; the plaster on the walls and ceiling had fallen in several places, and in the whole of the ground floor remained intact. At first it was thought that burglars had been at work, and the explosion the result of their labours, but a moment's observation convinced every body of the true cause. It appears that on Saturday the Gas Company had men employed repairing the pipes in the bank, and through some neglect on their part or perhaps on the part of the clerks, the jet in the vault was left open at closing time on Saturday with the result that the huge iron box was turned into a gasometer. The effects of the explosion were principally felt within the bank itself, and mainly confined to the ground floor. The shock, however, ran up and down Yonge street for a considerable distance, and was the cause of a large number leaving their establishment through fear of a repetition. Smith & Fudger's building on the north west corner of Wellington and Yonge streets, shook like a reed and windows were broken in several other warehouses. The report which first spread through town, that an attempt had been made to rob the bank, caused considerable sensation in financial circles, and many business men who had dealings with the institution hurried to the scene to find out all about it. Of course business had to be suspended until matters were set to right accordingly the bank was closed for repairs. The damage is hard to guess at, but so far as can be judged by a cursory view of the room, cannot be less than $1,000. The contents of the vaults, although of an inflamable character, sustained no injury.

A SHEET OF FLAME

HAULING DOWN THE STARS AND STRIPES.

Toronto World.

Friday last was the anniversary of George Washington's birthday. The U.S. Consulate's office is in the Mail building. Mr. Howard, the vice consul, to commemorate the day, hoisted the Stars and Stripes on the flag pole on the top of Pulp Tower. Chris Bunting came along and saw the flag fluttering in the breeze. Jumping on the elevator he rushed to his room and became so white with with rage that he could not speak for ten minutes. With a curse he ordered the janitor to haul down the d—d rag. It is likely the Mail will have more rooms to rent very shortly.

CITY COUNCIL.

The Bushy Island Ferry Route Disapproved.

THAT BONUS TO THE GRAND TRUNK.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last evening, His Worship the Mayor in the chair.

Those present were:—Ald. La Roche, Petrie, Clarke, Alford, J. W. Johnson, Tickell, Baker, Graham, L. Johnson, Pope, Blair, McIninch, Diamond, Vandusen, Hanley, Campion, Macoun and Pringle.

PETITIONS AND LETTERS.

Mr. David Holden asked remission of his taxes, ($42) for 1883.

Col. S. S. Lazier urged the city to bear part of the expense with the Dominion Government for the erection of a drill shed. He suggested that the city should set aside $3,000 for this purpose.

Mr. Rollins, Montreal, bondsman for Treasurer Tannahill, wished to be released from any further responsibility in the matter.

Phœbe Stapley asked a remission of her taxes for the last year.

Mr. Robert Gordon complained of being assessed on property he did not own.

Monsignor Farrelly wrote that through his efforts the Seperate School Board had sufficient funds to cancel the city debentures debt. The debentures are now in his hands and these, together with five years coupons, he is prepared to give over to the city to be destroyed on receipt of $1,500 sinking fund in the treasury.

A tender from a Hose Company offered to furnish the city the Eureka hose at $1.25 per foot, less 8c per foot providing the city furnish the couplings, or the Paragon at $1.15 per foot, less the 8c allowed on couplings.

The Women's Christian Association asked for the usual grant of $300 to the Home for the Friendless; also $300 for present use in supplying the wants of the poor.

The directors of the Mechanics Institute petitioned for the usual grant to the Institution of $200.

George Adams pressed his claim for the amount of his disbursements while acting as deputy returning officer.

NOT LIABLE.

The City Solicitor reported that Mr. Hunt and Miss Sinnott had no grounds for an action against the city for damages. He asked for further time to report in re J. W. Hunter's claim for damages.

Ald. Blair moved that while the city is not legally liable for damages for injuries which Mrs. Hunt's child received, the Council pay her $50.

Ald. Vandusen thought this was only a reasonable sum and he hoped it would pass. The whole matter was referred to the Executive Committee.

CALLERY'S GRATUITY.

The reports of the committees were discussed in Committee of the Whole, Ald. L. Johnson in the chair.

Ald. Diamond objected to the clause in the report of the Board of Works granting a gratuity to Patrick Callery, as being irregular.

Ald Pope and Vandusen favored the grant, but the majority of the Council voted otherwise, and the recommendation in the report of the Executive opposing the same, was carried.

THE FERRY QUESTION.

The report of the Harbor Committee dis approving of any further expenditure on the Busby Island route provoked some discussion. Ald. J. W. Johnson was opposed to snubbing Mr. Anderson, reeve of Ameliasburg, in the manner proposed by the Committee. The trade of Ameliasburg is one which the merchantile men of Belleville are anxious to get, and in justice to them, as well as to a large proportion of the residents of Ameliasburg, this matter should not be choked off so promptorily as the Ferry Committee propose. He moved in amendment to the report that in view of the negotiations with the Government for a second license no action be taken at present.

Ald. Vandusen seconded the above amendment.

Ald. LaRoche did not agree with Ald Johnson in his reference to the views of the people across the bay. He believed that a majority of the merchants of Belleville as well as about two hundred of the farmers of Ameliasburg were not in accord with the Busby Island route.

WHARF STREET LANDING.

Ald. Tickell thought whatever is done in this matter should be done at once. There is no doubt the merchants are disgusted with the treatment they have received from the Council. The trade from Prince Edward has been gradually falling off, and the business men of our city are the ones who have to suffer. He though a remedy could be effected at a slight expense by utilizing the slip at the foot of Wharf Street. The money spent in building the upper slip was as good as thrown away, and the only scheme open for the city now is to use the landing spoken of. Neither one of the present ferries in his opinion were fit for the travel—but a more powerful boat which could make trips more frequently at less ferriage than is demanded from the public now. He moved in amendment to the amendment that the Council ascertain the cost of building a slip at the foot of Wharf Street.

BUSHY ISLAND ROUTE.

Ald. Hanley remarked that the objections to the slip at present in use applied with equal force to the one proposed by Ald. Tickell. He thought time must come when the ferry would land at Busby Island, and it has been stated by practical men that the cost of fitting up this island for the purpose would not exceed $2,500. He had a map giving the distance from the lower bridge to the slips which showed the West Belleville landing to be about 200 yards the shortest.

OPPOSITION VIEWS.

Ald. Macoun having had occasion to meet many of the farmers from Ameliasburg, he learned that nine out of every ten were opposed to the Bushy Island route and the present boat. There was another objection to this route. If the landing was on the other side of the river one of the bridges and possibly both might be carried away by the ice. Such a thing has occurred before in his recollection, and it's among the possibilities that it would be repeated this spring.

Ald. Clarke's forty years experience with the travel of Ameliasburg taught him that they were not in favor of establishing the western route.

Ald. Pope said if the new members of the Council had been present at the meeting with the Ameliasburg Council they would know perfectly well that they (the Ameliasburg people) would not give a single cent towards improving the ferry accomodation.

HIS OLD POLICY.

Ald. Diamond submitted that no offence was intended to Mr. Anderson by the Ferry Committee in the report which they presented to the Council. He stated that the Ameliasburg Council were bound in writing not to expend one dollar in maintaining the ferry while they have sublet the license to a company. The trouble is now that the people across the bay find the ferriage too high and hence they are dissatisfied. This Council should stand by the action of the Councils in former years. If the Busby Island route is preferred by this Council Mr. Anderson will at once state to the Government that the Mary Ethel can accommodate the people on the short route and they will be allowed to use this boat. He was opposed to this boat as he was also to Capt. Jellett's ferry. Neither one were fit for the purpose. He further contended that this Council had no right to take any notice of the letter from Mr. Anderson, Reeve. If there was anything to be said in this matter or a new route desired it should be said by the lesees of the present boat. The city had done, he said, everything that was fair and reasonable in the premises and he was opposed to doing anything further with the Ameliasburg Council when they were opposed to expending any money whatever.

Ald. Vandusen thought the time had come when such men as Ald. Diamond should be taught that common sense people at least were willing to discuss this ferry question on its merits, and not do everything possible to get the Council to support him in his dog-in-the-manger policy. Ald. Vandusen was quite sure the time was not far distant when the Bushy Island route would have to be adopted. The arguments advanced by Ald. Diamond in regard to the Mary Ethel being able to accomodate the public on the shortest water route, was sufficient evidence that he was trying to defeat the Mary Ethel at the expense of the travelling public. The speaker did not care which boat was used in fact, they were both unfit for the purpose, but he was strongly opposed to Ald. Diamond's conduct of fighting the present lessees to satisfy a little personal grievance.

Ald J. W. Johnson pointed out that his amendment did not commit the Council to any route, but merely let the matter stand in abeyance for the present and await further development.

THE MAYOR'S OPINION.

His Worship thought that some of those who were discussing the matter had forgotten that the ferry at present was not intended as a boat for foot passengers alone. A boat on the shortest water route possible for teams, and another for foot passengers, with a landing as near the market as possible would be the better way out of the present difficulty. He pointed out what representations had been made to the Government by the present lessees, and suggested that another petition be sent to the Government by the council increasing the accommodation and lessening the ferriage already agreed, upon if the license is given to the city.

Ald. Diamond was opposed to the foot passenger boat, which he thought would be an inducement for farmers to leave their rigs on the opposite side of the bay.

Ald. Petrie strongly opposed the Busby Island route.

On a vote being taken the original report of the Committee was adopted with the amendment of Ald. Diamond that the slip at the foot of Dundas Street be used if the lessee desires so.

Ald. Tickell gave notice of a motion asking for tenders for the cost of building a slip at the foot of Wharf Street.

THE SNOW BY LAW.

Ald. Petrie—What has become of the Snow By-law.

The Mayor—The Commissioners have this matter as well as the license question under their consideration.

Ald. Vandusen called attention to the fact that parties cutting ice near Zwick's Island left the hole without proper protection.

THE GRAND TRUNK BONUS.

Ald. Hanley moved that the Clerk furnish the Council with the agreement upon which the Grand Trunk obtained the $50,000 bonus from the city. This was carried.

Ald. Diamond moved that the $50,000 debentures given in trust to Mr. Thompson, banker, only $25,000 of which were handed over to the Grand Trunk Company, be cancelled and handed over to the Solicitor. This motion arises out of an enquiry made by Ald. J. W. Johnson at the last meeting, who expressed his pleasure to know that debentures were in such safe hands. The motion was carried without discussion.

COLLEGE STREET REPAIRS.

Mr. H. Ashley, Reeve of Thurlow, was on motion permitted to address the Council in reference to a grant of $50, which was made by the County Council to repair west College Street, on condition that the city supplement the grant by a similar sum. He said Mr. Farnum on behalf of the County was willing to begin expending this money at present if the city would agree to furnish their share of money necessary. In the absence of the chairman of the Board of Works nothing definite could be stated, but Ald. Diamond promised to bring the matter under his notice at once.

THE SINKING FUND.

Ald. J. W. Johnson gave notice of a motion asking for returns showing the amount in the sinking fund in 1874, the amount expended since then in paying off the debentures and the amount still on hand.

Ald. Alford gave notice of a motion for the appointment of an officer to look after buildings and yards in order to prevent fire.

The Council adjourned.

PERSONAL.

Rev. Father Davis, of Madoc, was in the city to-nay.

Mr. Geo. H. Gordon, of Trenton, is dangerously ill.

SPORTING NOTES.

A number of local sporting men wil attend the races at Colborne on Thursday and Friday. The following is the programme:—On Thursday will come off the three minute trot for $35, $15, and $10; the 2,34 for $40, $20, and $10, and a a running race, $12, $8, and $5. On the second day come the named race for $35, $15, and $10; also the 2,45 class, for $40, 20, and $10; and finally the free-for-all for $50, $30, and $20.

Every observer who walks the streets of a a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate degree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrop and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

R. J. Moore and George W. Wyatt are the only colored members of the Texas legislature. They sit apart from the other members, and appear to be spectators merely of the proceedings They never join in the debates, but vote without molestation.

Pure Milk for Belleville,
—from the—
City of Belleville Milk Company
—sealed and delivered in—
GLASS BOTTLES.

To the Citizens of Belleville:

THE Stockholders of this Company owning farms in the vicinity of the City, and keeping a large number of cows will supply the people of Belleville with milk in sealed bottles, which they GUARANTEE to be ABSOLUTELY PURE and of a SUPERIOR QUALITY. The milk for the present is bottled and sealed at the homes of the individual stockholders, a vital feature, as the milk is then delivered into the hands of the consumer without a possibility of it being tampered with. The bottles are filled to the brim which keeps the milk motionless during transportation and thereby prevents any injurious effects from shaking and exposure, as in the case of cans.

The unusually large quantity of cream can be seen upon the milk, which can be poured off for separate use or can be mixed through the milk again.

Another great advantage is that the milk is kept air-tight, and in warm weather can be set away in refrigerators or plunged into ice water until wanted, therefore, always perfectly fresh.

Customers are requested to wash the bottles and wash off the seal as soon as empty, to be exchanged for full ones. For convenience tickets will be sold which can be exchanged for bottles of milk.

This method of delivering milk entails additional labor and expense, but we shall furnish those who may favor us with their custom with fresh, sweet, rich milk at same rates as supplied by other dealers. We expect to start about the first of March. As a trial of our milk is the best way to test its quality we shall be pleased to leave it on trial to all applicants.

All orders to be sent to J. E. Sills, Esq., the City Treasurer's Office, City Hall, Read & Pringle's grocery, or to the Managing Director, P. O. Box 601, from whom any information can be obtained.

A Soul-Saving Revival in Progress in Bridge Street Church.

The revival which is now being conducted in the Bridge Street Church is growing in interest every night and a great deal of good is being accomplished. At almost every meeting new converts profess a change of heart, and lukewarm Christians have been aroused to work for God as they never were before. While the people were slow to encourage this evangelical work at first, the reverse is the case now. New faces every night come forward and volunteer their assistance to make the movement a success. If the work continues to grow in strength in the future as it has in the past the citizens will soon witness the greatest revival ever held in Belleville. Last night the lecture room was filled and the meeting was characterized by earnest addresses. Several conversions were made.

After the service was over those who were instrumental in organizing this religious movement, remained for a time to discuss the formation of a society. It will be known as the "Hallelujah Band". The officers elected were Rev. Mr. Young, Captain; Rev. Mr. Clarke and Mr. W. Flint Jones, Lieutenants. Mr. Stillman Herrington was chosen as Manager. The Band will visit Roblin's Mills next Sunday.

FOOTPRINTS OF TIME.

A Society to be Formed to Preserve Historical Relics.

A regular meeting of the Murchison Society was held last evening, the President, Mr. Thos. Wills, in the chair. The question of organizing a Historical Society was discussed, the importance of the matter having been brought to the notice of some of the members during a recent visit to the city of Chief Justice Sheldon, of Buffalo. The Secretary stated that he had found in the back minutes that a Historical Society was to have been organized in connection with the Murchison Society. Those present agreed to discuss the proposition favourably, and a committee composed of Messrs. T. Wills, W. R. Smith and Dr. James was appointed to consider the question with the gentlemen whom Mr. Sheldon met.

Peter Keiffer, Buffalo, says: 'I was badly bitten by a horse a few days ago, and was induced by a friend who witnessed the occurrence, to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It relieved the pain almost immediately, and in four days the wound was completely healed. Nothing can be better for flesh wounds.' See that you get the genuine Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, as there are imitations on the market.

CRIME IN BELLEVILLE.

Seventh Annual Report of the Chief of Police,

THIRTY - SEVEN HARD CITIZENS.

At the meeting of Police Commissioners yesterday, the Chief of Police submitted his annual report as follows:—

GENTLEMEN,—I beg leave to submit for your consideration my seventh annual report for the year ending 31st Dec., 1883.

We can congratulate ourselves and the citizens over the large decrease in the number of fines during the year just closed as compared with the previous year. A decrease of seventy per cent. in this respect is certainly a matter of congratulation.

BURGLARY AND HOUSE-BREAKING.

A number of the above cases were reported during the year, but while the operators did not reap a very profitable harvest, as a result of their enterprise, their persistency caused much uneasiness to our citizens.

When we know that at the present time there are residing in the city thirty-seven persons who have been convicted of felonies and served terms (some several terms) in the Gaol, Central Prison and Provincial Penitentiary, it may not be a matter of surprise, that occasionally, with the assistance of an outside expert imported for the purpose, cases of burglary and house-breaking do occur.

SECOND HAND STORES.

Second hand stores are still responsible for a large portion of the so called petty larcenies, I trust the day is coming when the Dominion Parliament will apply the proper remedy by passing an act with proper restrictions.

ARRESTS.

During the year the police arrested and summoned 789 persons charged as follows:—

A dilapidated Physique may be built up and fortified against diseases by that incomparable promoter of digestion and fertilizer of the blood, Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. It counteracts Billiousness, and Kidney complaints, overcomes bodily ailments special with the feebler sex, cause the bowels to act like clockwork, and is a safeguard against malaria and rheumatism.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co.s. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

THE KING OF DEATH,

Lays His Hand upon an Aged Minister Who Drops Dead.

AN AWFULLY SUDDEN END.

Rev. Sheldon Young, one of the oldest superannuated ministers in the M E Church dropped dead at half past twelve to-day. This morning he drove to the city to consult a physician concerning his ill-health, and when crossing the rail road bridge on North Front Street on his way home, Mrs. Hudgins, a neighbor, observed him loose the reins and drop his head. Help was despatched at once, but only arrived to find life extinct and to keep the corpse from falling out of the cutter. Mr. Young has been severely troubled with dropsy for a number of years, and his friends suppose that it reached his heart. The scene at his home is heart rending. The deceased had many friends in this section.

There are a number of varieties of corns. Holloway's Corn Cure removes any of them.

THE TIPPLING ACT.

Few people, says London Truth, are aware of the existence of an Act of Parliament known as the "Tippling Act of George II." By this statute it appears that a gentleman of bibulous propensities who runs up a long score at a tavern for casual drinks can avoid payment of the bill by pleading that the consumption of spirits is contrary to public policy, and ought to be discouraged by preventing innkeepers from recovering debts so incurred. One Mr. Ficker, a member of the Kingston Corporation, who was sued last Friday in the County Court, resisted a claim by a publican on these grounds, and was successful in his defence so far as the charges in the bill related to spirits supplied, the judge holding that wines were not within the Act. The defendant with somewhat unnecessary modesty, said that althought he took advantage of the Tippling Act, he did not wish to be known as a tippler.

Mrs. Mary Campbell, Elm, writes: 'After taking four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, I feel as if I were a new person. I had been troubled with Dyspepsia for a number of years and tried many remedies but to no avail until I tried the celebrated Dyspeptic cure.' For all impurities of the Blood, Sick Headache, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Costiveness, etc., it is the best medicine known.

A tavern-keeper at the Assizes, seating himself too near the attorneys, one of them remarked he was not in his place, not being one of the profession. 'You are wrong, sir,' he answered; 'I have the honor to practise at the bar.'

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15th, 1880.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STEWART.

 They who cry loudest are not always the most hurt. Kidney-Wort does its work like the Good Samaritan, quietly unostentatiously, but with great thoroughness. Kidney-Wort proved to be a great blessing and has completely cured her.

The best blood relations consist of a perfect circulation of healthy, vital fluid—pure blood and proper circulation may be established in the system by the use of that grand blood purifier, Burdock Blood Bitters.

"Twenty-four years experience," says an eminent Physician, convinces me that the only cure for "Nervous Exhaustion" and weakness of the Generative organs is to repair the waste by giving Brain and Nerve Foods, and of all the remedies I have used Mack's Magnetic Medicine is the best. TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

'Well, if so be as you're for a walk, you might as well have a look at it, if so be as you're fond of old houses.'

'Werry fond on 'em, I am,' he replied. 'If it's a pleasant walk, p'raps you'll tell me the way?'

'Well, if so be as you keeps straight on out of the town till you come to the 'Mail Coach,' that's a public house, that is, and turn down to the right, you'll have a good view of the house if so be as you look across the fields.'

'I seem to want a stroll, so I'll jest walk in that direction; so I hope I shall meet you gentlemen again,' and so saying, he left the room and proceeded in the direction which had been pointed out to him.

It did not take very long to get clear of Hurstleigh, for large and important as the town undoubtedly was in the opinion of its inhabitants, strangers were not generally much impressed with its magnificence, or able to recognise its importance to the full extent which the residents would have liked.

The stranger did not pay any great attention to the beauty of the country, and it is to be feared that the freshness of the hedgerows, the scent of the wild flowers, and the twitterings of the birds, were all lost on him.

From his conversation, one might have imagined that scholarship was hardly his strong point, and yet he preferred reading to gazing on the beauties by which he was surrounded.

He had drawn a letter from his pocket, and was deligently conning its pages, although there was something in his manner of doing so which seemed to point to the fact that it was a familiar study.

With a somewhat constrained smile, he pleasantly replaced the letter in his pocket and walked onwards apparently cogitating deeply.

You see, one may be perfectly at home on the stage in certain parts (and similarly in the world, which is a stage according to very great authority), and yet extremely awkward in parts out of one's line.

A man, perfect as a cardsharper, clever as a nigger minstrel comes woefully to grief when attempting the role of gentleman.

But conviction is hard to bring to some men, not that we would for a moment assert that it would be hard to bring conviction to our friend, witness X24 and many other active and intelligent officers, who had assisted at previous convictions.

He had assumed a character, blessed in the firm belief, too, that he was admirably made up, and although his entrance on the scene had scarcely been successful, he hoped to be, and little doubted that he would be, all right when the curtain fell on his performance at Hurstleigh.

It took about an hour to reach the 'Mail Coach,' and he turned down the lane by that little hostelrie as he had been directed.

He had gone about half a mile when he observed his first glimpse of Madeley Court through the trees, and he gazed long and earnestly.

Sitting on a gate, with his back to the Court, occupied in smoking a cigar, was a young gentleman. A gentleman he was, the stranger saw.

Dressed in a quiet grey suit with no colour about him but a little blue in his tie, and yet there was that appearance which clothes and jewellery would not give, and money could not buy.

He seemed at home on his gate, and a placid, good-humoured expression his countenance attracted the stranger.

It was Arthur Ferrers, who had stolled out by himself, while Bertram had ridden to Hurstleigh.

He was not aware of the close proximity of the stranger till he was addressed by him.

'Neatish sort of place old Madeley's got here,' remarked the worthy.

'Very neat,' returned Ferrers.

'Yes, it ain't a bad sort of crib.'

'I have no doubt 'old Madeley' would be much gratified to hear the favourable opinion you entertain of his house.

'Who is he, I wonder?' thought the stranger, 'and does he know anything about the place?

'Pretty comfortable inside, I daresay?' he hazarded.

'Pretty comfortable,' Ferrers replied.

'Niceish sort of man, the bart?'

'Extremely,' was the answer.

'Good old fam'ly s'pose? I like the old fam'lies. Mine's a very old fam'ly,' said the stranger.

Here was a way of getting on friendly terms.

Ferrers did not express any surprise; merely replying, 'Indeed?'

'Yes. You've heard tell of the Montmorencys?'

'Frequently.'

'I'm one of 'em.'

'Really!' was the response.

'He don't seem surprised,' thought Montmorency; 'I must try another tack.'

'Yes,' he continued, 'I'm one of the old fam'lies; but we ain't got much money, not our branch of the fam'ly ain't.

'Not much, eh?' said Ferrers.

'No, it's the De Montmorencys as 'as the coin; and I makes a goodish bit o' money by writing. Uncommon well hedicated our fam'ly is.'

'Evidently,' from Ferrers.

'Yes, and yer see I'm a writing a book about old fam'lies, and you seem to known a deal about old Madeley; look 'ere! you come along to a little public house as I knows on down the road, and 'ave a glass or two of sherry wine, and then you can tell me a little about them Madeleys to put in my book.

'I shall really consider as how all the favour's on your side.'

But Ferrers was no more persuaded by the offer than he had been impressed by the knowledge of the antiquity of his companions pedigree.

'We will omit the sherry, please; but any information which I can afford you I will give with pleasure,' he replied.

His Outspoken Opinion.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In [illegible] way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M[illegible] Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspond[illegible] column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we know them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a [illegible] sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint. ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883,

Mr. W. LUMBERS, SR., Toronto Ont. Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. I used two (2) packages and I am now cured after suffering for twelve (12) years, thanks to you and your medicine. I have much pleasure in recommending to all sufferers of the Piles. Yours most respectfully, JAMES A. BOUTILIER.

COMPLETELY CURED OF LIVER DISEASE AND CATARRH.

Mr. W. LUMBERS, 288 Carlton Street, Toronto. Dear Sir,—I feel great pleasure in informing you that I have used your Catarrh Remedy and Liver Pill, and am happy to say I am completely cured of these complaints and can with the greatest confidence recommend them to any one suffering from those complaints. Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monckton, County Perth, Ont., Suly 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. REID, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

AFTER THE CULMINATION OF manhood at forty, the prime of life, begins to decline into old age. The activity of the digestive apparatus which at first was sufficient not only to provide for the daily waste, but to add new material later on is only able to supply the daily waste, and at last too imperfect to maintain the balance and sustain the frame in its existing entirety. At this period when the expenditure is greater than the income, WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA, by augmenting nerve force and supplying ready-made tissue elements, will have a tendency to prolong life.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Winslow's Soothing Syrup For Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world Price 25 cents a bottle.

CREAM GATHERING CREAMERIES.

Discussed by Mr. Buell before the Western Association.

At the meeting of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association, in London, the President (Mr. Ballantyne) announced that the Ontario Government had taken steps for establishing a creamery at the Experimental Farm, Guelph.

Mr. C. C. Buell, of Illinois, then discussed the present state of the cream-gathering creameries of the United States. He pointed out that during six years past Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Ohio, had established over 900 cream-gathering creameries. The percentage of butter manufactured at the cream gathering creameries (Fairlamb system) ranged from 78 to 90 per cent. He said the drift of evidence regarding the workings of the Fairlamb system was more favorable to gather cream butter than one would expect under the circumstances. Only occasionally in the west has a cream gathering creamery been located in the midst of a well developed dairy region. But wherever this has been done the result was altogether favorable so far as quality and market value of the production are concerned. The trouble lies with those who furnish the cream. During the past two months butter made under favorable circumstances has been bringing 33 to 38c. per pound in the large markets, and the farmer has in many instances received for his cream in the pail more money than what the same cream churned and marketed by himself would have brought in New York city. The creamery system has had such effect as to make the productive but cheap lands of the west almost equally as remunerative in dollars and cents as the best lands of the east when devoted to the butter dairy. Mr. Buell's paper provoked a long discussion, one point under debate being the difficulty arising from varying qualities of cream, and another the methods of testing. The value of retaining the skim milk on the farm was pointed out. The President said the development of the Canadian beef export trade had curtailed dairying. Attention was called to the importance of having an intelligent, honest and skilful man to skim and gather the cream from the farmers.

Prof Brown said the volume of cream was a very different thing from the butter producing qualities. The weight of the cream was the true criterion for the butter maker.

Rev. Mr. Clarke doubted that the cream gathering system would become popular in Ontario. He referred to the liberality of the Ontario Government in publishing for gratuitous distribution among farmers and dairymen that excellent work compiled by Mr. W. H. Lynch on scientific butter-making.

Mr. Buell said in the west 7 cents had been deducted from the selling price of the butter to pay for the cost of production per pound by the creamery system.

Prof. Barnard said in the matter of butter export Canada was worse off than in 1872, and it was hardly possible to get good butter at more than one out of a hundred of the best hotels in the country. He regretted that the average yield of the standard cow in Ontario was only 3,000 pounds of milk per season, for it should reach 5,000.

Mr. Davidson said he had secured 6,780 pounds of milk from an 800 pound Ayrshire cow, nearly eight and a half times her own weight.

Mr. Caswell said if it could be shown that in western Ontario more money could be made out of butter the dairymen would take hold of it. An enormous amount of money was annually lost murdering butter.

The President said the reputation of western Ontario butter was notoriously bad and he believed the only means of improvement was by creameries, which he thought should be instituted on the cream gathering plan.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

The greater part of Monday afternoon was occupied with a discussion on Mr. Creighton's resolution anent the ceremonies. The great importance of the butter trade of the Province was maintained by the speakers in the Government side and conceded by the Opposition, who, however, charged the Government with having proposed the establishment of three creameries as a means of influencing the votes in the last election. The absurdity of this charge was shown by Mr. Fraser and Mr. Drury. The latter cited the fact that the selection of sites was to be done under the Act upon the advice of the Presidents of the Eastern and Western Dairymen's Associations and the Board of Agriculture Art and Mr. Fraser's for the Government having decided not to build more than one creamery at present were eminently satisfactory.

Mr. Broder ascribes the sickness of members of the Legislature not so much to the bad sanitary condition of the Parliament House as to the badness of the butter supplied on Toronto tables.

A deputation consisting of Messrs. Elliot, Low, and others representing the Ontario pharmacists, waited upon the Attorney General yesterday to represent their views on what they think needed amendments to the Pharmacy Act.

JOHNSTOWN NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The timber for the boom has been drawn on the east side of the river opposite the tower mill.

Ducks are plenty in the river north of the tower mill.

Mr. John Le Boutellier intends to build a large driving house this spring.

M. George Westfall has returned from his visit to Fort Perry. He is looking well after the trip.

At a large sale last week of fine cattle and horses at Mr. A. N. Denyes, some one helped themselves to a set of harness without paying for it. A pretty bold trick.

They are about to build another pier on the east side of the river north of the tower mill. It is to be the same size of the other one. This will be the second one that has been built this winter. Mr. Thomas Long has the job.

The president of the Cheese Company, W. H. Maley, had a large meeting to sell the milk routes. Mr. Stephen Tedman got his old route. The biding for the other route was lively between Wm. Tedman and John Hess; the latter was the lucky man.

GARMOYLE'S DEFENCE.

THAT THE JILTED ACTRESS FIRST JILTED SOMEONE ELSE.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—The papers are still full of the Garmoyle-Fortescue scandal. Lord Garmoyle has £2000 a year in his own right, and the general expectation is that he will lose half of it. The defence will probably be that the jilted lady herself jilted a socially inferior suitor in order to catch the future earl, and perhaps there may be evidence of certain opera bouffe freaks in the bosom of the Cairns household which nearly broke the hearts of the Puritanic father and mother. Garmoyle's letters on the other hand are expected to be highly amusing. Wm. Schenck Gilbert, the dramatist, who is Miss Fortescue's patron, contemplates making money for himself and her by bring her out in an emotional play, but few people think the young lady's talent above the level of the prettily dressed fairy. The court has granted Lord Garmoyle two week's additional time in which to prepare his defence Miss Fortescue is anxious for an early trial in order to enable her to explain her position.

THE OTTAWA SURRENDER.

Our esteemed local contemporary clips the following item from the Globe and terms it mendacious :—

> "Sir John, finding the Bleus in earnest, laid down his arms and surrendered as he did in the Letellier case on similar compulsions. We shall have to pay not only the Company's thirty millions but also an enormous sum for the votes by which the resolutions are to pass."

Now the statement contained in this extract is undeniably true if regard is had to facts. On the 20th inst. the Mail, the official and recognized organ of the Dominion Government, had the following in a double-leaded editorial. The italics are ours :—

> "It is no secret that the Government of that province (Quebec) is in financial straits, and that representatives of that Government have been for several days at the Dominion Capital for the purpose of endeavoring to secure 'better terms' from the Dominion Government. The demands of these gentlemen were not recognized by Sir John Macdonald, and this fact becoming known to Mr. Blake, that gentleman, prompted by some diabolical agency, made corrupt overtures to the supporters of the Dominion Government from that province, with a view to securing their opposition to the scheme for assisting the Pacific Railway Company, and the consequent defeat of Sir John's Government. The Quebec members met and considered the overtures."

The Mail being entitled to speak for the Premier made the correct statement he refused to recognise the claims of Quebec, but not being entitled to speak for any honorable body of men its statement regarding the Quebec Conservatives, or Bleus, meeting and considering a bid from Mr. Blake for their support was slanderous. Our local contemporary is forced to admit this in the following fashion :—

> "The statement made by Mr. Ouimet is perfectly satisfactory, as no one who knows the nice sense of honor which is so prominent a trait in the character of the French race, could for a moment suppose that if any direct offer of a corrupt nature was made to them, they would hesitate to resent it instantly and forcibly."

The Mail says they deliberately entertained the alleged proposition, which Mr. Blake says emphatically was never made.

Sir John Macdonald on the 20th said, in his organ, "I refused to recognize the demands of these gentlemen,"the Quebec members. What was the case? Three or four days subsequently the Minister of Railways announced that the money asked by the Quebec members would be given, a tacit confession of surrender under compulsion, because we must remember that Sir John Macdonald "refused to recognise the demands," not the claims, "the demands of these gentlemen." Hear what La Minerve, the chief organ of these gentlemen, says about it :—

> "It is certain that an indemnity of $12,000 per mile will be given to the Provincial Government in consideration of the millions that we have spent to construct the North Shore Railway, which is an important section of the Pacific. * * * Our felicitations are due to the Ministers and members who,by their energy and devotion to our interests, have obtained such appreciable advantages for the Province!"

We will now ask our contemporary to again read the Globe clipping in the light of these proofs and see if it was not hasty in terming the statement "mendacious?"

EDITORIAL NOTES.

MR. MILLS will take his seat as M.P. for Bothwell this afternoon at Ottawa.

THE Globe reprints a "funny" story about a railway engine that was by mistake filled up from six barrels of whiskey and eight or ten of beer, "just arrived at the station for delivery to members of the temperance club in the town." These slurs on temperance people may be funny but their circulation tends to injure a good cause,and our contemporary should take care that this common style of wit does not slip into its clippings.

A RE VOTE of $10,000 is placed in the Estimates to provide for expenses of the appeal of the Boundary Award dispute to the British Privy Council. Mr.Mowat is to appear before the Privy Council as counsel for Ontario. Mr. David Mills has been retained, possibly with a view to proceeding to England, which it may be hoped he will be called upon to do, for next to the Attorney-General he is probably better acquainted with the merits of the boundary dispute than any other man in the country. It is understood that Messrs. Dalton McCarty and Christopher Robinson will appear as counsel for Manitoba.

SHANNONVILLE NEWS.

Successful Conversazione—Funeral of an Esteemed Citizen.

SHANNONVILLE, Feb. 27. The Conversazione given by the young ladies of the Methodist Church on the 15th inst. was a grand success. Our fine Masonic Hall was crowded to the very doors. The program, under the management of our popular school teacher, Mr. Stickney, and sustained entirely by native talent, gave great satisfaction; the beautiful tableaux, illuminated by electric light, were specially admired. With only a week's preparation, the unparalled success of the entertainment was a surprise to all. The committee nobly redeemed their promise to make it one of the best entertainments ever given in the village. Proceeds about $97.

The funeral service for the late Robert Fullerton, was held in the Masonic Hall on Saturday afternoon. He was committed to the silent grave under the beautiful ritual of the Masonic Order many of the Brethren coming from Belleville and elsewhere to unite with the Lodge here in testifying to their high esteem for a departed brother. The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in in the village all classes and creeds being drawn together by a common sympathy for the bereft family, and to pay the last tribute of respect to an esteemed fellow-townsman, cut down in the vigor of his days. He died at the early age of 35 very generally lamented, leaving an afflicted wife and an only daughter to mourn their irreparable loss.

The friends of the Methodist Union movement have been pained and surprised to learn that circulars raising false issues have been industriously disseminated, twilight meetings have been held among the disaffected, and no means spared to agitate the societies against the movement, after all the Boards of the negotiating churches had pronounced in favor of union by overwhelming majorities.

Rumor has it that the young ladies commenced conducting prayer services of their own Monday night. Might not coeducation be practised here a little?

Isn't the following from a Methodist college paper rather irreverent? "The hymn beginning "The conserated cross I'd bear" had just been sung, and in the momentary quiet that followed the perplexed youth turned to his father : "Say, pa, where do they keep the consecrated cross-eyed bear ?"

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk ; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co s. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be are of getting the best made.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

THE FEES TO BE PAID UNDER THE McCARTHY ACT.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—A notice of motion on a very important subject was made yesterdy by Mr. Hardy. The Provincial Secretary proposes resolutions fixing the fees upon licenses issued under the McCarthy Act. The license feees are in all cases very much higher than those for Ontario licenses —in the case of city licenses being nearly double in amount. The fees are to be as follows :—Tavern, saloon,and shop licenses in cities, $300, and towns, $250 ; tavern and shop licenses in villages,$150, in townships, $120 ; wholesale licenses under the authority of the Provincial Legislature, $350 ; vessel licenses, $250 ; additional duty upon transfers of vessel licenses, $20. The resolution embodies a statement that the Provincial Legislature contends that the Dominion Parliament has no right under the British North American Act to pass license laws.

CANFIELD'S INVESTMENT.

How Much an Acquaintance with Mrs. Ralston cost.

HELD ON CHARGE OF BLACKMAIL.

A scandalous and extraordinary case has just been before the Courts at Rochester, N. Y. Jerry M. Canfield is the complainant and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ralston the defendants. The latter are well known in this section, having lived for some time near Campbellford.

WORTH $30,000.

It seems that Canfield about three years ago was a wealthy and prosperous farmer. His farm consisted of three hundred broad acres and was fitted up with fine buildings, etc., and was considered a very valuable piece of property. Three years ago Canfield sold his farm and was then worth about $30,000. He then made the acquintance of Mrs. Ralston and also invested in stocks both of which seem to have proved losing speculations, as to-day he is nearly penniless. Stocks took some money, and Canfield alleges that Mrs. Ralston took $6,500 from him under pressure of exposing the intimate relations he had held with her. The theory of the prosecution was that the Ralstons used the money, alleged to have been extorted from Canfield, to pay for a farm which they purchased of William Glazier, of Bowmanville, last summer. Canfield is 76 years of age, and is not supposed to possess the soundest mind in the world. Mrs. Ralston is a bold, brazen looking woman, about 45 years of age, and is well dressed. Ralston is a short, thickish dark complexioned fellow about 50 years old.

CHARGED WITH BLACKMAIL.

The charge is one of blackmail and if the Ralstons are convicted the penalty is fixed at four years imprisonment. The warrants under which they were arrested charge that in May, 1883, Canfield, under threats of exposure gave her $3,750, and on September 7,1883, under the same circumstances he gave her $1,000 more. Both these amounts were in currency and Mrs. Ralston extorted them by telling defendant that her husband was a violent man, and had discovered their illicit relations, and unless she had money immediately he would make him trouble. On the 8th of December Canfield proceeded to the house of Ralston and demanded the $1,000 which he had given her in September. She said that Ralston had taken it from her. At the preliminary trial the court held Mr. and Mrs. Ralston on the $3,750 charge and Mrs. Ralston on the $1,000. Bail was then fixed at $3,500 each on the first charge and $2,500 on the second.

CANIFTON NOTES.

From our own Correspondent.)

CANIFTON, Feb. 27.—This quiet little place was on the verge of being in a position to lend its aid in increasing the fire list which is supplemented almost daily in your paper. One day last week flames were seen arising from the roof of Mr. George Vancott's store, and upon closer observation it was found that about eight feet of the roof was on fire. It was thought for some time that the village was to be revisited by as disastrous a conflagration as destroyed the block opposite Capt. Powers' hotel some fifteen years ago. But George being of a nature particularly adapted to circumstances of this kind having an abundance of presence of mind, mounted the roof, and with the help of a large number of his friends (of whom he has many) succeeded in arresting the flames to such an extent as to stop further destruction, A defective chimney was the cause.

Mr. Sutherland's saw-mill is now running daily, therefore increasing Dick's responsibility accordingly. The logs which are being sawed are drawn here on sleighs.

A concert will be held in the Town Hall in a few weeks, the proceeds of which will be applied to the salary of Mr.Macauley, C.M.Minister, whose intellectual abilities and personal qualities go to make him worthy of the support of any community.

AMERICAN SPARKS

By the burning of a hotel block at Jackson, Mich., on Sunday morning, four lives according to one account, and thirteen according to another, were lost. The loss of property is estimated at $200,000.

Every observer who walks the streets of a a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age,which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remody required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously administered Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

HENRY WATTERSON

PEN SKETCH OF THE GREAT FREE TRADE EDITOR.

The following has reference to Mr. Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal :—

He gesticulates little and stiffly. His habit, when speaking, is to hold his arms down by his sides, with the fingers and thumbs of each hand pressed solidly together and bent backward. His hands twitch from nervousness as he speaks. Indeed, he is so nervous that any baby can sit quiet for a longer time than he ever does. He has a loud, powerful voice that filled the great hall of the Cooper Union as if it had been no more than an ordinary parlor. He delivers each word by itself, and sometimes separates each syllable of a word he wishes to emphasize. And every word or syllable comes out like a cannon shot. He is bold in thought, rich in poetry and imagery, tender when he wants to be, and either brilliant, independent, or grave and solemn, as the humor catches him. Slang is not despised by him when it exactly expresses an idea,and he hesitates at nothing in order to be forcible "I bring a message from God's country," said he, when he merely meant to intimate in one word, the wealth of nature in the south "Let us look at the two great political parties," said he when he added, "I admit they're both old hacks."

A dilapilated Physique may be built up and fortified against diseases by that incomparable promoter of digestion and fertilizer of the blood, Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. It counteracts Billiousness, and Kidney complaints, overcomes bodily ailments special with the feebler sex, cause the bowels to act like clockwork, and is a safeguard against malaria and rheumatism.

Pure Milk for Belleville,
– from the –
City of Belleville Milk Company
—sealed and delivered in—
GLASS BOTTLES.

To the Citizens of Belleville :

THE Stockholders of this Company owning farms in the vicinity of the City, and keeping a large number of cows will supply the people of Belleville with milk in sealed bottles, which they GUARANTEE to be ABSOLUTELY PURE and of a SUPERIOR QUALITY. The milk for the present is bottled and sealed at the homes of the individual stockholders, a vital feature, as the milk is then delivered into the hands of the consumer without a possibility of it being tampered with. The bottles are filled to the brim which keeps the milk motionless during transportation and thereby prevents any injurious effects from shaking and exposure, as in the case of cans.

The unusually large quantity of cream can be seen upon the milk, which can be poured off for separate use or can be mixed through the milk again.

Another great advantage is that the milk is kept air-tight, and in warm weather can be set away in refrigerators or plunged into ice water until wanted, therefore, always perfectly fresh.

Customers are requested to wash the bottles and wash off the seal as soon as empty, to be exchanged for full ones. For convenience tickets will be sold which can be exchanged for bottles of milk.

It appears that "owing to the unusual severity of the winter," the police were not instructed by the Commissioners to enforce the Snow By-law. That is when the snow, for the removal of which the By-law was passed, comes down heavily, then the law is to be inoperative. People can now understand why, owing to a severe epidemic of burglary, burglars should not be captured.

Ald. W. J. Diamond states that he is opposed to a foot passenger boat between here and Ameliasburg for two reasons—if the two boats were on the route, one running to Bushy Island and the other to the east side, it would have the effect of stopping the foot passenger trade entirely. A boat for both rigs and foot passengers, with a landing as near the market as possible is his idea of what it should be.

THE FERRY QUESTION.

The City Solicitor this morning received a letter from Mr. E. G. Sills, M.P.P., for West Hastings stating that he had waited on the Attorney General in reference to the ferry question. Mr. Mowat he said wished him to ask the city of Belleville what kind of a boat they were willing to put on the route providing they received the licenses, also the number of rigs the ferry would carry, number of trips each hour, with power of engine and speed.

The Ferry Committee was called to discuss this matter at four this afternoon.

THE 15TH. BATTALION.

Criticisms of the Deputy Adjutant General and Gen. Luard.

The annual report of the Minister of Militia contains the following report of the 15th Batt. from Lt. Col. Villiers:

The 15th Battalion was inspected by me at Belleville on the 15th June for the Annual Drill of 1882 83. I made a close inspection of the the Arms, Accoutrements and Clothing, and found them clean and well put on. The drill, consisting of Battalion movements and some skirmishing—all very steady and fairly done. Capts. Lazier and Walmsely were called out to drill their Companies at Company drill, all of which was done to my satisfaction, showing clearly a great improvement had taken place. Most of the officers had just joined, and some had promised to attend the Military School. The regiment mustered its full strength.

On the 26th of October I inspected the 15th for the annual drill of 1883 84. The regiment again turned out very clean and mustered its full strength. The drill was very well done, consisting of deployments, forming line to the right on the right Company, advancing in echelon of Companies, and forming Company squares, &c., and skirmishing. I was much pleased with this Battalion, and can report a great improvement since my inspection in June last; four officers have since taken certificates at the Royal School of Gunnery.

Major General Luard commenting on the report says: "It is to be remarked that two years' drill has been done within about four months, thus doubling the allowance. In future I hope the drill may be annual.

I am glad to learn that the 15th Battalion has made such strides towards efficiency."

LAID IN GOD'S ACRE.

The funeral of the late Thomas Linklater yesterday afternoon was largely attended by citizens of all classes, who testified their respect for the deceased as an honourable resident of Belleville for over a quarter of a century. The pall-bearers were Messrs. J. Harrold, Alex. Harrold, Jas. Smith, A. Waters, E. Hayne, and J. Falconer. At the cemetery Rev. David Mitchell officiated.

It might be of interest here to mention that when the deceased crossed the ocean in 1857 to get married, he was accompanied by Mr. A. Waters, our esteemed harbour master, who was on a trip to Scotland to visit friends.

The last sad rites of the late Edmund Snell this afternoon were also numerously attended.

STAGE NOTES.

The "New York Comedy Company" will appear in the Opera House for a season of three nights, commencing to-morrow evening, with Miss Ida Vancourtland as leading lady. Port Hope and Peterboro' exchances speak well of the performances.

London Figaro says that Wilson Barrett, who will visit the United States next fall, compares with Henry Irving, being an "equally able and intelligent actor and quite as good a man of business."

Miss Mary Anderson, remarks the St. James's Gazette, continues to meet with much success at the Lyceum, and it is stated that the receipts amount to over £2 000 weekly. No fewer than three London managers have offered to place their theatres at her disposal after the conclusion of the present term.

The Holmans to-day secured the Opera House for the 5th March.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE.

Mr. Thomas Munro, has established a first class dry goods and millinery store in the building formerly occupied by the late Richard Costello, at head of the footbridge. The premises have been thoroughly renovated and are now as neat and tidy as one could wish for. Plate glass windows have been put in, also new shelves and counters, painted white. The millinery department will be fully stocked with the best and most fashionable goods in the market. The dry goods store proper will be found to contain a full line of staple and fancy dry goods. Mr. Munro is highly spoken of by the press and public of Peterboro', his native town, and there is no doubt he will receive a fair share of the public patronize of Belleville.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant and sure cure.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Colbourne races begin to-morrow.

It was the intention of the curlers to go to Trenton yesterday, but the weather was too soft.

The next six days pedestrian contest will take place at Madison Square Garden beginning on Monday, April 28th. Yesterday George Rowell, Patrick Fitzgerald, Robert Vint, George D. Noremac, Ernest Smith and Winston H. Burrell met at the office of the Turf, Farm and Field and discussed the articles of agreement. Burrell is a colored man and Smith a novice.

Peter Keiffer, Buffalo, says: 'I was badly bitten by a horse a few days ago, and was induced by a friend who witnessed the occurrence, to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It relieved the pain almost immediately, and in four days the wound was completely healed. Nothing can be better for fresh wounds.' See that you get the genuine Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, as there are imitations on the market.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.

Mrs. Mary A. Dally of Tunkhannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 lbs. in a few months.

THE CITY MISSION

The Annual Report by Mr. Schuster of this Deserving Charity.

WHAT HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED.

After another year of labor for God in this Mission work, we rejoice in saying that we are still encouraged to persevere. The work should be sufficiently known by this time, without stating again that it is calculated to be a channel through which children who otherwise receive no secular and religious training are educated, and grown up persons not going to any place of worship particularly, are attended to. This has been accomplished as far as possible, and considering the short time the mission is established, and the obstacles which had to be overcome, we are thankful to be able to say that it is successful through God. To him we look for help, wisdom and power.

The appointment over the bay at Rossmore was given up. As soon as the several ministers of the different denominations attended to their people, the Missionary felt that his work was done for the present. In the place of it the jail is visited every Sunday morning. God is with us while speaking to the prisoners of Christ, his love and mercy; and we believe not without good results.

Miss Wright, who had taken charge of the day school got sick after she taught a short time. Mrs. Schuster and myself took charge of it again as formerly.

SPECIAL STATISTICS.

We find on the Sabbath School record 989 marks for the children who have attended during the year. we taught 48 Sabbaths, making an average attendance of nearly 22 scholars.

In the day school register we find 3,080 marks for scholars attending the school. We taught 163 afternoons, making an average of about 18 scholars in the day school.

Twelve children were kept in our own home at different times for instruction and 26 from the school and from our home are at work and have now good homes provided for them. Seventeen children have gone from our day school to other city schools, most of them to the Market. Six removed from the city. A good number who came formerly to our Sabbath school can now be found in other Sabbath schools and yet we keep up the number of scholars in our own school. The heavy snow storms this year interrupted the school for a time. Visiting and the spreading of tracks has been attended to. The necessity of securing a premanent home for the children and the establishment of the little farm out of town is referred to.

On the 20th of November last we moved there and attended the work here also, waiting for some one to take charge of the home. In the providence of God we were led to get a foreman who himself and wife are well qualified for the work and both are fully devoted to Gods cause. Having now the schools and the Mission Work here which are attended by ourselves and the home with plenty of work for the children over which Mr. and Mr. Hay are placed, the whole work formerly planned has become fully arranged. The children sent to the home will be provided for, and they will do such work as may be given them to do and as much time as possible will be devoted to secular education also, and we hope by next year to arrange employment for them also during the winter season.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

There was received since the last anniversary the sum of $222, of which over $25 was anonymous. A very noticeable contribution is that of Miss Bartlett's school children (pocket money) $2.25.

A shed has been built behind the Mission Room, the bill for lumber not on hand therefore cannot give cost.

The clock is a gift and the gas stand lamps from a friend.

We have received also several useful things, as, tea from a merchant traveller; two turkeys and a bag of potatoes from a friend of the Missions, 10 lbs of sugar from Conger and Brothers; material to put in lime for plastering the home, from Mr. Mullen, Canifton; pine wood from Messrs Blecker, Lingham and Sutherland; a load of hard wood from an unknown friend; Crockery from Mr. Rouse; a number of worn, but good, clothing, boots and shoes, from several parties, besides other kindnesses received, for which we are thankful. The editors of the daily papers have published some of our notices free of charge, and the Napanee paper mills provided us with printing paper for the use of the Mission. If we look back to the three years since this mission was established we have reason to be encouraged, God has done much for us, and we can trace his guiding hand in the work. Three years ago we had no Mission Day nor Sabbath School, no place to hold our services and no home for poor children. all this has been provided for. The children who formerly ran about and could not be seen in any day school nor Sabbath School, are now to school either in the Mission or some other school in the City.

Financially we are also progressing. At the first yearly report we received $150, the second $194, this evening $222. Spiritually the work is progressing also, and, we are thankful to say that there is a great change in the children and in their homes such a change could not have taken place had it not been for the power of God. People who have attended this Mission Room can now be found in different churches, in other places of worship and many of them in the Army. Who can measure the results of any work where God is the foundation and the power to lead souls to him? When his workmen are led by His spirit?

It is our intention to keep the Mission Room open every evening during the year D. V. God is blessing us now in our Gospel Meetings which are held every evening. Our expenses will increase as the work goes on, but we firmly believe that God will supply all our need according to his riches through Christ Jesus.

LITERARY SOCIETY.

Last evening a meeting of the Ontario Business College Literary Society was held. There was no debate, but the programme was excellent. Messrs. McNally, Mikel, McCarger, Butler, Coburn and Goddard were the readers, and their selections gave great satisfaction. Miss McInnes recited "The Balance Sheet" with good taste and effect, and the recitation of Mr. Onterbridge was ably done. The great "Elepical Asiatical Quack Doctor" declared the virtues of his nostrums in a way that greatly amused the audience. Mr. McGillis and Mr. Ferguson performed on the violin in a style that showed they were after Remenyi with a sharp bow, and Mr. Lanktree sang a splendid Scoth song. An invitation from the High School Society, and a letter from Mr. W. Bunton, an old student from Pennsylvania, at present in the Province, promising an address before long, were received with cheers. After the critic, Mr. Hill had ably done his duty, Principal Johnson delivered a short address, when the meeting closed.

OPPOSED TO GRAND JURIES.

The regular weekly meeting of the Legal and Literary Society was held last night in their rooms in Shire Hall, when an interesting programme was presented. An essay 'On the Study of Law" was read by Mr. J. A. Forin, followed by a reading by W. H. Wallbridge, when the debate appointed for the evening, "Resolved that the Grand Jury should be abolished," was taken up. The debate was an open one and the affirmative and negative were ably led by Mr. F. E. O'Flynn and Mr. W. A. F. Campbell, respectively. The President Mr. Flint, decided in favor of the arguments advanced by the supporters of the affirmative. It was a very successful meeting. The programme for next Monday evening consists of a reading by Mr. Bogel, addresses by Mr. J. J. B. Flint and debate, "Resolved that the Settlement of the North West is beneficial to Ontario.

Mrs. Mary Campbell, Elm, writes: 'After taking four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, I feel as if I were a new person. I had been troubled with Dyspepsia for a number of years and tried many remedies but to no avail until I tried the celebrated Dyspeptic cure.' For all impurities of the Blood, Sick Headache, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Costiveness, etc., it is the best medicine known.

A LONG TIME.

Fifteen years of suffering from the tortures of Dyspepsia is indeed a long time. A. Burns blacksmith of Cobourg, was thus afflicted but it only required one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters to completely cure him.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15th, 1880.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STEWART.

. They who cry loudest are not always the most hurt. Kidney-Wort does its work like the Good Samaritan, quickly unostentatiously, but with great thoroughness. Kidney-Wort proved to be a great blessing and has completely cured her.

BLOOD RELATIONS.

The best blood relations consist of a perfect circulation of healthy, vital fluid—pure blood and proper circulation may be established in the system by the use of that grand blood purifier, Burdock Blood Bitters.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

'Pretty flush, the old feller, is he?' was the first interrogation.

'I am unacquainted with the state of Sir Hubert's finances,' Ferrers answered.

'I suppose he don't want no help in layin' out gardens, or s'rubberies, or anything of that sort, eh?'

'I fear I can't tell you.'

'Nor no looking over the horses don't want? None of 'em as wants a bit of medical advice?'

'I really have no idea,' Ferrers replied, rather wondering to what the conversation was going to lead next.

'There's a nice sort of hall up there, I've heard?'

'Oh! yes. there's a hall,' responded Ferrers.

'Lot of harmour all round it, ain't there?' continued his interrogator.

'There are several suits of armour in the hall,' Ferrers answered.

'The fact is, I'm a bit of a hartist, and I should like a sketch of the 'all for my book, you know. to go in the book.

'I suppose you couldn't let me in for 'arf an hour, in a friendly way you know, quite in a friendly way. jest to make a bit of a sketch, eh?'

'I fear that I am hardly in a position to admit visitors to the house in a clandestine manner, but if you send up your card to Sir Hubert, I have no doubt he will be delighted to afford every facility to a gentleman of your numerous accomplishments.

And saying this, Ferrers descended from the gate and walked away, a little vexed with himself for having carried on a conversation with an evident scamp.

And Montmorency, or Bill Bludgen, as we will call him at once ('for though he bid his name, there is no reason why we should conceal it)?

'I didn't do that well—not at all,' he muttered. 'I always loose my head when I'm talking to those calm, quiet fellers. No; I did that 'orrid bad,

'But never mind; I'll lay down here and look at the house and read my letter. Yes, there it is, Nigh upon twelve thousand pound in money, and papers worth as much more, I should judge from the fuss the young one made about 'em.

'Arf an hour's quiet work in that there house, and I might come across such a find as don't turn up in a feller's way not once in a hundred years! What a sight o' money! twelve thousand pounds! to say nothin' of the papers.

'Old Bill Ryan, you left me a precious legacy when you left me this here letter. I'll lay down here and think it out a bit,' and he stretched himself on the grass, and looked earnestly at Madeley Court.)

Not for you, Bill Blugden, that treasure! Not for you, gloat you never so much at the thought of it; but through your evil means shall the truth be made manifest, and the dull chambers of Madeley Court bright. Childish feet shall pattern merrily where now the lord of Madeley moves with heavy tread; and the corridors, which now return the echo of his harsh voice, shall resound with children's laughter.

All this shall be brought to pass by you, Bill Blugden, and by the plan which you now revolve in your evil head.

CHAPTER VIII.

Ethel's second appearance passed off with, if possible, greater success than the first.

Her Romeo was not there in bodily presence, but enthroned in her heart, he held sway, and the words of Juliet's passion came from that heart which had so lately learned to own a lord.

Sweet, too, were her dreams that night, when the turmoil of the theatre was over, and she reposed peacefully in her white-draped little room; and sweet was her awakening, for something had whispered through her dreams that he would not delay—that before she again felt those sweet visions creept over her spirit, his eyes would have looked into hers, his hand would have held that little white hand, which, despite of maidenly coyness, hungfor his clasp.

After rehearsal—Hamlet was to be played that evening—Ethel returned home and dinner having been concluded, sat with the story of Ophelia's woes before her, with fixed eyes but wandering mind.

He would come, she felt certain of that, but how would he first appear?

Would he ride—how well he sat his horse!—or walk?

Perhaps he would ride into the town, and walk over to the cottage.

That would be best, for then he would remain longer that if he tied his horse's head to the leaf clad plings at the bottom of the little garden.

Would he wear the brown velvet coat in which he had been attired the previous day?

And did he look better in that than in evening dress.

If Ophelia required study, that forlorn damsel had very good reason to complain of gross neglect.

But, lucky, Ethel had made herself well acquainted with her heroine's sorrows years ago at Avranches.

There had been so few new books there that Shakespeare had grown very familiar to her, and when he is familiar, he is always dear.

So it happened that under he father's direction, she hed studied him much, and the great master's words had found an echo in her breast.

Still Bertram did not come.

Her father sat at the table writing (an employment which had occupied much of his time of late), and Ethel at the open window, the little acting-edition on her knees.

The sound of wheels.

It never occurred to her that he might drive over.

No; a young farmer in a dog cart journeying towards Hurstleigh.

There are a number of varieties of corns, Holloway's Corn Cure removes any of them.

Holloway's Pills,—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epedemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power should be these purifying Pills, whicn will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, billiousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills,—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is pidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength [illegible] irritating the nerves, or depressing the [illegible]. THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS

HIS OUTSPOKEN OPINION.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical preparation stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of those happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

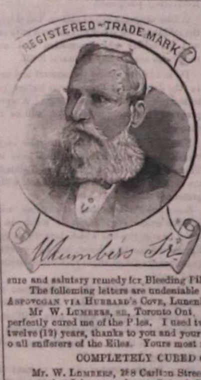
LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.



Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers, When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we knew them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a safe sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

Yours truly, JOHN MACHAN, Monckton, County Perth, Ont., Suly 27th, 1883.

THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me, and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better, I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. REID, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

CHAPTER II.

"Malden, Mass., Feb. 1, 1880. Gentlemen I suffered with attacks of sick headache,"

Neuralgia, female trouble, for years in the most terrible and exciting manner.

No medicine or doctor could give me relief or cure until I tried Hop Bitters.

"The first bottle
Nearly cured me;"

The second made me well and strong as when a child,

"And I have been so to this day."

My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious

"Kidney, liver and urinary complaint,
"Pronounced by Boston's best physicians—
"Incurable!"

Seven bottles of your bitters cured him and know of the "Lives of eight persons"

In my neighborhood that have been saved by your bitters,

And many more are using them with great benefit.

"They almost
Do miracles?" —Mrs. E. D. Slack.

AFTER THE CULMINATION OF manhood at forty, the prime of life, begins to decline into old age. The activity of the digestive apparatus which at first was sufficient not only to provide for the daily waste, but to add new material later on is only able to supply the daily waste, and at last too imperfect to maintain the balance and substain the frame in its existing entirety. At this period when the expenditure is greater than the income, WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA, by augmenting nerve force and supplying ready-made tissue elements, will have a tendency to prolong life.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Winslow's Soothing Syrup For Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrub for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists through out the world Price 25 cents a bottle.

ON THIRTY DAYS' TRIAL

"DOOD-NIGHT, MAMMA."

He stole into the silent room,
Soft footed, with hushed breath,
And dropped his weary head beside
The pallid face of death.

He kissed the still, unsmiling lips,
Caressed the silken hair,
And marveled at the wealth of bloom
That made her bed so fair.

No tears no moans, he knew ye not,
O sad, mysterious Power!
He only lisped: 'Dood night, mamma,
Asleep among the flowers.'

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

Mr. McLaughlin's excellent speech on Tuesday in the budget debate completely answered several of the attacks of the Opposition. The Government's license policy, he showed, had not decreased the receipts of municipalities from the license fees, but had instead been an advantage to them to the extent of $48,000 over the former system.

Mr. Creighton last week objected to the Government increasing the license fees for the sake of revenue, Mr. McLaughlin in defending the justice of the Government's cause, cited statistics of insanity and crime to prove that the liquor traffic caused a large percentage of the Governments expenditure, and therefore could in all justice be called upon to contribute proportionally to the payment of expenses for the administrations of justice and the maintenance of prisons and asylums. The statistics collected by the Legislature from judges, clerks of the peace and others several years ago, showed that at least 66 per cent, of the crime of the Province was due to liquor.

THE NUMBER SEVEN.

On the 7th day of the 7th month a holy observance was ordained to the children of Israel, who feasted seven days, and remained seven days in tents—the 7th year was directed to be a sabbath of rest for all things; and at the end of 7 times 7 years commenced the grand Jubilee—every 7th year the land lay fallow; every 7th year there was a grand release from all debts, and bondsmen were set free. From this might have originated the custom of binding young women to seven years apprenticeship, and of punishing incorrigible offenders by transportation for 7, twice 7, or three times 7 years. Anciently a child was not named before seven days, not being accounted fully to have life before that periodical day—the teeth spring out on the 7th month, and are shed in the 7th year when infancy is changed into childhood. At thrice seven years the faculties are developed, manhood commences, and a man becomes llegally competent to perform civil acts—at four times 7 he is in full possession of his strength—at five times 7 he is fit for the business of the world—at six times 7 he becomes grave and wise, or never—at seven times 7 he is in apogee and from that time decays—at eight times 7 he is in his first climacteric—at nine times 7, or 63, he is in his grand climacteric or year of danger, and at ten times 7, or three score years and ten, he has by the royal prophet, been pronounced the natural period of human life. Periods of commercial depression come on an average once in seven years.

CHARACTERISTICS OF INFANTS.

Speaking of newly born infants, Prof. Genziner says that the sense of touch is developed from the earliest period, and reflex actions are readily excited by the slightest stimulation, especially of the face and then of the hands and the soles. The feeling of the brain is only clearly exhibited after 4 or 5 weeks, before which time infants do not shed tears. Hunger and thirst are manifested increased general irritability, with reflex movements, which cease after the first week. Smell and taste are not distinguishable to infants. Hearing is perceptible in the first and second day of life. They are very sensitive to light, and after a few days learn to follow the motion of objects by moving their head. Between the fourth and fifth week the convergence of the pupils and power of coordination in vision are preceptible. A distinct perception of color does not exist under 4 or 5 months.

A RISING VOCALIST.

Mr. Charles L. Carman, who recently sang "The Palms" in the Centenary Church in Hamilton, is a young Canadian who bids fair to take a high position as a vocalist. For four years past he has been studying with the best New York masters, and his naturally fine bass voice has been greatly strengthened and improved. The Times says he is studying with a view of adopting the operatic stage as a profession and he has already appeared with credit in the opera in New York. Mr. Carman is a son of the late editor and proprietor of THE ONTARIO, now of the St. Cathrines News.

THE LONGEST THREE JUMPS.

Considerable interest centred in the jumping wager between George Hamilton, the champion of the country, and Dick Smith, the amateur of our city, at the Springs, yesterday afternoon. The wager, $100 a side, having been deposited, time was called, and the conditions were read as follows: Three standing jumps, Hamilton to allow Smith three feet, and each man to have five trials. The record was as follows:—

Hamilton's best jump. 40 feet and six inches.

Smith's best jump, 37 feet and 6 inches.

There being a tie the bet was declared off.

After this Hamilton gave an exhibition of his powers, taking a flat-footed standing leap over a horse's back, 15½ hands high.—San Antonia Times.

THE DAILY ONTARIO.

WARDENS AS LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.

We have already pointed out that the positions of Warden and License Commissioner are incompatible, and although the law on the subject is clear enough, those gentlemen who deem themselves superior to statutes of Parliament will perhaps require a few prosecutions before they fully realize their position.

Section 77 of the Municipal Act says distinctly and without qualification that "no innkeeper or saloon-keeper or shopkeeper licensed to sell spirituous liquors by retail, no license commissioner or inspector of licenses, shall be qualified to be a member of the council of any municipal corporation."

The Warden holds office by virtue of this Act, which if he infringes at once disqualifies him, as witness Section 177 of the Act of 1883, a section strongly insisted upon by Mr. Meredith :—

> "In the event of any member of any municipal council forfeiting his seat at the council or his right thereto, or of his becoming disqualified to hold his seat, or of his seat becoming vacant by disqualification or otherwise, he shall forthwith vacate his seat, and in the event of his omitting to do so at any time after his election, proceedings by quo warranto to unseat any such member, as provided by sections 185 to 206, both inclusive, of this Act may be had and taken, and such sections shall, for the purposes of such proceedings, apply to any such forfeiture, disqualification, or vacancy."

Now it is apparent on the face that any Warden who has accepted the appointment of License Commissioner is thereby disqualified and we presume any subsequent official act performed by him as Warden is null and void, provided it is challenged.

THE LIBERALS AND THE NORTH-WEST.

Seeing that the only route by which, until 1882, settlers could enter Manitoba was over the Pembina branch built by Mr. Mackenzie, the cry that the Liberal party is inimical in anyway to the settlement and development of the Northwest is absurd. When speaking on the C.P.R. resolutions in the House Sir Richard Cartwright said :—"Sir, the hon. gentleman was good enough to tell us these were reasons why the road should be in difficulties, and that prominent among these was the opposition given to it by the Liberal party. The Liberal party, neither in nor out of office, had ever given any opposition to the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the development of the North-west, but they would always oppose measures which are calculated to retard its progress ; and it does not lie in the mouth of those hon. gentlemen, who, as I recollect, were very slow to take steps to acquire the North-west, to say the Liberal party were ever indifferent to the acquisition of that territory."

This is important as the decision affects thirty million hogs.

OUR LOCAL CONTEMPORARY prints three quarters of a column regarding the manner in which the contract for some improvements around the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb was performed and says it has the account from "a gentleman thoroughly reliable." It is sufficient to say that the source of our contemporary's information is a discontented employee on the job.

THE HAMILTON Spectator says, "Ontario has no Parliament; it has a Legislature." In this our esteemed contemporary differs from the Attorney General who once informed Mr. Meredith, who afterwards did not contend otherwise, that it was quite proper to term the Legislature "Parliament," which, in fact, was done in official records and the occasion referred to was when Mr. Meredith asked the Attorney General why the title had been dropped from the Votes and Proceedings.

THE BILL introduced into the Ontario Legislature by the Hon. A. M. Ross, respecting noxious weeds, extends the operation of the Act respecting thistles. Municipal Councils may without petition appoint an inspector to secure the destruction of weeds, and must do so if fifty landholders petition that such appointment be made. The inspector's duty shall be to have thistles cut when they are not destroyed after due notice given, and the cost is to be assessed against the owner of the land.

* * *

IT SHOULD NOT be forgotten that when the C.P.R. Syndicate were pushing their Government friends for $30,000,000 more the Opposition did not factiously oppose the resolutions but merely submitted an alternative proposition. They placed a motion in the hands of the Speaker, calling, not for the rejection of this measure, but for a postponement of action until more definite information could be obtained by the House as to the character of the operations of the Company, until information could be obtained as to whether they had used the funds placed in their hands judiciously and honestly, and were entitled to the confidence of the country or not. This reasonable request from the Opposition was unreasonably refused by the Government.

THE FACTORY ACT

It Ignores Important Recommendations of Trade Council.

WORSE THAN THAT OF LAST YEAR.

Sir Leonard Tilley has at length introduced his Factory Act. Last year it was introduced in the Senate but was so imperfect and inadequate that Government withdrew it. The recommendations contained in the memorial of the Trades and Labor Council in reference to this Act have not been adopted, except in a few unimportant particulars. The Council recommended that no child under fourteen years of age should be allowed to accept employment in factories. The Government adhere to their original intention to allow children twelve years old to be so employed. The Council requested that no child between the ages of fourteen and seventeen should be employed without a certificate as to age, but the Government adhere to the figures twelve and fifteen. The provisions of last year's bill for the punishment of employers who keep their establishments in such condition that the health and personal safety of therein is endangered have apparently, at the request of the manufacturers, been struck out. The number of hours per week during which children shall be allowed to work has been reduced from sixty to fifty-four. The memorial of the Trades and Labour Council urged that no child under fifteen should be allowed to be employed in factories unless he or she had attended school for at least twenty weeks in each year. The suggestion was not adopted. They also recommended that a suitable dining-room should be provided for the use of employees in each factory ; that no doors at the main entrance to any factory should be kept locked or bolted at any time during working hours ; that the powers of, and instructions to, inspectors to be made imperative instead of discretionary ; that clause 22 of the old Act exempting employers from liability for infringements of the Act by employees or agents be expunged, and that bakeries, soda-water works, grist mills, stay factories, planning mills, brass foundries, stone and marble works, and printing offices be added to the list of establishments to which the Act shall apply. All

PERSONS EMPLOYED

THESE RECOMMENDATIONS WERE IGNORED

by the Government. The influence of monopolists and manufacturers is all powerful with the present Ministry, and the bill introduced to-day provides less protection for the health and safety of factory operatives than the one submitted last session.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

THE GAME OF GRAB.

The unblushing effrontery with which the game of grab is being played at Ottawa is highly entertaining, Seeing the Oriental lavishness with which millions are being distributed, brankrupt Quebec insolently threatens to revolt from the Government if not conciliated with a share of the spoils, and Manitoba querulously asks what is going to be done for her. The proposal to establish a Government printing office is a thinly disguised scheme to place a few more fat appointments at the disposal of the Executive. Meanwhile the unhappy taxpayer, with a beautiful faith, contributes his hard earned money to the pool from which other gentlemen, who do not like work, are continually grabbing.—[The Week.

PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS.

It St. Nicholas for March, Louisa M. Alcot's third 'Spinning-wheel Story,' entitled 'Eli's Education,' is a leading feature and paints the true picture of the struggles of a country lad to obtain an education in the early years of the present century. Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney contributes a brightly written story called 'Girl Noblesse' which is not without without 'boy interest' however. 'Among the Mustangs,' is the title of an entertaining paper on the wild ponies of the plains. 'Blown out to Sea,' by C. F. Holder, is a collections of anecdotes recounting some of the curious resting places made use of by weary birds which are driven by strong winds out of their course in their long migratory flights, often extending many thousands of miles. R. B. Birch has illustrated and engrossed six pages of funny jingles entitled 'An Alphabet Menagerie,' and there are some excellent verses besides these. Mayne Reid's serial 'The land of Fire,' and W. O. Stoddard's 'Winter Fun' increase in interest as they grow in length.

VISIT TO BELLEVILLE.

The surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute, offices at Montreal and Toronto, will be at the Dafoe House, Belleville, March 17, 18, 19 and 20, where physicians and sufferers can consult them and test the merits of the new and wonderful instrument, the Spirometer, invented by Dr. M. Souvielle, of Paris Ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army for the special treatment of Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Consumption in the first and second stages, and all diseases of the nose, throat, and lungs. Consultation free. For further particulars, address International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church St., Toronto.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk ; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

FROM OTTAWA.

Exhibition of Depravity by Sir Charles Tupper.

DISGRACEFUL WHITEWASHING BILL.

Ottawa despatches say :—The coarseness and general depravity shown by Sir Charles Tupper in the course of Tuesday evening's debate have disgusted every reasonable man here. For his cowardly attack upon Mr. Watson he was compelled to apologize first to the House and afterwards to Mr. Watson, personally. But his deliberate attempt to falsify the figures given in 1880 by Mr. Blake, as to the cost of the Pacific Railway, brought upon himself summary and severe chastisement. Mr. Blake read from the Hansard report of his speech, proving that the Railway Minister had wilfully misstated what had been said, and asked what reliance was to be placed on the statements, past, present or future, of one who seemed to have not the slightest regard for common honesty.

WHITEWASHING SIR CHARLES.

The notice given by Sir John Macdonald of his intention to introduce a Bill to whitewash or indemnify Sir Charles Tupper against penalities incurred by him in illegally taking his seat in Parliament while holding an office under the Crown, has caused a decided sensation. The Tory members of Parliament who have some conscientious scruples left are anxiously inquiring of each other "what further ?" It is now confessed that all the arguments of the Tory organs in favor of the legality of Sir Charles' action have been utterly worthless. He has been sitting in Parliament improperly and now the Premier has the indecency to ask the Parliament to free him from all liability for penalities prescribed by the Independence of Parliament Act. After getting his whitewashing Bill through, Sir Charles will be able to draw pay both as High Commissioner and Minister of Railways.

CANADA PACIFIC PORT.

The assistant traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway announces that lake steamers owned by that company will make Owen Sound, and not Algoma Mills, their eastern port—traffic is too pass over the Ontario and Quebec Road to Toronto, thence by the Toronto. Grey & Bruce Railway to Owen Sound, where it will be placed on Steamers for Prince Arthur's Landing. The Algoma Mills branch is therefore of little use and the money expended upon it by the Pacific Railway Company has been largely wasted, at all events at such an early period.

NORTHWEST DISCONTENT.

Some of the Causes Explained by a Returned Settler.

Mr. J. W. Turner, of Sidney, who returned a short time ago from the vicinity of Broadview, N. W. T., where a portion of his family is, stated yesterday to an ONTARIO reporter that he was not suprised from his knowledge of the country, to hear of considerable grumbling and dissatisfaction. The tariff was one great source of discontent as the 35 per cent duty on agricultural implements bore particularly heavy on settlers who purchase their implements and machinery in the States. Ontario could not manufacture these implements and pay the freight on them up there any cheaper than the settler could get them from south of the border, duty and all. A neighbor of Mr. Turner's purchased a self binder and reaper, which, with the duty, came to $350, while the Ontario farmer can purchase the same thing for $250, about the difference in the duty.

"What do they think of the tariff altogether."

"They are very much opposed to it," Mr. Tuner replied emphatically.

Then, he continued, another disadvantage under which they labored was in the mater of freights on the C. P. R. These were so high that when a man raised a hundred bushels of wheat it cost an enormous sum to get it to market, The farmers too, would strongly object to an elevator monopoly by the railway, which he understood the company were bringing about.

"I am not saying this" said Mr. Turner "because I am politically opposed to the Government, but I have substantial interest in that country. Half of my family are there and two-thirds of my grandchildren. The country round about where they are is good and Broadview itself is a thriving place. The drawbacks, however, I mention, keep people from going into that country," Mr. Turner thinks he will likely return to the Northwest.

THE WALSH CASE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 28.—The incarceration of a sane man in a lunatic asylum as a confirmed drunkard is still the topic of the hour. On behalf of the family it is stated that Mr. Walsh is so violent when under the influence of liquor as to be absolutely dangerous, and that his quarters at Longue Pointe are very comfortable, and in no way oblige him to associate with lunatics.

THE COWARDLY BRIDEGROOM.

A movement is on foot in the St James aristocratic club here to strike the name of Walter Wilson, who basely deserted his intended bride on the day appointed for the wedding, from the list of members. A letter has been received from Glasgow that Wilson's father who is a wealthy contractor there, was so shocked on hearing of the conduct of his erratic son that he had a stroke of paralysis.

RESOLUTIONS PRESSING THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT DEFEATED IN GRAND LODGE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—The Provincial Grand Orange Lodge again met to-day, when the resolution urging the Government to pass the Orange Incorporation Bill was defeated by a large majority. Johnson, Belleville, was elected Grand Master, and F. M. Clarke, Belleville, Grand Registrar.

INTERDICTION FOR DRUNKENNESS,

IT ENABLES A WIFE TO LEGALLY CONFINE HER HUSBAND IN AN INSANE ASYLUM.

MONTREAL, Feb, 27.—In the Court of appeals yesterday argument was heard on the writ of habeas corpus on behalf of and for the release of James Walsh from Longue Point Asylum. The circumstances of the case were briefly given in yesterday's ONTARIO The Court of three Judges in pronouncing judgment regretted to have to quash the writ of habeas corpus, but the Provincial Act, like many others in the Province of Quebec, was strangely contradictory. It defined, however, the power of a curator for prodigality, and was explicit in stating that an interdiction for drunkenness had all the effects of an indiction for insanity. Hon. Justice Monck admitted that it was a most extraordinary law, but the proceedings by which Walsh had been confined in the Inebriate Asylum were perfectly regular under the statute; and he would have to be taken back. Justice Ramsay disented from the judgment, and considered the commitment illegal. He said Quebec was the only part of the British possessions where such a law could be practised or enforced. Counsel for Walsh moved in Chambers for an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Every observer who walks the streets of a a great city, and scans with an intelligtnt eye the colorless faces of more tham fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age, which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has destroyed in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrup and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remody required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if properly and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

Pure Milk for Belleville,

— from the —

City of Belleville Milk Company

— sealed and delivered in —

GLASS BOTTLES.

To the Citizens of Belleville :

THE Stockholders of this Company owning farms in the vicinity of the City, and keeping a large number of cows will supply the people of Belleville with milk in sealed bottles, which they GUARANTEE to be ABSOLUTELY PURE and of a SUPERIOR QUALITY. The milk for the present is bottled and sealed at the homes of the individual stockholders, a vital feature, as the milk is then delivered into the hands of the consumer without a possibility of it being tampered with. The bottles are filled to the brim which keeps the milk motionless during transportation and thereby prevents any injurious effects from shaking and exposure, as in the case of cans.

The unusually large quantity of cream can be seen upon the milk, which can be poured off for separate use or can be mixed through the milk again.

Another great advantage is that the milk is kept air-tight, and in warm weather can be set away in refrigerators or plunged into ice water until wanted, therefore, always perfectly fresh.

Customers are requested to wash the bottles and wash off the seal as soon as [illegible], to be exchanged for full ones. For [illegible] seven tickets will be sold which can be exc [illegible] bottles of milk.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.

Steps Being Taken to Introduce it into the City.

TWO SYSTEMS TO BE SUBMITTED.

Mr. Griffin, representative of the American Electric and Illuminating Company, of Boston, is now in the city endeavoring to arrange for the introduction of his system of electric lighting. Those who, chiefly, are expected to use the light are merchants and manufacturers. Mr. Griffin has secured the names of some of the most prominent citizens, who give their countenance to the project, and to-morrow afternoon at 4:30 a meeting of those interested will be held in the parlors of the Dafoe House. In order to give citizens some idea of what is claimed for this light the following information furnished by the company is given.

QUALITY OF THE LIGHT.

The arc system, used by all branches of the American Electric and Illuminating Company, produces a clear and steady yet soft and white light—qualities not always found united in the same light. It is also claimed that by this system the great danger from electric wires, as well as that resulting from the sudden turning off of the lights when burning is entirely avoided.

QUESTION OF COST.

As to the cost the following comparison has been made: To illuminate a floor space 1,200 feet square, by electric lights, Mr. Ross's system, would cost $2.50 per hour, giving the same quality of light as 800 gas burners consuming six feet of gas each an hour. Thus 4,800 ft. of gas per thousand would be $12 per hour, as against $2.50 for the electric light. In other words one electric arc lamp in volume of light is equal to 2,000 candle power, or 125 gas jets of 16 candles power each.

THE EDISON SYSTEM.

A Front Street merchant, who has been in communication with Mr. Edison of Menlo Park, New York, has just received word that the representative of Mr. Edison now in Hamilton will visit Belleville in a week or so. Claims of superiority over every other system are put forth on behalf of the Edison light.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

CRIME IN BELLEVILLE.

DEAR SIR,—I have read the report of the Chief of Police in Tuesday's issue. We have an able police force here who I think do all they can to keep things orderly. 789 persons were charged with different crimes. Looking over the list I came to the conclusion that a great number of known criminals are untouched and do as they please. What about those persons who have two three or more wives? and what about those so called husbands who live with other women unlawfully and chase their own wife out of doors? I venture to say that there is not a city in Canada of the size of Belleville which has as many criminals of that kind. It is one of the greatest evil and eats up the moral influence of any place. Can nothing be done? Something should be done at once.

A. SCHUSTER,
City Missionary.

MILL ISLAND.

Messrs. Rathbun and Company Attach a Stipulation to their Offer.

It appears there has been a hitch in the transfer of Mill Island to the Rathbun Company, who, a few weeks ago offered, and the Council accepted, $5,000 for the property, the amount to be paid in instalments. The Company now asks the exclusive use of the ferry slip at the foot of Dundas Street, which is something that was not mentioned in the original offer, and which of course the City Solicitor refused to sanction. The city was willing to give the company the right of way along the west side of the slip and no more, but this is not sufficient it appears to the company, who have promised to make another proposition at the next meeting of the Council.

It has been stated by the City Solicitor and others that in all probability the present Government engineer would consent to a permanent bridge being built to connect the island with the main land at this point, and throw the current down the western channel. If this could be accomplished the cost of dredging the harbor every year would not be so great, and some day the ferry slip might be utilized for the purpose for which it was built.

There are a number of varieties of corns. Holloway's Corn Cure removes any of them.

DUST TO DUST.

Funeral Obsequies of the Late Rev. Sheldon Young.

The obsequies prior to the interment of the late Rev. Sheldon Young were held at his residence on North Front Street this morning at ten o'clock. His five daughters several of his sons in-law and the bereaved widow were present, but the three sons were unavoidably absent, one having not yet learned of his loss. A large number of friends and brother clergymen assembled to pay the last tribute of respect to one of the veterans of Canadian Methodism. The services were conducted by the Rev. Wm. Bird, assisted by Revs. H. Williams, Dr. Jaques, A. Campbell and H. I. Allen. Mr. Bird, in the course of an affecting address, mentioned that the deceased had entered the ministry in 1844, and had remained in active service until '79, when he retired because of ill health. Mr. Young was one of the most successful revivalists in the M. E. Church and his life has been redolent with good works. After the service the bearers, Messrs. John Scott, W. Cummings, Ald. L. Johnson, N. Lazier, M. Ferguson, and John Way removed the casket to the hearse, in which it was borne to the Carrying Place cemetery, according to the wish of the departed.

Mrs. Mary Campbell, Elm, writes: 'After taking four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, I feel as if I were a new person. I had been troubled with Dyspepsia for a number of years and tried many remedies but to no avail until I tried the celebrated Dyspeptic cure.' For all impurities of the Blood, Sick Headache, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Costiveness, etc., it is the best medicine known.

THE FERRY QUESTION.

What Belleville Agrees to do if Granted a License.

A meeting of the Harbor and Ferry Committee was held yesterday afternoon in the Solicitor's office to consider a letter that had been received from Toronto in re the new ferry license as stated in THE ONTARIO. All the members were present.

The letter from Mr. E. G. Sills to the City Solicitor asked for the following information: (1) What length of boat do you purpose putting on; (2) how many teams do you purpose she will carry; (3) power of engines; (4) number of trips and rate of speed; (5) rate of fare (6) how soon you will be able to put the boat on.

The Solicitor informed the committee that he had already agreed with the Government to put on a boat of the following dimensions: (1) 118 feet long; (2) capable of carrying 18 teams; (3) an engine of 100 horse power; (4) to run at least two trips an hour; (5) a reduction of 25 per cent in the fares and if possible 33⅓ per cent.

THE PRESENT LICENSE.

The license from the Ontario Government under which the Mary Ethel is controlled enacts that the boat shall not be of less than 25 horse power; 50 feet keel and 20 feet breadth of beam; the Lieut.-Governor to have the power to revoke the license and unless he does so the license to remain good for seven years; the fares collected not to exceed any schedule at present in use.

Ald. J. W. Johnson and Diamond questioned the authority of the Ontario Government to grant a ferry license at all.

The schedule of fares charged on the ferry about twenty-six years ago by the late Mr. Redner was compared with the one in use by the late Mr. Bogert, Capt. Jellett and Capt. Anderson and were found to be the same. The latter, it should be stated, allows a reduction of 25 per cent to passengers on the Mary Ethel who purchase tickets. The Solicitor stated that three members of the Government, Messrs. Hardy, Pardee and Fraser, were willing to abolish the ferry license entirely and throw the route open to any person.

INCREASING THE ACCOMMODATION.

In addition to what has already been represented to the Government the committee took the ground that in order to secure a ferry license for the City of Belleville they would have to show that the Council was prepared to give even greater accommodation to the public than the people of Ameliasburg or Belleville had yet agreed to. This the committee hoped to be able to do by putting a larger boat on the route which would make two regular trips each hour and run continuously on market days. As regards the fares a reduction of over twenty-five per cent will be guaranteed and possibly thirty will be given if the license is given to Belleville. A new schedule was drawn up showing the reduction it is proposed to make on each article and person.

It might be stated that if the city is granted a license the Rathbun Company may be induced to put on a suitable boat.

DIED IN PERU.

THE SAD NEWS RECEIVED THIS MORNING BY MR. STEPHEN GARRAT.

A brother of Mr. Wm. Marshall, of Hamilton, writing him from Canete, Peru, says that Mr. Rafael Garrat, formerly of Belleville, died in Lima, the capital of the country, on the 16th of January, leaving his Peruvian wife and three children in destitute circumstances. The deceased who was commonly known as Ralph, was 45 years of age, and had been living in Peru for several years. He was a brother of Mr. Stephen Garratt, of this city, and a son of Mr. William Garratt, who is still living at Wellington. An ONTARIO reporter saw Mr. Garratt this morning and informed him of the death of his brother, the first intimation he had of his demise. In the conversation which ensued, Mr. Garratt stated that Rafael left his home in Prince Edward County about twenty years ago on a whaling expedition and was absent about two years, but after remaining in this vicinity for a short time he left for New York again and there engaged in hiring and shipping men for the whaling trade. He also took part in the American war, but went to Peru afterwards where he has since been living. Mr. Stephen Garrett received a letter about a year ago from him stating that he had lost about $80,000 there in a war but was beginning to make money again. He was engaged in the railway business in the South. Some steps should be taken by the relatives in Canada to relieve the distress of the widow and her orphans. The relatives here mourn the loss of Rafael, who was always a kind-hearted and affectionate member of the family, though of a wandering disposition. The sad news of the death of his son was conveyed this afternoon to the aged father at Wellington.

BURGLARS AT ROBLIN

A General Store Ransacked and Robbed.

OTHER UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPTS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

ROBLINS MILLS, Feb. 28.—This quiet little hamlet was thrown into a state of wild excitement this morning in learning that a gang of burglars had paid us a visit during the night and stolen a quantity of merchandise, money and a horse and cutter. A search was at once made and the telegraph dexterously used for several hours but no trace of the men could be had. They were evidently parties who had some experience at the business and who knew where to go to secure valuables. The first one who discovered that the

MIDNIGHT MECHANICS

had been at work in the village was a clerk of Mr. Owen Roblin's, who keeps a general country store in connection with the Post Office. When he went to the store this morning he found the doors open and the goods ransacked. The mail had been robbed, the cash box broken open, an attempt made to explode the safe, and a large part of the stock stolen. The burglars gained access to the store through the door in the rear. The glass was broken and the bolts on the inside removed by a crowbar. The mail bag containing a registered letter with $5 in it for a man living in Campbellford was cut open and the contents stolen. The money in the till, about $5 or $6, is missing. About was found partially burnt under the safe, which contained a large amount of money and valuable papers, but they remained undisturbed. Several pairs of boots, a quantity of clothing, dry goods, and other miscellaneous articles were stolen. After leaving the premises the thieves tried to enter the residence of Mr Ross, but failing in this they went to Coon Delong's stable and stole his horse and sleigh which were used to carry the burglars and their booty away. An unsuccessful attempt was made, as well, to enter James Haley's stable. No trace of the burglars has been found. The horse and rig belonging to Delong was found under a hotel shed at Rednersville early this morning. It is surmised that the theives had another conveyance at Rednerville which they took and drove out of the county by way of Trenton.

TWO POUNDS OF POWDER

[A reporter of THE ONTARIO this morning was shown the registered letter bag at the post office here that was tampered with at Roblin's Mills last night. The police here this morning received a telegram to be on the lookout far the theives.]

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

Farm labourers, country people, passed to and fro at rare intervals, for the road was not much frequented.

Calthwaite, the tragedian, passed with the usual merry smile on his face, accompanied by Lawson, the low comedian, looking as depressed and miserable as was his wont.

Dalgleish went by alone; he did not care for society, and found people's companionship less agreeable than his own thoughts, though one might have supposed they were not particularly cheerful to judge from the expression of his countenance. Perhaps it was, however society didn't care for him.

He looked intently into the window as he passed, but Ethel had drawn back upon seeing him.

She was learning to dread this man, whose gaze followed her every movement when at the theatre.

All the actors seemed to be out, as was perhaps natural, and the next to pass was Saville.

He was cast for Laertes, and was diligently conning his book which he had in one hand, while with the other he fenced with an imaginary Hamlet, using his cane for a foil.

He, too, glanced in at the window, and encountered Ethel's smile.

Raising his hat, and bowing a smiling salution, he passed on, apparently finding Hamlet more active than before, for he thrust and parried vigorously as he continued his way.

Anon came little Kinks, and for him also Ethel had a pleasant smile in store; and indeed the little man deserved it, for it was from repeatedly drinking success to her that he had got into a state which necessiated a brisk walk to 'kinder fresh a feller up a bit,' as he expressed it.

He had been treating resolution most generously for enabling him to resist the stranger's offer the day before.

But where was Bertram?

Ah! if he should not come.

If her presentiment were untrue.

She looked down the road towards Madeley far away there to the right.

Bertram are you not coming?

He was not coming for a shadow fell on her book, as she turned her head away from the direction in which she had been anxiously gazing; he was not coming for he was then standing before her.

He had entered the gate unperceived, and was there at last.

She rose so hastily, that her father turned his head.

'Mr. Madeley has come, papa,' said the girl, with cheeks as red as the roses which clustered thickly on the bushes before the house; and her father pushed back his chair, and opened the room door.

Little had he guessed that it was Hubert's son to whom he was indebted for his child's life, and so for his own happiness; but so it was, and when he looked into the young heir's honest, handsome face, his heart warmed to him.

Very cordially Henry Aubrey stretched out the hand of welcome to the young man, and led him into the house, and into the room where Ethel stood with quickly beating heart, the rich colour of her face contrasting with her light muslin dress.

'You have met my daughter Ethel on two occasions, Mr. Madeley,' said Henry Aubrey.

How strangely the name of Madely sounded on his lips.

'Yes,' replied Bertram, 'I am sincerely happy to say that I have. Miss Vaughan kindly gave me permission to call, and I am very glad to do so, and tell you how much I congratulate myself on having strolled over to Avranches that afternoon.'

'I will not make pretty speeches of thanks, nor seek for complimentary phrases of gratitude, Mr. Madeley; but only say, from the very bottom of my heart, I thank you. God bless you!'

Henry Aubrey's voice trembled, and it was with some difficulty that he repressed the tears which rose to his eyes as he grasped Bertram's hand.

Dead Eustace, is not your spirit there? Can you not reveal the truth?

Ah, no; that may not be.

But you, good Henry Aubrey, be steadfast but a little more, for the reward is at hand.

Could it be possible that Bertram and Ethel had seen so little of each other.

Their greeting was cordial enough to induce a looker-on to set them down as old friends, for the light that comes to lovers' eyes shines very plainly, and Bertram and Ethel had easily recognised its presence when their eyes met.

Bertram had seated himself, and picked up the book which Ethel had dropped in her surprise at seeing him for whom she looked.

'Hamlet this evening, Miss Vaughan?' he asked, for the title of the book had caught his eye.

'Yes, are you going to the theatre?' she replied.

'I came to the town with that intention,' Bertram answered. 'Hurstleigh is horribly motionous, and the advent of De Langtonville and his company is a great boon to us poor country people. Do you like England, Mr. Vaughan, and sing 'there's no place like home?'

'I have been abroad so long that the fresh English country is very pleasant to me. Thirty years is a long time, and yet,' Henry Aubrey musingly continued, Hurstleigh is so little altered; the same trees and houses, almost the same people.'

'You knew Hurstleigh, then, before you went?' Bertram asked with some surprise.

Henry Aubrey saw the inadvertence of the last speech, which he had thoughtlessly made, and replied with the least soupçon of confusion—

'Yes, I—I was staying in the neighbourhood before I left England.'

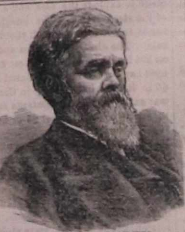
Holloway's Pills.—No Misery.—Whenever the blood is impure or the general health is impaired the human body is predisposed to attacks of an prevailing epedemic. The first indications of faulty action, the first sensation of deranged or diminished power should be these purifying Pills, which will cleanse all corrupt and reduce all erring functions to order. These Pills counteract the subtile poison in decaying animal in vegetable matter, and remove all tendency to bowel complaint, billiousness, and the hosts of annoying symptoms arising from foul stomachs. The fruit season is especially prone to produce irritation of the bowels and disorder of the digestive organs; both of which dangerous conditions can be completely removed by Holloway's corrective medicines.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the lungs. In common colds and influenza the Pills taken internally and the Ointment, rubbed externally are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is epidemic this treatment is easiest, safest, surest. Holloway's Pills and Ointment purify the blood, remove obstructions to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the overgorged air tubes, and render respiration free without reducing the strength ritating the nerves, or depressing the [illegible] Such as the ready means of saving [illegible] when afflicted with colds, coughs, [illegible] other complaints by which so many [illegible] iously and permanently afflicted in most [illegible] tries.



THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

His Outspoken Opinion.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical profession stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefits which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.

Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

Sir,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers. When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

[The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation eved when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we knew them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a safe and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint

Aspotogan via Hubbard's Cove, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883, Mr. W. Lumbers, sr, Toronto Ont. Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better. I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. Thos. Reid, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.

CHAPTER II.

"Malden, Mass., Feb. 1, 1880. Gentlemen
I suffered with attacks of sick headache,"
Neuralgia, female trouble, for years in the most terrible and exciting manner.
No medicine or doctor could give me relief or cure until I tried Hop Bitters.
"The first bottle
Nearly cured me;"
The second made me well and strong as when a child,
"And I have been so to this day."
My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious
"Kidney, liver and urinary complaint,"
"Pronounced by Boston's best physicians—
"Incurable!"
Seven bottles of your bitters cured him and know of the "Lives of eight persons"
In my neighborhood that have been saved by your bitters,
And many more are using them with great benefit.
"They almost
Do miracles!" —Mrs. E. D. Slack.

AFTER THE CULMINATION OF manhood at forty, the prime of life, begins to decline into old age. The activity of the digestive apparatus which at first was sufficient not only to provide for the daily waste, but to add new material later on is only able to supply the daily waste, and at last too imperfect to maintain the balance and substain the frame in its existing entirety. At this period when the expenditure is greater than the income, WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA, by augmenting nerve force and supplying ready-made tissue elements, will have a tendency to prolong life.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS

Pure Milk for Belleville,
—from the—
City of Belleville Milk Company
—sealed and delivered in—
GLASS BOTTLES.

To the Citizens of Belleville:

THE Stockholders of this Company owning farms in the vicinity of the City, and keeping a large number of cows will supply the people of Belleville with milk in sealed bottles, which they GUARANTEE to be ABSOLUTELY PURE and of a SUPERIOR QUALITY. The milk for the present is bottled and sealed at the homes of the individual stockholders, a vital feature, as the milk is then delivered into the hands of the consumer without a possibility of it being tampered with. The bottles are filled to the brim which keeps the milk motionless during transportation and thereby prevents any injurious effects from shaking and exposure, as in the case of cans.

The unusually large quantity of cream can be seen upon the milk, which can be poured off for separate use or can be mixed through the milk again.

Another great advantage is that the milk is kept air-tight, and in warm weather can be set away in refrigerators or plunged into ice water until wanted, therefore, always perfectly fresh.

Customers are requested to wash the bottles and wash off the seal as soon as empty, to be exchanged for full ones. For convenience tickets will be sold which can be exchanged for bottles of milk.

This method of delivering milk entails additional labor and expense, but we shall furnish those who may favor us with their custom with fresh, sweet, rich milk at same rates as supplied by other dealers. We expect to start about the first of March. As a trial of our milk is the best way to test its quality we shall be pleased to leave it on trial to all applicants.

All orders to be sent to J. E. Sills, Esq., the City Treasurer's Office, City Hall, Reid & Pringle's grocery, or to the Managing Director, P. O. Box 601, from whom any information can be obtained.

W. J. MASSEY,
President and Managing Director.

PURE SOULS.

Pure souls that watch above me from afar,
To whom, as to the stars, I raise my eyes,
Draw me to your large skies,
Where God and quiet are.

Love's mouth is rose-red, and his voice is sweet,
His feet are winged, his eyes are as clear fire;
But I have no desire
To follow his winged feet.

Friendships may change, or friend may pass away,
And Fame's a bride that men soon weary of;
Since rest is not with Love,
No joy that is may stay.

But they whose lives are pure, whose hearts are high—
Those shining spirits by the world untamed—
May, at the end, unshamed,
Look on their days gone by.

O pure, strong souls, so starlike, calm, and bright,
If even I before the end might feel,
Through quiet pulses, steal
Your pureness, with purged sight

I might Spring's gracious work behold once more,
Might hear, as once I heard, long, long ago,
Great waters ebb and flow,
Might smell the rose of yore,

Might comprehend the winds and clouds again,
The saintly, peaceful moonlight hallowing all,
The scent of leaves that fall
The Autumn's tender pain.

Ah, this, I fear, shall never chance to me,
And though I cannot shape the life I would,
It surely still is good
To look where such lives be.

MARK TWAIN.

The True Story of the Great Humorist's Marriage.

A GIRL WHO "RISKED" HIM.

In 1869 Twain tried journalism for a time in Buffalo, where he held an editorial position on a daily paper. While there he fell in love with a young lady, a sister of Dan—made famous in Innocents Abroad—but her father, a gentleman of wealth and position, looked unfavorably upon his daughter's alliance with a Bohemian literary character.

'I like you,' he said to Mark, 'but what do I know of your antecedents? Who is there to answer for you, anyhow?'

After reflecting a few moments, Mark thought some of his old California friends would speak a good word for him. The prospective father-in-law wrote letters of inquiry to several residents of San Francisco, to whom Clemens referred him, and, with one exception, the letters denounced him bitterly, especially deriding his capacity from becoming a good husband. Mark sat beside his fiancee when the letters were read aloud by the old gentleman. There was a dreadful silence for a moment, and then Mark stammered:—"Well, that's pretty rough on a fellow, anyhow?'

His betrothed came to the rescue however, and overturned the mass of testimony against him by saying, 'I'll risk you, anyhow.'

The terrible father-in-law lived in Elmira, New York, and there Mark was married. He had told his friends in the newspaper office at Buffalo, to select him a suite of rooms in a first class boarding house in the city, and to have a carriage at the depot to meet the bride and groom. Mark knew they would do it, and gave himself no more anxiety about it. When he reached Buffalo, he found a handsome carriage, a beautiful span of horses and a driver in livery. They drove him up to a handsome house on an aristocratic street, and as the door was opened, there were the parents of the bride to welcome them home. The old folks had arrived on the quiet by a special train. After Mark had gone through the house and examined its elegant finishings, he was notified officially that he had been driven by his own coachman, in his own carriage, to his own house. They say tears came to his wonderfully dark and piercing eyes, and that all he could say was 'well, this is a first class swindle.'

Not long after his marriage, Mark settled down in Hartford, and invested capital in insurance companies there.

The Clemens mansion in Hartford is a model of architectural beauty, and is elegantly furnished in the interior. In the library, over the large fireplace, is a brass plate with the inscription in old English text: 'The ornament of a house is the friends who frequent it.' Mark does not use the library for his study, but does nearly all his writing in the billiard room at the top of the house.

THE PROPAGANDA'S ITALIAN LAW-SUIT.

A Rome despatch says:—The suit of the Propaganda against the Government will soon be tried, and for the last time, before the highest tribunal, the Curte Suprema di Cassazione. Four times have the lower courts been asked to decide whether the Government was right or wrong in ordering the sale of Propaganda estate, and its investment in Government bonds. Twice have they decided in favor of Propaganda and twice against it. Propaganda has a college, a printing office, a museum, and a library. It is international in its character. It was founded by Pope Urban VIII. It has been the seminary for all the Catholic missions. Money and gifts from all parts of the world have endowed it. The library and museum include donations from priests and missionaries in every quarter of the globe. The estate is valued at 10,000,000 francs.

THE LICENSE QUESTION.

On Wednesday a large and representative deputation of the Ontario Trades Benevolent Association waited on the Attorney General and other members of the Government to express their fears regarding the present state of the liquor law. They thought that the control over the number of grocer licenses should be taken away from the municipal councils and reserved by the Government or delegatd to the Commissioners. They could see no reason for disqualifying licensees from seats at council boards. They asked for reasonably low license fees in view of the present hard times. Some thought high license rates would encourage groggeries. They could not see why one who purchased liquor illegally should not be liable to punishment as well as the seller. They also believed that they should have the right to keep open on Saturday the same as any other business man. Ald. Mitchell, of Toronto, said it had been stated throughout the city that if a man applied for both licenses the probability was that the Ontario Government would instruct their commissioners not to issue licenses to such persons, but Mr. Hardy said there was nothing in the statement, and Mr. Mowat did not think the Government would ever give a direction of that sort to their commissioners. It was not at all likely, he said, that it would come to such a point. It was now beyond controversy that the Provincial law was one which they had the right of passing. The highest court in the realm had distinctly declared that after hearing the full argument. The Crooks Act had in this way been clearly held to be a law which they had a perfect right to pass The Dominion Act had been passed only for the reason that it had been claimed that the Provincial Government had no right to pass the Crooks Act, and that unless the Dominion Government interfered there would have been no legislation on the subject. But for that ground he supposed the Dominion Act would not have been proposed. The ground upon which it had been proposed was gone. There was no pretence for it now. It was now said that the Ontario Government might have had power to pass their law and that it was a perfectly valid law, yet that the Dominion Government had like jurisdiction and had a right on other grounds to pass such a law notwithstanding the fact that they had previously passed the Crooks Act. It was quite clear that this claim of the Dominion was a matter not ascertained. The Ontario Government disputed it altogether. On one hand the Crooks law was certainly valid, but on the other hand it was clear that the Dominion law was valid. He supposed there were gentlemen present of all politics,and he wished to know if the proposition of the Provincial Government had not been reasonable. They had said to the Dominion Government:—"Suspend your Dominion law. Let it stand for a year. Pass the necessary act so that the Dominion law might be out of the way. There is no harm done by it. We have power to regulate the liquor traffic and have declared our course. Let things go on till the question is ascertained." He asked the deputation if that was not a very reasonable proposition. The deputation is reported to have been unanimous in their opinion that it was. Mr. Mowat said no person had suggested a more reasonable course. The newspapers had not suggested a more reasonable course. The difficulties were beyond remedy on the part of the Provincial Government. He promised to take the matter into consideration and place it before his colleagues.

NUMBER OF SCHOOL CHILDREN.

According to official returns the following table shows for the last twelve years (1) the total school population of the Province, i.e.,the number of children from 5 to 16 years of age; (2) the number of pupils entered on the rolls of all the Public and Separate Schools for a longer or shorter period during those years; and (3) the total number of pupils in all the Schools of the Province, whether Public, Separate, High, Normal, or Model:—

	(1) 5 to 16, School Pop.	(2) Roll, Pub & Sepa'e.	(3) Roll P & S High, Normal, & M'l.
1871	489,618	446,326	463,057
1872	495,756	454,662	472,800
1873	501,869	460,984	470,281
1874	511,603	464,047	462,718
1875	511,083	474,241	483,383
1876	502,250	390,537	499,978
1877	494,804	490,860	500,989

1879	494,424	487,012	500,078
1880	489,924	483,054	496,855
1881	484,224	471,218	490,404
1882	483,817	471,512	484,985

This table discloses the fact that in 1882 the school population was smaller than in 1871, a most extraordinary showing, and one for which it is difficult to account.

A PARLIAMENTARY MYSTERY.

Parliament has a mystery. The various character of Sir Charles Tupper is the conundrum. How can he be High Commissioner, a member of the Government and sit as a member of Parliament? The Nova Scotia knight has announced mysteriously that he will in a few days explain why he has not this session voted in the House. While he is at explanations he might tell us how Messrs. Shields & Company could contribute large sums to a corruption fund for election purposes and yet tell the Sheriff that he is n. g.! There are more things in heaven and earth, poor elector, than are dreamt of in thy philosophy.

FROM OTTAWA.

Sir Charles Tupper's Antagonism to the Grand Trunk.

THE MUCH NEEDED DOUBLE TRACK.

OTTAWA, Feb. 29.—At a meeting of the Railway Committee yesterday a stormy discussion took place over the Grand Trunk Railway Company's Bill to enable them to raise money to double-track their line between Montreal and Toronto. Hon. Peter Mitchell attacked the general management of the Grand Trunk Company in violent terms. Hon. William Macdougall appeared on behalf of several shareholders of Grand Trunk stock to request certain amendments to the Bill. Mr. Mitchell having insinuated that certain members of the committee were under the influence of the Grand Trunk Company, Mr. John White insisted that names should be given He remarked that it was strange that Mr. Mitchell should attack the Grand Trunk, and at the same time display so much energy in pressing any legislation asked for by the Canadian Pacific Company. After some further discussion Sir Charles Tupper rose and asked that further consideration of the Bill be postponed until the Government should have an opportunity of examing. He affected to believe that the interests of the G. T. R. shareholders were about to be jeopardized, that sufficient provision had not been made and that the double tracking of the road should be under the supervision of the Government. He also assumed a hostile tone towards the company, and said that the claim of the Government against the Grand Trunk Company should be considered, as he was afraid that if the company was allowed to borrow more money, the recovery of the Government's claim would be further delayed. Mr. Bell, solicitor of the Grand Trunk Company, said that all the shareholders had received due notice of the company's intention to apply for this legislation. The Bill was in the usual form, and if it was not in the interest of the country he did not wish it passed.

The position taken by Sir Charle Tupper this morning is very significant, indicating as it does that the Government railway policy is dictated wholly by the Pacific Railway Syndicate. This is the first time in ten years that any reference has been made to the Grand Trunk's indebtedness, and hitherto no opposition has been shown to affording that company all the legislative powers necessary to carry out their enterprises. Mr. Abbott, solicitor of the C. P. Co., sat at Sir Charles Tupper's elbow during the whole discussion.

PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Magazine is not wedded to any particular system of writing, but contains examples of all.

A BEQUEST FOR MASSES ILLEGAL.

MAHONY CITY, Pa., Feb. 29.—After the death of Peter Otterbach, a wealthy resident of this place, last summer, it was ascertained that on the day preceding his demise he had made a will, in which, among other things, he provided that $2,000 should be paid to St. Fidelus Catholic Church for masses for himself and his deceased wife. Lorenz Mertens, the residuary legatee under the will, objected to this, and began a suit which has resulted in his favor, the Court declaring that such a bequest for a religious purpose, and conditional, was against the law, and ordered that the sum be paid to Mertens. The case has aroused much feeling in the church here.

OUR CANADIAN SILK INDUSTRY is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If the ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's. own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

I have used it in my family for Coughs and Colds for the past four years with the most unvaried success, and to-day my opinion of it is that I continue to think still more of that which I began to think well of. A CAPTAIN SAVED:

HOW A MEMBER OF HER MAJESTY'S SERVICE ESCAPED DESTRUCTION—HIS GRAPHIC ACCOUNT.

Hamilton, Ont., Spectator.

Some little commotion was occasioned several months ago regarding the experience of a gentleman well known in this city, and at the time the matter was a subject of general conversation. In order to ascertain all the facts bearing upon the matter, a representative of this paper was dispatched yesterday to interview the gentleman in question with the following result:

Captain W. H. Nicholls, formerly in Her Majesty's service, is a man well advanced in years, who has evidently seen much of the world. Endowed by nature with a strong constitution, he was enabled to endure hardships under which many men would have succumbed. Through all privation and exposure he preserved his constitution unimpared. A number of years ago, however, he began to feel a strange undermining of his life. He noticed that he had less energy than formerly, that his appetite was uncertain and changing, that he was unaccountably weary at certain times and correspondingly energetic at others; that his head pained him, first in front and then at the base of the brain, and that his heart was unusually irregular in its action. All these troubles attributed to some passing disorder and gave them little attention, but they seemed to increase in violence continually. To the writer he said:—

'I never for a moment thought these things amounted to anything serious and I gave them little, if any thought, but I felt myself growing weaker all the while and could in no way account for it."

'Did you take no steps to check these symptoms?'

'Very little, if any. I thought they were only temporary in their nature and would soon pass away. But they did not pass away and kept increasing. Finally, one day, after more than a year had passed, I noticed that my feet and ankles were beginning to swell and that my face under the eyes appeared puffy. This indication increased until my body began to fill with water, and finally swelled to enormous proportions. I was afflicted with acute rheumatic pains and was fearful at times that it would attack my heart. I consulted one of our most prominent physicians and he gave me no hope of ever recovering He said that I might live several months, but my condition was such that neither myself nor any of my family had the slightest hope of my recovery. In this condition a number of months passed by, during which time I had constantly to sit in an easy chair, not being able to lie down lest I should choke to death. The slight pains I had at first experienced increased to most terrible agonies. My thirst was intense and a good portion of the time I was wholly unconscious. When I did recover my senses I suffered so severely that my cries could be heard for nearly a mile. No one can have any idea of the agony I endured. I was unable to eat or even swallow fluids My strength entirely deserted me and I was so exhausted that I prayed day and night for death. The doctors could not relieve me and I was left in a condition to die and that, too, of Bright's disease of the kidneys in its most terrible form. I think I should have died had I not learned of a gentleman who had suffered very much as I had,and I resolved to pursue the same course of treatment which entirely cured him. I accordingly began and at once felt a change for the better going on in my system. In the course of a week the swelling had gone from my abdomen and deminished all over my body and I felt like another man. I continued the treatment and am happy to say that I was entirely cured through the wonderful, almost miraculous power of Warner's Safe Cure, which I consider the most valuable discovery of modern times.'

'And you feel apparently well now?"

'Yes indeed. I am in good health, eat heartily, and both the doctors and my friends are greatly surprised and gratified at my remarkable restoration, after I was virtually in the grave. My daughter, who has been terribly troubled with a pain in her back caused by kidney trouble has also been cured by means of this same great remedy and my family and myself have constituted ourselves a kind of missionary society for supplying the poor of our neighborhood with the remedy which has been so invaluable to us.'

As the writer was returning home he reflected upon the statements of the noble old man with whom he had conversed, and was impressed not only with the truth of his assertions, but also with the sincerity of all his acts. And he could not but wish that the thousands who are suffering with minor troubles which become so serious unless taken in time might know of Capt. Nicholl's experience and the manner in which he was saved. And that is the cause of this article.

PROCEEDING AGAINST TUPPER

Mr. Blake Moves That his Seat be Declared Vacant.

SERVED WITH A $5,000 WRIT.

(Special to the Ontario.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 29.—The excitement which has prevailed here for several days over the question as to whether Sir Charles Tupper had a right to sit in Parliament reached a climax yesterday when the Minister of Railways was served with a writ for $52,000 issued at the instance of Andrew Campbell, a retired grocer of this city, and served by himself in the Russell House. It was issued under the Independence of Parliament Act, and charges Tupper with having sat in Parliament twenty-six days contrary to the Act. The penalty is $400 a day for occupying a seat and voting, but as Sir Charles refrained from voting the penalty is $200 per day.

In the House last night, Blake moved that the Speaker be ordered to declare Tupper's seat vacant and issue a writ for a new election. Sir John moved an amendment, which carried, that the matter be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

CABLE NEWS.

The Czar Refers Nihilism to a Special Commission.

GLADSTONE INTRODUCES FRANCHISE BILL.

ST PETERSBURG, Feb 29.—The Czar has decided to convene the Superior Council to consider the Socialist question, and to enquire whether there really exists a powerful Nihilist party. If so, what their wants are and how to crush them, as the demand of the country may require. The council is to be composed of representatives of the ruling classes and all the heads of Administrative Departments.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—In the Commons last night Gladstone introduced the franchise bill, which he said, would strengthen the state by enfranchising those people capable of exercising the rights of the franchise. America he declared had only recovered from a civil war so quickly because every capable citizen had been entrusted with the franchise.

The British troops have commenced their advance on Teb. The black troops at Suakim have been discovered in treasonable communication with Osman Digma's second in command, and have been confined to camp by Admiral Hewitt, who has ordered the gunboats to open fire upon them at symptoms of mutiny.

The advanced Irish party have made Paris their headquarters in Europe for the preparation of their Dynamite schemes. Their places of meeting and the place at which they manufacture their dynamite are known to the Paris police, who have them under strict surveillance.

Every observer who walks the streets of a great city, and scans with an intelligent eye the colorless faces of more than fifty per cent of the people he meets, can easily agree with us in the statement, that this age,which makes such dwarfs upon the working energies of the greater part of men in the intense pursuit of business, has decreased in a proportionate pegree the animal health and robust condition. Nature in its stage of exhaustion, cannot be restored of its self but requires some stimulating tonic to strengthen and keep the system in regular order, and in Northrop and Lyman's Quinine Wine we have the exact remedy required. The peculiar operation of this medicine, in case of general debility and nervous prostration, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never if proply and judiciously administered. Prepared by Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all drugists.

THE ROBLIN BURGLARY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ROBLIN'S MILLS, Feb. 29.—The burglars who broke into the post office here have not been captured, and it is not likely they ever will be now. The party sent out yesterday in search of them gave up the chase as soon as they recovered the horse and cutter and returned home. It is probable that the thieves have got far enough away by this time to escape arrest.

Peter Keiffer, Buffalo, says: 'I was badly bitten by a horse a few days ago, and was induced by a friend who witnessed the occurrence, to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Annual Meeting of the "Mary Ethel" Company Yesterday.

BUSHY ISLAND ENDORSED.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

REDNERSVILLE, Feb. 29.—The annual meeting of the Trenton & Bay of Quinte Navigation Company was held at Rednersville yesterday, in the Russell House. The attendance was the largest since organization. At 3 p.m. the chair was taken by the President, Mr. J. A. Porte. The Secretary, Mr. J. H. Peck, read the minutes which were adopted. The Manager's statement for 1883 was then read as follows:—

The receipts and expenditures of the steamer Mary Ethel for the season of 1883 were as follows:—

DEBIT.
To Fares collected season 1883	$4,524 16
" Balance due Manager	108 38
Total	$4,632 54
CREDIT.
By Balance	$ 605 12
" Petty expense	298 48
" Fuel	1,638 76
" Wages	1,363 01
" Dock	81 97
" Printing, &c	20 25
" Insurance	75 00
" Company account	243 45
" Wood on hand	365 50
Total	$4,632 54

The assets and liabilities are as follows: Capital Stock of the Company, $8,500; amount of stock collected by the Treasurer, $8,340, balance due on stock, $160, total $8,500.

The accounts were certified and duly audited.

Mr. W. F. Weese amused the meeting with a description of his suffering for the company before the police court, and that he was fined $1 and costs or 20 days, an amount the Police Magistrate dare not collect, and which he did not intend to pay.

Mr. J. Ostrom thought Mr. Weese had been dealt very reasonable with by the police court, and he hoped any other man would be dealt with in the same way who refused to pay his fare.

Mr. Ostrom wished to know who had the power to grant a new license, Belleville or the Government.

The President thought it rested with the Government.

Mr W. G. Stafford was appointed auditor for '84.

The following named were elected directors for 1884 by ballot:—J. A. Porte, J. W. Andersen, J. H. Peck, K. Graham and A. Pierson. S. S. Morden and H. Welbanks, scrutineers.

Owing to a very large number of residents of the township being present, and especially those interested in trading with Belleville—the feeling of the meeting was asked in a vote concerning the Bushy Island route. The vote was unanimous in favor of this route.

The Secretary stated that if the boat ran at Bushy Island route a further reduction of fifteen per cent. would be made in the fares.

By-law No. 8 was read for ratification and passed.

The meeting then adjourned, followed by a meeting of the new Board of Directors who appointed the following officers for 1884:—Capt. J. A. Porte, President; J. W. Anderson, Treasurer and Manager; J. H. Peck, Secretary; K. Graham and A. Pierson, Directors.

THE TRAVERNIER "COMEDY" COMPANY.

The Travernier "Comedy" Company began a season of three nights at the Opera House last evening, producing Gunters romantic drama in four acts, entitled "Two nights in Rome." This is a new play, and is found to prove a popular one with theatregoers, in the hands of the present company. The plot is one which abounds with thrilling points and in the last two acts the situations are startling. It is the old story of love and repentence and at times the audience becomes so closely interested in the many astounding situations that many watch the acting in almost breathless silence. Miss Ida Van Cortland, as the star, is an accomplished actress, and in the character of Antonia the Corsican she displays considerable talent particularly in the closing act when she is attempting to escape from the revenge of her first husband, Louis Bennidetti. Her costume was rich and elegant and the audience was not slow to exhibit their appreciation of her acting. Her rival Evelyn Aubrey, who was contesting for the affections of Gerald Marsey, a young English artist, is a pretty little actress, and in this part she wins the sympathy of the audience, who towards the end grow quite enthusiastic over her success. The best male support was Wilson Day's Gerald Marsey, who was good, though on the whole the troop is pretty evenly balanced, and made a decided hit last night. Annie Bird, a bright little girl, is possessed of a wonderful knowledge of the stage for a girl of her years, and in her singing and recitations she carried the audience by storm. The company is a much stronger one than was expected. They produce Camile to-night.

There are a number of varieties of corns. Holloway's Corn Cure removes any of them.

There were 319 between these ages who attended no school 110 days of the year. The percentage of average attendance was 55.

SOUTH HASTING'S ASSOCIATION

The Inspector speaks of the Teachers' Association for South Hastings partly as follows:—The convention is very prosperous and is conducted efficiently. We have two meetings every year and only practical work is done, no useless discussions being allowed. The meeting in October last year was conducted without any outside help, and it was the general opinion of the teachers that it was a very profitable meeting to all of them, and more useful to the average teacher than many where foreign help was used. Out of 120 teachers, 116 were present, regularly and punctually, the roll being called every morning and afternoon. Teachers had classes present to illustrate practical methods of teaching.

QUINTE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Organization of a Body to Deal with the Day that is Past.

A few evenings ago a number of gentlemen of this city met, by appointment, Chief Justice Sheldon, of Buffalo, one of the most prominent members of the Historical Society of that city, to talk over with him the organizing of such a society here.

As a result of that honorable gentleman's eloquence and enthusiasm, a meeting was held yesterday afternoon at Mr. Will's office for the purpose of forming a Historical Society, to try and do for this city and the Bay of Quinte country what the Historical Society of Buffalo has effected for that city and western New York. Among others present were Thos. Wills, J. J. S. Hunt, Dr. James, J. L. Biggar, W. N. Ponton, W. R. Smith and Curtis Bogart. Mr. Wills was appointed chairman, and Mr. Curtis Bogart secretary. A resolution was passed that the proposed Society be called "The Quinte Historical Society", the object of which will be to obtain as complete an account as possible of the history and traditions of this locality, a record of old citizens, public buildings, etc. combined with such ethnographical information as may be considered interesting, and otherwise to secure as complete a record of the settlement of this part of the country as can be obtained and also to make a collection of any relics aboriginal or otherwise that may be of interest.

After some matters in connection with the proposed Society had been discussed the meeting adjourned. A meeting is to be held on Monday afternoon next at 4 o'clock at Mr. Thos. Wills' office, Shire Hall, for the election of officers and other business in connection with the organizing and successfully carrying on of this Society.

It is desirable, now that this important and highly interesting movement has been well started, that as many as possible should interest themselves in it. Those already identified with it inception will be glad to have the co operation of any citizen.

TRIED YET TRUE;

OR,

THE CURSE OF MADELEY

'And you don't find it much changed, Mr. Vaughan?'

'No,' he replied. 'It is only my daughter who has assumed the name of Vaughan on the stage. My name is Aubrey,' he added, after a pause.

'I beg your pardon,' said Bertram, and turning to Ethel, 'I hope I am not interrupting your studies, Miss Aubrey?'

'Oh, not all! I know my lesson,' Ethel answered, smilingly.

As if he could interrupt anything except the current of her pleasant thoughts, to make them more pleasant than they were before.

'And have you studied the subject very deeply?' he asked; 'was Hamlet really mad?'

'No,' answered Ethel, with decision.

'But Ophelia thought he was. You know she says—

'Oh what a noble mind is here o'erthrown?'

'And again—

'See that noble and most soverign reason. Like sweet bells jingled out of tune, and harsh.'

'Surely she thought him mad?'

'I think not, but she tried to persuade herself that she did think so, because he repudiated the love he had sworn before,' with Ethel's explanation.

'Little girl becoming a Shakesperian commentator!' exclaimed Henry Aubrey.

Yes, no lesson so easy to learn, so hard to forget, as how to love.

Ethel's love had been springing ever since the afternoon at Avranches; then the seed was planted, and since the buds had been forming, which had richly broken into blossom.

Would that love ever come to fruition? and after, would it change and fade into the 'sere and yellow leaf,' or continue fresh and green to the end?

It was very brightly blooming now, and in all things that came near that topic, gentle Ethel had grown an authority.

'You don't know what stay you make in the neighborhood?' Bertram asked.

'No,' replied Mr. Aubrey, we do not regulate our own movements. It seems an empty compliment, Mr. Madeley, but whenever you come into Hurstleigh, we shall be heartily glad to see you.'

Henry Aubrey felt his heart yearn to the young man, who was, indeed so calculated to win affection; and Bertram thanked his new fried, for he, too, was attracted by the noble bearing and kindly manner of Ethel's father.

'You have a pleasant view from here, Miss Aubrey,' Bertram remarked, looking out of the window. 'Madeley is over there to the right, but you can't see it for for the intervening trees. We haven't such roses as yours in the garden,' he said, as Ethel daintily fingered a bush which grew close to the window.

What treasure so precious as a rose from Ethel's little hand, thought he, and then continued—

'I generally wear one in my coat, but to-day I have forgotten; could you spare me one?'

'Oh, yes, Mr. Madeley.' Ethel replied, eagerly stepping into the little garden, for the windows opened to the ground, and bending over the bush to select a perfect bud.

'Not that,' she said, discarding one at which she had been looking. 'Not that, it has begun to fade, and when roses commence fading, they die so quickly.'

'And that one, will it not do?' asked Bertram, pointing to a bud,

'That is so young,' replied Ethel.

'It has the more life and vigour in it,' Bertram replied, in a low tone. 'Will it come to perfect strength and fulness?' he asked, and Ethel blushed again, for she knew from his tone that while he spoke of the budding flower, his thoughts were of the budding affection which each knew was springing up the other's breast.

'I think so,' she answered, very softly.

'How sweet the dewdrops, the gentle showers and the bright sun must be to the tender leaves,' half whispered Bertram. 'So sweet and strange, and then the flower grows, and they become necessary to its life; it cannot live without them.

The tone in which he spoke the last words made Ethel's heart beat very quickly, and brought a warm flush over her face and neck.

Bertram had stepped into the room, and was adjusting the bud in his coat, while Ethel looked half shyly, half lovingly, into his face; and behind the pair was Henry Aubrey, a smile a little less sad than was habitual to him playing over his handsome countenance.

This picture was not altogether unseen. Saville, returning from his walk, glanced into the window of the cottage.

'By Jove!' he exclaimed, 'the play's looking up rather; young Madeley is calling. Well, and no honour to old Aubrey, for there isn't a more peerage. A nice little lady she is, too. They puzzel me, the pair of them.

'Pleasant sort of fellow young Madeley seems. I've met him at two or three houses in town, but I don't think I'll speak; and as I shall cut this very soon and go home, it's just as well not to be indentified with it too much.'

But to the next passer-by the group was gall and wormwood.

It was Dalgleish, who ground his teeth as he saw the Aubrey's visitor.

He scowled in at the window, for Dalgleish loved Ethel, love din his fierce, fiery way, and roundly cursed the interloper who interferred with what he considered his chance.

But he passed by unheeded by the little party.

'We have very few attractions in the neighbourhood, I fear, Miss Vaughan,' Bertram lamented. 'It's an unsatifactory part of the country unless one has a fictitious interest in it. However there are some picturesque ruins about three miles from here—old Hurstleigh Priory; may I offer my services as cicerone?'

His Outspoken Opinion.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical profession stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leave room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of these happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

IMPORTANT TO RUPTURED PERSONS

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago in such a manner as to completely secure the confidence of the whole nation. The mode of introduction was by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its various forms and collecting no pay until a permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has at the solicitation of thousands placed the remedy on sale by all druggists both wholesale and retail, in the United States, Canada and England. In this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost compared with the benefit which are derived from the use of the treatment. Ask your druggist for a free book on rupture or send 6 cts. for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

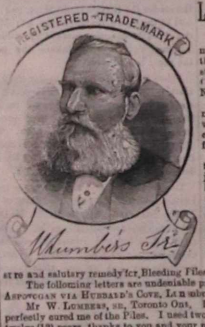
LUMBERS' BOTANICAL REMEDIES.



Read what the editor and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, published in London, Ont., (one of the largest circulating farmers' journals in Canada,) states in referring to Lumbers' Botanical Remedies. Correspondence column, Farmers' Advocate, vol. 17, No. 7, July 1881:—

SIR,—I see by your Advocate an insertion of patent medicines prepared by W. Lumbers, When I forwarded you advertisement of patent medicines you declined it. Would you please explain. Yours respectfully, AGENT, NEW YORK.

(The advertisement that you tendered was such that I deemed it would be of much more injury to my journal and my subscribers than benefit. Mr. Lumbers' medicine I have used myself and found great benefit from it, also we know of highly honorable persons in this city that have used Lumbers' preparation even when doctors' medicines have failed. We do not object to reasonable and beneficial advertisements, but there are many fraudulent or injurious ones. Such we reject if we knew them.

LUMBERS' SURE CURE FOR PILES is a sure and salutary remedy for Bleeding Piles, Blind Piles or in a state of tumor.

The following letters are undeniable proof of its curative power in this painful complaint ASPOTOGAN VIA HUBBARD'S COVE, Lunenburg Co., Nova Scotia, September 2nd, 1883,

Mr W. LUMBERS, SR., Toronto Ont. Dear Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pile Cure has perfectly cured me of the Piles. THE OPINION OF A MUCH RESPECTED METHODIST DIVINE.

Mono Road, Ont, Feb. 9th, 1883. Dear Sir:—Having suffered a great deal from Heartburn and Indigestion I was induced by a friend to try Lumbers' Tonic Mixture, which I did, and am pleased to state with very good effect. The first dose helped me and by the time I had one bottle taken I never felt better, I think it is a charming medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer as I did. THOS. REID, Methodist Minister, Mono Road, Ont.
